I.T. Application Rules: 60.1 (reference to "this Part" in description of F includes Part IA of pre-1972 Act).

Proposed Addition — 138(12)"transition year"

"transition year" of a life insurer means the life insurer's first taxation year that begins after September 2006;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 45(2), will add the definition "transition year" to subsec. 138(12), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): See under 138(16)–(25).

"1975 branch accounting election deficiency" of an insurer that has made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of its 1975 taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + B) - (C + D + E + F + G)$$

A is such portion of the total of the insurer's gross investment revenue and all amounts determined under paragraphs (4)(b) and (c) as would have been required to be included in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year if

(a) it had not made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of that year, and

(b) where it had made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1974 taxation year, it had adopted for its 1975 taxation year, with the concurrence of the Minister, the method required by subsection 138(9) of that Act if it had not elected under that subsection and the Minister had specified no terms and conditions under subsection 138(10) of that Act,

B is the total of the amounts deducted in computing the insurer's income for its 1975 taxation year under paragraphs (3)(b) and (d),

C is the total of the insurer's gross investment revenue included in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year and the amounts included in computing its income for that year under paragraphs (4)(b) and (c),

D is such portion of the total of all amounts determined under paragraphs (3)(b) and (d) as would have been deductible in computing the insurer's income for its 1975 taxation year if

(a) it had not made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of that year, and

(b) where it had made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1974 taxation year, it had adopted for its 1975 taxation year, with the concurrence of the Minister, the method required by subsection 138(9) of that Act if it had not elected under that subsection and the Minister had specified no terms and conditions under subsection 138(10) of that Act,

E is the amount determined by the formula

where

P is the total of the insurer's outlays or expenses that would have been deductible in computing its income from its insurance businesses for its 1975 taxation year (other than amounts deductible under subsection (3), section 140 and regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) and 20(7)(c)), if

(a) it had not made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of that year, and

(b) where it had made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1974 taxation year, it had adopted for its 1975 taxation year, with the concurrence of the Minister, the method required by subsection 138(9) of that Act if it had not elected under that subsection and the Minister had specified no terms and conditions under subsection 138(10) of that Act,

Q is the total of the insurer's outlays or expenses deducted in computing its income from its insurance businesses for its 1975 taxation year (other than amounts deducted under subsection (3), section 140 and regulations made under paragraphs 20(1)(a) and 20(7)(c)),

F is the amount of the insurer's 1975-76 excess policy dividend deduction, and

G is the amount of the insurer's 1975-76 excess policy dividend reserve;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

"1975-76 excess additional group term reserve" of an insurer that has made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of its 1975 taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount that would have been deductible under subparagraph (3)(a)(ii) in computing the insurer's income for its 1976 taxation year if it had claimed the maximum allowable amount under that subparagraph for that year, and

B is the amount deducted under that subparagraph in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

"1975–76 excess capital cost allowance" of depreciable property of a prescribed class of an insurer that has made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of its 1975 taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount determined by the formula

$$P - Q$$

where

P is the amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 20(1)(a) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year with respect to that class, if it had claimed the maximum allowable amount under that paragraph in that year with respect to that class and if

(a) it had not made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1975 taxation year, and

(b) where it made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1974 taxation year, it had adopted for its 1975 taxation year, with the concurrence of the Minister, the method required by subsection 138(9) of that Act if it had not elected under that subsection and the Minister had specified no terms and conditions under subsection 138(10) of that Act, and

Q is the amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(a) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year with respect to that class,

B is the amount determined by the formula

where

R is the amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 20(1)(a) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year with respect to that class if it had claimed the maximum allowable amount under that paragraph in that year and in its 1975 taxation year with respect to that class on the basis of the assumptions made in paragraphs (a) to (d) of the description of A in the definition "1975-76 excess policy dividend reserve" in this subsection, and

S is the amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(a) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year with respect to that class, and

C is the amount determined by the formula

$$T - U$$

where

T is the amount determined for S, and

U is the amount determined for R;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

"1975–76 excess investment reserve" of an insurer that has made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of its 1975 taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

A is the amount that would have been deductible under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, by the insurer in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year if it had claimed the maximum allowable amount under that paragraph in that year and that amount was determined without reference to subparagraph 138(3)(c)(ii) of that Act, and

B is the amount deducted by the insurer under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

"1975–76 excess policy dividend deduction" of an insurer that has made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of its 1975 taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A + B) - C$$

where

A is the amount determined by the formula

$$P - Q$$

where

P is the amount that would have been deductible under subparagraph (3)(a)(iii) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year if that amount had been determined on the assumptions made in paragraphs (a) to (d) of the description of A in the definition "1975-76 excess policy dividend reserve" in this subsection, and

Q is the amount deducted under subparagraph (3)(a)(iii) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year,

B is the amount determined by the formula

where

R is the amount that would have been deductible under subparagraph (3)(a)(iii) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year if that amount had been determined on the basis that the amount of its income for that year from its participating life insurance business carried on in Canada was computed in accordance with prescribed rules on the assumptions made in paragraph (e) of the description of A in the definition "1975-76 excess policy dividend reserve" in this subsection, and

S is the amount deducted by the insurer under subparagraph (3)(a)(iii) in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year, and

C is the amount determined by the formula

$$T - U$$

where

T is the amount determined for S, and

U is the amount determined for R;

"1975–76 excess policy dividend reserve" of an insurer that has made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of its 1975 taxation year means the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the amount that would have been deductible under subparagraph (3)(a)(iv) by the insurer in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year if

(a) it had not made the election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1975 taxation year,

(b) where it made an election under subsection 138(9) of that Act in respect of its 1974 taxation year, it had adopted for its 1975 taxation year, with the concurrence of the Minister, the method required by subsection 138(9) of that Act if it had not elected under that subsection and the Minister had specified no terms and conditions under subsection 138(10) of that Act,

(c) it had claimed the maximum allowable amount under paragraph 138(3)(c) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year,

(d) it had claimed the maximum allowable amount that would have been deductible under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year with respect to property of each of its prescribed classes, and

(e) the amount of its income for its 1976 taxation year from its participating life insurance business carried on in Canada was computed in accordance with prescribed rules and as if the amount deducted under subparagraph (3)(a)(iv) by it in computing its income for its 1975 taxation year was the amount that would have been deductible under that subparagraph on the basis of the assumptions made in paragraphs (a) to (d) of this description, and

B is the amount deducted by the insurer under subparagraph (3)(a)(iv) in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

A – B

A is the amount that would have been deductible under subparagraph (3)(a)(i) in computing the insurer's income for its 1976 taxation year if it had claimed the maximum allowable amount under that subparagraph for that year, and

B is the amount deducted under that subparagraph in computing its income for its 1976 taxation year.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

Related Provisions [subsec. 138(12)]: 211(1) — Definitions.

(13) Variation in "tax basis" and "amortized cost" — Where

(a) in a taxation year that ended after 1968 and before 1978 an insurer carried on a life insurance business in Canada and an insurance business in a country other than Canada,

(b) the insurer did not make an election in respect of the year under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it applied to that year, and

(c) the ratio of the value for the year of the insurer's specified Canadian assets to its Canadian investment fund for the year exceeded one, each of the amounts included or deducted as follows in respect of the year shall be multiplied by the ratio referred to in paragraph (c):

(d) under paragraph (c), (d), (k) or (l) of the definition "tax basis" in subsection 142.4(1) in determining the tax basis of a debt obligation to the insurer, or

(e) under paragraph (c), (d), (f) or (h) of the definition "amortized cost" in subsection 248(1) in determining the amortized cost of a debt obligation to the insurer.

Related Provisions: 138(14) — Meaning of certain expressions; 142.4(1)"tax basis"(c), (d), (k), (l) — Disposition of specified debt obligation by financial institution.

History: Subsec. 138(13) amended by 1995, c. 21, subsec. 57(20), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. (13) formerly read:

(13) Where meaning of "amortized cost" varied — For the purposes of the definition "amortized cost" in subsection 248(1), where in a taxation year ending after 1968 and before the particular time referred to in that definition an insurer carried on a life insurance business in Canada and an insurance business in a country other than Canada and has not made an election under subsection 138(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, in respect of that year, each of the amounts referred to in paragraph (c), (d), (f) or (h) in that definition shall, in respect of that year, be deemed to be the greater of

(a) each such amount, and

(b) that proportion of the amount referred to in paragraph (a) that the value for the taxation year of the insurer's specified Canadian assets is of its Canadian investment fund for the taxation year.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

(14) Meaning of certain expressions — For the purposes of subsection (13), the expressions "Canadian investment fund for a taxation year", "specified Canadian assets" and "value for the taxation year" have the meanings prescribed therefor.

Regulations: 2400(4)(a), 2405(2) [before 1999] (prescribed meanings).

(15) Definition not to apply — In this section, in construing the meaning of the expression "group term insurance policy", the definition "group term life insurance policy" in subsection 248(1) does not apply.

(16) [Repealed under former Act]

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 138 sets out detailed rules relating to the taxation of insurance corporations. Section 138 is amended to provide transitional rules for insurers in respect of their life insurance businesses as a result of changes to accounting rules.

The new transitional rules in section 138 are intended to ensure that any increase or decrease in the reserves of an insurer resulting from these accounting changes will be taken into account in computing income for tax purposes over a five-year period. As such, they generally replicate the effect of new sections 12.5 and 20.4, with appropriate modifications to reflect their application to life insurers. Instead of providing what would be largely repetitious specific descriptions of the new rules in section 138, the following table sets out these correspondences.

Subject	Section 138 amendment	Compare to
Definitions "base year", "reserve transition amount", "transition year"	138(12)	12.5(1)
Transition year income inclusion	138(16)	12.5(2)
Transition year income deduction	138(17)	20.4(2)
Transition year income inclusion reversal	138(18)	20.4(3)
Transition year income deduction reversal	138(19)	12.5(3)
Winding-up	138(20)	12.5(4)
Amalgamations	138(21)	12.5(5)
Transfer of business	138(22), (23)	12.5(6), (7)
Ceasing to carry on business	138(24)	12.5(8), 20.4(4)
Ceasing to exist	138(25)	12.5(9)

(16) Transition year income inclusion — There shall be included in computing a life insurer's income for its transition year from a life insurance business carried on by it in Canada in the transition year, the positive amount, if any, of the life insurer's reserve transition amount in respect of that life insurance business.

Related Provisions: 12.5(2) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(18) — Inclusion reversal in subsequent 5 years; 142.51(2) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(17) Transition year income deduction — There shall be deducted in computing a life insurer's income for its transition year from a life insurance business carried on by it in Canada in the transition year, the absolute value of the negative amount, if any, of the life insurer's reserve transition amount in respect of that life insurance business.

Related Provisions: 20.4(2) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(19) — Deduction reversal in subsequent 5 years; 138(22), (23) — Effect of rollover of insurance business; 142.51(3) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(18) Transition year income inclusion reversal — If an amount has been included under subsection (16) in computing a life insurer's income for its transition year from a life insurance business carried on by it in Canada, there shall be deducted in computing the life insurer's income, for each particular taxation year of the life insurer that ends after the beginning of the transition year, from that life insurance business, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount included under subsection (16) in computing the life insurer's income for the transition year from that life insurance business; and

B is the number of days in the particular taxation year that are before the day that is 1825 days after the first day of the transition year.

Related Provisions: 20.4(3) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(20), (25) — Effect of windup of insurer; 138(21) — Effect of amalgamation; 138(22), (23) — Effect of transfer of insurance business; 142.51(4) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(19) Transition year income deduction reversal — If an amount has been deducted under subsection (17) in computing a life insurer's income for its transition year from a life insurance business carried on by it in Canada, there shall be included in computing the life insurer's income, for each particular taxation year of the life insurer that ends after the beginning of the transition year, from that life insurance business, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount deducted under subsection (17) in computing the life insurer's income for the transition year from that life insurance business; and

B is the number of days in the particular taxation year that are before the day that is 1825 days after the first day of the transition year.

Related Provisions: 12.5(3) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(20), (25) — Effect of windup of insurer; 138(21) — Effect of amalgamation; 138(22), (23) — Effect of transfer of insurance business; 138(24) — Effect of ceasing to carry on business; 142.51(5) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(20) Winding-up — If a life insurer has, in a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) has applied, been wound-up into another corporation (referred to in this subsection as the "parent"), and immediately after the winding-up the parent carries on a life insurance business, in applying subsections (18) and (19) in computing the income of the life insurer and of the parent for particular taxation years that end on or after the first day (referred to in this subsection as the "start day") on which assets of the life insurer were distributed to the parent on the winding-up,

(a) the parent is, on and after the start day, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the life insurer in respect of

(i) any amount included under subsection (16) or deducted under subsection (17) in computing the life insurer's income from a life insurance business for its transition year,

(ii) any amount deducted under subsection (18) or included under subsection (19) in computing the life insurer's income from a life insurance business for a taxation year of the life insurer that begins before the start day, and

(iii) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the life insurer existed and carried on a life insurance business on each day that is the start day or a subsequent day and on which the parent carries on a life insurance business — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (18) or (19) in computing the life insurer's income from a life insurance business; and

(b) the life insurer is, in respect of each of its particular taxation years, to determine the value for B in the formulas in subsections (18) and (19) without reference to the start day and days after the start day.

Related Provisions: 12.5(4) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 142.51(6) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(21) Amalgamations — If there is an amalgamation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of a life insurer with one or more other corporations to form one corporation (referred to in this subsection as the "new corporation"), and immediately after the amalgamation the new corporation carries on a life insurance business, in applying subsections (18) and (19) in computing the income of the new corporation for particular taxation years of the new corporation that begin on or after the day on which the amalgamation occurred, the new corporation is, on and after that day, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the life insurer in respect of

(a) any amount included under subsection (16) or deducted under subsection (17) in computing the life insurer's income from a life insurance business for its transition year;

(b) any amount deducted under subsection (18) or included under subsection (19) in computing the life insurer's income from a life insurance business for a taxation year that begins before the day on which the amalgamation occurred; and

(c) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the life insurer existed and carried on a life insurance business on each day that is the day on which the amalgamation occurred or a subsequent day and on which the new corporation carries on a life insurance business — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (18) or (19) in computing the life insurer's income from a life insurance business.

Related Provisions: 12.5(5) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 142.51(7) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(22) Application of subsec. (23) — Subsection (23) applies if, at any time, a life insurer (referred to in this subsection and subsection (23) as the "transferor") transfers, to a corporation (referred to in this subsection and subsection (23) as the "transferee") that is related to the transferor, property in respect of a life insurance business carried on by the transferor in Canada (referred to in this subsection and subsection (23) as the "transferred business") and

(a) subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) applies to the transfer; or

(b) subsection 85(1) applies to the transfer, the transfer includes all or substantially all of the property and liabilities of the transferred business and, immediately after the transfer, the transferee carries on a life insurance business.

(23) Transfer of life insurance business — If this subsection applies in respect of the transfer, at any time, of property

(a) the transferee is, at and after that time, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the transferor in respect of

(i) any amount included under subsection (16) or deducted under subsection (17) in computing the transferor's income for its transition year that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business,

(ii) any amount deducted under subsection (18) or included under subsection (19) in computing the transferor's income for a taxation year of the transferor that begins before that time that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business, and

(iii) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the transferor existed and carried on a life insurance business on each day that includes that time or is a subsequent day and on which the transferee carries on a life insurance business — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (18) or (19) in computing the transferor's income that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business; and

(b) in determining, in respect of the day that includes that time or any subsequent day, any amount that is required under subsection (18) or (19) to be deducted or included in computing the transferor's income for each particular taxation year from the transferred business, the description of A in the formulas in those subsections is deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 12.5(6), (7) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(22) — Conditions for 138(23) to apply; 142.51(8), (9) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

(24) Ceasing to carry on business — If at any time a life insurer ceases to carry on all or substantially all of a life insurance business (referred to in this subsection as the "discontinued business"), and none of subsections (20) to (22) apply,

(a) there shall be deducted, in computing the life insurer's income from the discontinued business for the life insurer's taxation year that includes the time that is immediately before that time, the amount determined by the formula

A is the amount included under subsection (16) in computing the life insurer's income from the discontinued business for its transition year, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection (18) in computing the life insurer's income from the discontinued business for a taxation year that began before that time; and

(b) there shall be included, in computing the life insurer's income from the discontinued business for the life insurer's taxation year that includes the time that is immediately before that time, the amount determined by the formula

C is the amount deducted under subsection (17) in computing the life insurer's income from the discontinued business for its transition year, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection (19) in computing the life insurer's income from the discontinued business for a taxation year that began before that time.

Related Provisions: 12.5(8), 20.4(4) — Parallel rules for non-life insurer; 87(2.2) — Amalgamation of insurers; 88(1)(g)(i) — Windup of insurers; 142.51(11) — Parallel rule for financial institution; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(25) Ceasing to exist — If at any time a life insurer that carried on a life insurance business ceases to exist (otherwise than as a result of a winding-up or amalgamation described in subsection (20) or (21)), for the purposes of subsection (24), the life insurer is deemed to have ceased to carry on the life insurance business at the earlier of

(a) the time (determined without reference to this subsection) at which the life insurer ceased to carry on the life insurance business, and

(b) the time that is immediately before the end of the last taxation year of the life insurer that ended at or before the time at which the life insurer ceased to exist.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 45(3), will add subsecs. 138(16) to (25), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Related Provisions: 12.5(9) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 142.51(12) — Parallel rule for financial institution.

138.1 (1) Rules relating to segregated funds — In respect of life insurance policies for which all or any portion of an insurer's reserves vary in amount depending on the fair market value of a specified group of properties (in this section referred to as a "segregated fund"), for the purposes of this Part, the following rules apply:

(a) an inter vivos trust (in this section referred to as the "related segregated fund trust") is deemed to be created at the time that is the later of

(i) the day that the segregated fund is created, and

(ii) the day on which the insurer's 1978 taxation year commences, and to continue in existence throughout the period during which the fund determines any portion of the benefits under those policies that vary in amount depending on the fair market value of the property in the segregated fund (in this section referred to as "segregated fund policies");

(b) property that has been allocated to and that remains a part of the segregated fund, and any income that has accrued on that property is deemed to be the property and income of the related segregated fund trust and not to be the property and income of the insurer;

(c) the insurer is deemed to be

(i) the trustee who has ownership or control of the related segregated fund trust property,

(ii) a resident of Canada in respect of the related segregated fund trust property used or held by it in the course of carrying on the insurer's life insurance business in Canada, and

(iii) a non-resident of Canada in respect of the related segregated fund trust property not used or held by it in the course of carrying on the insurer's life insurance business in Canada;

(d) where at a particular time there is property in the segregated fund that was not funded with premiums paid under a segregated fund policy,

(i) the insurer is deemed to have an interest in the related segregated fund trust that is not in respect of any particular property or source of income, and

(ii) the cost at any time of that interest to the insurer is deemed to be the total of

(A) for property of the trust at that time allocated by the insurer to the segregated fund prior to 1978, the amount that would be its adjusted cost base to the insurer if the interest had been a capital property at all relevant times prior to 1978 and if the rules in this section had been applicable for the taxation years after 1971 and before 1978, and

(B) for property of the trust at that time allocated by the insurer to the segregated fund after 1977, the fair market value of the property at the time it was last allocated to the segregated fund by the insurer;

(e) where at any particular time there is property in the segregated fund that was funded with a portion of the premiums paid before that time under a segregated fund policy,

(i) the respective segregated fund policyholder is deemed to have an interest in the related segregated fund trust that is not in respect of any particular property or source of income,

(ii) the cost of that interest is deemed to be the amount that is the total of

(A) the amount that would be its adjusted cost base to the insurer at December 31, 1977 if the interest had been a capital property at all relevant times prior to 1978 and if the rules in this section (if subsection (3) were read without reference to the expressions "or capital loss" and "or loss") had been applicable for taxation years after 1971 and before 1978, and

(B) the total of amounts each of which is that portion of a premium paid before that time and after the day referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) under a segregated fund policy that was or is to be used by the insurer to fund property allocated to the segregated fund (other than the portion of the premium that is an acquisition fee), and

(iii) the portion of a premium included in a segregated fund is deemed not to be an amount paid in respect of a premium under the policy;

(f) the income of the related segregated fund trust is deemed for the purposes of subsections 104(6), (13) and (24) to be an amount that has become payable in the year to the beneficiaries under the segregated fund trust and the amount therefor in respect of any particular beneficiary is equal to the amount determined by reference to the terms and conditions of the segregated fund policy;

(g) where at a particular time the fair market value of property transferred by the insurer to the segregated fund results in an increase at that time in the portion of the insurer's reserves for a segregated fund policy held by a policyholder that vary with the fair market value of the segregated fund and a decrease in the portion of its reserves for the policy that do not so vary, the amount of that increase shall,

(i) for the purpose of the determination of H in the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection 148(9), be deemed to be proceeds of disposition that the policyholder became entitled to receive at that time,

(ii) for the purpose of computing the adjusted cost base to the policyholder of the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust, be added at that time to the cost to the policyholder of that interest, and

(iii) for the purpose of computing the insurer's income, be deemed to be a payment under the terms and conditions of the policy at that time;

(h) where at a particular time the fair market value of property transferred by the insurer from the segregated fund results in an increase at that time in the portion of the insurer's reserves for a segregated fund policy that do not vary with the fair market value of the segregated fund and a decrease in the portion of its reserves for the policy that so vary, the amount of that increase shall, for the purpose of calculating the insurer's income, be deemed to be a premium received by the insurer at that time;

(i) where at a particular time the policyholder of a segregated fund policy disposes of all or a portion of the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust, that proportion of the amount, if any, by which the acquisition fee with respect to the particular policy exceeds the total of amounts each of which is an amount determined under this paragraph with respect to the particular policy before that time, that

(i) the fair market value of the interest disposed of at that time

(ii) the fair market value of the policyholder's interest in the particular segregated fund trust immediately before that time, is deemed to be a capital loss of the related segregated fund trust that reduces the policyholder's benefits under the particular policy by that amount for the purposes of subsection (3);

(j) the obligations of an insurer in respect of a benefit that is payable under a segregated fund policy, the amount of which benefit varies with the fair market value of the segregated fund at the time the benefit becomes payable, are deemed to be obligations of the trustee under the related segregated fund trust and not of the insurer and any amount received by the policyholder or that the policyholder became entitled to receive at any particular time in a year in respect of those obligations is deemed to be proceeds from the disposition of an interest in the related segregated fund trust;

(k) a reference to "the terms and conditions of the trust arrangement" in section 104 or subsection 127.2(3) is deemed to include a reference to the terms and conditions of the related segregated fund policy and the trustee is deemed to have designated the amounts referred to in that section in accordance with those terms and conditions; and

(l) where at any time an insurer acquires a share as a first registered holder thereof and allocates the share to a related segregated fund trust, the trust shall be deemed to have acquired the share at that time as the first registered holder thereof for the purpose of computing its share-purchase tax credit and the insurer shall be deemed not to have acquired the share for the purpose of computing its share-purchase tax credit.

(2) Rules relating to property in segregated funds at end of 1977 taxation year — Where an insurer holds property at the end of its 1977 taxation year in connection with a segregated fund, the following rules apply:

(a) the property is deemed to have been acquired by the related segregated fund trust on the day determined under paragraph (1)(a) at a cost equal to the adjusted cost base of the property to the insurer on that day and that transaction is deemed to be a transaction between persons not dealing at arm's length;

(b) the property is deemed to have been disposed of by the insurer on the day referred to in paragraph (a) for proceeds equal to the adjusted cost base of the property to the insurer on that day; and

(c) for the purpose of computing the insurer's income for its 1978 taxation year it shall be deemed to have made a payment to its policyholders in satisfaction of their rights under their segregated fund policies in that year equal to that portion of the amount deducted under subparagraph 138(3)(a)(i) in computing its income for its 1977 taxation year that is in respect of segregated fund policies.

Related Provisions: 39.1(2)B(c), 39.1(5) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

(3) Capital gains and capital losses of related segregated fund trusts — A capital gain or capital loss of a related segregated fund trust from the disposition of any property shall, to the extent that a policyholder's benefits under a policy or the interest in the trust of any other beneficiary is affected by that gain or loss, be deemed to be a capital gain or capital loss, as the case may be, of the policyholder or other beneficiary and not that of the trust.

Related Provisions: 39.1(2)B(c), 39.1(5) — Reduction in gain to reflect 1994 capital gains exemption election; 53(1)(l)(iv), 53(2)(q)(ii) — Adjustments to cost base; 138.1(3.1), (3.2) — Transitional rules for 2000; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

(3.1) Deemed gains and losses [transition for 2000] — Where an amount is deemed under subsection (3) to be a capital gain or capital loss of a policyholder or other beneficiary (in this subsection referred to as the "taxpayer") of a related segregated fund trust, in respect of capital gains or losses realized in a taxation year of the related segregated fund trust that includes February 28, 2000 or October 17, 2000, and the related segregated fund trust so elects under this subsection in its return of income for the year,

(a) the portion of the gains and losses that are in respect of capital gains or losses from dispositions of property that occurred before February 28, 2000 is deemed to be that proportion of the gains or losses that the number of days that are in the year and before February 28, 2000 is of the number of days that are in the year;

(b) the portion of the gains and losses that is in respect of capital gains or losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of February 28, 2000 and ends at the end of October 17, 2000, is deemed to be that proportion of the gains or losses that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year; and

(c) the portion of the gains and losses that is in respect of capital gains or losses from dispositions of property that occurred in the year and in the period that begins at the beginning of October 18, 2000 and ends at the end of the year, is deemed to be that proportion of the gains or losses that the number of days that are in the year and in that period is of the number of days that are in the year.

History: Subsec. 138.1(3.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 134, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(3.2) Deemed gains — taxpayer [transition for 2000] — Where a capital gain or a capital loss is deemed by subsection (3) to be a capital gain or a capital loss of a taxpayer and not that of a related segregated fund trust,

(a) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and that taxation year of the taxpayer includes February 27, 2000, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and before February 28, 2000;

(b) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000, 8/8 of the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year;

(c) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended after October 17, 2000, 8/8 of the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and before October 18, 2000;

(d) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred before February 28, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 3/2 of the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year;

(e) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after October 17, 2000, 4/3 of the capital gain or capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year;

(f) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 18, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer includes February 28, 2000 and October 17, 2000, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year and in the period that began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 18, 2000;

(g) if the capital gain or capital loss was in respect of capital gains or capital losses from dispositions of property by the related segregated fund trust that occurred after February 27, 2000 and before October 17, 2000 and the taxation year of the taxpayer began after February 27, 2000 and ended before October 17, 2000, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition by the taxpayer of capital property in the taxpayer's taxation year; and

(h) in any other case, the capital gain or the capital loss is deemed to be a capital gain or a capital loss, as the case may be, of the taxpayer from the disposition of capital property by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's taxation year and after October 17, 2000.

History: Subsec. 138.1(3.2) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 134, applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 2000.

(4) Election and allocation — Where at any particular time after 1977, a policyholder withdraws all or part of the policyholder's interest in a segregated fund policy, the trustee of a related segregated fund trust may elect in prescribed manner and prescribed form to treat any capital property of the trust as having been disposed of, whereupon the property shall be deemed to have been disposed of on any day designated by the trustee for proceeds of disposition equal to

(a) the fair market value of the property on that day,

(b) the adjusted cost base to the trust of the property on that day, or

(c) an amount that is neither greater than the greater of nor less than the lesser of the amounts determined under paragraphs (a) and (b), whichever is designated by the trustee, and to have been reacquired by the trust immediately thereafter at a cost equal to those proceeds, and where the trustee of a related segregated fund trust has made such an election, the following rules apply:

(d) the amount of any capital gain or capital loss resulting from the deemed disposition shall be allocated by the trustee to any policyholder withdrawing all or part of the policyholder's interest in the policyholder's policy at that time to the extent that the amount of the policyholder's benefits under the policy at that time is affected by the capital gain or capital loss in respect of property held by the related segregated fund trust at that time,

(e) the allocation referred to in paragraph (d) is deemed to have been made immediately before the withdrawal,

(f) any capital gain not so allocated is deemed to be allocated in accordance with the terms and conditions of the policy, and

(g) any capital loss not so allocated is deemed to be a superficial loss of each policyholder to the extent that the policyholder's benefits under the policy would be affected by the loss.

Related Provisions: 39.1(1)"exempt capital gains balance"C(c), 39.1(6) — Reduction in gain to reflect capital gains exemption election; 53(1)(l)(iii), 53(2)(q)(i) — Adjustments to cost base; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

Regulations: 6100 (prescribed manner and time).

Forms: T3018: Election under subsection 138.1(4) of the deemed disposition of capital property of a life insurance segregated fund.

(5) Adjusted cost base of property in related segregated fund trust — At any particular time, the adjusted cost base of each capital property of a related segregated fund trust shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(a) the adjusted cost base of the property to the trust immediately before that time

exceeds

(b) the total of amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the disposition by a policyholder of all or part of the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust at that time equal to that proportion of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the adjusted cost base to the policyholder of that interest at that time

exceeds

(ii) the policyholder's proceeds of the disposition of that interest in the trust that

(iii) the fair market value of the capital property at that time

is of

(iv) the total of amounts each of which is the fair market value of a capital property of the related segregated fund trust at that time.

Related Provisions: 53(1)(l), 53(2)(q) — ACB of interest in related segregated fund trust; 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; 138.1(7) — Where subsections (1) to (6) not to apply.

(6) Definition of "acquisition fee" — In this section, "acquisition fee" means the amount, if any, by which the total of amounts each of which is

(a) that portion of a premium charged by the insurer under a segregated fund policy that is not included in the related segregated fund or cannot reasonably be regarded as an amount required to fund a mortality or maturity benefit,

(b) a transfer from the segregated fund that cannot reasonably be regarded as an amount required to fund a mortality or maturity benefit other than an annual administration fee or charge, or,

(c) any amount by which the proceeds payable to the policyholder under a particular segregated fund policy is reduced on the surrender or partial surrender of the policy that may reasonably be regarded as a surrender fee,

exceeds

(d) the total of amounts each of which is that portion of an amount described in paragraph (a), (b) or (c) that may reasonably be considered to be in respect of an interest in the segregated fund that was disposed of before 1978.

(7) Where subsecs. (1) to (6) do not apply — Subsections (1) to (6) do not apply to the holder of a segregated fund policy with respect to such a policy that is issued or effected as a registered retirement savings plan, registered retirement income fund or TFSA or that is issued under a registered pension plan.

Related Provisions: 148(1) — Amounts included in computing policyholder's income.

History: Subsec. 138.1(7) amended to substitute "plan, registered retirement income fund or TFSA" for "plan or a registered retirement income fund", by 2008, c. 28, s. 22, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Subsec. 138.1(7) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 80, applicable to 1991 et seq. Subsec. (7) formerly read:

(7) Where policyholder deemed to be trust, etc. — For the purposes of this section, where a segregated fund policy is issued or effected as a registered retirement savings plan or is issued pursuant to a registered pension plan, the policyholder of the policy shall be deemed to be a trust or a trust or corporation described by paragraph 149(1)(r) or (o), respectively.

139. Conversion of insurance corporations into mutual corporations — Where an insurance corporation that is a Canadian corporation applies an amount in payment for shares of the corporation purchased or otherwise acquired by it under a mutualization proposal under Division III of Part VI of the Insurance Companies Act or under a law of the province under the laws of which the corporation is incorporated that provides for the conversion of the corporation into a mutual corporation by the purchase of its shares in accordance with that law,

(a) section 15 does not apply to require the inclusion, in computing the income of a shareholder of the corporation, of any part of that amount; and

(b) no part of that amount shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsection 138(7), to have been paid to shareholders or, for the purpose of section 84, to have been received as a dividend.

History: S. 139 amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. I (1991, c. 47), s. 734, to substitute that portion preceding para. (a), deemed to have come into force June 1, 1992. That portion formerly read:

139. Conversion of provincial life insurance corporation into mutual corporation — Where a life insurance corporation that is incorporated under the laws of a province has applied an amount in payment for shares of the corporation purchased by it under the authority of a law of the province that provides for the conversion of the corporation into a mutual corporation by the purchase of its shares in accordance with the provisions of that law,

Definitions [s. 139]: "amount" — 248(1); "Canadian corporation" — 89(1), 248(1); "dividend", "insurance corporation" — 248(1); "province" — Interpretation Act 35(1); "share", "shareholder" — 248(1).

Demutualization of Insurance Corporations

139.1 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section and sections 139.2 and 147.4.

"conversion benefit" means a benefit received in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation because of an interest, before the demutualization, of any person in an insurance policy to which the insurance corporation has been a party.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2), (3) — Determining when benefit received; 139.1(11) — Conversion benefit is not a shareholder benefit. See also Related Provisions under "taxable conversion benefit".

"deadline" for a payment in respect of a demutualization of an insurance corporation means the latest of

(a) the end of the day that is 13 months after the time of the demutualization,

(b) where the entire amount of the payment depends on the outcome of an initial public offering of shares of the corporation or a holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation, the end of the day that is 60 days after the day on which the offering is completed,

(c) where the payment is made after the initial deadline for the payment and it is reasonable to conclude that the payment was postponed beyond that initial deadline because there was not sufficient information available 60 days before that initial deadline with regard to the location of a person, the end of the day that is six months after such information becomes available, and

(d) the end of any other day that is acceptable to the Minister.

Related Provisions: 139.1(1)"initial deadline" — Definition.

"demutualization" means the conversion of an insurance corporation from a mutual company into a corporation that is not a mutual company.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4) — Effect of demutualization; 237(4) — Authority to communicate SIN to agent of shareholder.

"holding corporation" means a corporation that

(a) in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, has issued shares of its capital stock to stakeholders; and

(b) owns shares of the capital stock of the insurance corporation acquired in connection with the demutualization that entitle it to 90% or more of the votes that could be cast in respect of shares under all circumstances at an annual meeting of

(i) shareholders of the insurance corporation, or

(ii) shareholders of the insurance corporation and holders of insurance policies to which the insurance corporation is a party.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(e) — Cost to holding corporation of shares acquired on demutualization; 141(3) — Holding corporation deemed to be public corporation.

"initial deadline" for a payment is the time that would, if the definition "deadline" were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that definition, be the deadline for the payment.

"mutual holding corporation" in respect of an insurance corporation, means a mutual company established to hold shares of the capital stock of the insurance corporation, where the only persons entitled to vote at an annual meeting of the mutual company are policyholders of the insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(d) — Receipt of ownership rights in MHC on demutualization; 139.2 — Deemed dividend on distribution of property by MHC.

"ownership rights" means

(a) in a particular mutual holding corporation, the following rights and interests held by a person in respect of the particular corporation because of an interest or former interest of any person in an insurance policy to which an insurance corporation, in respect of which the particular corporation is the mutual holding corporation, has been a party:

(i) rights that are similar to rights attached to shares of the capital stock of a corporation, and

(ii) all other rights with respect to, and interests in, the particular corporation as a mutual company; and

(b) in a mutual insurance corporation, the following rights and interests held by a person in respect of the mutual insurance corporation because of an interest or former interest of any person in an insurance policy to which that corporation has been a party:

(i) rights that are similar to rights attached to shares of the capital stock of a corporation,

(ii) all other rights with respect to, and interests in, the mutual insurance corporation as a mutual company, and

(iii) any contingent or absolute right to receive a benefit in connection with the demutualization of the mutual insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(a), (d) — Rollover where shares acquired in exchange for ownership rights.

"person" includes a partnership.

"share" of the capital stock of a corporation includes a right granted by the corporation to acquire a share of its capital stock.

"specified insurance benefit" means a taxable conversion benefit that is

(a) an enhancement of benefits under an insurance policy;

(b) an issuance of an insurance policy;

(c) an undertaking by an insurance corporation of an obligation to pay a policy dividend; or

(d) a reduction in the amount of premiums that would otherwise be payable under an insurance policy.

Related Provisions: 139.1(8) — Effect of stakeholder receiving specified insurance benefit.

"stakeholder" means a person who is entitled to receive or who has received a conversion benefit but, in respect of the demutualization of an insurance corporation, does not include a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization or a mutual holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(4) — Effect of demutualization on stakeholder.

"taxable conversion benefit" means a conversion benefit received by a stakeholder in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, other than a conversion benefit that is

(a) a share of a class of the capital stock of the corporation;

(b) a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that is or becomes a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization; or

(c) an ownership right in a mutual holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2), (3) — Determining when benefit received; 139.1(4)(f) — TCB deemed to be a dividend; 139.1(8)(a) — Policy dividend that is TCB deemed not to be policy dividend; 139.1(10) — Cost of TCB.

(2) Rules of general application — For the purposes of this section,

(a) subject to paragraphs (b) to (g), if in providing a benefit in respect of a demutualization, a corporation becomes obligated, either absolutely or contingently, to make or arrange a payment, the person to whom the undertaking to make or arrange the payment was given is considered to have received a benefit

(i) as a consequence of the undertaking of the obligation, and

(ii) not as a consequence of the making of the payment;

(b) where, in providing a benefit in respect of a demutualization, a corporation makes a payment (other than a payment, made pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy, that is not a policy dividend) at any time on or before the deadline for the payment,

(i) subject to paragraphs (f) and (g), the recipient of the payment is considered to have received a benefit as a consequence of the making of the payment, and

(ii) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of an obligation, that is either contingent or absolute, to make or arrange the payment;

(c) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of an absolute or contingent obligation of a corporation to make or arrange a payment (other than a payment, made pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy, that is not a policy dividend) unless it is reasonable to conclude that there is sufficient information with regard to the location of a person to make or arrange the payment;

(d) where a corporation's obligation to make or arrange a payment in connection with a demutualization ceases on or before the initial deadline for the payment and without the payment being made in whole or in part, no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of the obligation unless the payment was to be a payment (other than a policy dividend) pursuant to the terms of an insurance policy;

(e) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of the undertaking of an absolute or contingent obligation of a corporation to make or arrange a payment where

(i) paragraph (a) would, but for this paragraph, apply with respect to the obligation,

(ii) paragraph (d) would, if that paragraph were read without reference to the words "on or before the initial deadline for the payment", apply in respect of the obligation,

(iii) it is reasonable to conclude that there was not, before the initial deadline for the payment, sufficient information with regard to the location of a person to make or arrange the payment, and

(iv) such information becomes available on a particular day after the initial deadline and the obligation ceases not more than six months after the particular day;

(f) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of

(i) an undertaking of an absolute or contingent obligation of a corporation to make or arrange an annuity payment through the issuance of an annuity contract, or

(ii) a receipt of an annuity payment under the contract so issued

where it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the undertaking or the making of the annuity payment is to supplement benefits provided under either an annuity contract to which subsection 147.4(1) or paragraph 254(a) applied or a group annuity contract that had been issued under, or pursuant to, a registered pension plan that has wound up;

(g) no benefit is considered to have been received as a consequence of

(i) an amendment to which subsection 147.4(2) would, but for subparagraph 147.4(2)(a)(ii), apply, or

(ii) a substitution to which paragraph 147.4(3)(a) applies;

(h) the time at which a stakeholder is considered to receive a benefit in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation is,

(i) where the benefit is a payment made at or before the time of demutualization or is a payment to which paragraph (b) applies, the time at which the payment is made, and

(ii) in any other case, the latest of

(A) the time of the demutualization,

(B) where the extent of the benefit or the stakeholder's entitlement to it depends on the outcome of an initial public offering of shares of the corporation or a holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation and the offering is completed before the day that is 13 months after the time of the demutualization, the time at which the offering is completed,

(C) where the entire amount of the benefit depends on the outcome of an initial public offering of shares of the corporation or a holding corporation in respect of the insurance corporation, the time at which the offering is completed,

(D) where it is reasonable to conclude that the person conferring the benefit does not have sufficient information with regard to the location of the stakeholder before the later of the times determined under clauses (A) to (C), to advise the stakeholder of the benefit, the time at which sufficient information with regard to the location of the stakeholder to so advise the stakeholder was received by that person, and

(E) the end of any other day that is acceptable to the Minister;

(i) the time at which an insurance corporation is considered to demutualize is the time at which it first issues a share of its capital stock (other than shares of its capital stock issued by it when it was a mutual company if the corporation did not cease to be a mutual company because of the issuance of those shares); and

(j) subject to paragraph (3)(b), the value of a benefit received by a stakeholder is the fair market value of the benefit at the time the stakeholder receives the benefit.

Related Provisions: 49.1 — Acquisition in satisfaction of obligation deemed not to be a disposition.

(3) Special cases — For the purposes of this section,

(a) where benefits under an insurance policy are enhanced (otherwise than by way of an amendment to which subsection 147.4(2) would, but for subparagraph 147.4(2)(a)(ii), apply) in connection with a demutualization, the value of the enhancement is deemed to be a benefit received by the policyholder and not by any other person;

(b) where premiums payable under an insurance policy to an insurance corporation are reduced in connection with a demutualization, the policyholder is deemed, as a consequence of the undertaking to reduce the premiums, to have received a benefit equal to the present value at the time of the demutualization of the additional premiums that would have been payable if the premiums had not been reduced in connection with the demutualization;

(c) the payment of a policy dividend by an insurance corporation or an undertaking of an obligation by the corporation to pay a policy dividend is considered to be in connection with the demutualization of the corporation only to the extent that

(i) the policy dividend is referred to in the demutualization proposal sent by the corporation to stakeholders,

(ii) the obligation to make the payment is contingent on stakeholder approval for the demutualization, and

(iii) the payment or undertaking cannot reasonably be considered to have been made or given, as the case may be, to ensure that policy dividends are not adversely affected by the demutualization;

(d) except for the purposes of paragraphs (c), (e) and (f), where part of a policy dividend is a conversion benefit in respect of the demutualization of an insurance corporation and part of it is not, each part of the dividend is deemed to be a policy dividend that is separate from the other part;

(e) a policy dividend includes an amount that is in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend;

(f) the payment of a policy dividend includes the application of the policy dividend to pay a premium under an insurance policy or to repay a policy loan;

(g) where the demutualization of an insurance corporation is effected by the merger of the corporation with one or more other corporations to form one corporate entity, that entity is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the insurance corporation;

(h) an insurance corporation shall be considered to have become a party to an insurance policy at the time that the insurance corporation becomes liable in respect of obligations of an insurer under the policy; and

(i) notwithstanding paragraph 248(7)(a), where a cheque or other means of payment sent to an address is returned to the sender without being received by the addressee, it is deemed not to have been sent.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(i) — Determining time of demutualization; 87(2.2) — Amalgamation of insurers.

(4) Consequences of demutualization — Where a particular insurance corporation demutualizes,

(a) each of the income, loss, capital gain and capital loss of a taxpayer, from the disposition, alteration or dilution of the taxpayer's ownership rights in the particular corporation as a result of the demutualization, is deemed to be nil;

(b) no amount paid or payable to a stakeholder in connection with the disposition, alteration or dilution of the stakeholder's ownership rights in the particular corporation is an eligible capital expenditure;

(c) no election may be made under subsection 85(1) or (2) in respect of ownership rights in the particular corporation;

(d) where the consideration given by a person for a share of the capital stock of the particular corporation or a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization (or for particular ownership rights in a mutual holding corporation in respect of the particular corporation) includes the transfer, surrender, alteration or dilution of ownership rights in the particular corporation, the cost of the share (or the particular ownership rights) to the person is deemed to be nil;

(e) where a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization acquires, in connection with the demutualization, a share of the capital stock of the particular corporation from the particular corporation and issues a share of its own capital stock to a stakeholder as consideration for the share of the capital stock of the particular corporation, the cost to the holding corporation of the share of the capital stock of the particular corporation is deemed to be nil;

(f) where at any time a stakeholder receives a taxable conversion benefit and subsection (14) does not apply to the benefit,

(i) the corporation that conferred the benefit is deemed to have paid a dividend at that time on shares of its capital stock equal to the value of the benefit, and

(ii) subject to subsection (16), the benefit received by the stakeholder is deemed to be a dividend received by the stakeholder at that time;

(g) for the purposes of this Part, where a dividend is deemed by paragraph (f) or by paragraph (16)(i) to have been paid by a non-resident corporation, that corporation is deemed in respect of the payment of the dividend to be a corporation resident in Canada that is a taxable Canadian corporation unless any amount is claimed under section 126 in respect of tax on the dividend;

(h) for the purposes of section 70, subsection 104(4) and section 128.1, the fair market value of rights to benefits that are to be received in connection with the demutualization is, before the time of the receipt, deemed to be nil; and

(i) where a person acquires an annuity contract in respect of which, because of the application of paragraph (2)(f), no benefit is considered to have been received for the purpose of this section,

(i) the cost of the annuity contract to the person is deemed to be nil, and

(ii) section 12.2 does not apply to the annuity contract.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(j), 82(1), 90 — Inclusion in income of deemed dividend; 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 139 — Mutualization proposal; 139.1(2)(j) — Value of benefit; 212(2) — Non-resident withholding tax on deemed dividend.

(5) Fair market value of ownership rights — For the purposes of section 70, subsection 104(4) and section 128.1, where an insurance corporation makes, at any time, a public announcement that it intends to seek approval for its demutualization, the fair market value of ownership rights in the corporation is deemed to be nil throughout the period that

(a) begins at that time; and

(b) ends either at the time of the demutualization or, in the event that the corporation makes at any subsequent time a public announcement that it no longer intends to demutualize, at the subsequent time.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(6) Paid-up capital — insurance corporation — Where an insurance corporation resident in Canada has demutualized, in computing the paid-up capital at any particular time in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of the corporation,

(a) there shall be deducted the total of all amounts each of which would, but for this subsection, have been deemed by subsection 84(1) to have been paid at or before the particular time by the corporation as a dividend on a share of that class because of an increase in paid-up capital (determined without reference to this subsection) in connection with the demutualization; and

(b) there shall be added the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation before the particular time

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which would be deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the corporation before the particular time, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(7) Paid-up capital — holding corporation — Where a particular corporation resident in Canada was at any time a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, in computing the paid-up capital at any particular time in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of the particular corporation,

(a) there shall be deducted the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which the paid-up capital would, but for this subsection, have increased at or before the particular time as a result of the acquisition of shares of a class of the capital stock of the insurance corporation from the corporation on its demutualization; and

(b) there shall be added the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the particular corporation before the particular time

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which would be deemed by subsection 84(3), (4) or (4.1) to be a dividend on shares of that class paid by the particular corporation before the particular time, if this Act were read without reference to this subsection.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(8) Policy dividends — Where the payment of a policy dividend by an insurance corporation is a taxable conversion benefit,

(a) for the purposes of this Act other than this section, the policy dividend is deemed not to be a policy dividend; and

(b) no amount in respect of the policy dividend may be included, either explicitly or implicitly, in the calculation of an amount deductible by the insurer for any taxation year under paragraph 20(7)(c) or subsection 138(3).

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(9) Payment and receipt of premium — Where, in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, a person would, if subsection (2) were read without reference to paragraphs (f) and (g) and paragraph (3)(a) were read without reference to the application of subsection 147.4(2), receive a particular benefit that is a specified insurance benefit,

(a) the insurance corporation that is obligated to pay benefits under the policy to which the particular benefit relates is deemed to have received a premium at the time of the demutualization in respect of that policy equal to the value of the particular benefit;

(b) for the purpose of paragraph (a), to the extent that the obligations of a particular insurance corporation under the policy were assumed by another insurance corporation before the time of the demutualization, the particular corporation is deemed not to be obligated to pay benefits under the policy; and

(c) subject to paragraph (15)(e), where the person receives the particular benefit, the person is deemed to have paid, at the time of demutualization, a premium in respect of the policy to which the benefit relates equal to the value of the particular benefit.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(i) — Determining time of demutualization; 139.1(2)(j) — Value of benefit.

(10) Cost of taxable conversion benefit — Where, in connection with the demutualization of an insurance corporation, a stakeholder receives a taxable conversion benefit (other than a specified insurance benefit), the stakeholder is deemed to have acquired the benefit at a cost equal to the value of the benefit.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(j) — Value of benefit.

(11) No shareholder benefit — Subsection 15(1) does not apply to a conversion benefit.

(12) Exclusion of benefit from RRSP and other rules — Subject to subsection (14), for the purposes of the provisions of this Act (other than paragraph (9)(c)) that relate to registered retirement savings plans, registered retirement income funds, retirement compensation arrangements, deferred profit sharing plans and superannuation or pension funds or plans, the receipt of a conversion benefit shall be considered to be neither a contribution to, nor a distribution from, such a plan, fund or arrangement.

(13) RRSP registration rules, etc. — For the purposes of this Act, paragraphs 146(2)(c.4) and 146.3(2)(g) and subsection 198(6) shall be applied without reference to any conversion benefit.

(14) Retirement benefit — A conversion benefit received because of an interest in a life insurance policy held by a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan, registered retirement income fund, deferred profit sharing plan or superannuation or pension fund or plan is deemed to be received under the plan or fund, as the case may be, if it is received by any person (other than the trust).

Related Provisions: 139.1(4)(j) — Deemed dividend where 139.1(12) does not apply.

(15) Employee-paid insurance — Where

(a) a stakeholder receives a conversion benefit because of the stakeholder's interest in a group insurance policy under which individuals have been insured in the course of or because of their employment,

(b) at all times before the payment of a premium described in paragraph (c), the full cost of a particular insurance coverage under the policy was borne by the individuals who were insured under the particular coverage,

(c) the stakeholder pays a premium under the policy in respect of the particular coverage or under another group insurance policy in respect of coverage that has replaced the particular coverage, and

(d) either

(i) the premium is deemed by paragraph (9)(c) to have been paid, or

(ii) it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the premium is to apply, for the benefit of the individuals who are insured under the particular coverage or the replacement coverage, all or part of the value of the portion of the conversion benefit that can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the particular coverage,

the following rules apply:

(e) for the purposes of paragraph 6(1)(f) and regulations made for the purposes of subsection 6(4), the premium is deemed to be an amount paid by the individuals who are insured under the particular coverage or the replacement coverage, as the case may be, and not to be an amount paid by the stakeholder, and

(f) no amount may be deducted in respect of the premium in computing the stakeholder's income.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation.

(16) Flow-through of conversion benefits to employees and others — Where

(a) a stakeholder receives a conversion benefit (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant conversion benefit") because of the interest of any person in an insurance policy,

(b) the stakeholder makes a payment of an amount (otherwise than by way of a transfer of a share that was received by the stakeholder as all or part of the relevant conversion benefit and that was not so received as a taxable conversion benefit) to a particular individual

(i) who has received benefits under the policy,

(ii) who has, or had at any time, an absolute or contingent right to receive benefits under the policy,

(iii) for whose benefit insurance coverage was provided under the policy, or

(iv) who received the amount because an individual satisfied the condition in subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii),

(c) it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the payment is to distribute an amount in respect of the relevant conversion benefit to the particular individual,

(d) either

(i) the main purpose of the policy was to provide retirement benefits or insurance coverage to individuals in respect of their employment with an employer, or

(ii) all or part of the cost of insurance coverage under the policy had been borne by individuals (other than the stakeholder),

(e) subsection (14) does not apply to the relevant conversion benefit, and

(f) one of the following applies, namely,

(i) the particular individual is resident in Canada at the time of the payment, the stakeholder is a person the taxable income of which is exempt from tax under this Part and the payment would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

(ii) the payment is received before December 7, 1999 and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the relevant conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the payment,

(iii) the payment is received after December 6, 1999, the payment would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the relevant conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the payment, or

(iv) the payment is received after December 6, 1999 and the payment would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, not be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

the following rules apply:

(g) subject to paragraph (l), no amount is, because of the making of the payment, deductible in computing the stakeholder's income,

(h) except for the purpose of this subsection and without affecting the consequences to the particular individual of any transaction or event that occurs after the time that the payment was made, the payment is deemed not to have been received by, or made payable to, the particular individual,

(i) the corporation that conferred the relevant conversion benefit is deemed to have paid to the particular individual at the time the payment was made, and the particular individual is deemed to have received at that time, a dividend on shares of the capital stock of the corporation equal to the amount of the payment,

(j) all obligations that would, but for this subsection, be imposed by this Act or the Regulations on the corporation because of the payment of the dividend apply to the stakeholder as if the stakeholder were the corporation, and do not apply to the corporation,

(k) where the relevant conversion benefit is a taxable conversion benefit, except for the purpose of this subsection and the purposes of determining the obligations imposed by this Act or the Regulations on the corporation because of the conferral of the relevant conversion benefit, the stakeholder is deemed, to the extent of the fair market value of the payment, not to have received the relevant conversion benefit, and

(l) where the relevant conversion benefit was a share received by the stakeholder (otherwise than as a taxable conversion benefit),

(i) where the share is, at the time of the payment, capital property held by the stakeholder, the amount of the payment shall, after that time, be added in computing the adjusted cost base to the stakeholder of the share,

(ii) where subparagraph (i) does not apply and the share was capital property disposed of by the stakeholder before that time, the amount of the payment is deemed to be a capital loss of the stakeholder from the disposition of a property for the taxation year of the stakeholder in which the payment is made, and

(iii) in any other case, paragraph (g) shall not apply to the payment.

(17) Flow-through of share benefits to employees and others — Where

(a) because of the interest of any person in an insurance policy, a stakeholder receives a conversion benefit (other than a taxable conversion benefit) that consists of shares of the capital stock of a corporation,

(b) the stakeholder transfers some or all of the shares at any time to a particular individual

(i) who has received benefits under the policy,

(ii) who has, or had at any time, an absolute or contingent right to receive benefits under the policy,

(iii) for whose benefit insurance coverage was provided under the policy, or

(iv) who received the shares because an individual satisfied the condition in subparagraph (i), (ii) or (iii),

(c) it is reasonable to conclude that the purpose of the transfer is to distribute all or any portion of the conversion benefit to the particular individual,

(d) either

(i) the main purpose of the policy was to provide retirement benefits or insurance coverage to individuals in respect of their employment with an employer, or

(ii) all or part of the cost of insurance coverage under the policy had been borne by individuals (other than the stakeholder),

(e) subsection (14) does not apply to the conversion benefit, and

(f) one of the following applies, namely,

(i) the particular individual is resident in Canada at the time of the transfer, the stakeholder is a person the taxable income of which is exempt from tax under this Part and the amount of the transfer would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

(ii) the transfer is made before December 7, 1999 and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the transfer,

(iii) the transfer is made after December 6, 1999, the amount of the transfer would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, be included in computing the income of the particular individual and the stakeholder elects in writing filed with the Minister, on a day that is not more than six months after the end of the taxation year in which the stakeholder receives the conversion benefit (or a later day acceptable to the Minister), that this subsection applies in respect of the transfer, or

(iv) the transfer is made after December 6, 1999 and the amount of the transfer would, if this section were read without reference to this subsection, not be included in computing the income of the particular individual,

the following rules apply:

(g) no amount is, because of the transfer, deductible in computing the stakeholder's income,

(h) except for the purpose of this subsection and without affecting the consequences to the particular individual of any transaction or event that occurs after the time that the transfer was made, the transfer is deemed not to have been made to the particular individual nor to represent an amount payable to the particular individual, and

(i) the cost of the shares to the particular individual is deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.6) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 139.1(16) — Flow-through of conversion benefits.

(18) Acquisition of control — For the purposes of subsections 10(10), 13(21.2) and (24), 14(12) and 18(15), sections 18.1 and 37, subsection 40(3.4), the definition "superficial loss" in section 54, section 55, subsections 66(11), (11.4) and (11.5), 66.5(3) and 66.7(10) and (11), section 80, paragraph 80.04(4)(h), subsections 85(1.2) and 88(1.1) and (1.2), sections 111 and 127 and subsections 249(4) and 256(7), control of an insurance corporation (and each corporation controlled by it) is deemed not to be acquired solely because of the acquisition of shares of the capital stock of the insurance corporation, in connection with the demutualization of the insurance corporation, by a particular corporation that at a particular time becomes a holding corporation in connection with the demutualization where, immediately after the particular time,

(a) the particular corporation is not controlled by any person or group of persons; and

(b) 95% of the fair market value of all the assets of the particular corporation is less than the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) the amount of the particular corporation's money,

(ii) the amount of a deposit, with a financial institution, of such money standing to the credit of the particular corporation,

(iii) the fair market value of a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation that is owned by the particular corporation that had, at the time of its acquisition, a maturity date of not more than 24 months after that time, or

(iv) the fair market value of a share of the capital stock of the insurance corporation held by the particular corporation.

141. (1) Definitions — In this section, "demutualization" and "holding corporation" have the same meaning as in subsection 139.1(1).

(2) Life insurance corporation deemed to be public corporation — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, a life insurance corporation that is resident in Canada is deemed to be a public corporation.

(3) Holding corporation deemed to be public corporation — A corporation resident in Canada that is a holding corporation because of its acquisition of shares in connection with the demutualization of a life insurance corporation resident in Canada is deemed to be a public corporation at each time in the specified period of the holding corporation at which the holding corporation would have satisfied conditions prescribed under subparagraph (b)(i) of the definition "public corporation" in subsection 89(1) if the words "shareholders, the dispersal of ownership of its shares and the public trading of its shares" in that subparagraph were read as "shareholders and the dispersal of ownership of its shares".

Related Provisions: 141(4) — Meaning of "specified period"; 141(5) — Shares of holding corporation deemed not to be taxable Canadian property.

(4) Specified period — For the purpose of subsection (3), the specified period of a corporation

(a) begins at the time the corporation becomes a holding corporation; and

(b) ends at the first time the corporation is a public corporation because of any provision of this Act other than subsection (3).

(5) Exclusion from taxable Canadian property — For the purpose of paragraph (d) of the definition "taxable Canadian property" in subsection 248(1), a share of the capital stock of a corporation is deemed to be listed at any time on a designated stock exchange if

(a) the corporation is

(i) a life insurance corporation resident in Canada that has demutualized and that, at that time, would have satisfied conditions prescribed under subparagraph (b)(i) of the definition "public corporation" in subsection 89(1) if the words "shareholders, the dispersal of ownership of its shares and the public trading of its shares" in that subparagraph were read as "shareholders and the dispersal of ownership of its shares", or

(ii) a holding corporation that is deemed by subsection (3) to be a public corporation at that time;

(b) no share of the capital stock of the corporation is listed on any stock exchange at that time; and

(c) that time is not later than six months after the time of demutualization of

(i) the corporation, where the corporation is a life insurance corporation, and

(ii) in any other case, the life insurance corporation in respect of which the corporation is a holding corporation.

History [subsec. 141(5)]: The opening words of subsec. 141(5) amended to substitute "designated stock exchange if" for "stock exchange prescribed for the purpose of that definition where" by 2007, c. 35, s. 44, applicable after December 13, 2007.

The opening words of subsec. 141(5) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 135, applicable after December 15, 1998. The opening words formerly read:

Interpretation

142.2 (1) Definitions — In this section and sections 142.3 to 142.7,

History: The opening words of subsec. 142.2(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 136, to replace "142.6" with "142.7", applicable after June 27, 1999.

Proposed Addition — 142.2(1)"excluded property", "fair value property"

"excluded property" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means property, held at any time in the taxation year by the taxpayer, that is

(a) a share of the capital stock of a corporation if, at any time in the taxation year, the taxpayer has a significant interest in the corporation,

(b) a property that is, at all times in the taxation year at which the taxpayer held the property, a prescribed payment card corporation share of the taxpayer,

(c) if the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a property that is, at all times in the taxation year at which the taxpayer held the property, a prescribed securities exchange investment of the taxpayer,

(d) a share of the capital stock of a corporation if

(i) control of the corporation is, at any time (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquisition of control time") that is in the 24-month period that begins immediately after the end of the year, acquired by

(A) the taxpayer,

(B) one or more persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), or

(C) the taxpayer and one or more persons described in clause (B), and

(ii) the taxpayer elects in writing to have subparagraph (i) apply and files the election with the Minister on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the acquisition of control time, or

(e) a prescribed property;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "excluded property" [in] subsection 142.2(1) identifies property specifically exempted from classification as "mark-to-market property" for purposes of the rules in sections 142.2 to 142.6.

Under this new definition, excluded property of a taxpayer for a taxation year is property, held at any time in the taxation year by the taxpayer, that is

- a share of a corporation if, at any time in the taxation year, the taxpayer has a significant interest in the corporation,
- a property that is, at all times in the taxation year at which the taxpayer held the property, a prescribed payment card corporation share of the taxpayer,
- if the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a property that is, at all times in the taxation year at which the taxpayer held the property, a prescribed securities exchange investment of the taxpayer,
- a share of a corporation if
  - control of the corporation is, at any time (the "acquisition of control time") in the 24-month period that begins immediately after the end of the year, acquired by
    - the taxpayer,
    - one or more persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), or
    - the taxpayer and one or more persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), and
  - the taxpayer elects in writing that this provision apply and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the acquisition of control time, or
- a prescribed property.

Related Provisions: 142.2(2), (3) — Significant interest; 152(6.2) — Extended reassessment period where para. (d) applies.

Regulations: 9001(2), 9002(1)–(3) (prescribed property for para. (e)); 9002.1 (prescribed payment card corporation share, for para. (b)); 9002.2 (prescribed securities exchange investment, for para. (c)).

"fair value property" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means property, held at any time in the taxation year by the taxpayer, that is — or it is reasonable to expect would, if the taxpayer held the property at the end of the taxation year, be — valued (otherwise than solely because its fair value was less than its cost to the taxpayer or, if the property is a specified debt obligation, because of a default of the debtor) in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, at its fair value (determined in accordance with those principles) in the taxpayer's balance sheet as at the end of the taxation year;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "fair value property" in subsection 142.2(1) is relevant to determining whether a tracking property or a specified debt obligation is mark-to-market property (as those expressions are defined in subsection 142.2(1)). Fair value property of a taxpayer for a taxation year is defined as property, held at any time in the taxation year by the taxpayer, that is — or it is reasonable to expect would, if the taxpayer held the property at the end of the taxation year, be — valued (otherwise than solely because its fair value was less than its cost to the taxpayer or, if the property is a specified debt obligation, because of a default of the debtor) in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, at its fair value (determined in accordance with those principles) in the taxpayer's balance sheet as at the end of the taxation year.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(4), will add the definitions "excluded property" and "fair value property" to subsec. 142.2(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006 except that any election made under para. (d) of the definition "excluded property" is deemed to have been made on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the amending legislation is assented to.

"financial institution" at any time means

(a) a corporation that is, at that time,

(i) a corporation referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (e.1) of the definition "restricted financial institution" in subsection 248(1),

(ii) an investment dealer, or

(iii) a corporation controlled by one or more persons or partnerships each of which is a financial institution at that time, other than a corporation the control of which was acquired by reason of the default of a debtor where it is reasonable to consider that control is being retained solely for the purpose of minimizing any losses in respect of the debtor's default, and

(b) a trust or partnership more than 50% of the fair market value of all interests in which are held at that time by one or more financial institutions,

but does not include

(c) a corporation that is, at that time,

(i) an investment corporation,

(ii) a mortgage investment corporation,

(iii) a mutual fund corporation, or

(iv) a deposit insurance corporation (as defined in subsection 137.1(5)),

(d) a trust that is a mutual fund trust at that time, nor

(e) a prescribed person or partnership;

History: Subpara. (a)(i) of the definition "financial institution" in subsec. 142.2(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 57, applicable to taxation years that begin after 1998. It formerly read:

(i) a corporation referred to in any of paragraphs (a) to (e) of the definition "restricted financial institution" in subsection 248(1),

Regulations: 8604 [to be repealed] (prescribed financial institutions); 9000 (prescribed person for para. (e) — segregated fund).

I.T. Technical News: 14 (reporting of derivative income by mutual funds); 25 (Silicon Graphics case — dispersed control is not control).

"investment dealer" at any time means a corporation that is, at that time, a registered securities dealer;

Related Provisions: 142.2(1)"financial institution" — Investment dealer is a financial institution; 142.2(1)"mark-to-market property"(c) — debt held by investment dealer subject to mark-to-market rules.

"mark-to-market property" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means property held by the taxpayer in the year that is

(a) a share,

(b) where the taxpayer is not an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation that

(i) was carried at fair market value in the taxpayer's financial statements

(A) for the year, where the taxpayer held the obligation at the end of the year, and

(B) for each preceding taxation year that ended after the taxpayer acquired the obligation, or

(ii) was acquired and disposed of in the year, where it is reasonable to expect that the obligation would have been carried in the taxpayer's financial statements for the year at fair market value if the taxpayer had not disposed of the obligation, other than a specified debt obligation of the taxpayer that was (or would have been) carried at fair market value

(iii) solely because its fair market value was less than its cost to the taxpayer, or

(iv) because of a default of the debtor, and

(c) where the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation,

but does not include

(d) a share of a corporation in which the taxpayer has a significant interest at any time in the year, nor

Proposed Addition — 142.2(1)"mark-to-market property"(d)–(d.3) [temporary]

(d) a share of a corporation in which the taxpayer has a significant interest at any time in the year,

(d.1) a property that is, at all times in the year at which the taxpayer holds the property, a prescribed payment card corporation share of the taxpayer,

(d.2) if the taxpayer is an investment dealer and the year begins after 1998, a property that is, at all times in the year at which the taxpayer holds the property, a prescribed securities exchange investment of the taxpayer,

(d.3) a share of a corporation held, at any time in the year, by the taxpayer if

(i) control of the corporation is, at any time (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquisition of control time") that is after 2001 and is in the 24-month period that begins immediately after the end of the year, acquired by

(A) the taxpayer,

(B) one or more persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), or

(C) the taxpayer and one or more persons described in clause (B), and

(ii) the taxpayer elects in writing to have subparagraph (i) apply and files the election with the Minister on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the acquisition of control time, or

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(2), will amend para. (d) to read as above and add paras. (d.1) to (d.3) to the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsec. 142.2(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994 and begin before October 2006 (see further amendments below), except that any election made under para. (d.3) is deemed to have been made on a timely basis if it is filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the amending legislation is assented to.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The existing definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) is amended consequential to changes in accounting rules.

Specifically, the definition "mark-to-market property" is amended to reflect the addition of the new definitions "excluded property", "fair value property" and "tracking property" in subsection 142.2(1). As well, properties specifically excluded from treatment as mark-to-market property have been removed from the definition and will now be listed in the new definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1). (For more detail, readers may refer to the commentary on that definition.)

In conjunction with the addition of the term "fair value property" it should be noted that a specified debt obligation held by a taxpayer (other than an investment dealer) will be mark-to-market property of the taxpayer where it is fair value property of the taxpayer for the taxation year, regardless of the taxpayer's treatment of the property in previous taxation years.

Property qualifying as tracking property is added as mark-to-market property to ensure that a financial institution will not be able to avoid mark-to-market treatment on properties by investing through an intermediary or through the use of another financial instrument (such as a derivative). For more detail, readers may refer to the commentary on the definition "tracking property" in subsection 142.2(1).

As a result of these changes to the definition, mark-to-market property of a taxpayer for a taxation year will be property (other than an excluded property) held at any time in the taxation year by the taxpayer that is

- a share,
- if the taxpayer is not an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation that is a fair value property of the taxpayer for the taxation year,
- if the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation, and
- a tracking property of the taxpayer that is a fair value property of the taxpayer for the taxation year,

These amendments apply to taxation years that begin after September 2006, except that, for taxation years that begin before November 7, 2007, mark-to-market property does not include tracking property.

In addition to the above amendments, the definition "mark-to-market property" is also amended, for taxation years that end after February 22, 1994, to exclude the following property from treatment as mark-to-market property:

- property that is, at every time in the year at which the taxpayer holds the property, a prescribed payment card corporation share of the taxpayer,
- if the year begins after 1998 and the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a property that is, at every time in the year at which the taxpayer holds the property, a prescribed securities exchange investment of the taxpayer, and
- a share of a corporation held, at any time in the year, by the taxpayer if
  - control of the corporation is, at any time (referred to in this paragraph as the "acquisition of control time") that is after 2001 and is in the 24-month period that begins immediately after the end of the year, acquired by
    - the taxpayer,
    - one or more persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), or
    - the taxpayer and one or more such persons, and
  - the taxpayer elects in writing and files the election with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the acquisition of control time.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 25, 2002:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in reply to your letter to Mr. Stephen Richardson dated February 21, 2002 in which you have requested that an amendment be made to the mark-to-market rules in the Income Tax Act (the "Act") to provide for an exemption from those rules in the case where a taxpayer holds shares of a corporation and is in the process of carrying out a plan of action to acquire control of the corporation.

The expression "mark-to-market property" is defined in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act. A share of a corporation in which a taxpayer has a "significant interest" at any time in a taxation year of the taxpayer is excluded from the definition "mark-to-market property" of the taxpayer for the year. In this regard, subsection 142.2(2) of the Act provides that a taxpayer is considered to have a "significant interest" in a corporation at any time if at that time the taxpayer is related to the corporation (ignoring any rights described in paragraph 251(5)(b)) or if at that time the taxpayer holds shares of the corporation the fair market value of which represents at least 10% of the fair market value of all issued shares.

In your letter, you suggested that subsection 142.2(2) be amended so that a taxpayer would be considered to have a "significant interest" in a corporation at any time at which the taxpayer is carrying out a plan of action to acquire control of the corporation. Your letter also suggested certain other amendments which would accommodate various types of plans of action. However, we understand that your direct concern relates to the acquisition of control situation. In our view, it would be appropriate to exclude, from being a mark-to-market property for a particular taxation year, shares of a corporation held by a taxpayer at any time in the particular year where control was acquired in that year or in the subsequent taxation year.

We are therefore prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to provide that, where a taxpayer, alone or together with persons related to the taxpayer (otherwise than by reason of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)), acquires control of a corporation in a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins after 2001, the taxpayer may elect to treat any shares of the corporation held by the taxpayer in the immediately preceding taxation year as not being mark-to-market property.

Thank you for bringing this matter to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber, General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Proposed Amendment — 142.2(1)"mark-to-market property"

"mark-to-market property" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means property (other than an excluded property) held at any time in the taxation year by the taxpayer that is

(a) a share,

(b) if the taxpayer is not an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation that is a fair value property of the taxpayer for the taxation year,

(c) if the taxpayer is an investment dealer, a specified debt obligation, or

(d) a tracking property of the taxpayer that is a fair value property of the taxpayer for the taxation year;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(3), will amend the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsec. 142.2(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006 except that for taxation years that begin before November 7, 2007, the definition is to be read without para. (d).

Dept. of Finance news release 2006-091, Dec. 28, 2006: Canada's New Government Releases Proposals to Improve the Taxation of Financial Institutions

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, today announced proposals to improve the taxation of financial institutions by better aligning the current tax rules with new accounting standards set out by the Accounting Standards Board that came into effect as of October 1, 2006.

"Canada's New Government is acting to make our tax system simpler and fairer," said Minister Flaherty. "The proposals I am putting forward today will reduce the compliance burden on financial institutions and improve the economic efficiency of the tax system by improving the measurement of income and capital for tax purposes."

The proposals relate to the mark-to-market properties (in particular, specified debt obligations) held by all financial institutions, policy reserves that are deductible by insurance corporations in computing income for tax purposes, and the minimum tax for life insurance corporations resident in Canada. These proposals would be broadly revenue-neutral.

Details are being released to provide financial institutions and their advisors with information on the proposed changes in advance of the draft legislation that will be released for public comment in 2007.

The attached backgrounder provides further details on the proposed measures.

For further information, media may contact: Eric Richer, Press Secretary, Office of the Minister of Finance, 613-996-7861; David Gamble, Media Relations, Department of Finance, 613-996-8080.

Backgrounder

Tax Treatment of Mark-to-Market Properties

The Income Tax Act (Act) has specific rules for mark-to-market properties of financial institutions, which include specified debt obligations (SDOs) held by those financial institutions in circumstances where the financial institution is an investment dealer or the obligation has been carried at market value in the financial statements of the financial institution since the obligation was acquired. Where SDOs are mark-to-market properties, each year's increase or decrease in value of the obligations is included in computing the financial institution's income for the year. Where SDOs are not mark-to-market properties, the gains or losses on the disposition of SDOs (e.g., a bond) are spread over the remaining term of the SDO.

It is proposed that all SDOs held by financial institutions be treated as mark-to-market properties in the case where the SDOs are required by generally accepted accounting principles to be carried on the financial statements of the financial institution at their fair market value. Financial institutions holding SDOs and that are affected by these changes will be permitted to spread evenly the effect of these changes on their income for tax purposes over a five-year transition period. These changes will apply to all financial institutions as defined under section 142.2 of the Act and be effective for taxation years that begin after October 1, 2006.

"specified debt obligation" of a taxpayer means the interest held by the taxpayer in

(a) a loan, bond, debenture, mortgage, hypothecary claim, note, agreement of sale or any other similar indebtedness, or

(b) a debt obligation, where the taxpayer purchased the interest, other than an interest in

(c) an income bond, an income debenture, a small business development bond, a small business bond or a prescribed property, or

(d) an instrument issued by or made with a person to whom the taxpayer is related or with whom the taxpayer does not otherwise deal at arm's length, or in which the taxpayer has a significant interest.

Proposed Addition — 142.2(1)"tracking property"

"tracking property" of a taxpayer means property of the taxpayer the fair market value of which is determined primarily by reference to one or more criteria in respect of property (referred to in this definition as "tracked property") that, if owned by the taxpayer, would be mark-to-market property of the taxpayer, which criteria are

(a) the fair market value of the tracked property,

(b) the profits or gains from the disposition of the tracked property,

(c) the revenue, income or cash flow from the tracked property, or

(d) any other similar criteria in respect of the tracked property;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(4), will add the definition "tracking property" to subsec. 142.2(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "tracking property" in subsection 142.2(1) applies in determining whether property is a mark-to-market property of a taxpayer. Under this definition, property is tracking property of a taxpayer if the fair market value of the property is determined primarily by reference to one or more specified criteria in respect of property (referred to in this definition as "tracked property") that, if owned by the taxpayer, would be mark-to-market property of the taxpayer. The specified criteria are the fair market value of the tracked property, the profits or gains from the disposition of the tracked property, the revenue, income or cash flow from the tracked property, or any other similar criteria in respect of the tracked property.

(2) Significant interest — For the purpose of subsection (5) and the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection (1), a taxpayer has a significant interest in a corporation at any time if

Proposed Amendment — 142.2(2) opening words

(2) Significant interest — For the purposes of the definitions "excluded property", "mark-to-market property" and "specified debt obligation" in subsection (1) and subsections (5) and 142.6(1.6), a taxpayer has a significant interest in a corporation at any time if

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(5), will amend the opening words of subsec. 142.2(2) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) excludes a share of a corporation in which a taxpayer has a significant interest. Subsections 142.2(2) to (5) contain the definition "significant interest" and related rules.

Subsection 142.2(2) provides that a taxpayer has a significant interest in a corporation at any time if the taxpayer is related to the corporation at that time (ignoring any rights described in paragraph 251(5)(b)) or if the taxpayer holds shares of the corporation carrying at least 10% of the votes, and representing at least 10% of the fair market value, of all issued shares of the corporation.

For greater certainty, subsection 142.2(2) is amended to specifically provide that it applies for the purposes of the definitions "excluded property" and "specified debt obligation" in subsection 142.2(1) as well as new subsection 142.6(1.6).

(a) the taxpayer is related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b)) to the corporation at that time; or

(b) the taxpayer holds, at that time,

(i) shares of the corporation that give the taxpayer 10% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation, and

(ii) shares of the corporation having a fair market value of 10% or more of the fair market value of all the issued shares of the corporation.

Related Provisions: 142.2(3) — Rules for determining significant interest; 142.2(4) — Extended meaning of "related".

(3) Rules re significant interest — For the purpose of determining under subsection (2) whether a taxpayer has a significant interest in a corporation at any time,

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to hold each share that is held at that time by a person or partnership to whom the taxpayer is related (otherwise than because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b));

(b) a share of the corporation acquired by the taxpayer by reason of the default of a debtor shall be disregarded where it is reasonable to consider that the share is being retained for the purpose of minimizing any losses in respect of the debtor's default; and

(c) a share of the corporation that is prescribed in respect of the taxpayer shall be disregarded.

Related Provisions: 142.2(4) — Extended meaning of "related".

Regulations: 9003 (prescribed share for 142.2(3)(c)).

(4) Extension of meaning of "related" — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (2) and (3), a person or partnership shall be deemed to be related to a person or partnership where they would be related if, for the purpose of section 251,

(a) every partnership and trust were considered to be a corporation;

(b) subject to paragraph (c), all decisions relating to the conduct of a trust were made by majority vote of the beneficiaries of the trust, with each beneficiary having, at any time, a number of votes equal to the number determined by the formula

$$100 \times \frac{A}{B}$$

where

A is the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value at that time of a beneficial interest in the trust; and

(c) where the amount that would be determined for B in paragraph (b) in respect of a trust is nil, the trust were considered not to be controlled by any person, partnership or group each member of which is a person or partnership.

Proposed Amendment — 142.2(4)

(4) Extension of meaning of "related" — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (2) and (3), in determining if, at a particular time, a person or partnership is related to another person or partnership, the rules in section 251 are to be applied as if,

(a) a partnership (other than a partnership in respect of which any amount of the income or capital of the partnership that any entity may receive directly from the partnership at any time as a member of the partnership depends on the exercise by any entity of, or the failure by any entity to exercise, a discretionary power) were a corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares and each member of the partnership owned, at the particular time, that proportion of the issued shares of that class that

(i) the fair market value of the member's interest in the partnership at the particular time

(ii) the fair market value of all interests in the partnership at the particular time; and

(b) a trust (other than a trust in respect of which any amount of the income or capital of the trust that any entity may receive directly from the trust at any time as a beneficiary under the trust depends on the exercise by any entity of, or the failure by any entity to exercise, a discretionary power) were a corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares and each beneficiary under the trust owned, at the particular time, that proportion of the issued shares of that class that

(i) the fair market value of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust at the particular time

is of

(ii) the fair market value at that time of all beneficial interests in the trust.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(6), will amend subsec. 142.2(4) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 142.2(4) extends the concept of relatedness (as defined in section 251) for the purpose of establishing whether a taxpayer has a significant interest in a corporation. Subsection 142.2(4) identifies a number of assumptions to apply in conjunction with section 251 in determining whether a person or partnership is related to any other person or partnership.

Subsection 142.2(4) is amended to provide that, for the purposes of subsections 142.2(2) to (4), in determining if, at a particular time, a person or partnership is related to another person or partnership, the rules in section 251 are to be applied as if,

- a partnership were a corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares and each member of the partnership owned, at the particular time, that proportion of the issued shares of that class that the fair market value of the member's partnership interest in the partnership at the particular time is of the fair market value of all partnership interests in the partnership at the particular time, and
- a trust were a corporation having capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares and each beneficiary under the trust owned, at the particular time, that proportion of the issued shares of that class that the fair market value of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust at the particular time is of the fair market value at that time of all beneficial interest in the trust.

The above rules will not apply to a partnership or a trust in respect of which any amount of the income or capital of the partnership or trust that any entity may receive directly from the partnership or trust at any time as a member of the partnership or beneficiary under the trust depends on the exercise by any entity of, or the failure by any entity to exercise, a discretionary power.

(5) Significant interest — transition — For the purpose of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection (1), where

(a) on October 31, 1994, a taxpayer whose 1994 taxation year ends after October 30, 1994 held a share of a corporation in which the taxpayer did not have a significant interest at any time in the year, and

(b) at any time after the end of the year and before May 1995, the taxpayer has a significant interest in the corporation, the taxpayer has a significant interest in the corporation in the year and in any subsequent taxation year ending before the earliest time referred to in paragraph (b).

Proposed Repeal — 142.2(5)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 46(6), will repeal subsec. 142.2(5), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Income from Specified Debt Obligations

142.3 (1) Amounts to be included and deducted — Subject to subsections (3) and (4), where a taxpayer that is, in a taxation year, a financial institution holds a specified debt obligation at any time in the year,

(a) there shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year the amount, if any, prescribed in respect of the obligation;

(b) there shall be deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year the amount, if any, prescribed in respect of the obligation; and

(c) except as provided by this section, paragraphs 12(1)(d) and (i) and 20(1)(l) and (p) and section 142.4, no amount shall be included or deducted in respect of payments under the obligation (other than fees and similar amounts) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year.

Regulations: 9101 (prescribed amounts).

(2) Failure to report accrued amounts — Subject to subsection (3), where

(a) a taxpayer holds a specified debt obligation at any time in a particular taxation year in which the taxpayer is a financial institution, and

(b) all or part of an amount required by paragraph (1)(a) or subsection 12(3) to be included in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year was not so included, that part of the amount shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year, to the extent that it was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 142.3(3) — Exception for certain obligations; 142.4(1)"tax basis"(b) — Disposition of specified debt obligation by financial institution.

(3) Exception for certain obligations — Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply for a taxation year in respect of a taxpayer's specified debt obligation that is

(a) a mark-to-market property for the year; or

(b) an indexed debt obligation, other than a prescribed obligation.

(4) Impaired specified debt obligations — Subsection (1) does not apply to a taxpayer in respect of a specified debt obligation for the part of a taxation year throughout which the obligation is impaired where an amount in respect of the obligation is deductible because of subparagraph 20(1)(l)(ii) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year.

History [s. 142.3]: The opening words of subsec. 142.3(1) amended, subsec. 142.3(4) added, by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 164(2), (5), applicable

(a) to taxation years that end after September 1997; and

(b) to a taxpayer's taxation years that ended after 1995 and before October 1997 where the taxpayer files an election in accordance with para. 81(11)(b) of the said c. 19 (see under 20(1)(l)).

The opening words formerly read:

(1) Subject to subsection (3), where a taxpayer that is, in a taxation year, a financial institution holds a specified debt obligation at any time in the year,

The opening words of subsec. 142.3(1), para. 142.3(1)(c), subsec. 142.3(2) added, former subsec. (2) renumbered as (3) and amended, by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 164(1), (3), (4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994, except that the amendments do not apply to debt obligations disposed of before February 23, 1994. The opening words, para. (c), and subsec. 142.3(2) formerly read:

(1) Subject to subsection (2), where a taxpayer that is, in a taxation year, a financial institution holds a specified debt obligation at any time in the year,

(c) except as provided by this subsection, paragraphs 12(1)(d) and (i) and 20(1)(l) and (p) and section 142.4, no amount shall be included or deducted in respect of payments under the obligation (other than fees and similar amounts) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year.

. . . . .

(2) Exception for certain obligations — Subsection (1) does not apply for a taxation year in respect of a specified debt obligation of a taxpayer that is

(a) a mark-to-market property for the year; or

(b) an indexed debt obligation, other than a prescribed obligation.

S. 142.3 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994, except that it not apply to debt obligations disposed of before February 23, 1994.

Definitions [s. 142.3]: "amount" — 248(1); "financial institution" — 142.2(1); "indexed debt obligation" — 248(1); "investment dealer", "mark-to-market property" — 142.2(1); "prescribed" — 248(1); "specified debt obligation" — 142.2(1); "taxation year" — 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

142.4 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"tax basis" of a specified debt obligation at any time to a taxpayer means the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the cost of the obligation to the taxpayer,

(b) an amount included under subsection 12(3) or 16(2) or (3), paragraph 142.3(1)(a) or subsection 142.3(2) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that began before that time,

(c) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer acquired the obligation in a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994, the part of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the principal amount of the obligation at the time it was acquired

exceeds

(ii) the cost to the taxpayer of the obligation

that was included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994,

(d) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer is a life insurer, an amount in respect of the obligation that was deemed by paragraph 142(3)(a) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, to be a gain for a taxation year ending before 1978,

(e) where the obligation is an indexed debt obligation, an amount determined under subparagraph 16(6)(a)(i) in respect of the obligation and included in computing the income of the taxpayer for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(f) an amount in respect of the obligation that was included in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending at or before that time in respect of changes in the value of the obligation attributable to the fluctuation in the value of a currency of a country other than Canada relative to Canadian currency, other than an amount included under paragraph 142.3(1)(a),

(g) an amount in respect of the obligation that was included under paragraph 12(1)(i) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time, or

(h) where the obligation was a capital property of the taxpayer on February 22, 1994, an amount required by paragraph 53(1)(f) or (f.1) to be added in computing the adjusted cost base of the obligation to the taxpayer on that day

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) an amount deducted under paragraph 142.3(1)(b) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(j) the amount of a payment received by the taxpayer under the obligation at or before that time, other than

(i) a fee or similar payment, and

(ii) proceeds of disposition of the obligation,

(k) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer acquired the obligation in a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994, the part of the amount, if any, by which

(i) the cost to the taxpayer of the obligation

exceeds

(ii) the principal amount of the obligation at the time it was acquired that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending before February 23, 1994,

(l) subject to subsection 138(13), where the taxpayer is a life insurer, an amount in respect of the obligation that was deemed by paragraph 142(3)(b) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the 1977 taxation year, to be a loss for a taxation year ending before 1978,

(m) an amount that was deducted under subsection 20(14) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(n) where the obligation is an indexed debt obligation, an amount determined under subparagraph 16(6)(a)(ii) in respect of the obligation and deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(o) an amount in respect of the obligation that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending at or before that time in respect of changes in the value of the obligation attributable to the fluctuation in the value of a currency of a country other than Canada relative to Canadian currency, other than an amount deducted under paragraph 142.3(1)(b),

(p) an amount in respect of the obligation that was deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year ending at or before that time, or

(q) where the obligation was a capital property of the taxpayer on February 22, 1994, an amount required by paragraph 53(2)(b.2) or (g) to be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base of the obligation to the taxpayer on that day;

Related Provisions: 138(13) — Variation in tax basis of certain insurers; 248(1)"cost amount"(d.2) — Cost amount of specified debt obligation is tax basis; 261(5)(f) — Interpretation when functional currency reporting in effect.

History: Paras. (b) and (j) of the definition "tax basis" in subsec. 142.4(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 165(1), (2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Paras. (b) and (j) formerly read:

(b) an amount included under subsection 12(3) or 16(2) or (3) or paragraph 142.3(1)(a) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year beginning before that time,

(j) the amount of a payment (other than proceeds of disposition of the obligation) received by the taxpayer under the obligation at or before that time in respect of an amount included by any of paragraphs (a) to (f) in determining the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer at that time,

Subsec. 142.4(1)"tax basis" added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

"transition amount" of a taxpayer in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation has the meaning assigned by regulation.

Related Provisions: 142.4(7)A — Current amount based on transition amount.

Regulations: 9201 (transition amount).

(2) Scope of section — This section applies to the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer that is a financial institution, except that this section does not apply to the disposition of a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e.3) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 138(10)(b) — Application to insurance corporation; 142.3(1)(c) — Amount deductible in respect of specified debt obligation; 142.4(9) — Disposition of part of obligation.

(3) Rules applicable to disposition — Where a taxpayer has disposed of a specified debt obligation after February 22, 1994,

(a) except as provided by paragraph 79.1(7)(d) or this section, no amount shall be included or deducted in respect of the disposition in computing the taxpayer's income; and

(b) except where the obligation is an indexed debt obligation (other than a prescribed obligation), paragraph 20(14)(a) shall not apply in respect of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 142.4(2) — Scope of section.

History: Para. 142.4(3)(a) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(3), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. 142.4(3)(a) formerly read:

(a) except as provided by this section, no amount shall be included or deducted in respect of the disposition in computing the income of the taxpayer; and

Subsec. 142.4(3) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(4) Inclusions and deductions re disposition — Subject to subsection (5), where after 1994 a taxpayer disposes of a specified debt obligation in a taxation year,

(a) where the transition amount in respect of the disposition of the obligation is positive, it shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year;

(b) where the transition amount in respect of the disposition of the obligation is negative, the absolute value of the transition amount shall be deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year;

(c) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation,

(i) the current amount of the gain shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year, and

(ii) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for taxation years that end on or after the day of disposition the amount allocated, in accordance with prescribed rules, to the year in respect of the residual portion of the gain; and

(d) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation,

(i) the current amount of the loss shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

(ii) there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for taxation years that end on or after the day of disposition the amount allocated, in accordance with prescribed rules, to the year in respect of the residual portion of the loss.

Related Provisions: 39(1)(a)(ii.2) — No capital gain on disposition; 87(2)(g.2) — Amalgamations — continuing corporation; 142.4(2) — Scope of section; 142.4(5) — Where subsec. (4) does not apply; 142.4(7) — Current amount; 142.4(8) — Residual portion; 142.4(9) — Disposition of part of obligation; 142.4(11) — Payments received on or after disposition; 142.7(13) — Application on transfer of foreign bank business from Canadian affiliate to branch; Reg. 2405(3)"gross Canadian life investment income"(d.1), (i.1) — Inclusion in/deduction from life insurer's income; Reg. 2411(4.1) — Inclusion in insurer's net investment revenue.

History: Subsec. 142.4(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(4) formerly read:

(4) Subject to subsection (5), where after 1994 a taxpayer has, in a taxation year, disposed of a specified debt obligation,

(a) where the current amount in respect of the disposition of the obligation is positive, it shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year;

(b) where the current amount in respect of the disposition of the obligation is negative, it shall be deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year;

(c) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for taxation years that end on or after the day of disposition the amount allocated, in accordance with prescribed rules, to the year in respect of the residual portion of the gain; and

(d) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for taxation years that end on or after the day of disposition the amount allocated, in accordance with prescribed rules, to the year in respect of the residual portion of the loss.

Subsec. 142.4(4) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Regulations: 9203, 9204 (prescribed rules — residual portion).

(5) Gain or loss not amortized — Where after February 22, 1994 a taxpayer disposes of a specified debt obligation in a taxation year, and

(a) the obligation is

(i) an indexed debt obligation (other than a prescribed obligation), or

(ii) a debt obligation prescribed in respect of the taxpayer,

(b) the disposition occurred

(i) before 1995,

(ii) after 1994 in connection with the transfer of all or part of a business of the taxpayer to a person or partnership, or

(iii) because of paragraph 142.6(1)(c), or

(c) in the case of a taxpayer other than a life insurance corporation,

(i) the disposition occurred before 1996, and

(ii) the taxpayer elects in writing, filed with the Minister before July 1997, to have this paragraph apply,

the following rules apply:

(d) subsection (4) does not apply to the disposition,

(e) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition exceed the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition, and

(f) there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year the amount, if any, by which the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer immediately before the disposition exceeds the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition.

Related Provisions: 39(1)(a)(ii.2) — No capital gain on disposition; 142.4(2) — Scope of section; Reg. 2411(4)A(c.1), 2411(4)B(a.1) — Inclusion in insurer's net investment revenue.

History: Subsec. 142.4(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(5) formerly read:

(5) Where a taxpayer has, in a taxation year and after February 22, 1994, disposed of a specified debt obligation, and either

(a) the obligation is

(i) an indexed debt obligation (other than a prescribed obligation), or

(ii) a debt obligation prescribed in respect of the taxpayer, or

(b) the disposition occurred

(i) before 1995,

(ii) after 1994 in connection with the transfer of all or part of a business of the taxpayer to a person or partnership, or

(iii) because of paragraph 142.6(1)(c),

the following rules apply:

(c) subsection (4) does not apply to the disposition,

(d) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, the gain shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year, and

(e) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, the loss shall be deducted in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year.

Subsec. 142.4(5) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

Regulations: 9202(2), (4), (5) (debt obligations prescribed for 142.2(5)(a)(ii)).

(6) Gain or loss from disposition of obligation — For the purposes of this section,

(a) where the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is positive, that amount is the taxpayer's gain from the disposition of the obligation;

(b) where the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is negative, the absolute value of that amount is the taxpayer's loss from the disposition of the obligation; and

(c) the amount determined under this paragraph in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

where

A is the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition,

B is the tax basis of the obligation to the taxpayer immediately before the time of disposition, and

C is the taxpayer's transition amount in respect of the disposition.

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Para. 142.4(6)(b) and the description of C in para. 142.4(6)(c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(5), (6), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. 142.4(6)(b) and the description of C formerly read:

(b) where the amount determined under paragraph (c) in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is negative, that amount is the taxpayer's loss from the disposition of the obligation; and

. . . . .

(i) where subsection (4) applies to the disposition, the taxpayer's transition amount in respect of the disposition, and

(ii) in any other case, nil.

Subsec. 142.4(6) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(7) Current amount — For the purposes of subsections (4) and (8), the current amount of a taxpayer's gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation is

(a) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, the part, if any, of the gain that is reasonably attributable to a material increase in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation; and

(b) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, the amount that the taxpayer claims not exceeding the part, if any, of the loss that is reasonably attributable to a default by the debtor or a material decrease in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation.

History: Subsec. 142.4(7) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(7) formerly read:

(7) For the purpose of subsection (4), the current amount in respect of the disposition of a specified debt obligation by a taxpayer is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$A + B$$

where

A is the taxpayer's transition amount in respect of the disposition, and

B is

(a) where the taxpayer has a gain from the disposition of the obligation, the part, if any, of the gain that is reasonably attributable to a material increase in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation, and

(b) where the taxpayer has a loss from the disposition of the obligation, the negative amount that the taxpayer claims not exceeding in magnitude the part, if any, of the loss that is reasonably attributable to a default by the debtor or a material decrease in the probability, or perceived probability, that the debtor will make all payments as required by the obligation.

Subsec. 142.4(7) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(8) Residual portion of gain or loss — For the purpose of subsection (4), the residual portion of a taxpayer's gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation is the amount, if any, by which the gain or loss exceeds the current amount of the gain or loss.

Related Provisions: 142.4(7) — Current amount.

History: Subsec. 142.4(8) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(8) formerly read:

(8) For the purpose of subsection (4), where a taxpayer has a gain or loss from the disposition of a specified debt obligation, the residual portion of the gain or loss is the part of the gain or loss that is not included in determining the amount B in the formula in subsection (7) in respect of the disposition.

Subsec. 142.4(8) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(9) Disposition of part of obligation — Where a taxpayer disposes of part of a specified debt obligation, section 142.3 and this section apply as if the part disposed of and the part retained were separate specified debt obligations.

Related Provisions: 248(27) — Partial forgiveness of debt obligation — effect on debtor.

History: Subsec. 142.4(9) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Subsec. 142.4(9) formerly read:

(9) Where a taxpayer disposed of part of a specified debt obligation, this section and any regulations made for the purpose of this section apply as if the part disposed of and the part retained were separate specified debt obligations.

Subsec. 142.4(9) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(10) Penalties and bonuses — Notwithstanding subsection 18(9.1), where a taxpayer that holds a specified debt obligation receives a penalty or bonus because of the repayment before maturity of all or part of the principal amount of the debt obligation, the payment is deemed to be received by the taxpayer as proceeds of disposition of the specified debt obligation.

History: Subsec. 142.4(10) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 165(7), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994.

(11) Payments received on or after disposition — For the purposes of this section, where at any time a taxpayer receives a payment (other than proceeds of disposition) under a specified debt obligation on or after the disposition of the obligation, the payment is deemed not to have been so received at that time but to have been so received immediately before the disposition.

(3) Mark-to-market debt obligation — Where a taxpayer is a financial institution in a particular taxation year that begins after October 1994, the following rules apply with respect to a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the particular year:

(a) paragraph 12(1)(c) and subsections 12(3) and 20(14) and (21) do not apply to the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year;

(b) there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year an amount received by the taxpayer in the particular year as, on account of, in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, interest on the obligation, to the extent that the interest was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year; and

(c) for the purpose of paragraph (b), where the taxpayer was deemed by subsection (2) or paragraph 142.6(1)(b) to have disposed of the obligation in a preceding taxation year, no part of an amount included in computing the income of the taxpayer for that preceding year because of the disposition shall be considered to be in respect of interest on the obligation.

Related Provisions: 138(10)(a) — Application to insurance corporation.

(4) Transition — deduction re non-capital amounts — There may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding a prescribed amount in respect of properties (other than capital properties) disposed of by the taxpayer because of subsection (2).

Related Provisions: 138(11.5)(k) — Transfer of business by non-resident insurer; 142.5(5) — Inclusion re non-capital amounts.

Regulations: 8102(2) (prescribed amount).

(5) Transition — inclusion re non-capital amounts — Where an amount is deducted under subsection (4) in computing a taxpayer's income, there shall be included, in computing the taxpayer's income for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, the total of all amounts prescribed for the year.

(8) First deemed disposition of debt obligation — Where

(a) in a particular taxation year that ends after October 30, 1994, a taxpayer disposed of a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the following taxation year, and

(b) either

(i) the disposition occurred because of subsection (2) and the particular year includes October 31, 1994, or

(ii) the disposition occurred because of paragraph 142.6(1)(b),

the following rules apply:

(c) subsection 20(21) does not apply to the disposition, and

(d) where

(i) an amount has been deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year or a preceding taxation year, and

(ii) section 12.4 does not apply to the disposition, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year the amount, if any, by which

(iii) the total of all amounts referred to in subparagraph (i)

exceeds

(iv) the total of all amounts included under paragraph 12(1)(i) in respect of the obligation in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year or a preceding taxation year.

Proposed Addition — 142.5(8.1), (8.2)

(8.1) Application of subsec. (8.2) — Subsection (8.2) applies to a taxpayer for its transition year if

(a) subsection (2) deems the taxpayer to have disposed of a particular specified debt obligation immediately before the end of its transition year (in subsection (8.2) referred to as "the particular disposition"); and

(b) the particular specified debt obligation was owned by the taxpayer at the end of its base year and was not a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for its base year.

Related Provisions: 142.51(1) — Definitions apply to 142.5(8.1).

(8.2) Rules applicable to first deemed disposition of debt obligation — If this subsection applies to a taxpayer for its transition year, the following rules apply to the taxpayer in respect of the particular disposition:

(a) subsection 20(21) does not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the particular disposition; and

(b) if section 12.4 does not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the particular disposition, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) an amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(l) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for its base year, or

(B) an amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that preceded its transition year,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is

(A) an amount included under paragraph 12(1)(d) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year, or

(B) an amount included under paragraph 12(1)(i) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year or a preceding taxation year.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 47, will add subsecs. 142.5(8.1) and (8.2), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.5(8.2) applies to a taxpayer for the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after September 2006 (the taxpayer's "transition year" as defined in subsection 142.51(1)) where

- subsection 142.5(2) deems the taxpayer to have disposed of a particular specified debt obligation immediately before the end of the transition year (the "particular disposition"), and
- the particular specified debt obligation was owned by the taxpayer at the end of the taxation year (the taxpayer's "base year" as defined in subsection 142.51(1)) immediately preceding the first taxation year and was not a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for that base year.

Where subsection 142.5(8.2) applies to a taxpayer for the transition year, the following rules apply to the taxpayer in respect of the particular disposition:

- subsection 20(21) does not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the particular disposition, and
- if section 12.4 does not apply to the taxpayer in respect of the particular disposition, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year the amount, if any, by which
  - the total of all amounts each of which is
    - an amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(l) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for the base year,
    - an amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(p) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that preceded the transition year,

  exceeds
  - the total of all amounts each of which is
    - an amount included under paragraph 12(1)(d) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year, or
    - an amount included under paragraph 12(1)(i) in respect of the particular specified debt obligation of the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year or a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 142.51(1) — Definitions apply to 142.5(8.2); 142.5(8.1) — Conditions for subsec. (8.2) to apply.

(9) Transition — property acquired on rollover — Where

(a) a taxpayer acquired a property before October 31, 1994 at a cost less than the fair market value of the property at the time of acquisition,

(b) the property was transferred, directly or indirectly, to the taxpayer by a person that would never have been a financial institution before the transfer if the definition "financial institution" in subsection 142.2(1) had always applied,

(c) the cost is less than the fair market value because subsection 85(1) applied in respect of the disposition of the property by the person, and

(d) subsection (2) deemed the taxpayer to have disposed of the property in its particular taxation year that includes October 31, 1994,

the following rules apply:

(e) where the taxpayer would, but for this paragraph, have a taxable capital gain for the particular year from the disposition of the property, the part of the taxable capital gain that can reasonably be considered to have arisen while the property was held by a person described in paragraph (b) shall be deemed to be a taxable capital gain of the taxpayer from the disposition of the property for the taxation year in which the taxpayer disposes of the property otherwise than because of subsection (2), and not to be a taxable capital gain for the particular year, and

(f) where the taxpayer has a profit (other than a capital gain) from the disposition of the property, the part of the profit that can reasonably be considered to have arisen while the property was held by a person described in paragraph (b) shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer disposes of the property otherwise than because of subsection (2), and shall not be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year.

History [s. 142.5]: Subsecs. 142.5(5), (6) and (7) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 166, applicable to taxation years that end after October 30, 1994. Subsecs. 142.5(5), (6) and (7) formerly read:

(5) Transition — inclusion re non-capital amounts — Where a taxpayer deducts an amount under subsection (4), there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, the prescribed portion for the year of the amount so deducted.

(6) Transition — deduction re net capital gains — Such amount as a taxpayer elects, not exceeding a prescribed amount in respect of capital properties disposed of by the taxpayer because of subsection (2), shall be deemed to be an allowable capital loss of the taxpayer for its taxation year that includes October 31, 1994 from the disposition of property.

(7) Transition — inclusion re net capital gains — Where a taxpayer elects an amount under subsection (6), the taxpayer shall be deemed, for each taxation year that begins before 1999 and ends after October 30, 1994, to have a taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition of property equal to the prescribed portion for the year of the amount so elected.

S. 142.5 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58, applicable to taxation years that end after October 30, 1994.

Definitions [s. 142.5]: "allowable capital loss" — 38(b), 248(1); "amount" — 248(1); "base year" — 142.51(1); "capital gain" — 39(1)(a), 248(1); "capital property" — 54, 248(1); "disposition" — 248(1); "financial institution", "mark-to-market property" — 142.2(1); "non-resident" — 248(1); "particular disposition" — 142.5(8.1)(a); "prescribed", "property" — 248(1); "specified debt obligation" — 142.2(1); "taxable Canadian property" — 248(1); "taxable capital gain" — 38(a), 248(1); "taxation year" — 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1); "transition year" — 142.51(1).

Proposed Addition — 142.51

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New section 142.51 provides transitional rules for financial institutions as a result of changes to accounting rules.

New section 142.51 is part of a package of amendments involving also sections 12.5, 20.4 and 138.

142.51 [Financial institutions — changes in accounting rules] — (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply for the purposes of this section and subsections 142.5(8.1) and (8.2).

"base year" of a taxpayer means the taxpayer's taxation year that immediately precedes its transition year.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(1) contains definitions that apply for the purposes of section 142.51 and new subsections 142.5(8.1) and (8.2).

The definitions in subsection 142.51(1) apply to taxation years that begin on after September 2006.

The new definition "base year" in subsection 142.51(1) provides that the base year of a taxpayer is the taxpayer's taxation year that immediately precedes its transition year. Certain amounts determined in respect of the taxpayer's base year are relevant to determining the taxpayer's transition amount, as described in greater detail below.

"transition amount" of a taxpayer for the taxpayer's transition year is the positive or negative amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the end of the taxpayer's base year, of a transition property of the taxpayer; and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the taxpayer, at the end of the taxpayer's base year, of a transition property of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The "transition amount" of a taxpayer for the taxpayer's transition year is defined as the positive or negative amount determined by the formula A – B.

In applying the formula, element A is the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the end of the taxpayer's base year, of a transition property of the taxpayer.

Element B is the total of all amounts each of which is the cost amount to the taxpayer, at the end of the taxpayer's base year, of a transition property of the taxpayer.

"transition property" of a taxpayer means a property that

(a) was a specified debt obligation held by the taxpayer at the end of the taxpayer's base year;

(b) was not a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxpayer's base year, but would have been a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxpayer's base year if the property had been carried at the property's fair market value in the taxpayer's balance sheet as at the end of each taxation year of the taxpayer that ends after the taxpayer last acquired the property (otherwise than by reason of a reacquisition under subsection 142.5(2)) and before the commencement of the taxpayer's transition year; and

(c) was a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the transition year of the taxpayer.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): A "transition property" of a taxpayer is defined as a property that

- was a specified debt obligation held by the taxpayer at the end of the taxpayer's base year,
- was not a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxpayer's base year, but would have been a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxpayer's base year if the property had been carried at the property's fair market value in the taxpayer's balance sheet as at the end of each taxation year of the taxpayer that ends after the taxpayer last acquired the property (otherwise than by reason of a reacquisition under subsection 142.5(2)) and before the commencement of the taxpayer's transition year, and
- was a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the transition year of the taxpayer.

"transition year" of a taxpayer means the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The "transition year" of a taxpayer is defined as the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after September 2006.

(2) Transition year income inclusion — If a taxpayer is a financial institution in its transition year, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year the absolute value of the negative amount, if any, of the taxpayer's transition amount.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(2) provides that, if a taxpayer is a financial institution in its transition year, the taxpayer must include in computing its income, for its transition year, the absolute value of the negative amount, if any, of the taxpayer's transition amount for its transition year.

For further details, readers may refer to the commentary to the definition of "transition amount" and "transition property" in proposed subsection 142.51(1).

Related Provisions: 12.5(2) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(10) — Application to insurance corporation; 138(16) — Parallel rule for life insurer; 142.51(4) — Inclusion reversal in subsequent 5 years.

(3) Transition year income deduction — If a taxpayer is a financial institution in its transition year, there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year the positive amount, if any, of the taxpayer's transition amount.

Technical Notes: New subsection 142.51(3) provides that, if a taxpayer is a financial institution in its transition year, the taxpayer must deduct in computing its income, for its transition year, the positive amount, if any, of its transition amount for its transition year.

For further details, readers may refer to the commentary to the definition of "transition amount" and "transition property" in proposed subsection 142.51(1).

Related Provisions: 20.4(2) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(10) — Application to insurance corporation; 138(17) — Parallel rule for life insurer; 142.51(5) — Deduction reversal in subsequent 5 years; 142.51(8), (9) — Effect of rollover of insurance business.

(4) Transition year income inclusion reversal — If an amount has been included under subsection (2) in computing a taxpayer's income for its transition year there shall be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for each particular taxation year of the taxpayer that ends after the beginning of the transition year, and in which particular taxation year the taxpayer is a financial institution, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount included under subsection (2) in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year; and

B is the number of days in the particular taxation year that are before the day that is 1825 days after the first day of the transition year.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(4) provides that, where an amount has been included under subsection 142.51(2) in computing a taxpayer's income for its transition year, there is to be deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for each particular taxation year of the taxpayer that ends after the beginning of the transition year and in which the taxpayer is a financial institution, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount included under subsection 142.51(2) in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year, and

B is the number of days in the particular taxation year that are before the day that is 1825 days after the first day of the transition year.

Related Provisions: 20.4(3) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(18) — Parallel rule for life insurer; 142.51(6), (12) — Effect of windup of institution; 142.51(7) — Effect of amalgamation; 142.51(8), (9) — Effect of transfer of business.

(5) Transition year income deduction reversal — If an amount has been deducted under subsection (3) in computing a taxpayer's income for its transition year, there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income, for each particular taxation year of the taxpayer ending after the beginning of the transition year, and in which particular taxation year the taxpayer is a financial institution, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount deducted under subsection (3) in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year; and

B is the number of days in the particular taxation year that are before the day that is 1825 days after the first day of the transition year.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(5) provides that, where an amount has been deducted under subsection 142.51(3) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year, there is to be included in computing the taxpayer's income, for each particular taxation year of the taxpayer that ends after the beginning of the transition year and in which the taxpayer is a financial institution, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount deducted under subsection 142.51(3) in computing the taxpayer's income for the transition year, and

B is the number of days in the particular taxation year that are before the day that is 1825 days after the first day of the transition year.

Related Provisions: 12.5(3) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(19) — Parallel rule for life insurer; 142.51(6), (12) — Effect of windup of institution; 142.51(7) — Effect of amalgamation; 142.51(8), (9) — Effect of transfer of business; 142.51(10) — Effect of continuing partnership; 142.51(11) — Effect of ceasing to carry on business.

(6) Winding-up — If a taxpayer has, in a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) has applied, been wound-up into another corporation (referred to in this subsection as the "parent"), and immediately after the winding-up the parent is a financial institution, in applying subsections (4) and (5) in computing the income of the taxpayer and of the parent for particular taxation years that end on or after the first day (referred to in this subsection as the "start day") on which assets of the taxpayer were distributed to the parent on the winding-up,

(a) the parent is, on and after the start day, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the taxpayer in respect of

(i) any amount included under subsection (2) or deducted under subsection (3) by the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year,

(ii) any amount deducted under subsection (4) or included under subsection (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before the start day, and

(iii) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the taxpayer existed and was a financial institution on each day that is the start day or a subsequent day and on which the parent is a financial institution — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year; and

(b) the taxpayer is, in respect of each of its particular taxation years, to determine the value for B in the formulas in subsections (4) and (5) without reference to the start day and days after the start day.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(6) is one of a series of special rules contained in subsections 142.51(6) to (12) that provide for the appropriate treatment of a taxpayer's transition amounts in circumstances in which the taxpayer or its business, as the case may be, has been transferred, reorganized or ended.

New subsection 142.51(6) provides that, where a taxpayer has (in a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) has applied) been wound-up into another corporation (the "parent"), and immediately after the winding-up the parent is a financial institution, in applying subsections 142.51(4) and (5) in computing the income of the taxpayer and that of the parent for particular taxation years that end on or after the first day (the "start day") on which assets of the taxpayer were distributed to the parent on the winding-up,

- the parent is, on and after the start day, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the taxpayer in respect of
  - — any amount included under subsection 142.51(2) or deducted under subsection 142.51(3) by the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year,
  - — any amount deducted under subsection 142.51(4) or included under subsection 142.51(5) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before the start day, and
  - — any amount that, in the absence of subsection 142.51(6) — and assuming that the taxpayer is a financial institution on each day (that is the start day or a subsequent day) that the parent is a financial institution — would be required to be deducted or included, in respect of days that are on or after the start day, under subsection 142.51(4) or (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year, and
- the taxpayer is, in respect of each of its particular taxation years, to determine the value for B in the formulas in subsections 142.51(4) and (5) without reference to the start day and days after the start day.

Related Provisions: 12.5(4) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(20) — Parallel rule for life insurer.

(7) Amalgamations — If there is an amalgamation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of a taxpayer with one or more other corporations to form one corporation (referred to in this subsection as the "new corporation"), and immediately after the amalgamation the new corporation is a financial institution; in applying subsections (4) and (5) in computing the income of the new corporation for particular taxation years of the new corporation that begin on or after the day on which the amalgamation occurred, the new corporation is, on and after that day, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the taxpayer in respect of

(a) any amount included under subsection (2) or deducted under subsection (3) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year of the taxpayer;

(b) any amount deducted under subsection (4) or included under subsection (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before the day on which the amalgamation occurred; and

(c) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the taxpayer existed and was a financial institution on each day that is the day on which the amalgamation occurred or a subsequent day and on which the new corporation is a financial institution — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the taxpayer's income.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(7) is one of a series of special rules contained in subsections 142.51(6) to (12) that provide for the appropriate treatment of a taxpayer's transition amounts in circumstances in which the taxpayer or its business, as the case may be, has been transferred, reorganized or ended.

Subsection 142.51(7) provides that, where there is an amalgamation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(1)) of a taxpayer with one or more other corporations to form one corporation (referred to in this subsection as the "new corporation"), and immediately after the winding-up the new corporation is a financial institution, in applying subsections 142.51(4) and (5) in computing the income of the new corporation for particular taxation years of the new corporation that begin on or after the day on which the amalgamation occurred, the new corporation is, on and after that day, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the taxpayer in respect of

- any amount included under subsection 142.51(2) or deducted under subsection 142.51(3) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year of the taxpayer,
- any amount deducted under subsection 142.51(4) or included under subsection 142.51(5) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year of the taxpayer that begins before the day on which the amalgamation occurred, and
- any amount that, in the absence of subsection 142.51(7) — and assuming that the taxpayer is a financial institution on each day (that is the day on which the amalgamation occurred or a subsequent day) that the new corporation is a financial institution — would be required to be included or deducted, in respect of any of those days, under subsection 142.51(4) or (5) in computing the taxpayer's income.

Related Provisions: 12.5(5) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(21) — Parallel rule for life insurer.

(8) Application of subsec. (9) — Subsection (9) applies if, at any time, a taxpayer (referred to in this subsection and subsection (9) as the "transferor") transfers, to a corporation (referred to in this subsection and subsection (9) as the "transferee") that is related to the transferor, property in respect of a business carried on by the transferor in Canada (referred to in this subsection and subsection (9) as the "transferred business") and

(a) subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) applies to the transfer; or

(b) subsection 85(1) applies to the transfer, the transfer includes all or substantially all of the property and liabilities of the transferred business and, immediately after the transfer, the transferee is a financial institution.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsections 142.51(8) and (9) are part of a series of special rules contained in subsections 142.51(6) to (12) that provide for the appropriate treatment of a taxpayer's transition amounts in circumstances in which the taxpayer or its business, as the case may be, has been transferred, reorganized or ended.

Subsection 142.51(8) provides that subsection 142.51(9) applies if, at a particular time, a taxpayer (the "transferor") transfers, to a related corporation (the "transferee"), property in respect of a business carried on by the transferor in Canada (the "transferred business") and

- subsection 138(11.5) or (11.94) applies to the transfer, or
- subsection 85(1) applies to the transfer, the transfer includes all or substantially all of the property and liabilities of the transferred business and, immediately after the transfer, the transferee is a financial institution.

In these circumstances, subsection 142.51(9) provides that in respect of the transfer:

- the transferee is, at and after the particular time, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the transferor in respect of
  - any amount included under subsection 142.51(2) or deducted under subsection 142.51(3) in computing the transferor's income for its transition year that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business,
  - any amount deducted under subsection 142.51(4) or included under subsection 142.51(5) in computing the transferor's income for a taxation year of the transferor that begins before the particular time that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business, and
  - any amount that — in the absence of subsection 142.51(9) and assuming that the transferor is a financial institution on each day (that includes that time or is a subsequent day) that the transferee is a financial institution — would be required to be deducted or included, under subsection 142.51(4) or (5) in computing the transferor's income that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business, and
- in determining, in respect of the day that includes the particular time or any subsequent day, any amount that is required under subsection 142.51(4) or (5) to be deducted or included in computing the transferor's income for each particular taxation year from the transferred business, the description of A in the formulas in those subsections is deemed to be nil.

(9) Transfer of a business — If this subsection applies in respect of the transfer, at any time, of property

(a) the transferee is, at and after that time, deemed to be the same corporation as and a continuation of the transferor in respect of

(i) any amount included under subsection (2) or deducted under subsection (3) in computing the transferor's income for its transition year that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business,

(ii) any amount deducted under subsection (4) or included under subsection (5) in computing the transferor's income for a taxation year of the transferor that begins before that time that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business, and

(iii) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the transferor existed and was a financial institution on each day that includes that time or is a subsequent day and on which the transferee is a financial institution — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the transferor's income that can reasonably be attributed to the transferred business; and

(b) in determining, in respect of the day that includes that time or any subsequent day, any amount that is required under subsection (4) or (5) to be deducted or included in computing the transferor's income for each particular taxation year from the transferred business, the description of A in the formulas in those subsections is deemed to be nil.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): See under 142.51(8).

Related Provisions: 12.5(6), (7) — Parallel rule for non-life insurer; 138(22), (23) — Parallel rule for life insurer; 142.51(8) — Conditions for 142.51(9) to apply.

(10) Continuation of a partnership — If subsection 98(6) deems a partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "new partnership") to be a continuation of another partnership (in this subsection referred to as the "predecessor partnership") and, at the time that is immediately after the predecessor partnership ceases to exist, the new partnership is a financial institution, in applying subsections (4) and (5) in computing the income of the new partnership for particular taxation years of the new partnership that begin on or after the day on which it comes into existence, the new partnership is, on or after that day, deemed to be the same partnership as and a continuation of the predecessor partnership in respect of

(a) any amount included under subsection (2) or deducted under subsection (3) in computing the predecessor partnership's income for its transition year;

(b) any amount deducted under subsection (4) or included under subsection (5) in computing the predecessor partnership's income for a taxation year of the predecessor partnership that begins before the day on which the new partnership comes into existence; and

(c) any amount that would — in the absence of this subsection and if the predecessor partnership existed and was a financial institution on each day that is the day on which the new partnership comes into existence or a subsequent day and on which the new partnership is a financial institution — be required to be deducted or included, in respect of any of those days, under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the predecessor partnership's income.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(10) is one of a series of special rules contained in subsections 142.51(6) to (12) that provide for the appropriate treatment of a taxpayer's transition amounts in circumstances in which the taxpayer or its business, as the case may be, has been transferred, reorganized or ended.

Subsection 142.51(10) provides that, if subsection 98(6) deems a partnership (the "new partnership") to be a continuation of another partnership (the "predecessor partnership"), and at the time that is immediately after the predecessor partnership ceases to exist, the new partnership is a financial institution, in applying subsections 142.51(4) and (5) in computing the income of the new partnership for particular taxation years of the new partnership that begin on or after the day on which the new partnership comes into existence, the new partnership is, starting on that day, deemed to be the same partnership as and a continuation of the predecessor partnership in respect of

- any amount included under subsection 142.51(2) or deducted under subsection 142.51(3) in computing the predecessor partnership's income for its transition year,
- any amount deducted under subsection 142.51(4) or included under subsection 142.51(5) in computing the predecessor partnership's income for a taxation year of the predecessor partnership that begins before the day on which the new partnership comes into existence, and
- any amount that, in the absence of subsection 142.51(10) — and assuming that the predecessor partnership is a financial institution on each day (that is the day on which the new partnership comes into existence or a subsequent day) that the new partnership is a financial institution — would be required to be deducted or included, in respect of days that are on or after the day on which the new partnership comes into existence, under subsection 142.51(4) or (5) in computing the predecessor partnership's income.

(11) Ceasing to carry on a business [Ceasing to be a financial institution] — If at any time, a taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution

(a) there shall be deducted, in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year of the taxpayer that includes the time that is immediately before that time, the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount included under subsection (2) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year, and

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection (4) in computing the income of the taxpayer for a taxation year that began before that time; and

(b) there shall be included, in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year of the taxpayer that includes the time that is immediately before that time, the amount determined by the formula

where

C is the amount deducted under subsection (3) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection (5) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that began before that time.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(11) is one of a series of special rules contained in subsections 142.51(6) to (12) that provide for the appropriate treatment of a taxpayer's transition amounts in circumstances in which the taxpayer or its business, as the case may be, has been transferred, reorganized or ended.

Subsection 142.51(11) applies if at a particular time a taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution.

In these circumstances, the subsection requires that the taxpayer deduct, in computing its income for its taxation year that includes the time that is immediately before the particular time, the amount determined by the formula A – B. Element A of the formula is the amount included under subsection 142.51(2) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year. Element B of the formula is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 142.51(4) in computing the income of the taxpayer for a taxation year that began before the particular time.

The subsection can also apply, where a taxpayer ceases at a particular time to be a financial institution, to require the taxpayer to include in computing its income for the taxation year of the taxpayer that includes the time that is immediately before the particular time the amount determined by the formula C – D. Element C of this formula is the amount deducted under subsection 142.51(3) in computing the taxpayer's income for its transition year. Element D of the formula is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 142.51(5) in computing the taxpayer's income for a taxation year that began before the particular time.

Readers may also refer to the commentary for subsection 142.51(12).

Related Provisions: 12.5(8), 20(14) — Parallel rules for non-life insurer; 87(2)(g.2) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 138(24) — Parallel rule for life insurer; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(12) Ceasing to exist — If at any time a taxpayer ceases to exist (otherwise than as a result of a merger to which subsection 87(2) applies, a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) applies or a continuation to which subsection 98(6) applies), for the purposes of subsection (11), the taxpayer is deemed to have ceased to be a financial institution at the earlier of

(a) the time (determined without reference to this subsection) at which the taxpayer ceased to be a financial institution, and

(b) the time that is immediately before the end of the last taxation year of the taxpayer that ended at or before the time at which the taxpayer ceased to exist.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.51(12) is one of a series of special rules contained in subsections 142.51(6) to (12) that provide for the appropriate treatment of a taxpayer's transition amounts in circumstances in which the taxpayer or its business, as the case may be, has been transferred, reorganized or ended.

Subsection 142.51(12) provides that, where at any time a taxpayer that carried on a business ceases to exist (otherwise than as a result of a merger to which subsection 87(2) applies, a winding-up to which subsection 88(1) applies or a continuation to which subsection 98(6) applies), for the purposes of subsection 142.51(11), the taxpayer is deemed to have ceased to be a financial institution at the earlier of

- the time (determined without reference to this subsection) at which the taxpayer ceased to be a financial institution, and
- the time that is immediately before the end of the last taxation year of the taxpayer that ended at or before the time at which the taxpayer ceased to exist.

Additional Rules

142.6 (1) Becoming or ceasing to be a financial institution — Where, at a particular time after February 22, 1994, a taxpayer becomes or ceases to be a financial institution,

(a) where a taxation year of the taxpayer would not, but for this paragraph, end immediately before the particular time,

(i) except for the purpose of subsection 132(6.1), the taxpayer's taxation year that would otherwise have included the particular time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the taxpayer is deemed to have begun at that time, and

(ii) for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's fiscal period after the particular time, the taxpayer shall be deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that time;

(b) where the taxpayer becomes a financial institution, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed, immediately before the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, of each property held by the taxpayer that is

(i) a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year), or

(ii) where the year ends after October 30, 1994, a mark-to-market property for the year for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition;

Proposed Amendment — 142.6(1)(b)

(b) if the taxpayer becomes a financial institution, the taxpayer is deemed to have disposed, immediately before the end of its particular taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, of each of the following properties held by the taxpayer for proceeds equal to the property's fair market value at the time of that disposition:

(i) a specified debt obligation, or

(ii) a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the particular taxation year or for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the particular time;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 136(1), will amend para. 142.6(1)(b) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 1998.

Technical Notes: Subsection 142.6(1) contains rules that apply where a taxpayer becomes (or ceases to be) a financial institution. This is most likely to happen where the change of status occurs because the taxpayer becomes (or ceases to be) controlled by a financial institution.

If a taxation year of the taxpayer does not end immediately before the time at which its status as a financial institution changes, subparagraph 142.6(1)(a)(i) deems the taxpayer's taxation year that would otherwise have included that time to end immediately before that time. A new taxation year begins at that time, and the taxpayer is permitted to adopt a new fiscal period. One purpose for the deemed year-end is to ensure the proper application, in taxation years in which the taxpayer is a financial institution, of the rules, commonly known as the mark-to-market rules,

- in section 142.3 for specified debt obligations, and
- in section 142.5 for market-to-market properties.

The expressions "financial institution", "specified debt obligation" and "mark-to-market property" are defined in section 142.2.

Paragraph 142.6(1)(b) applies where a taxpayer becomes a financial institution. This paragraph generally provides for a deemed disposition at fair market value of each property held by the taxpayer that is

- a specified debt obligation (other than a specified debt obligation that is a mark-to-market property to which subparagraph 142.6(1)(b)(ii) applies) [142.6(1)(b)(i) — ed.], or
- a mark-to-market property for the taxpayer's taxation year that ends immediately before the time of the change of status [142.6(1)(b)(ii) — ed.].

This deemed disposition under paragraph 142.6(1)(b) is intended to ensure that amounts brought, because of the mark-to-market rules in sections 142.3 and 142.5, into the taxpayer's income for the taxpayer's subsequent taxation year (i.e., the taxation year that includes the time of the change of status) do not include gains or losses accrued before the beginning of that subsequent taxation year.

Paragraph 142.6(1)(b) is amended to ensure that this is achieved in connection with mark-to-market properties. Amended paragraph 142.6(1)(b) results in the taxpayer being deemed to have disposed of, immediately before the end of its particular taxation year that ends immediately before the time of the change of status, and for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of that disposition, a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer

- for the particular taxation year, or
- for the subsequent taxation year.

(c) where the taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed, immediately before the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, of each property held by the taxpayer that is a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the year), for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition; and

(d) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have reacquired, at the end of the taxation year referred to in paragraph (b) or (c), each property deemed by that paragraph to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Proposed Amendment — 142.6(1)(d)

(d) the taxpayer is deemed to have reacquired, at the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the particular time, each property deemed by paragraph (b) or (c) to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 136(2), will amend para. 142.6(1)(d) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that end after 1998.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 142.6(1)(c) provides for a deemed disposition of specified debt obligations (other than mark-to-market property) in the opposite situation of change of status, i.e., where the taxpayer ceases to be a financial institution. Paragraph 142.6(1)(d) provides that the taxpayer is deemed to have reacquired, at the end of the taxation year referred to in paragraph 142.6(1)(b) or (c), each property deemed by that paragraph to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Consequential to the amendments to paragraph 142.6(1)(b), paragraph 142.6(1)(d) is amended to provide that the taxpayer is deemed to have reacquired, at the end of its taxation year that ends immediately before the time of the change of status, each property deemed by paragraph 142.6(1)(b) or (c) to have been disposed of by the taxpayer, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 54"superficial loss"(c) — Superficial loss rule does not apply to disposition under 142.6(1)(b); 87(2)(g.2) — Application of rule to predecessors corporation on amalgamation; 112(5.6)(a)(ii) — Stop-loss rules inapplicable; 142.4(5)(b)(iii) — Gain or loss not amortized; 142.5(8)(b)(ii) — First deemed disposition of debt obligation; 142.6(2) — Acquisition date under 142.6(1) to be ignored.

History: Subpara. 142.6(1)(a)(i) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 58, applicable after 1997. It formerly read:

(i) the taxation year of the taxpayer that would otherwise have included the particular time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the taxpayer shall be deemed to have begun at that time, and

Subsecs. 142.6(8) to (10) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 167, applicable to 1993 et seq.

S. 142.6 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58; subsec. 142.6(1) applicable after February 22, 1994; subsecs. 142.6(2) to (6) applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994; and subsec. 142.6(7) applicable to dispositions occurring after October 30, 1994, except the disposition of a debt obligation before July 1995 where

(a) the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that began before October 31, 1994;

(b) as part of the series of transactions or events, the taxpayer who acquired the debt obligation disposed of property before October 31, 1994; and

(c) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of the debt obligation by the taxpayer was to obtain a deduction because, as a consequence of the disposition referred to in paragraph (b),

(i) an amount was included in the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(ii) an amount was subtracted from a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts of the taxpayer and the subtracted amount exceeded the portion, if any, of the balance that could reasonably be considered to be in respect of the property.

(1.1) Ceasing to use property in Canadian business — If at a particular time in a taxation year a taxpayer that is a non-resident financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) ceases to use, in connection with a business or part of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada immediately before the particular time, a property that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the year or a specified debt obligation, but that is not a property that was disposed of by the taxpayer at the particular time,

(a) the taxpayer is deemed

(i) to have disposed of the property immediately before the time that was immediately before the particular time for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition and to have received those proceeds at the time of disposition in the course of carrying on the business or the part of the business, as the case may be, and

(ii) to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to those proceeds; and

(b) in determining the consequences of the disposition in subparagraph (a)(i), subsection 142.4(11) does not apply to any payment received by the taxpayer after the particular time.

Related Provisions: 10(12) — Parallel rule for inventory; 14(14) — Parallel rule for eligible capital property; 142.6(1.3) — Specified debt obligation market to market; 142.6(2) — No effect on determination of when share acquired.

History: Subsec. 142.6(1.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case.

(1.2) Beginning to use property in a Canadian business — If at a particular time a taxpayer that is a non-resident financial institution (other than a life insurance corporation) begins to use, in connection with a business or part of a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada, a property that is a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the year that includes the particular time or a specified debt obligation, but that is not a property that was acquired by the taxpayer at the particular time, the taxpayer is deemed

(a) to have disposed of the property immediately before the time that was immediately before the particular time for proceeds equal to its fair market value at the time of disposition; and

(b) to have reacquired the property at the particular time at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 10(14) — Parallel rule for inventory; 14(15) — Parallel rule for eligible capital property; 142.6(2) — No effect on determination of when share acquired.

History: Subsec. 142.6(1.2) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case.

(1.3) Specified debt obligation marked to market — In applying subsection (1.1) to a taxpayer in respect of a property in a taxation year,

(a) the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) shall be applied as if the year ended immediately before the particular time referred to in subsection (1.1); and

(b) if the taxpayer does not have financial statements for the period ending immediately before the particular time referred to in subsection (1.1), references in the definition to financial statements for the year shall be read as references to the financial statements that it is reasonable to expect would have been prepared if the year had ended immediately before the particular time.

History: Subsec. 142.6(1.3) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case.

Proposed Addition — 142.6(1.4)–(1.6)

(1.4) Change in status — prescribed payment card corporation share — If, at any particular time in a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a financial institution for the taxation year, a property becomes a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxation year because it ceased, at the particular time, to be a prescribed payment card corporation share of the taxpayer,

(a) the taxpayer is deemed

(i) to have disposed of the property immediately before the particular time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) to have acquired the property, at the particular time, at a cost equal to those proceeds; and

(b) subsection 142.5(1) does not apply to the disposition under subparagraph (a)(i).

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.6(1.4) applies where a property ceases, at a particular time in a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a financial institution for the year, to be a prescribed payment card corporation share of the taxpayer and, as a result, becomes mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxation year. In these circumstances, subsection 142.6(1.4) deems the taxpayer

- to have disposed of the property (this being a disposition to which subsection 142.5(1) does not apply) immediately before the particular time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time, and
- to have acquired the property, at the particular time, at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 142.6(2) — Rule does not affect determination of when taxpayer acquired share.

Regulations: 9002.1 (prescribed payment card corporation share).

(1.5) Change in status — prescribed securities exchange investment — If, at any particular time in a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a financial institution for the taxation year, a property becomes a mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxation year because it ceased, at the particular time, to be a prescribed securities exchange investment of the taxpayer,

(a) the taxpayer is deemed

(i) to have disposed of the property immediately before the particular time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) to have acquired the property, at the particular time, at a cost equal to those proceeds; and

(b) subsection 142.5(1) does not apply to the disposition under subparagraph (a)(i).

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.6(1.5) applies where a property ceases, at a particular time in a taxation year of a taxpayer that is a financial institution for the year, to be a prescribed securities exchange investment of a taxpayer and, as a result, becomes mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the taxation year.

In these circumstances, subsection 142.6(1.5) deems the taxpayer

- to have disposed of the property (this being a disposition to which subsection 142.5(1) does not apply) immediately before the particular time for proceeds of disposition equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time, and
- to have acquired the property, at the particular time, at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 142.6(2) — Rule does not affect determination of when taxpayer acquired share.

Regulations: 9002.2 (prescribed securities exchange investment).

(1.6) Change in status — significant interest — If, at the end of a particular taxation year of a taxpayer that is a financial institution for the taxation year, the taxpayer holds a share of the capital stock of a corporation, the taxpayer has a significant interest in that corporation at any time in the particular taxation year and the share is mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the immediately following taxation year, the taxpayer is deemed to have,

(a) disposed of the share immediately before the end of the particular taxation year for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value, at that time, of the share; and

(b) acquired the share at the end of the particular taxation year at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 142.6(1.6) applies if, at the end of a particular taxation year of a taxpayer that is a financial institution for the year, a taxpayer holds a share of the capital stock of a corporation, the taxpayer has a significant interest in that corporation at any time in that taxation year, and the share is mark-to-market property of the taxpayer for the immediately following taxation year.

In these circumstances, subsection 142.6(1.6) deems the taxpayer to have

- disposed of the share immediately before the end of the particular taxation year for proceeds equal to the share's fair market value immediately before the end of the particular taxation year, and
- acquired the share at the end of the particular taxation year at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 49(1), will add subsec. 142.6(1.4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994; subsec. 142.6(1.5), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1998; and subsec. 142.6(1.6), applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Aug. 14, 2002:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to the requests made of the Department by representatives of the [xxx] in conversations with officials of the Department and in the electronic mail dated July 22, 2002 that you sent to Mr. Wallace Conway.

You have informed us that, pursuant to a Plan of Arrangement, all of the common shareholders of the [xxx] will transfer their shares of [xxx] to a new corporation, [xxx]. In exchange for the transfer of the shares of [xxx] the shareholders will receive common shares of [xxx]. Thus, initially, the common shareholders of [xxx] will become the common shareholders of [xxx] will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of [xxx]. On the same day that the share exchange is made, the class of common shares of [xxx] will be listed on the [xxx] and shares of that class will be offered to public investors through an initial public offering. At the time of listing, [xxx] will become a public corporation and, since the shares of [xxx] will not be listed on any stock exchange, [xxx] will not be a public corporation.

We are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance amendments to the Income Tax Act and Regulations as set out in the following paragraphs. If our recommendations are accepted, the amendments will be presented to Parliament and the Governor in Council for consideration and approval. We specifically confirm the following matters:

- Based on what we have been told by representatives of [xxx] concerning the activities of [xxx], under our recommended amendments to the Income Tax Regulations, the shares of [xxx] will qualify as prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(l) of the Income Tax Act (Act) up until the time at which they are exchanged for the shares of [xxx]
- Based on what we have been told by representatives of [xxx] concerning the activities of [xxx], under our recommended amendments to the Income Tax Regulations, the shares of [xxx] will not qualify as prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act effective as of the time at which any class of shares of [xxx] is listed on any stock exchange.
- We are prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the mark-to-market property rules in the Act be modified to require a deemed disposition by a taxpayer of property at its fair market value immediately before the property loses its status as a prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) of the Act. The property would be deemed to have been reacquired by the taxpayer, immediately after the time of the deemed disposition, at a cost equal to the amount of proceeds deemed to have been received by the taxpayer.
- The gains and losses of a taxpayer that arise as a result of a deemed disposition of a property (which occurs because that property loses its status as a prescribed property for the purposes of the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1)) will be included in determining the taxpayer's income for the year in which the disposition occurs. Under our recommended amendments, taxpayers will not be permitted to defer the payment of any of the taxes attributable to the gains arising on the deemed disposition of the property.

I trust that this letter addresses all the requests made of the Department by [xxx]. If further assistance or clarification is required, do not hesitate to contact us.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber, General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 142.2(2), (3) — Significant interest; 142.6(2) — Rule does not affect determination of when taxpayer acquired share; 152(6.2) — Extended reassessment period.

(2) Deemed disposition not applicable — For the purposes of this Act, the determination of when a taxpayer acquired a share shall be made without regard to a disposition or acquisition that occurred because of subsection 142.5(2) or subsection (1), (1.1) or (1.2).

Proposed Amendment — 142.6(2)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 49(2), will amend subsec. 142.6(2) to substitute "(1.1), (1.2), (1.4), (1.5), or (1.6)" for "(1.1) or (1.2)", applicable to taxation years that begin after September 2006.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 142.6(2) provides that, for the purposes, a deemed disposition and reacquisition of a share under certain rules relating to securities held by financial institutions does not affect the time at which a taxpayer is considered to have acquired the share.

Subsection 142.6(2) is amended to add a reference to new subsections 142.6(1.4), (1.5) and (1.6).

History: Subsec. 142.6(2) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 137, applicable after June 27, 1999 in respect of an authorized foreign bank, and after August 8, 2000 in any other case. The subsec. formerly read:

> (2) For the purposes of this Act, the determination of when a taxpayer acquired a share shall be made without regard to a disposition or acquisition that occurred because of subsection (1) or 142.5(2).

(3) Property not inventory — Where a taxpayer is a financial institution in a taxation year, inventory of the taxpayer in the year does not include property that is

(a) a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year); or

(b) where the year begins after October 1994, a mark-to-market property for the year.

Related Provisions: 66.3(1)(a)(ii) — Rule in 142.6(3) overrides rule for certain exploration and development shares; 142.6(4) — Property that was inventory before introduction of new rules.

(4) Property that ceases to be inventory — Where a taxpayer that was a financial institution in its particular taxation year that includes February 23, 1994 held, on that day, a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the year) that was inventory of the taxpayer at the end of its preceding taxation year,

(a) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of the property at the beginning of the particular year for proceeds equal to

(i) where subparagraph (ii) does not apply, the amount at which the property was valued at the end of the preceding taxation year for the purpose of computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

(ii) where the taxpayer is a bank and the property is prescribed property for the particular year, the cost of the property to the taxpayer (determined without reference to paragraph (b));

(b) for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's profit or loss from the disposition, the cost of the property to the taxpayer shall be deemed to be the amount referred to in subparagraph (a)(i); and

(c) the taxpayer shall be deemed to have reacquired the property, immediately after the beginning of the particular year, at a cost equal to the proceeds of disposition of the property.

(5) Debt obligations acquired in rollover transactions — Where,

(a) on February 23, 1994, a financial institution that is a corporation held a specified debt obligation (other than a mark-to-market property for the taxation year that includes that day) that was at any particular time before that day held by another corporation, and

(b) between the particular time and February 23, 1994, the only transactions affecting the ownership of the property were rollover transactions, the financial institution shall be deemed, in respect of that obligation, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the other corporation.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e), (e.2) — Rule overrides normal rules on amalgamation; 87(2)(e.3) — Continuity of corporation on amalgamation; 138(11.5)(k.1) — Continuity of corporation on rollover of insurance business by non-resident; 142.6(6) — Rollover transaction.

(6) Definition of "rollover transaction" — For the purpose of subsection (5), "rollover transaction" means a transaction to which subsection 87(2), 88(1) or 138(11.5) or (11.94) applies, other than a transaction to which paragraph 138(11.5)(e) requires the provisions of subsection 85(1) to be applied.

(7) Superficial loss rule not applicable — Subsection 18(13) does not apply to the disposition of a property by a taxpayer after October 30, 1994 where

(a) the taxpayer is a financial institution when the disposition occurs and the property is a specified debt obligation or a mark-to-market property for the taxation year in which the disposition occurs; or

(b) the disposition occurs because of paragraph (1)(b).

(8) Accrued capital gains and losses election — Where a taxpayer that is a financial institution in its first taxation year that ends after February 22, 1994 so elects by notifying the Minister in writing before July 1998 or within 90 days after the day on which a notice of assessment of tax payable under this Part for the year, notification that no tax is payable under this Part for the year or notification that an election made by the taxpayer under this subsection is deemed by subsection (9) or (10) not to have been made is mailed to the taxpayer,

(a) each property of the taxpayer

(i) that was a capital property (other than a depreciable property) of the taxpayer at the end of the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994,

(ii) that was a mark-to-market property for, or a specified debt obligation in, the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after that time,

(iii) that had a fair market value at that time greater than its adjusted cost base to the taxpayer at that time, and

(iv) that is designated by the taxpayer in the election

is deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to, and to have been reacquired by the taxpayer immediately after that time at a cost equal to, the lesser of

(v) the fair market value of the property at that time, and

(vi) the greater of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the property immediately before that time and the amount designated by the taxpayer in the election in respect of the property;

(b) each property of the taxpayer

(i) that was a capital property (other than a depreciable property) of the taxpayer at the end of the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994,

(ii) that was not a mark-to-market property for, or a specified debt obligation in, the taxpayer's first taxation year that begins after that time,

(iii) that had an adjusted cost base to the taxpayer at that time greater than its fair market value at that time, and

(iv) that is designated by the taxpayer in the election

is deemed to have been disposed of by the taxpayer at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to, and to have been reacquired by the taxpayer immediately after that time at a cost equal to, the greater of

(v) the fair market value of the property at that time, and

(vi) the lesser of the adjusted cost base to the taxpayer of the property immediately before that time and the amount designated by the taxpayer in the election in respect of the property; and

(c) notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessment of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Act for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 shall be made as is necessary to take the election into account.

Related Provisions: 142.6(9) — Accrued capital gains election limit; 142.6(10) — Accrued capital losses election limit.

History: Subsec. 142.6(8) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 167, applicable to 1993 et seq.

(9) Accrued capital gains election limit — Where a taxpayer has made an election under subsection (8) in which a property was designated under subparagraph (8)(a)(iv), the election is deemed not to have been made where

(a) the amount that would be the taxpayer's taxable capital gains from dispositions of property for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 if this subsection and subsection (10) did not apply

exceeds the total of

(b) the amount that would be the taxpayer's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property if this subsection and subsection (10) did not apply,

(c) the maximum amount that would have been deductible in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for preceding taxation years if there were sufficient taxable capital gains for the year from dispositions of property, and

(d) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be the taxpayer's taxable capital gains for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 from dispositions of property if no election were made under subsection (8)

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount that would be the taxpayer's allowable capital losses for the year from dispositions of property if no election were made under subsection (8), and

(iii) the maximum amount that would have been deductible in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year in respect of the taxpayer's net capital losses for preceding taxation years if no election were made under subsection (8).

(10) Accrued capital losses election limit — Where a taxpayer has made an election under subsection (8) in which a property was designated under subparagraph (8)(b)(iv), the election is deemed not to have been made where

(a) the total of the amounts determined under paragraphs (9)(b) and (c) in respect of the taxpayer exceeds the amount determined under paragraph (9)(a) in respect of the taxpayer; or

(b) the total of all amounts each of which would, if this subsection did not apply, be the taxpayer's allowable capital loss for the taxpayer's last taxation year that ended before February 23, 1994 from the disposition of a property deemed to have been disposed of under paragraph (8)(b) exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's taxable capital gain for the year from the disposition of a property deemed to have been disposed of under paragraph (8)(a).

History [s. 142.6]: S. 142.6 added by 1995, c. 21, s. 58; subsec. 142.6(1) applicable after February 22, 1994; subsecs. 142.6(2) to (6) applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994; and subsec. 142.6(7) applicable to dispositions occurring after October 30, 1994, except the disposition of a debt obligation before July 1995 where

(a) the disposition is part of a series of transactions or events that began before October 31, 1994;

(b) as part of the series of transactions or events, the taxpayer who acquired the debt obligation disposed of property before October 31, 1994; and

(c) it is reasonable to consider that one of the main reasons for the acquisition of the debt obligation by the taxpayer was to obtain a deduction because, as a consequence of the disposition referred to in paragraph (b),

(i) an amount was included in the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(ii) an amount was subtracted from a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts of the taxpayer and the subtracted amount exceeded the portion, if any, of the balance that could reasonably be considered to be in respect of the property.

Conversion of Foreign Bank Affiliate to Branch

142.7 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"Canadian affiliate" of an entrant bank at any particular time means a Canadian corporation that was, immediately before the particular time, affiliated with the entrant bank and that was, at all times during the period that began on February 11, 1999 and ended immediately before the particular time,

(a) affiliated with either

(i) the entrant bank, or

(ii) a foreign bank (within the meaning assigned by section 2 of the Bank Act) that is affiliated with the entrant bank at the particular time; and

(b) either

(i) a bank,

(ii) a corporation authorized under the Trust and Loan Companies Act to carry on the business of offering to the public its services as trustee, or

(iii) a corporation of which the principal activity in Canada consists of any of the activities referred to in subparagraphs 518(3)(a)(i) to (v) of the Bank Act and in which the entrant bank or a non-resident person affiliated with the entrant bank holds shares under the authority, directly or indirectly, of an order issued by the Minister of Finance or the Governor in Council under subsection 521(1) of that Act.

Related Provisions: 142.7(2)(a) — Effect of qualifying foreign merger.

"eligible property" of a Canadian affiliate at any time means a property described in any of paragraphs 85(1.1)(a) to (g.1) that is, immediately before that time, used or held by it in carrying on its business in Canada.

"entrant bank" means a non-resident corporation that is, or has applied to the Superintendent of Financial Institutions to become, an authorized foreign bank.

"qualifying foreign merger" means a merger or combination of two or more corporations that would be a "foreign merger" within the meaning assigned by subsection 87(8.1) if that subsection were read without reference to the words "and otherwise than as a result of the distribution of property to one corporation on the winding-up of another corporation.

(2) Qualifying foreign merger — Where an entrant bank was formed as the result of a qualifying foreign merger, after February 11, 1999, of two or more corporations (referred to in this subsection as "predecessors"), and at the time immediately before the merger, there were one or more Canadian corporations (referred to in this subsection as "predecessor affiliates"), each of which at that time would have been a Canadian affiliate of a predecessor if the predecessor were an entrant bank at that time,

(a) for the purpose of the definition "Canadian affiliate" in subsection (1),

(i) each predecessor affiliate is deemed to have been affiliated with the entrant bank throughout the period that began on February 11, 1999 and ended at the time of the merger,

(ii) the expression "entrant bank" in subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition is deemed to include a predecessor, and

(iii) if two or more of the predecessor affiliates are amalgamated or merged at any time after February 11, 1999 to form a new corporation, the new corporation is deemed to have been affiliated with the entrant bank throughout the period that began on February 11, 1999 and ended at the time of the amalgamation or merger of the predecessor affiliates; and

(b) if at least one of the predecessors complied with the terms of subsection[46] (11)(a), the entrant bank is deemed to have complied with those terms.

(3) Branch-establishment rollover — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank transfers an eligible property to the entrant bank, the entrant bank begins immediately after the transfer to use or hold the transferred property in its Canadian banking business and the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect, in accordance with subsection (11), to have this subsection apply in respect of the transfer, subsections 85(1) (other than paragraph (e.2)), (1.1), (1.4) and (5) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of the transfer, except that the portion of subsection 85(1) before paragraph (a) shall be read as follows:

"85. (1) Where a taxpayer that is a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank (within the meanings assigned by subsection 142.7(1)) has, in a taxation year, disposed of any of the taxpayer's property to the entrant bank (referred to in this subsection as the "corporation"), if the taxpayer and the corporation have jointly elected under subsection 142.7(3), the following rules apply:".

Related Provisions: 142.7(4) — Deemed fair market value; 142.7(5) — Transfers of specified debt obligations; 142.7(11) — Requirements for election; 142.7(13) — Stop-loss rule on windup of affiliate; Reg. 5301(8) — Effect of transfer on instalment base of transferee.

(4) Deemed fair market value — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank and the entrant bank make an election under subsection (3) in respect of a transfer of property by the Canadian affiliate to the entrant bank, for the purposes of subsections 15(1), 52(2), 69(1), (4) and (5), 246(1) and 247(2) in respect of the transfer, the fair market value of the property is deemed to be the amount agreed by the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank in their election.

(5) Specified debt obligations — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank transfers a specified debt obligation to the entrant bank in a transaction in respect of which an election is made under subsection (3), the Canadian affiliate is a financial institution in its taxation year in which the transfer is made, and the amount that the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank agree on in their election in respect of the obligation is equal to the tax basis of the obligation within the meaning assigned by subsection 142.4(1), the entrant bank is deemed, in respect of the obligation, for the purposes of sections 142.2 to 142.4 and 142.6, to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate.

(6) Mark-to-market property — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank described in paragraph (11)(a) transfers at any time within the period described in paragraph (11)(c) to the entrant bank a property that is, for the Canadian affiliate's taxation year in which the property is transferred, a mark-to-market property of the Canadian affiliate,

(a) for the purposes of subsections 112(5) to (5.21) and (5.4), the definition "mark-to-market property" in subsection 142.2(1) and subsection 142.5(9), the entrant bank is deemed, in respect of the property, to be the same corporation as and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate; and

(b) for the purpose of applying subsection 142.5(2) in respect of the property, the Canadian affiliate's taxation year in which the property is transferred is deemed to have ended immediately before the time the property was transferred.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(e.5) — Parallel rule on amalgamations.

(7) Reserves — If

(a) at a particular time,

(i) a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank transfers to the entrant bank property that is a loan or lending asset, or a right to receive an unpaid amount in respect of a disposition before the particular time of property by the affiliate, or

(ii) the entrant bank assumes an obligation of the Canadian affiliate that is an instrument or commitment described in paragraph 20(1)(l.1) or an obligation in respect of goods, services, lands or chattels described in subparagraph 20(1)(m)(i), (ii) or (iii),

Proposed Amendment — 142.7(7)(a)(ii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 247(1), will amend subpara. 142.7(7)(a)(ii) by substituting "land, or chattels or movable property," for "lands or chattels", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) the property is transferred or the obligation is assumed for an amount equal to its fair market value at the particular time,

(c) the entrant bank begins immediately after the particular time to use or hold the property or owe the obligation in its Canadian banking business, and

(d) the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this subsection apply in respect of the transfer or assumption, then

(e) in applying paragraphs 20(1)(l), (l.1), (m), (n) and (p) in respect of the obligation or property, the taxation year of the affiliate that would, but for this paragraph, include the particular time is deemed to end immediately before the particular time, and

(f) in computing the income of the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank for taxation years that end on or after the particular time,

(i) any amount deducted under paragraph 20(1)(l), (l.1), (m) or (n) by the Canadian affiliate in respect of the property or obligation in computing its income for its taxation year that ended immediately before the particular time, or under paragraph 20(1)(p) in computing its income for that year or for a preceding taxation year (to the extent that the amount has not been included in the affiliate's income under paragraph 12(1)(i)), is deemed to have been so deducted by the entrant bank in computing its income for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time and not to have been deducted by the Canadian affiliate,

(ii) in applying paragraph 20(1)(m), an amount in respect of the goods, services, land or chattels that was included under paragraph 12(1)(a) in computing the Canadian affiliate's income from a business is deemed to have been so included in computing the entrant bank's income from its Canadian banking business for a preceding taxation year,

Proposed Amendment — 142.7(7)(f)(ii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 247(2), will amend subpara. 142.7(7)(f)(ii) by substituting ", or chattels or movable property," for "or chattels", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(iii) in applying paragraph 20(1)(n) in respect of a property described in subparagraph (a)(i) and paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) sold by the Canadian affiliate in the course of a business, the property is deemed to have been disposed of by the entrant bank (and not by the Canadian affiliate) at the time it was disposed of by the Canadian affiliate, and the amount in respect of the sale that was included in computing the Canadian affiliate's income from a business is deemed to have been included in computing the entrant bank's income from its Canadian banking business for its taxation year that includes the time at which the property was so disposed of, and

(iv) in applying paragraph 40(1)(a) or 44(1)(e) in respect of a property described in subparagraph (a)(i) and paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) disposed of by the Canadian affiliate, the property is deemed to have been disposed of by the entrant bank (and not by the Canadian affiliate) at the time it was disposed of by the Canadian affiliate, the amount determined under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(i) or 44(1)(e)(i) in respect of the Canadian affiliate is deemed to be the amount determined under that subparagraph in respect of the entrant bank, and any amount claimed by the Canadian affiliate under subparagraph 40(1)(a)(iii) or 44(1)(e)(iii) in computing its gain from the disposition of the property for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time is deemed to have been so claimed by the entrant bank for its last taxation year that ended before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election.

(8) Assumption of debt obligation — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank described in paragraph (11)(a) transfers at any time within the period described in paragraph (11)(c) property to the entrant bank, and any part of the consideration for the transfer is the assumption by the entrant bank in respect of its Canadian banking business of a debt obligation of the Canadian affiliate,

(a) where the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this paragraph apply,

(i) both

(A) the value of that part of the consideration for the transfer of the property, and

(B) for the purpose of determining the consequences of the assumption of the obligation and any subsequent settlement or extinguishment of it, the value of the consideration given to the entrant bank for the assumption of the obligation, are deemed to be an amount (in this paragraph referred to as the "assumption amount") equal to the amount outstanding on account of the principal amount of the obligation at that time, and

(ii) the assumption amount shall not be considered a term of the transaction that differs from that which would have been made between persons dealing at arm's length solely because it is not equal to the fair market value of the obligation at that time;

(b) where the obligation is denominated in a foreign currency, and the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this paragraph apply,

(i) the amount of any income, loss, capital gain or capital loss in respect of the obligation due to the fluctuation in the value of the foreign currency relative to Canadian currency realized by

(A) the Canadian affiliate on the assumption of the obligation is deemed to be nil, and

(B) the entrant bank on the settlement or extinguishment of the obligation shall be determined based on the amount of the obligation in Canadian currency at the time it became an obligation of the Canadian affiliate, and

(ii) for the purpose of an election made in respect of the obligation under paragraph (a), the amount outstanding on account of the principal amount of the obligation at that time is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was advanced to the Canadian affiliate on account of principal, that remains outstanding at that time, and that is determined using the exchange rate that applied between the foreign currency and Canadian currency at the time of the advance; and

(c) for the purpose of applying paragraphs 20(1)(e) and (f) in respect of the debt obligation, the obligation is deemed not to have been settled or extinguished by virtue of its assumption by the entrant bank and the entrant bank is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate.

Proposed Addition — 142.7(8)(d)

(d) for the purpose of applying subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) in respect of the debt obligation, the obligation is deemed to have been issued by the entrant bank at the time that the obligation was issued by the Canadian affiliate.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 137, will add para. 142.7(8)(d), applicable after June 27, 1999.

Technical Notes: Section 142.7 provides time-limited rules to facilitate foreign banks' transformation of certain Canadian operations, currently carried out through subsidiaries, into Canadian branches (known as "authorized foreign banks") of the foreign banks themselves.

When an authorized foreign bank assumes certain debt obligations of its Canadian affiliates, subsection 142.7(8) applies to govern the tax consequences of the assumption.

Subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) provides an exemption from Part XIII tax in respect of interest payments on certain long- and medium-term corporate debt. The exemption can depend upon, among other things, the time at which a debt is issued. New paragraph 142.7(8)(d) is added to treat, for the purpose of subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii), a debt obligation assumed by an authorized foreign bank from its Canadian affiliate as having been issued at the time that the debt was issued by the Canadian affiliate.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 18, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in reply to your letter of October 24, 2001, regarding the conversion rules of foreign bank branches, particularly subsection 142.7(8) and subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) of the Income Tax Act, as well as your letter of November 13, 2001 regarding the application of section 116 of the Act where an authorized foreign bank disposes of its property to a Canadian resident.

Conversion Rules

Subsection 142.7(8) provides the conversion rules for debt obligations assumed by an authorized foreign bank from its Canadian subsidiary, and subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) exempts from Part XIII non-resident withholding tax the interest paid to a non-resident by a corporation resident in Canada on certain long-term debts. Subsection 212(13.3), meanwhile, treats the branch as a resident of Canada for the purposes of Part XIII.

In your October letter, you note that paragraph 142.7(8)(c) deems the assumed debt not to have been settled or extinguished for the purposes of paragraphs 20(1)(e) and (f), but it does not do the same for the purposes of subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii). You also suggest that the assumption of debt by an authorized foreign bank would result in a novation of that debt as the Canadian affiliate would have been totally discharged from it. In your opinion, when the novation took place there would be a new debt, which would not qualify for the exemption in subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) if there were less than 5 years left on the debt.

You consider this to be an inappropriate result, and you request an amendment to subsection 142.7(8) to provide specifically that the above-described debt be deemed to continue in order to qualify for the subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) exemption.

We agree with your views on this point and are prepared to recommend amendments to ensure that, where an authorized foreign bank assumes the debts of its subsidiary, such debt will be deemed for the purposes of the subparagraph 212(1)(b)(vii) exemption to have been issued by the entrant bank at the same time that it was issued by the Canadian affiliate under the original terms and conditions.

I trust that the above will satisfy your requirements.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(9) Branch-establishment dividend — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the rules in subsection (10) apply if

(a) a dividend is paid by a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank to the entrant bank or to a person that is affiliated with the Canadian affiliate and that is resident in the country in which the entrant bank is resident, or

(b) a dividend is deemed to be paid for the purposes of this Part or Part XIII (other than by paragraph 214(3)(a)) as a result of a transfer of property from the Canadian affiliate to such a person, and the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have subsection (10) apply in respect of the dividend.

(10) Treatment of dividend — If the conditions in subsection (9) are met,

(a) the dividend is deemed (except for the purposes of subsections 112(3) to (7)) not to be a taxable dividend; and

(b) there is added to the amount otherwise determined under paragraph 219(1)(g) in respect of the entrant bank for its first taxation year that ends after the time at which the dividend is paid, the amount of the dividend less, where the dividend is paid by means of, or arises as a result of, a transfer of eligible property in respect of which the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank have jointly elected under subsection (3), the amount by which the fair market value of the property transferred exceeds the amount the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank have agreed on in their election.

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election.

(11) Elections — An election under subsection (3) or (7), paragraph (8)(a) or (b) or subsection (10), (12) or (14) is valid only if

(a) the entrant bank by which the election is made has, on or before the day that is 6 months after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent [June 14, 2001], complied with paragraphs 1.1(b) and (c) of the "Guide to Foreign Bank Branching" in respect of the establishment and commencement of business of a foreign bank branch in Canada issued by the Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions, as it read on December 31, 2000;

(b) the election is made in prescribed form on or before the earlier of the filing-due date of the Canadian affiliate and the filing-due date of the entrant bank, for the taxation year that includes the time at which

(i) in the case of an election under subsection (3) or (7), paragraph (8)(a) or (b) or subsection (10), the dividend, transfer or assumption to which the election relates is paid, made or effected, or

(ii) in the case of an election under subsection (12), the dissolution order was granted or the winding up commenced; and

(c) in the case of an election under subsection (3) or (7), paragraph (8)(a) or (b) or subsection (10), the dividend, transfer or assumption to which the election relates is paid, made or effected within the period that

(i) begins on the day on which the Superintendent makes an order in respect of the entrant bank under subsection 534(1) of the Bank Act, and

(ii) ends on the later of

(A) the earlier of

(I) the day that is one year after the day referred to subparagraph (i), and

(II) the day that is three years after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent [June 14, 2001], and

(B) the day that is one year after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent [June 14, 2001].

Related Provisions: 142.7(2)(b) — Entrant bank deemed to have complied with para. (11)(a) if predecessor did; 142.7(6) — Transfer of mark-to-market property; 142.7(8) — Assumption of debt obligation.

(12) Winding-up of Canadian affiliate: losses — If

(a) within the period described in paragraph (11)(c) in respect of the entrant bank,

(i) the Minister of Finance has issued letters patent under section 342 of the Bank Act or section 347 of the Trust and Loan Companies Act dissolving the Canadian affiliate or an order under section 345 of the Bank Act or section 350 of the Trust and Loan Companies Act approving the Canadian affiliate's application for dissolution (such letters patent or order being referred to in this subsection as the "dissolution order"), or

(ii) the affiliate has been wound up under the terms of the corporate law that governs it,

(b) the entrant bank carries on all or part of the business in Canada that was formerly carried on by the Canadian affiliate, and

(c) the Canadian affiliate and the entrant bank jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this section apply

then in applying section 111 for the purpose of computing the taxable income earned in Canada of the entrant bank for any taxation year that begins after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be,

(d) subject to paragraphs (e) and (h), the portion of a non-capital loss of the Canadian affiliate for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "Canadian affiliate's loss year") that can reasonably be regarded as being its loss from carrying on a business in Canada (in this paragraph referred to as the "loss business") or being in respect of a claim made under section 110.5, to the extent that it

(i) was not deducted in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate or any other entrant bank for any taxation year, and is deemed, for the taxation year of the entrant bank in which the Canadian affiliate's loss year ended, to be a non-capital loss of the entrant bank from carrying on the loss business (or, in respect of a claim made under section 110.5, to be a non-capital loss of the entrant bank in respect of a claim under subparagraph 115(1)(a)(vii)) that was not deductible by the entrant bank in computing its taxable income earned in Canada for any taxation year that began before the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding up, as the case may be,

(e) if at any time control of the Canadian affiliate or entrant bank has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the Canadian affiliate's non-capital loss for a taxation year that ends before that time is deductible in computing the taxable income earned in Canada of the entrant bank for a particular taxation year that ends after that time, except that the portion of the loss that can reasonably be regarded as the Canadian affiliate's loss from carrying on a business in Canada and, where a business was carried on by the Canadian affiliate in Canada in the earlier year, the portion of the loss that can reasonably be regarded as being in respect of an amount deductible under paragraph 110(1)(k) in computing its taxable income for the year are deductible only

(i) if that business is carried on by the Canadian affiliate or the entrant bank for profit or with a reasonable expectation of profit throughout the particular year, and

(ii) to the extent of the total of the entrant bank's income for the particular year from that business, and where properties were sold, leased, rented or developed or services rendered in the course of carrying on that business before that time, from any other business substantially all of the income of which was derived from the sale, leasing, rental or development, as the case may be, of similar properties or the rendering of similar services, and, for the purpose of this paragraph, where subsection 88(1.1) applied to the dissolution of another corporation in respect of which the Canadian affiliate was the parent and paragraph 88(1.1)(e) applied in respect of losses of that other corporation, the Canadian affiliate is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, that other corporation with respect to those losses,

(f) subject to paragraphs (g) and (h), a net capital loss of the Canadian affiliate for a taxation year (in this paragraph referred to as the "Canadian affiliate's loss year") is deemed to be a net capital loss of the entrant bank for its taxation year in which the Canadian affiliate's loss year ended to the extent that the loss

(i) was not deducted in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate or any other entrant bank for any taxation year, and

(ii) would have been deductible in computing the taxable income of the Canadian affiliate for any taxation year beginning after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding-up, as the case may be, on the assumption that the Canadian affiliate had such a taxation year and that it had sufficient income and taxable capital gains for that year,

(g) if at any time control of the Canadian affiliate or the entrant bank has been acquired by a person or group of persons, no amount in respect of the Canadian affiliate's net capital loss for a taxation year that ends before that time is deductible in computing the entrant bank's taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year that ends after that time, and

(h) any loss of the Canadian affiliate that would otherwise be deemed by paragraph (d) or (f) to be a loss of the entrant bank for a particular taxation year that begins after the date of the dissolution order or the commencement of the winding-up, as the case may be, is deemed, for the purpose of computing the entrant bank's taxable income earned in Canada for taxation years that begin after that date, to be such a loss of the entrant bank for its immediately preceding taxation year and not for the particular year, if the entrant bank so elects in its return of income for the particular year.

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election; 142.7(13) — Stop-loss rule on windup of affiliate; 142.7(14) — Specified debt obligations.

(13) Winding-up of Canadian affiliate: stop loss — If a Canadian affiliate and its entrant bank have at any time made a joint election under either of subsection (3) or (12),

(a) in respect of any transfer of property, directly or indirectly, by the Canadian affiliate to the entrant bank or a person with whom the entrant bank does not deal at arm's length,

(i) subparagraph 13(21.2)(e)(iii) shall be read without reference to clause (E) of that subparagraph,

(ii) subsection 14(12) shall be read without reference to paragraph (g) of that subsection,

(iii) paragraph 18(15)(b) shall be read without reference to subparagraph (iv) of that paragraph, and

(iv) paragraph 40(3.4)(b) shall be read without reference to subparagraph (v) of that paragraph;

(b) in respect of any property of the Canadian affiliate appropriated to or for the benefit of the entrant bank or any person with whom the entrant bank does not deal at arm's length, section 69(5) shall be read without reference to paragraph (d); and

(c) for the purposes of applying subsection 13(21.2), 14(12), 18(15) and 40(3.4) to any property that was disposed of by the affiliate, after the dissolution or winding-up of the affiliate, the entrant bank is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the affiliate.

Regulations: 9204(2.1) (winding-up into authorized foreign bank).

(14) Winding-up of Canadian affiliate: SDOs — If a Canadian affiliate of an entrant bank and the entrant bank meet the conditions set out in paragraphs (12)(a) and (b) and jointly elect in accordance with subsection (11) to have this subsection apply, and the Canadian affiliate has not made an election under this subsection with any other entrant bank, the entrant bank is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, the Canadian affiliate for the purposes of paragraphs 142.4(4)(c) and (d) in respect of any specified debt obligation disposed of by the Canadian affiliate.

Related Provisions: 142.7(11) — Requirements for election.

Communal Organizations

143. (1) Communal [religious] organizations — Where a congregation, or one or more business agencies of the congregation, carries on one or more businesses for purposes that include supporting or sustaining the congregation's members or the members of any other congregation, the following rules apply:

(a) an inter vivos trust is deemed to be created on the day that is the later of

(i) December 31, 1976, and

(ii) the day the congregation came into existence;

(b) the trust is deemed to have been continuously in existence from the day determined under paragraph (a);

(c) the property of the congregation is deemed to be the property of the trust;

(d) the property of each business agency of the congregation in a calendar year is deemed to be property of the trust throughout the portion of the year throughout which the trust exists;

(e) where the congregation is a corporation, the corporation is deemed to be the trustee having control of the trust property;

(f) where the congregation is not a corporation, its council, committee of leaders, executive committee, administrative committee, officers or other group charged with its management are deemed to be the trustees having control of the trust property;

(g) the congregation is deemed to act and to have always acted as agent for the trust in all matters relating to its businesses and other activities;

(h) each business agency of the congregation in a calendar year is deemed to have acted as agent for the trust in all matters in the year relating to its businesses and other activities;

(i) the members of the congregation are deemed to be the beneficiaries under the trust;

(j) tax under this Part is payable by the trust on its taxable income for each taxation year;

(k) in computing the income of the trust for any taxation year,

(i) subject to paragraph (l), no deduction may be made in respect of salaries, wages or benefits of any kind provided to the members of the congregation, and

(ii) no deduction may be made under subsection 104(6), except to the extent that any portion of the trust's income (determined without reference to that subsection) is allocated to the members of the congregation in accordance with subsection (2);

(l) for the purpose of applying section 20.01 to the trust,

(i) each member of the congregation is deemed to be a member of the trust's household, and

(ii) section 20.01 shall be read without reference to paragraphs 20.01(2)(b) and (c) and subsection 20.01(3); and

(m) where the congregation or one of the business agencies is a corporation, section 15.1 shall, except for the purposes of paragraphs 15.1(2)(a) and (c) (other than subparagraphs 15.1(2)(c)(i) and (ii)), apply as if this subsection were read without reference to paragraphs (c), (d), (g) and(h).

Related Provisions: 108(1)"trust"(c) — S. 143 trust deemed not a trust for certain purposes; 127(7) — Investment tax credit of trust; 143(2) — Election in respect of income.

History: Subsec. 143(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(1) applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

143. (1) Where a congregation

(a) the members of which live and work together,

(b) that does not permit any of its members to own any property in the member's own right, and

(c) that requires that its members devote their working lives to the activities of the congregation carries on one or more businesses or has the effective management or control of one or more corporations, trusts or other persons (which corporations, trusts and other persons are in this section collectively referred to as "business agencies") that carry on one or more businesses for purposes that include supporting or sustaining its members or the members of any other congregation, an inter vivos trust shall be deemed to have been in existence on December 31, 1976 and continuously thereafter and the following rules apply:

(d) the property of the congregation and the property of all business agencies of the congregation shall be deemed to be the property of the inter vivos trust,

(e) where the congregation is a corporation, the corporation shall be deemed to be the trustee having control of the trust property,

(f) where the congregation is not a corporation, its council, committee of leaders, executive committee, administrative committee, officers or other group charged with the management of the congregation shall be deemed to be the trustees having control of the trust property,

(g) the congregation and all business agencies of the congregation shall be deemed to act and have always acted as agents for the inter vivos trust in all matters relating to their business and other activities,

(h) the members of the congregation shall be deemed to be the beneficiaries under the trust,

(i) tax under this Part is payable by the trust on its taxable income for each taxation year,

(j) in computing the income of the trust for any taxation year, no deduction may be made in respect of salaries, wages or benefits of any kind whatever, paid to the members of the congregation, and

(k) where the congregation or one of the business agencies is a corporation, section 15.1 shall, except for the purposes of paragraphs 15.1(2)(a) and (c) (other than subparagraphs 15.1(2)(c)(i) and (ii)), apply as if this subsection were read without reference to paragraphs (d) and (g).

(2) Election in respect of income — Where the inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation so elects in respect of a taxation year in writing filed with the Minister on or before the trust's filing-due date for the year and all the congregation's participating members are specified in the election in accordance with subsection (5), the following rules apply:

(a) for the purposes of subsections 104(6) and (13), the amount payable in the year to a particular participating member of the congregation out of the income of the trust (determined without reference to subsection 104(6)) is the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the taxable income of the trust for the year (determined without reference to subsection 104(6) and specified future tax consequences for the year),

B is

(i) where the particular member is identified in the election as a person to whom this subparagraph applies (in this subsection referred to as a "designated member"), 1, and

(ii) in any other case, 0.5,

C is the total of

(i) the number of designated members of the congregation, and

(ii) ½ of the number of other participating members of the congregation in respect of the year,

D is the amount, if any, that is specified in the election as an additional allocation under this subsection to the particular member,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount specified in the election as an additional allocation under this subsection to a participating member of the congregation in respect of the year, and

F is the number of participating members of the congregation in respect of the year;

(b) the designated member of each family at the end of the year is deemed to have supported the other members of the family during the year and the other members of the family are deemed to have been wholly dependent on the designated member for support during the year; and

(c) the taxable income for the year of each member of the congregation shall be computed without reference to subsection 110(2).

Related Provisions: 143(3) — Election not binding unless taxes paid; 143(5) — Specification of family members; 220(3.2), Reg. 600(b) — Late filing or revocation of election; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 143(2) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(1), applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(2) Election in respect of taxable income — Where the inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation so elects in respect of a taxation year, the amount determined under paragraph (a) for that taxation year shall be deemed to have been payable by the trust in the year to the beneficiaries thereunder in accordance with the following rules:

(a) determine the amount that would be the taxable income of the trust for the year if no deductions were made in respect of expenses incurred for the support, maintenance and satisfaction or personal needs of its members,

(b) determine the amount that is the quotient obtained when the amount so determined is divided by 1¼ times the number of adults who are members of the congregation at the end of the year,

(c) allocate to each family in the congregation at the end of the year the amount equal to the product obtained when the amount determined under paragraph (b) is multiplied by the number of adults in the family at the end of the year, and

(d) allocate among the families in the congregation at the end of the year in such manner as the congregation determines the amount by which the amount determined under paragraph (a) exceeds the total of amounts allocated under paragraph (c) or, if such an allocation is not made and specified in the election under this subsection in respect of the year, allocate to each of the families in the congregation at the end of the year the amount equal to the proportion of the excess that the number of adults in the family at that time is of the number of adults in all of the families in the congregation at that time, and the total of amounts so allocated to a family shall be deemed to be payable in the year to, and to be received in the year by, the adult member of the family who is specified in the election under this subsection in respect of the year and that member of the family shall be deemed to have supported each of the other members of the family during that taxation year and the other members of the family shall be deemed to have been wholly dependent on that member for support during that taxation year.

Information Circulars: 78-5R3: Communal organizations.

(3) Refusal to accept election — An election under subsection (2) in respect of a congregation for a particular taxation year is not binding on the Minister unless all taxes, interest and penalties payable under this Part, as a consequence of the application of subsection (2) to the congregation for preceding taxation years, are paid at or before the end of the particular year.

History: Subsec. 143(3) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(1), applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(3) Idem — An election under subsection (2) in respect of a taxation year is not binding on the Minister unless

(a) the election is made on or before the day on or before which the inter vivos trust is required by section 150 to file a return of income for the year;

(b) all tax, interest and penalties, if any, payable under this Part by adult members designated in accordance with subsection (2) have been paid within the time required by this Act; and

(c) no amounts are, by virtue of subsection 110(2), deducted in computing the taxable income for the year of the members designated in accordance with subsection (2).

(3.1) Election in respect of gifts — For the purposes of section 118.1, where the fair market value of a gift made in a taxation year by an inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation would, but for this subsection, be included in the total charitable gifts, total Crown gifts, total cultural gifts or total ecological gifts of the trust for the year and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) the trust is deemed not to have made the gift; and

(b) each participating member of the congregation is deemed to have made, in the year, such a gift the fair market value of which is the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the fair market value of the gift made by the trust,

Proposed Amendment — 143(3.1) before (b)B

(3.1) Election in respect of gifts — For the purposes of section 118.1, if the eligible amount of a gift made in a taxation year by an inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation would, but for this subsection, be included in the total charitable gifts, total Crown gifts, total cultural gifts or total ecological gifts of the trust for the year and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) the trust is deemed not to have made the gift; and

(b) each participating member of the congregation is deemed to have made, in the year, such a gift the eligible amount of which is the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the eligible amount of the gift made by the trust,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 138, will amend the portion of subsec. 143(3.1) before the description of B in para. (b) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 143(3.1) allows a communal organization that makes an election under subsection 143(2) to elect to have its total charitable, Crown, cultural and ecological gifts flowed through to those members (the "participating" members) of the congregation for whom an amount is included in income for the year under subsection 143(2).

Subsection 143(3.1) is amended consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), in respect of gifts made after December 20, 2002, to refer to the "eligible amount" of a gift made because of a person being a participating member in the communal organization.

B is the amount determined for the year in respect of the member under paragraph (2)(a) as a consequence of an election under subsection (2) by the trust, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined for the year in respect of a participating member of the congregation under paragraph (2)(a) as a consequence of an election under subsection (2) by the trust.

Related Provisions: 248(30)–(33) — Determination of eligible amount.

History: Subsec. 143(3.1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(2), the opening words applicable to 1995 et seq. and paras. (a), (b) applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(3.1) For the purposes of section 118.1, where the fair market value of a gift made in a taxation year by an inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) would, but for this subsection, be included in the total charitable gifts, total Crown gifts or total cultural gifts of the trust for the year and the trust so elects in its return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) the trust shall be deemed not to have made the gift; and

(b) each adult member of a family to whom an amount is deemed under subsection (2) to be payable in the year shall be deemed to have made, in the year, such a gift the fair market value of which is the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the fair market value of the gift made by the trust,

B is the amount deemed under subsection (2) to be payable in the year in respect of the trust to the adult member, and

C is the total of all amounts deemed under subsection (2) to be payable in the year in respect of the trust to an adult member of a family.

Subsec. 143(3.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 116(1), applicable to 1990 et seq.

Information Circulars: 78-5R3: Communal organizations.

(4) Definitions — For the purposes of this section,

"adult" means an individual who, before the time at which the term is applied, has attained the age of eighteen years or is married or in a common-law partnership;

"business agency", of a congregation at any time in a particular calendar year, means a corporation, trust or other person, where the congregation owned all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation (except directors' qualifying shares) or every interest in the trust or other person, as the case may be, throughout the portion of the particular calendar year throughout which both the congregation and the corporation, trust or other person, as the case may be, were in existence;

"congregation" means a community, society or body of individuals, whether or not incorporated,

(a) the members of which live and work together,

(b) that adheres to the practices and beliefs of, and operates according to the principles of, the religious organization of which it is a constituent part,

(c) that does not permit any of its members to own any property in their own right, and

(d) that requires its members to devote their working lives to the activities of the congregation;

"family" means,

(a) in the case of an adult who is unmarried and who is not in a common-law partnership, that person and the person's children who are not adults, not married and not in a common-law partnership, and

(b) in the case of an adult who is married or in a common-law partnership, that person and the person's spouse or common-law partner and the children of either or both of them who are not adults, not married and not in a common-law partnership

but does not include an individual who is included in any other family or who is not a member of the congregation in which the family is included;

"member of a congregation" means

(a) an adult, living with the members of the congregation, who conforms to the practices of the religious organization of which the congregation is a constituent part whether or not that person has been formally accepted into the organization, and

(b) a child who is unmarried and not in common-law partnership, other than an adult, of an adult referred to in paragraph (a), if the child lives with the members of the congregation;

"participating member", of a congregation in respect of a taxation year, means an individual who, at the end of the year, is an adult who is a member of the congregation;

"religious organization" means an organization, other than a registered charity, of which a congregation is a constituent part, that adheres to beliefs, evidenced by the religious and philosophical tenets of the organization, that include a belief in the existence of a supreme being;

"total Crown gifts" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.1(1);

"total cultural gifts" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.1(1).

"total ecological gifts" has the same meaning as in subsection 118.1(1).

History [subsec. 143(4)]: The definition "adult" in subsec. 143(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 11, to replace "married" with "married or in a common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "family" in subsec. 143(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, subsec. 134(1), applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner". The definition formerly read:

"family" means,

(a) in the case of an unmarried adult, that person and the person's unmarried children who are not adults, and

(b) in the case of a married adult, that person and the person's spouse and the unmarried children of either or both of them who are not adults

but does not include an individual who is included in any other family or who is not a member of the congregation in which the family is included;

Para. (b) of the definition "member of the congregation" in subsec. 143(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, subsec. 134(2) (as amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 263), applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner". The para. formerly read:

(b) an unmarried child, other than an adult, of an adult referred to in paragraph (a), if the child lives with the members of the congregation;

The definition "congregation" in subsec. (4) amended, and the definitions "business agency", "participating member" and "total ecological gifts" added to subsec. (4) by 2000, c. 19, subsecs. 41(3), (4), the definitions "congregation", "business agency" and "participating member" applicable to 1998 et seq. except that, for taxation years that end before 2001, the definition "business agency" shall be read as follows:

"business agency", of a congregation at any time in a particular calendar year, means

(a) a corporation, trust or other person, where the congregation owned all the shares of the capital stock of the corporation (except directors' qualifying shares) or every interest in the trust or other person, as the case may be, throughout the portion of the particular year throughout which both the congregation and the corporation, trust or other person, as the case may be, existed, or

(b) a corporation, trust or other person of which the congregation

(i) has effective management or control throughout the portion of the particular year throughout which both the congregation and the corporation, trust or other person, as the case may be, were in existence, and

(ii) had effective management or control during a taxation year of the corporation, trust or other person that began before March 1999 and ended in the particular year; and the definition "total ecological gifts", applicable to gifts made after February 27, 1995. The definition "congregation" formerly read:

"congregation" means a community, society or body of individuals, whether or not incorporated, that adheres to the practices and beliefs of, and operates according to the principles of, the religious organization of which it is a constituent part;

The definitions "total charitable gifts", "total Crown gifts" and "total cultural gifts" added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 116(2), applicable to 1990 et seq.

(5) Specification of family members — For the purpose of applying subsection (2) to a particular election by the inter vivos trust referred to in subsection (1) in respect of a congregation for a particular taxation year,

(a) subject to paragraph (b), a participating member of the congregation is considered to have been specified in the particular election in accordance with this subsection only if the member is identified in the particular election and

(i) where the member's family includes only one adult at the end of the particular year, the member is identified in the particular election as a person to whom subparagraph (i) of the description of B in subsection (2) (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant subparagraph") applies, and

(ii) in any other case, only one of the adults in the member's family is identified in the particular election as a person to whom the relevant subparagraph applies; and

(b) an individual is considered not to have been specified in the particular election in accordance with this subsection if

(i) the individual is one of two individuals who were married to each other, or in a common-law partnership, at the end of a preceding taxation year of the trust and at the end of the particular year,

(ii) one of those individuals was

(A) where the preceding year ended before 1998, specified in an election under subsection (2) by the trust for the preceding year, and

(B) in any other case, identified in an election under subsection (2) by the trust for the preceding year as a person to whom the relevant subparagraph applied, and

(iii) the other individual is identified in the particular election as a person to whom the relevant subparagraph applies.

History [subsec. 143(5)]: Subpara. 143(5)(b)(i) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 245 to add the words "or in a common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of 2000, c. 12 in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

Subsec. 143(5) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 41(5), applicable to 1998 et seq. The subsec. formerly read:

(5) Effect of specification of member of family — Where an adult member (in this subsection referred to as a "specified person") of a family is specified in an election under subsection (2) in respect of a taxation year, no other member of that family may be specified in an election in respect of any subsequent taxation year at the end of which the specified person was a member of that family.

143.1 (1) Amateur athletes' reserve funds — Where a national sport organization that is a registered Canadian amateur athletic association receives an amount for the benefit of an individual under an arrangement made under rules of an international sport federation that require amounts to be held, controlled and administered by the organization in order to preserve the eligibility of the individual to compete in a sporting event sanctioned by the federation,

(a) an inter vivos trust (in this section referred to as an "amateur athlete trust") shall be deemed to be created on the day that is the later of

(i) the day on which the first such amount is received by the organization, and

(ii) January 1, 1992,

and to exist continuously thereafter until subsection (3) or (4) applies in respect of the trust;

(b) all property required to be held after 1991 under the arrangement shall be deemed to be property of the trust and not property of any other person;

(c) any amount received at any time under the arrangement by the organization shall, to the extent that it would, but for this subsection, be included in computing the individual's income for the taxation year that includes that time, be deemed to be income of the trust for the taxation year and not to be income of the individual;

(d) all amounts paid at any time by the organization under the arrangement to or for the benefit of the individual shall be deemed to be amounts distributed at that time to the individual by the trust;

(e) the individual shall be deemed to be the beneficiary under the trust;

(f) the organization shall be deemed to be the trustee of the trust; and

(g) no tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for any taxation year.

Proposed Amendment — 143.1(1)–(1.2)

(1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"amateur athlete" at any time means an individual (other than a trust) who is, at that time,

(a) a member of a registered Canadian amateur athletic association;

(b) eligible to compete, in an international sporting event sanctioned by an international sports federation, as a Canadian national team member; and

(c) not a professional athlete.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 143.1 provides for the tax treatment of certain amounts received by or on behalf of individuals who are amateur athletes. Under the eligibility standards of certain international sport federations, in order to preserve the eligibility status of an athlete for international competition, certain types of income earned by the athlete must be deposited with and controlled and administered by the applicable national sport organization. Such national organizations are, or are eligible to be, registered Canadian amateur athletic associations for the purposes of the Act. Section 143.1 is intended to clarify the treatment of such arrangements for the organizations and the athletes.

Section 143.1 is amended by replacing subsection 143.1(1) and adding two new subsections, to extend its application to a new kind of arrangement in respect of certain types of income. The amendment applies to the 2008 and subsequent taxation years. As well, income earned in 2008 that is contributed to an arrangement of the new kind on or before March 2, 2009 may, if the athlete elects, be considered to have been contributed in 2008 for the purposes of calculating income for 2008.

New subsection 143.1(1) contains definitions that apply for the purposes of section 143.1.

The new definition "amateur athlete" generally provides that an amateur athlete is a member of a registered Canadian amateur athletic association who is eligible to compete, in an international sporting event, as a Canadian national team member. Professional athletes (defined as described below) are excluded from this definition.

"professional athlete" means an individual who receives income that is compensation for, or is otherwise attributable to, the individual's activities as a player or athlete in a professional sport.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "professional athlete" means an individual who receives compensation or other income attributable to the individual's activities as a player or athlete in a professional sport.

"qualifying performance income" of an individual means income that

(a) is received by the individual in a taxation year in which

(i) the individual was, at any time, an amateur athlete, and

(ii) the individual was not, at any time, a professional athlete;

(b) may reasonably be considered to be in connection with the individual's participation as an amateur athlete in one or more international sporting events referred to in the definition "amateur athlete"; and

(c) is endorsement income, prize money, or income from public appearances or speeches.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "qualifying performance income" applies to certain income received by an individual, in a taxation year in which the individual is at any time an amateur athlete (and in which the individual is at no time a professional athlete). The income must be endorsement income, prize money, or income from public appearances or speeches, and must be in respect of the individual's participation in international sporting events.

"third party" in respect of an arrangement described in paragraph (1.1)(b) means a person who deals at arm's length with the amateur athlete in respect of the arrangement.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The term "third party" is used in connection with the new kind of arrangement described in new paragraph 143.1(1.1)(b). A "third party" is an individual who deals at arm's length with the individual who is the subject of one of these arrangements. The third party has two areas of responsibility under the arrangement: he or she must sign for any withdrawal or other payment from the account set up under the arrangement, and she or he is treated as the trustee of the trust that the arrangement is deemed to be.

(1.1) Where subsec. (1.1) applies — Subsection (1.2) applies where, at any time,

(a) a national sport organization that is a registered Canadian amateur athletic association receives an amount for the benefit of an individual under an arrangement made under rules of an international sport federation that require amounts to be held, controlled and administered by the organization in order to preserve the eligibility of the individual to compete in a sporting event sanctioned by the federation; or

(b) an individual enters into an arrangement that

(i) is an account with an issuer described in paragraph (b) of the definition "qualifying arrangement" in subsection 146.2(1), or that would be so described if that definition applied at that time,

(ii) provides that no amount may be deposited, credited or added to the account, other than an amount that is qualifying performance income of the individual or that is interest or other income in respect of the property deposited, credited or added to the account,

(iii) provides that a third party is a mandatory signatory on any payment from the account, and

(iv) is not a registered retirement savings plan or a TFSA.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 143.1(1.1) describes the circumstances under which new subsection 143.1(1.2) will apply. Paragraph 143.1(1.1)(a) describes those arrangements to which existing subsection 143.1(1) applies. These are arrangements under which amounts earned by an individual are required to be held by a national sport organization that is a registered Canadian amateur athletic association, in accordance with the rules of an international sport federation, to preserve the individual's eligibility to compete in a sporting event sanctioned by the federation.

Paragraph 143.1(1.1)(b) describes a new kind of arrangement. In these, an individual who has qualifying performance income deposits that income to a special account with an "issuer". An issuer is a person described as an issuer in paragraph (b) of the definition of "qualifying arrangement" in subsection 146.2(1) of the Act, being generally a trust company, a licensed annuities provider, a member of the Canadian Payments Association or a credit union described in that definition.

The arrangement is subject to certain criteria:

- The athlete may not deposit, credit or add to the account any amount other than an amount that is qualifying performance income of the individual. However, the account may earn interest or other income in respect of the property held in it.
- A third party is a mandatory signatory on any payment from the account.
- The arrangement cannot be a registered retirement savings plan or a TSFA.

(1.2) Amateur athletes' reserve funds — If this subsection applies in respect of an arrangement referred to in subsection (1.1),

(a) an inter vivos trust (in this section referred to as the "amateur athlete trust") is deemed

(i) to be created on the day on which the first amount referred to in paragraph (1.1)(a) or (b) is received by the sport organization or by the issuer, as the case may be, in respect of the arrangement, and

(ii) to exist until subsection (3) or (4) applies in respect of the trust;

(b) all property held under the arrangement is deemed to be the property of the amateur athlete trust and not property of any other person;

(c) if, at any time, the sport organization or the issuer, as the case may be, receives an amount under the arrangement and the amount would, in the absence of this subsection, be included in computing the income of the individual in respect of the arrangement for the taxation year that includes that time, the amount is deemed to be income of the amateur athlete trust for that taxation year and not to be income of the individual;

(d) if, at any time, the sport organization or the issuer, as the case may be, pays or transfers an amount under the arrangement to or for the benefit of the individual, the amount is deemed to be an amount distributed at that time to the individual by the amateur athlete trust;

(e) the individual is deemed to be the beneficiary under the amateur athlete trust;

(f) the sport organization or the third party, as the case may be, in respect of the arrangement is deemed to be the trustee of the amateur athlete trust; and

(g) no tax is payable under this Part by the amateur athlete trust on its taxable income for any taxation year.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 143.1(1.2) sets out rules that apply to both kinds of arrangement described in subsection 143.1(1.1). These rules are generally the same as those in existing paragraphs 143.1(1)(a) to (g). For instance:

- the arrangement is deemed, for tax purposes, to be an inter vivos trust (referred to as an "amateur athlete trust"), created on the day the first amount is received by a sport organization or by an issuer;
- property held under the arrangement is considered to be the property of the amateur athlete trust;
- the individual is not taxed on amounts received by the sport organization (in the case of a paragraph 143.1(1.1)(a) arrangement) or the issuer (in the case of a paragraph 143.1(1.1)(b) arrangement) during the existence of the amateur athlete trust;
- the individual is deemed to be the beneficiary under the amateur athlete trust;
- the sport organization or the third party, as the case may be, is deemed to be the trustee under the trust; and
- no tax under Part I of the Act is payable by the trust.

Related Provisions: 143.1(1.1) — Conditions for 143.1(1.2) to apply.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 50, will amend subsec. 143.1(1) to read as above and add subsecs. (1.1) and (1.2), applicable to 2008 et seq. except that, if the individual in respect of an amateur athlete trust elects under this amendment in writing filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before the individual's filing-due date for the 2008 taxation year, in its application to the individual and the amateur athlete trust for the 2008 taxation year, para. 143.1(1.2)(c) is to be read as follows:

(c) if, at any time before March 3, 2009, the sport organization or the issuer, as the case may be, receives an amount under the arrangement and the amount would, in the absence of this subsection, be included in computing the income of the individual in respect of the arrangement for the 2008 taxation year, the amount is deemed to be income of the amateur athlete trust for its 2009 taxation year and not to be income of the individual;

Dept. of Finance news release 2008-113, Dec. 29, 2008: Government of Canada Rewards Sacrifice, Encourages Excellence by Broadening Amateur Athlete Trusts

The Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, today announced proposed changes to the Income Tax Act that would increase the number of Canadian amateur athletes eligible to defer income tax on income from endorsements, prizes and other remuneration related to the athlete's athletic endeavours.

"Excellence in amateur athletics, particularly at the elite levels, entails significant sacrifice by the athletes, many of whom delay careers to realize their dreams of representing Canada internationally," said Minister Flaherty. "The Government of Canada recognizes that sport continues to be a defining part of Canada's identity and is pleased to support Canada's athletes. We are proud to recognize their sacrifice, encourage their success and ease their eventual integration into the workforce by deferring tax on income from their athletic endeavours."

Under the existing income tax rules, athletes may defer paying tax on funds that are required, under the rules of the relevant international sport federation, to be held by a qualifying organization in order to preserve eligibility to compete at the amateur level. An athlete is generally taxed on those revenues only upon distribution to the athlete.

Most international sport federations no longer impose this constraint on an athlete's eligibility to compete at the amateur level. Accordingly, the availability of this tax deferral is now generally quite limited. Under today's proposal, the Income Tax Act will be amended to extend the rules so that a broader category of athletes may benefit from the tax deferral.

The new rules will generally apply to an amateur athlete who is, in a taxation year, a member of a registered Canadian amateur athletic association and eligible to compete in international sporting events. These amateur athletes will be able to place income for the year from endorsements, prizes and other remuneration related to such athletic endeavours in a qualifying account. Income earned in the account will be tax-deferred in the same manner as income contributed to the account by the athlete. The new measure will apply in respect of revenues received in 2008 and subsequent taxation years. These revenues will be taxed generally only upon the earlier date of distribution to the athlete or, as with the existing rules, eight years after the last year in which the athlete was eligible to compete as a Canadian national team member. Eligible income earned in 2008 that is contributed to a qualifying account on or before March 2, 2009 will be considered to have been contributed in 2008 for the purposes of calculating the athlete's income for 2008.

The Government intends to introduce legislation in respect of this tax deferral at an early opportunity.

Draft legislative proposals to implement this proposal, together with explanatory notes, are attached.

CRA news release, Jan. 14, 2009: Questions and Answers for Amateur Athletic Trust

1. How are amateur athletes currently taxed? Under the existing income tax rules, amateur athletes can defer paying tax on funds that are required, under the rules of the relevant international sport federation, to be held by a qualifying organization to preserve the athlete's eligibility to compete at the amateur level. An athlete is generally taxed on those revenues only when they are distributed to the athlete.

2. What changes were announced by the Department of Finance? Under the Department of Finance proposal, the Income Tax Act will be amended to extend the rules so that a broader category of amateur athletes may benefit from the tax deferral. The new rules will apply to an amateur athlete who is, in a taxation year, a member of a registered Canadian amateur athletic association and eligible to compete in international sporting events as a Canadian national team member.

3. When will this proposed measure apply? This proposed measure will apply to qualifying revenues received in 2008 and subsequent taxation years. As with the existing rules, these revenues will generally be taxed on the earlier of the following two dates:

1) the date the funds are distributed to the athlete;

2) eight years after the creation of the trust or the last year in which the athlete was eligible to compete as a Canadian national team member in an international sporting event, whichever comes first.

Eligible income earned in 2008 that is contributed to a qualifying arrangement before March 3, 2009, will be deemed to be income of the amateur athlete trust for 2009 and not the athlete's income for 2008 provided the athlete elects to do so by the filing due date of the athlete's 2008 tax return (generally April 30, 2009).

4. What are qualifying revenues? Qualifying revenues include income for the year from endorsements, prizes, and other remuneration related to the individual's athletic endeavors and must be in respect of the individual's participation in international sporting events.

5. What is a qualifying arrangement? A qualifying arrangement is an account

(a) with an institution that is eligible to issue Tax Free Savings Accounts (TFSA) — generally financial institutions, credit unions and insurance companies;

(b) that provides that only qualifying revenues can be deposited in the account;

(c) that provides that a third party is a mandatory signatory on any payment from the account; and

(d) that is not an RRSP or TFSA.

6. I am a qualifying athlete. How can I elect to have my 2008 eligible income that I contributed to a qualifying account before March 3, 2009, considered income in my amateur athlete trust in 2009 and not included in my taxable income for 2008? You can elect by including with your 2008 tax return a signed letter stating that you want to elect to take advantage of this tax measure and including your name, Social Insurance Number, and the amount of the 2008 eligible income that has been contributed to an eligible account. Do not include the eligible amount on your 2008 tax return.

7. My international sports federation currently requires that the funds I earn as an athlete be held by a qualifying organization to preserve my eligibility to compete at the amateur level. How will this legislation affect me? The proposals will not affect amateur athletes whose international sports federation requires the funds to be held by a qualifying organization to preserve their eligibility to compete at the amateur level.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Previously Announced Measures

Budget 2009 confirms the Government's intention to proceed with the following previously-announced tax measures, as modified to take into account consultations and deliberations since their release: . . .

Cost of Tax Shelter Investments

Proposed Amendment — Heading before 143.2

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 139(1), will amend the heading before s. 143.2 to read "Cost of Tax Shelter Investments and Limited-recourse Debt in Respect of Gifting Arrangements", applicable in respect of expenditures, gifts and monetary contributions made after February 18, 2003.

143.2 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"expenditure" means an outlay or expense or the cost or capital cost of a property.

Related Provisions: 143.2(2) — At-risk adjustment in respect of expenditures; 143.2(6) — Expenditures reduced by at-risk adjustment.

"limited partner" has the meaning that would be assigned by subsection 96(2.4) if that subsection were read without reference to "if the member's partnership interest is not an exempt interest (within the meaning assigned by subsection (2.5)) at that time and".

"limited-recourse amount" means the unpaid principal amount of any indebtedness for which recourse is limited, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently.

Related Provisions: 143.2(7), (8), (13) — Whether unpaid principal deemed to be limited-recourse amount; 248(1) — Definition of "principal amount"; 248(1)"limited-recourse amount" — Definition applies to entire Act; Reg. 231(6.1) — Limited-recourse amount may be prescribed benefit for purposes of definition of tax shelter.

"taxpayer" includes a partnership.

"tax shelter investment" means

(a) a property that is a tax shelter for the purpose of subsection 237.1(1); or

(b) a taxpayer's interest in a partnership where

(i) an interest in the taxpayer

(A) is a tax shelter investment, and

(B) the taxpayer's partnership interest would be a tax shelter investment if

(I) this Act were read without reference to this paragraph and to the words "having regard to statements or representations made or proposed to be made in connection with the property" in the definition "tax shelter" in subsection 237.1(1),

(II) the references in that definition to "represented" were read as references to "that can reasonably be expected", and

(III) the reference in that definition to "is represented" were read as a reference to "can reasonably be expected",

(ii) another interest in the partnership is a tax shelter investment, or

(iii) the taxpayer's interest in the partnership entitles the taxpayer, directly or indirectly, to a share of the income or loss of a particular partnership where

(A) another taxpayer holding a partnership interest is entitled, directly or indirectly, to a share of the income or loss of the particular partnership, and

(B) that other taxpayer's partnership interest is a tax shelter investment.

Related Provisions: 18.1(13) — Matchable expenditure deemed to be a tax shelter investment; 53(2)(c)(i.3) — Tax shelter investment excluded from certain ACB reductions; 125.4(4) — No Canadian film credit for a tax shelter investment; 143.2(6) — Limitation on cost of tax shelter investment; 150(1)(d)(ii)(A) — Tax shelter investment does not entitle individual to June 15 filing deadline; 249.1(5) — Election for non-calendar year-end not permitted for tax shelters; Reg. 1100(20.1), (20.2) — Limitation on CCA claim for computer tax shelter property.

I.T. Technical News: 22 (tax shelter news release — rulings position).

(2) At-risk adjustment — For the purpose of this section, an at-risk adjustment in respect of an expenditure of a particular taxpayer, other than the cost of a partnership interest to which subsection 96(2.2) applies, means any amount or benefit that the particular taxpayer, or another taxpayer not dealing at arm's length with the particular taxpayer, is entitled, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently, to receive or to obtain, whether by way of reimbursement, compensation, revenue guarantee, proceeds of disposition, loan or any other form of indebtedness, or in any other form or manner whatever, granted or to be granted for the purpose of reducing the impact, in whole or in part, of any loss that the particular taxpayer may sustain in respect of the expenditure or, where the expenditure is the cost or capital cost of a property, any loss from the holding or disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 96(2.2) — At-risk amount for limited partnership; 143.2(3) — Exclusions from at-risk adjustment; 143.2(4) — Determination of amount or benefit; 143.2(6) — Expenditures reduced by at-risk adjustment; 143.2(9) — Timing.

(3) Amount or benefit not included — For the purpose of subsection (2), an at-risk adjustment in respect of a taxpayer's expenditure does not include an amount or benefit

(a) to the extent that it is included in determining the value of J in the definition "cumulative Canadian exploration expense" in subsection 66.1(6), of M in the definition "cumulative Canadian development expense" in subsection 66.2(5) or of I in the definition "cumulative Canadian oil and gas property expense" in subsection 66.4(5) in respect of the taxpayer; or

(b) the entitlement to which arises

(i) because of a contract of insurance with an insurance corporation dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer (and, where the expenditure is the cost of an interest in a partnership, with each member of the partnership) under which the taxpayer is insured against any claim arising as a result of a liability incurred in the ordinary course of carrying on the business of the taxpayer or the partnership,

(ii) as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer,

(iii) in respect of an amount not included in the expenditure, determined without reference to subparagraph (6)(b)(ii), or

(iv) because of an excluded obligation (as defined in subsection 6202.1(5) of the Income Tax Regulations) in relation to a share issued to the taxpayer or, where the expenditure is the cost of an interest in a partnership, to the partnership.

(4) Amount or benefit — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), where the amount or benefit to which a taxpayer is entitled at any time is provided by way of an agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer has a right, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently (otherwise than as a consequence of the death of the taxpayer), to acquire property, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is entitled under the agreement or arrangement is considered to be not less than the fair market value of the property at that time.

(5) Amount or benefit — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), where the amount or benefit to which a taxpayer is entitled at any time is provided by way of a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of any loan or other obligation of the taxpayer, for greater certainty the amount or benefit to which the taxpayer is entitled under the guarantee or indemnity at any particular time is considered to be not less than the total of the unpaid amount of the loan or obligation at that time and all other amounts outstanding in respect of the loan or obligation at that time.

(6) Amount of expenditure — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the amount of any expenditure that is, or is the cost or capital cost of, a taxpayer's tax shelter investment, and the amount of any expenditure of a taxpayer an interest in which is a tax shelter investment, shall be reduced to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount of the taxpayer's expenditure otherwise determined

exceeds

(b) the total of

(i) the limited-recourse amounts of

(A) the taxpayer, and

(B) all other taxpayers not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer that can reasonably be considered to relate to the expenditure,

(ii) the taxpayer's at-risk adjustment in respect of the expenditure, and

(iii) each limited-recourse amount and at-risk adjustment, determined under this section when this section is applied to each other taxpayer who deals at arm's length with and holds, directly or indirectly, an interest in the taxpayer, that can reasonably be considered to relate to the expenditure.

Related Provisions: 18.1(13) — Subpara. (6)(b)(ii) inapplicable for matchable expenditures; Reg. 1100(20.1), (20.2) — Limitation on CCA claim for computer tax shelter property.

Selected Cases [subsec. 143.2(6)]: Tolhoek v. R., [2008] 3 C.T.C. 403 (FCA) (Assumed indebtedness constituted limited recourse amount and reduced ACB).

Proposed Addition — 143.2(6.1)

(6.1) Limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift or monetary contribution — The limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift or monetary contribution of a taxpayer, at the time the gift or monetary contribution is made, is the total of

(a) each limited-recourse amount at that time, of the taxpayer and of all other taxpayers not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer, that can reasonably be considered to relate to the gift or monetary contribution,

(b) each limited-recourse amount at that time, determined under this section when this section is applied to each other taxpayer who deals at arm's length with and holds, directly or indirectly, an interest in the taxpayer, that can reasonably be considered to relate to the gift or monetary contribution, and

(c) each amount that is the unpaid amount at that time of any other indebtedness, of any taxpayer referred to in paragraph (a) or (b), that can reasonably be considered to relate to the gift or monetary contribution if there is a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of that or any other indebtedness.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 139(2), will add subsec. 143.2(6.1), applicable in respect of expenditures, gifts and monetary contributions made after February 18, 2003.

Technical Notes: New subsection 143.2(6.1) describes limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift or monetary contribution made after February 18, 2003. Such an amount is an advantage under subsection 248(32), such that it reduces the eligible amount of a gift or political contribution determined under subsection 248(31). For additional details regarding the amount of an advantage, see the commentary to new subsection 248(32).

A limited-recourse debt includes the unpaid principal of any indebtedness for which recourse is limited, even if that limitation applies only in the future or contingently. It also includes any other indebtedness of the taxpayer, related to the gift or contribution, if there is a guarantee, security or similar indemnity or covenant in respect of that or any other indebtedness. For example, if a donor (or any other person mentioned below) enters into a contract of insurance whereby all or part of a debt will be paid upon the occurrence of either a certain or contingent event, the debt is a limited-recourse debt in respect of a gift if it is in any way related to the gift.

Such an indebtedness is also a limited-recourse debt if it is owed by a person dealing non-arm's length with the taxpayer or by a person who holds an interest in the taxpayer.

Dept. of Finance news release 2003-061, Dec. 5, 2003: These measures implement proposals introduced in Budget 2003 that address charitable donation arrangements that were promoted in recent years involving the use of limited-recourse debt. [See under 248(35)–(41) for full text of news release — ed.]

Notice of Ways and Means Motion, federal budget, Feb. 18, 2003: (17) That, after February 18, 2003, . . .

(c) in respect of gifts and contributions, and representations, made after that date, an arrangement in respect of the making of a gift referred to in section 110.1 or 118.1 of the Act or a contribution referred to in subsection 127(4.1) of the Act be deemed to be a tax shelter if it may reasonably be considered that, having regard to representations made concerning the arrangement, a person will incur an indebtedness in respect of which recourse is limited; and

(d) for gifts and contributions made after that date pursuant to an arrangement described in subparagraph (c), the amount of the gift or contribution be reduced by the amount of any associated indebtedness in respect of which recourse is limited, and the value of any repayment of the limited recourse debt be treated as a gift or contribution in the year the repayment is made.

Federal budget, Supplementary Information, Feb. 18, 2003: Tax Shelter Definition

Generally, a tax shelter is any property in respect of which it is represented that a potential purchaser will be able to claim, within four years, deductions from income or taxable income which equal or exceed the net cost of the property to the purchaser (that is, net of certain prescribed benefits such as limited-recourse debt).

Promoters of tax shelter properties are not permitted to sell a tax shelter without first obtaining an identification number from the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA). This identification number does not constitute confirmation by the CCRA of entitlement to any tax benefits that may have been described to potential purchasers; rather, the CCRA uses the number for administrative purposes such as identifying tax shelters for audit.

If an identification number is not obtained in advance, no person may claim any deduction in respect of the tax shelter until the number is obtained.

While the existing definition of "tax shelter" in the Income Tax Act applies to arrangements promoted as providing deductions in computing income or taxable income, it may not currently apply to those that are promoted as providing only the deduction of tax credits. The budget proposes to eliminate this technical distinction so that promoters will be required to register a property as a tax shelter if representations are made that a potential purchaser will be able to claim, within four years, any combination of deductions in computing income or taxable income and federal tax credits which in total equal or exceed the purchaser's net cost of the property. The definition of tax shelter will also be amended to clarify its application to property acquired under an arrangement in respect of which it is represented that a donation or contribution of the property would generate tax credits or deductions (such as charitable donations tax credits or deductions) equal to or exceeding the net cost to the donor of the property.

In order to avoid a double counting of tax credits in the formula used to determine if a property or an arrangement is a tax shelter, it is proposed that the definition of "prescribed benefits" in paragraph 231(6)(b) of the Income Tax Regulations be amended to exclude any federal tax credit already taken into account in determining whether tax credits and deductions exceed net cost. Provincial tax credits would continue to be considered prescribed benefits.

Further, the budget proposes to treat as a tax shelter any arrangement that involves a transfer of property in respect of which it is represented that a donation or contribution of the property would generate tax credits or deductions, if it may reasonably be considered that a person will incur limited-recourse debt in connection with the arrangement. If the transfer otherwise qualifies for a tax credit or deduction, the amount of the donation or contribution will be reduced for the purposes of calculating the amount of the credit or deduction to the extent of the associated limited-recourse debt. A repayment of the limited-recourse debt will be treated as a donation or contribution in the year it is repaid.

These amendments will generally apply in respect of property acquired, and gifts, contributions and representations made, after February 18, 2003.

Related Provisions: 237.1(1)"gifting arrangement"(b) — Incurring limited-recourse debt may require tax shelter registration; 248(32)(b) — Limited-recourse debt reduces value of donation; 248(34) — Repayment of limited-recourse debt.

(7) Repayment of indebtedness — For the purpose of this section, the unpaid principal of an indebtedness is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount unless

(a) bona fide arrangements, evidenced in writing, were made, at the time the indebtedness arose, for repayment by the debtor of the indebtedness and all interest on the indebtedness within a reasonable period not exceeding 10 years; and

(b) interest is payable at least annually, at a rate equal to or greater than the lesser of

(i) the prescribed rate of interest in effect at the time the indebtedness arose, and

(ii) the prescribed rate of interest applicable from time to time during the term of the indebtedness, and is paid in respect of the indebtedness by the debtor no later than 60 days after the end of each taxation year of the debtor that ends in the period.

Related Provisions: 143.2(12) — Series of loans or repayments; Reg. 4301(c) (prescribed rate of interest).

(8) Limited-recourse amount — For the purpose of this section, the unpaid principal of an indebtedness is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount of a taxpayer where the taxpayer is a partnership and recourse against any member of the partnership in respect of the indebtedness is limited, either immediately or in the future and either absolutely or contingently.

(9) Timing — Where at any time a taxpayer has paid an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "repaid amount") on account of the principal amount of an indebtedness that was, before that time, the unpaid principal amount of a loan or any other form of indebtedness to which subsection (2) applies (in this subsection referred to as the "former amount or benefit") relating to an expenditure of the taxpayer,

(a) the former amount or benefit is considered to have been an amount or benefit under subsection (2) in respect of the taxpayer at all times before that time; and

(b) the expenditure is, subject to subsection (6), deemed to have been made or incurred at that time to the extent of, and by the payment of, the repaid amount.

(10) Timing — Where at any time a taxpayer has paid an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "repaid amount") on account of the principal amount of an indebtedness which was, before that time, an unpaid principal amount that was a limited-recourse amount (in this subsection referred to as the "former limited-recourse indebtedness") relating to an expenditure of the taxpayer,

(a) the former limited-recourse indebtedness is considered to have been a limited-recourse amount at all times before that time; and

(b) the expenditure is, subject to subsection (6), deemed to have been made or incurred at that time to the extent of, and by the amount of, the repaid amount.

Related Provisions: 231.6 — Foreign-based information.

(11) Short-term debt — Where a taxpayer pays all of the principal of an indebtedness no later than 60 days after that indebtedness arose and the indebtedness would otherwise be considered to be a limited-recourse amount solely because of the application of subsection (7) or (8), that subsection does not apply to the indebtedness unless

(a) any portion of the repayment is made with a limited-recourse amount; or

(b) the repayment can reasonably be considered to be part of a series of loans or other indebtedness and repayments that ends more than 60 days after the indebtedness arose.

Related Provisions: 231.6 — Foreign-based information; 251(1) — Arm's length.

(12) Series of loans or repayments — For the purpose of paragraph (7)(a), a debtor is considered not to have made arrangements to repay an indebtedness within 10 years where the debtor's arrangement to repay can reasonably be considered to be part of a series of loans or other indebtedness and repayments that ends more than 10 years after it begins.

Related Provisions: 248(10) — Series of transactions or events.

(13) Information located outside Canada — For the purpose of this section, where it can reasonably be considered that information relating to indebtedness that relates to a taxpayer's expenditure is available outside Canada and the Minister is not satisfied that the unpaid principal of the indebtedness is not a limited-recourse amount, the unpaid principal of the indebtedness relating to the taxpayer's expenditure is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount relating to the expenditure unless

(13) Information located outside Canada — For the purpose of this section, if can reasonably be considered that information relating to indebtedness that relates to a taxpayer's expenditure, gift or monetary contribution is available outside Canada and the Minister is not satisfied that the unpaid principal of the indebtedness is not a limited-recourse amount, the unpaid principal of the indebtedness relating to the taxpayer's expenditure, gift or monetary contribution is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount relating to the expenditure, gift or monetary contribution unless

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 139(3), will amend the opening words of subsec. 143.2(13) to read as above, applicable in respect of expenditures, gifts and monetary contributions made after February 18, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 143.2(13) applies where information related to an indebtedness in respect of an expenditure is located outside Canada, and the Minister of National Revenue is not satisfied that the indebtedness is not a limited-recourse amount. In such a case, the indebtedness is deemed to be a limited-recourse amount in respect of the expenditure. Subsection 143.2(13) is extended to also apply in respect of an indebtedness that relates to a gift or political contribution made after February 18, 2003.

(a) the information is provided to the Minister; or

(b) the information is located in a country with which the Government of Canada has entered into a tax convention or agreement that has the force of law in Canada and includes a provision under which the Minister can obtain the information.

(14) Information located outside Canada — For the purpose of this section, where it can reasonably be considered that information relating to whether a taxpayer is not dealing at arm's length with another taxpayer is available outside Canada and the Minister is not satisfied that the taxpayer is dealing at arm's length with the other taxpayer, the taxpayer and the other taxpayer are deemed not to be dealing with each other at arm's length unless

(a) the information is provided to the Minister; or

(b) the information is located in a country with which the Government of Canada has entered into a tax convention or agreement that has the force of law in Canada and includes a provision under which the Minister can obtain the information.

(15) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments, determinations and redeterminations may be made as are necessary to give effect to this section.

Related Provisions: 237.1(6.2) — Late assessment to deny deduction when penalty unpaid.

History [s. 143.2]: S. 143.2 added by 1998, c. 19, s. 168, applicable to property acquired and to outlays and expenses made or incurred by a taxpayer after November 1994, except that

(a) it does not apply where

(i) the property was acquired, or the outlay or expense was made or incurred, before 1995 pursuant to an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before December 1994, or

(ii) the property is

(A) a film production prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) where

(I) the principal photography of the production began before 1995, or, in the case of a production that is a television series, one episode of the series began before 1995, and

(II) the principal photography of the production was completed before March 2, 1995, or

(B) an interest in a partnership (all or substantially all of the property of which is a film production referred to in clause (A)) acquired before 1995 by a taxpayer that is a partnership and the following conditions are met:

(iii) in the case of an interest that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number to be obtained, an identification number was obtained before December 1994, and

(iv) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations with respect to the interest can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act;

(b) it does not apply to revenue guarantees prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) that were granted before 1996;

(c) subpara. 143.2(6)(b)(ii) does not apply

(i) to property acquired, or outlays or expenses made or incurred, by a taxpayer before April 27, 1995, or

(ii) to property acquired, or outlays or expenses made or incurred, by a taxpayer before 1996 pursuant to a particular agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995 where the following conditions are met:

(A) in the case of a property that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number, an identification number was obtained before April 27, 1995, and

(B) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations under the particular agreement can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act;

(d) para. 143.2(7)(a) shall be read without reference to "not exceeding 10 years" where

(i) the indebtedness arises

(A) pursuant to the terms of an agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995,

(B) before 1996, in respect of the acquisition of a film production prescribed for the purpose of subpara. 96(2.2)(d)(ii) or an interest in a partnership all or substantially all of the property of which is either a film production prescribed for the purpose of that subparagraph or an interest in one or more partnerships all or substantially all of the property of each of which is such a film production, where

(I) the principal photography of the production began before 1996, or, in the case of a production that is a television series, the principal photography of one episode of the series began before 1996, and

(II) the principal photography of the production was completed before March 1996, or

(C) before July 1995

(I) pursuant to the terms of a document that is a prospectus, preliminary prospectus or registration statement filed before April 27, 1995 with a public authority in Canada pursuant to and in accordance with the securities legislation of Canada or of any province and, where required by law, accepted for filing by the public authority, and the funds so raised were expended before 1996 on expenditures contemplated by the document, or

(II) pursuant to the terms of an offering memorandum distributed as part of an offering of securities where

1. the memorandum contained a complete or substantially complete description of the securities contemplated in the offering as well as the terms and conditions of the offering,

2. the memorandum was distributed before April 27, 1995,

3. solicitations in respect of the sale of the securities contemplated by the memorandum were made before April 27, 1995,

4. the sale of the securities was substantially in accordance with the memorandum, and

5. the funds were expended before 1996 in accordance with the memorandum, and

(ii) the following conditions are met:

(A) in the case of an interest to which clause (i)(A) or (C) applies that is a tax shelter for which s. 237.1 requires an identification number to be obtained, an identification number was obtained before April 27, 1995, and

(B) there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations with respect to the interest can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act; and

(e) subsec. 143.2(8) does not apply to a taxpayer in respect of an indebtedness

(i) where the indebtedness

(A) arose, and

(B) is related to property acquired, or outlays or expenses made or incurred, by the taxpayer

before April 27, 1995, nor

(ii) where the indebtedness

(A) arose, and

before 1996 pursuant to a particular agreement in writing made by the taxpayer before April 27, 1995 and there is no agreement or other arrangement under which the taxpayer's obligations under the particular agreement can be changed, reduced or waived if there is a change to the Act or if there is an adverse assessment under the Act.

Proposed Addition — 143.3

Expenditures — Limitations

143.3 [Issuing shares or options is not an expenditure] — (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this section.

"expenditure" of a taxpayer means an expense, expenditure or outlay made or incurred by the taxpayer, or a cost or capital cost of property acquired by the taxpayer.

"option" means an option, warrant or similar right, issued or granted by a taxpayer, giving the holder the right to acquire an interest in the taxpayer or in another taxpayer with whom the taxpayer does not, at the time the option, warrant or similar right is issued or granted, deal at arm's length.

Technical Notes: New section 143.3 reduces, if applicable, the amount of a taxpayer's expenditure by certain amounts for the purposes of computing the taxpayer's income, taxable income and tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable.

New subsection 143.3(1) provides definitions that apply for the purposes of section 143.3. Those definitions are:

"Expenditure" of a taxpayer, which means an expense, expenditure or outlay made or incurred by the taxpayer, or that is a cost or capital cost of property acquired by the taxpayer.

"Option", which means an option, warrant or similar right, issued or granted by the taxpayer, giving the holder the right to acquire an interest in the taxpayer or in another taxpayer with which the taxpayer does not, at the time the option, warrant or similar right is issued or granted, deal at arm's length.

"Taxpayer", which is defined to include a partnership.

(2) Options — limitation — In computing a taxpayer's income, taxable income or tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable, an expenditure of the taxpayer is deemed not to include any portion of the expenditure that would — if this Act were read without reference to this subsection — be included in determining the expenditure because of the taxpayer having granted or issued an option on or after November 17, 2005.

Technical Notes: New subsection 143.3(2) provides that, in computing a taxpayer's income, taxable income or tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable, an expenditure of the taxpayer is deemed not to include any portion of the expenditure that would — if the Act were read without reference to subsection 143.3(2) — be included in determining the expenditure because of the taxpayer having granted or issued an option on or after November 17, 2005 [thus overruling Alcatel, [2005] 2 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) — ed.]. In essence, the value of an option granted by a taxpayer is not considered to be an expenditure for income tax purposes.

Related Provisions: 143.3(5) — Exceptions.

(3) Corporate shares — limitation — In computing a corporation's income, taxable income or tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable, an expenditure of the corporation that would — if this Act were read without reference to this subsection — include an amount because of the corporation having issued a share of its capital stock at any particular time on or after November 17, 2005 is reduced by

(a) if the issuance of the share is not a consequence of the exercise of an option, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the share at the particular time exceeds

(i) if the transaction under which the share is issued is a transaction to which section 85, 85.1 or 138 applies, the amount determined under that section to be the cost to the issuing corporation of the property acquired in consideration for issuing the share, or

(ii) in any other case, the amount of the consideration that is the fair market value of the property transferred to, or the services provided to, the issuing corporation for issuing the share; and

(b) if the issuance of the share is a consequence of the exercise of an option, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the share at the particular time exceeds the amount paid, pursuant to the terms of the option, by the holder to the issuing taxpayer for issuing the share.

Technical Notes: New subsection 143.3(3) provides for two reductions that apply to an expenditure that would — if the Act were read without reference to subsection 143.3(3) — include an amount because of a corporation (or another corporation not dealing at arm's length with the corporation) having issued a share of its capital stock at any particular time on or after November 17, 2005. The reductions apply to the corporation in computing its income, taxable income or tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable.

New paragraph 143.3(3)(a) applies on the issuance of the share (other than on the exercise of an option). Generally, the corporation is to reduce the related expenditure by the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the share

exceeds

(ii) if the transaction under which the share is issued is a transaction to which section 85, 85.1 or 138 applies, the amount determined under that section to be the cost to the corporation of the property acquired in consideration for the issuance of the share, or

(iii) in any other case, the amount of consideration that is the fair market value of the property transferred to, or the services provided to, the issuing corporation for issuing the share.

In addition, under new paragraph 143.3(3)(b), if the issuance of the share is a consequence of the exercise of an option, generally the corporation is to reduce the related expenditure by the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the share

exceeds

(ii) that portion of the amount paid, pursuant to the terms of the option, by the holder to the issuing corporation for issuing the share.

Example

Facts

In its 2006 taxation year, Corporation X grants an option to Y in return for $1,000 worth of paintings by a little-known Canadian artist. Corporation X does not give cash or any other consideration for the paintings. The option gives Y the right to acquire one share of Corporation X for $10,000 in 2007. (At the time the option is granted one share of Corporation X has a fair market value of $10,000.)

In 2007, Y exercises the option and pays Corporation X $10,000 cash for the share. The share has a fair market value of $15,000 at the time of issue.

Corporation X files its 2007 income tax return on the basis that the cost of the paintings is $5,000, representing the difference between the fair market value of the share when it was issued and the cash paid by Y for the share.

Application of section 143.3

1. On granting the option:

- New subsection 143.3(2) applies to clarify that there is no expenditure by Corporation X resulting from it issuing the option.

2. On the exercise of the option:

When issuing the share on the exercise of the option, new paragraph 143.3(3)(b) ensures that an expenditure, if any, of Corporation X is reduced by $5,000 — being the amount by which

$15,000 (the fair market value of the share — see subparagraph (b)(i))

$10,000 (the amount paid for the share — see subparagraph (b)(ii).

However, and as noted in the explanatory note accompanying new subsection 143.3(5), the reductions provided for under subsections 143.3(3) and (4) do not apply to reduce an expenditure if the expenditure itself does not include an amount determined to be excesses described in those subsections.

Related Provisions: 52(3)(a) — Cost of share received as stock dividend excludes amount deductible under 112(1); 143.3(5) — Exceptions.

(4) Non-corporate interests — limitation — In computing a taxpayer's (other than a corporation's) income, taxable income or tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable, an expenditure of the taxpayer that would — if this Act were read without reference to this subsection — include an amount because of the taxpayer having issued an interest, or because of an interest being created, in itself at any particular time on or after November 17, 2005 is reduced by

(a) if the issuance or creation of the interest is not a consequence of the exercise of an option, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the interest at the particular time exceeds

(i) if the transaction under which the interest is issued is a transaction to which paragraph 70(6)(b) or 73(1.01)(c), subsection 97(2) or section 107.4 or 132.2 applies, the amount determined under that provision to be the cost to the taxpayer of the property acquired for the interest, or

(ii) in any other case, the amount of the consideration that is the fair market value of the property transferred to, or the services provided to, the taxpayer for the interest; and

(b) if the issuance or creation of the interest is a consequence of the exercise of an option, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the interest at the particular time exceeds the amount paid, pursuant to the terms of the option, by the holder to the taxpayer for the interest.

Technical Notes: New subsection 143.3(4) provides for two reductions that apply to a non-corporate taxpayer's expenditure that would — if the Act were read without reference to subsection 143.3(4) — include an amount because the taxpayer (or another taxpayer not dealing at arm's length with the taxpayer) issues or creates an interest in itself at any particular time on or after November 17, 2005. The reductions apply to the taxpayer in computing its income, taxable income or tax payable or an amount considered to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable.

In general terms, under new paragraph 143.3(4)(a), if the issuance or creation of the interest in a taxpayer is not a consequence of the exercise of an option, the taxpayer is to reduce the expenditure by the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the interest

exceeds

(ii) if the transaction under which the interest is issued or created is a transaction to which paragraph 70(6)(b), subsection 97(2), paragraph 73(1.01)(c), subsection 73(1.02), section 107.4 or 132.2 applies, the amount determined under that provision to be the cost to the taxpayer of the property acquired for the interest, or

(iii) in any other case, the amount of the consideration that is the fair market value of the property transferred to, or the services provided to, the taxpayer for the interest.

In addition, under new paragraph 143.3(4)(b), if the issuance or creation of the interest is a consequence of the exercise of an option, the taxpayer is to reduce the expenditure by the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the interest

exceeds

(ii) the amount paid, pursuant to the terms of the option, by the holder to the taxpayer for the interest.

However, and as noted in the explanatory note accompanying new subsection 143.3(5), the reductions provided for under subsections 143.3(3) and (4) do not apply to reduce an expenditure if the expenditure itself does not include an amount determined to be excesses described in those subsections.

Related Provisions: 143.3(5) — Exceptions.

(5) Clarification — For greater certainty,

(a) subsection (2) does not apply to reduce an expenditure that is a commission, fee or other amount for services rendered by a person as a salesperson, agent or dealer in securities in the course of the issuance of an option;

(b) subsections (3) and (4) do not apply to reduce an expenditure of a taxpayer to the extent that the expenditure does not include an amount determined to be an excess under those subsections;

(c) this section does not apply to determine the cost or capital cost of property determined under subsection 70(6), section 73, 85 or 85.1, subsection 97(2) or section 107.4, 132.2 or 138; and

(d) this section does not apply to determine the amount of a taxpayer's expenditure if the amount of the expenditure as determined under section 69 is less than the amount that would, if this subsection were read without reference to this paragraph, be the amount of the expenditure as determined under this section.

Technical Notes: New subsection 143.3(5) provides four rules for greater certainty.

First, paragraph 143.3(5)(a) clarifies that subsection 143.3(2) does not reduce an expenditure that is a commission, fee or other amount for services rendered by a person as a salesperson, agent or dealer in securities in the course of the issuance of the option.

Second, paragraph 143.3(5)(b) clarifies that subsections 143.3(3) and (4) do not apply to reduce an expenditure to the extent that the expenditure does not include an amount determined to be an excess under those subsections. For example, if a corporation were to issue shares of its capital stock having a fair market value of $100 in consideration for having acquired property or services having a fair market value of $40, no excess exists under paragraph 143.3(3)(a) if the expenditure of the corporation for the property or services claimed by the corporation without reference to section 143.3 is, for income tax purposes, $40. To the extent the corporation seeks to claim an expenditure in excess of that $40, paragraph 143.3(3)(a) would reduce that excess to nil. Paragraph 143.3(5)(b) recognizes that the jurisprudence that would treat an expenditure of the type reduced by subsections 143.3(3) and (4) currently applies only to scientific research and experimental development (SR&ED) tax credits, and is limited to a single decision of the Tax Court of Canada [Alcatel, [2005] 2 C.T.C. 2001 — ed.]. It may very well transpire that future jurisprudence may constrain or eliminate any such expenditure that may be considered to arise in these circumstances.

Third, paragraph 143.3(5)(c) clarifies that section 143.3 does not determined the cost or capital cost of property determined under certain tax-deferral rules. For example, if section 85 deems a transferee corporation that acquires non-depreciable capital property to do so at a cost of $100 in circumstances where the corporation issued a share of its capital stock having a fair market value of $200, this section does not decrease or increase the $100 cost for the property to the corporation, as determined under section 85.

Fourth, paragraph 143.3(5)(d) clarifies that section 143.3 does not determine the amount of a taxpayer's expenditure if the amount of the expenditure as determined under section 69 is less than an amount determined under section 143.3.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007, requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 140, will add s. 143.3, applicable after November 16, 2005.

Dept. of Finance news release 2005-080, Nov. 17, 2005: Minister of Finance Proposes Amendments Concerning the Income Tax Treatment of Certain Expenditures

Minister of Finance Ralph Goodale today acted to protect the income tax base by ensuring that tax credits and deductions claimed by corporations are appropriate. Specifically, he tabled a Notice of Ways and Means Motion proposing amendments to the Income Tax Act to clarify that the amount of an expenditure allowable to a taxpayer, and upon which a tax credit or deduction may be claimed, is limited to the amount actually disbursed by the taxpayer.

The proposed amendments respond to a recent Tax Court of Canada decision [Alcatel, [2005] 2 C.T.C. 2001 — ed.] involving shares issued under an employee stock option plan. The amount paid by the employees was less than the value of the shares at the time they were issued, and the Court allowed the corporation to treat the difference as a scientific research and experimental development (SR&ED) expenditure qualifying for SR&ED tax credits.

The proposed amendments are designed to ensure that, for income tax purposes, no expenditure will be considered to have been made by a taxpayer except to the extent of an actual outlay or expense incurred by the taxpayer.

A related proposal [220(2.2) — ed.] is meant to ensure that a taxpayer cannot deduct SR&ED expenditures, nor be eligible for investment tax credits, if the taxpayer takes more than the additional 12 months allowed to make a claim under the Income Tax Act.

In general, the proposal related to employee stock options applies to options granted and shares issued on or after today, and the proposal concerning SR&ED and investment tax credit claims applies on and after today.

The attached backgrounder provides additional information about these proposals. References to "Announcement Day" in the proposed legislation and explanatory notes should be read as referring to today's date.

Backgrounder

Canada's income tax system in general provides tax recognition to expenditures incurred to earn income to the extent that a taxpayer disburses, or is obligated to disburse, money or money's worth. However, a recent court decision has brought into question whether there is an expenditure in certain circumstances for which, traditionally, no expenditure had been recognized for income tax purposes. The background to this issue and the Government's proposed response is discussed below.

The Amount of an Expenditure — Disbursement of Money or Money's Worth

The income tax system generally recognizes an expenditure to the extent that a taxpayer has provided consideration in the form of money or money's worth. Examples of non-monetary consideration include the provision of services, the provision of movable or immovable property and the assumption of a liability. The issuance of shares by a corporation, in exchange for the provision of goods or services to it, may also be treated as an expenditure for income tax purposes, but the amount of the expenditure made by the corporation has recently come into question.

The case law has traditionally allowed a corporation in such cases to consolidate two transactions into one: (1) the corporation provides consideration on the acquisition of an asset or service from the other person, and (2) the other person reinvests that consideration in the corporation on the issuance of capital stock of the corporation to the other person. When considered this way, if the other person's obligation to pay the corporation for the issued shares is satisfied with an asset or the provision of services, the corporation is generally considered as having acquired the asset or incurred an expenditure in respect of the asset or services at a cost equal to the amount invested by the other person in the corporation, as reflected in the corporation's share capital.

However, in a February 2005 decision of the Tax Court of Canada [Alcatel, [2005] 2 C.T.C. 2001 — ed.] a corporate taxpayer was allowed to claim an SR&ED tax credit for the amount by which the fair market value of shares issued by the corporation exceeded the exercise price payable to the corporation for its shares under an employee stock option plan. The Tax Court noted that the value of the shares in excess of the exercise price did not increase the share capital. In other words, while the excess was not an amount invested in the corporation within the parameters of the above-mentioned traditional approach to providing cost recognition, the Tax Court found that the excess was an expenditure for SR&ED tax credit purposes.

Such excesses do not represent an outlay of a corporation; rather they generally represent a dilution of the value of the share equity of the other shareholders of the corporation. Such excesses were not intended to be considered expenditures under the SR&ED tax incentive program.

The rules announced today clarify that such an excess will not be recognized as an expenditure for income tax purposes. Similar clarifying rules are provided for cases involving the issuance of interests in partnerships and trusts. As well, the rules clarify that no expenditure arises solely by virtue of a taxpayer granting an option to acquire an interest in itself.

Employees Profit Sharing Plans

144. (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"employees profit sharing plan" at a particular time means an arrangement

(a) under which payments computed by reference to

(i) an employer's profits from the employer's business,

(ii) the profits from the business of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, or

(iii) any combination of the amounts described in subparagraphs (i) and (ii)

are required to be made by the employer to a trustee under the arrangement for the benefit of employees of the employer or of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length; and

(b) in respect of which the trustee has, since the later of the beginning of the arrangement and the end of 1949, allocated, either contingently or absolutely, to those employees

(i) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all amounts received in the year by the trustee from the employer or from a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length,

(ii) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all profits for the year from the property of the trust (determined without regard to any capital gain made by the trust or capital loss sustained by it at any time after 1955),

(iii) in each year that ended after 1971 and at or before the particular time, all capital gains and capital losses of the trust for the year,

(iv) in each year that ended after 1971, before 1993 and at or before the particular time, 100/15 of the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection (9) to be paid on account of tax under this Part in respect of an employee because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year, and

(v) in each year that ended after 1991 and at or before the particular time, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that may be deducted under subsection (9) in computing the employee's income because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year.

"unused portion of a beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance" in respect of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan, at any particular time in a taxation year of the beneficiary, means

(a) where the year ends before 2005, the amount, if any, by which the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance (in this paragraph having the same meaning as in subsection 39.1(1)) in respect of the trust for the year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which a capital gain is reduced under section 39.1 in the year because of the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust; or

(b) where the year ends after 2004, the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount, if any, that would, if the definition "exempt capital gains balance" in subsection 39.1(1) were read without reference to "that ends before 2005", be the beneficiary's exempt capital gains balance in respect of the trust for the year

exceeds

(ii) where there has been a disposition of an interest or a part of an interest of the beneficiary in the trust after the beneficiary's 2004 taxation year (other than a disposition that is a part of a transaction described in paragraph (7.1)(c) in which property is received in satisfaction of all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests in the trust), the total of all amounts each of which is an amount by which the adjusted cost base of an interest or a part of an interest disposed of by the beneficiary (other than an interest or a part of an interest that is all or a portion of the beneficiary's interests referred to in paragraph (7.1)(c)) was increased because of paragraph 53(1)(p), and

(iii) in any other case, nil.

History: Subsec. 144(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 169(1) and (2), applicable to 1994 et seq., except that subpara. (a)(iii) is applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. 144(1) formerly read:

(1) In this section, an "employees profit sharing plan" at a particular time means an arrangement

(a) under which payments computed by reference to

(i) an employer's profits from the employer's business,

(ii) the profits from the business of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, or

(iii) any combination of the amounts described in paragraphs (a) and (b)

are required to be made by the employer to a trustee under the arrangement for the benefit of employees of the employer or of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, and

(b) in respect of which the trustee has, since the later of the beginning of the arrangement and the end of 1949, allocated, either contingently or absolutely, to those employees

(i) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all amounts received in the year by the trustee from the employer or from a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length,

(ii) in each year that ended at or before the particular time, all profits for the year from the property of the trust (determined without regard to any capital gain made by the trust or capital loss sustained by it at any time after 1955),

(iii) in each year that ended after 1971 and at or before the particular time, all capital gains and capital losses of the trust for the year,

(iv) in each year that ended after 1971, before 1993 and at or before the particular time, 100/15 of the total of all amounts each of which is deemed by subsection (9) to be paid on account of tax under this Part in respect of an employee because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year, and

(v) in each year that ended after 1991 and at or before the particular time, the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that an employee is entitled to deduct under subsection (9) in computing income because the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in the year.

Subsec. 144(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(1), applicable to 1992 et seq. and, where an amount was paid to a person before 1993 without first having been allocated to that person, it shall be deemed for the purposes of the subsec. to have been allocated to that person. Subsec. 144(1) formerly read:

(1) Definition of "employees profit sharing plan" — In this section, an "employees profit sharing plan" means an arrangement under which payments computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business or by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business and the profits, if any, from the business of a corporation with whom an employer does not deal at arm's length are made by the employer to a trustee in trust for the benefit of officers or employees of the employer or of a corporation with whom the employer does not deal at arm's length (whether or not payments are also made to the trustee by the officers or employees), and under which the trustee has, since the commencement of the plan or the end of 1949, whichever is the later, each year allocated either contingently or absolutely to individual officers or employees,

(a) all amounts received by the trustee from the employer or from a corporation with whom the employer does not deal at arm's length,

(b) all profits from the trust property (computed without regard to any capital gain made by the trust or capital loss sustained by it at any time since the end of 1955),

(c) all capital gains and capital losses of the trust for taxation years ending after 1971, and

(d) all amounts in respect of which employees who have, after 1971, ceased to be beneficiaries under the arrangement are deemed by subsection (9) to have made a payment on account of tax under this Part, in such a manner that the total of all those amounts, profits, gains and losses, minus such portion thereof as has been paid to beneficiaries under the trust, is allocated either contingently or absolutely to officers or employees who are beneficiaries thereunder.

(2) No tax while trust governed by a plan — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year throughout which the trust is governed by an employees profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 149(1)(p) — Exemption from tax.

History: Subsec. 144(2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. That subsec. formerly read:

(2) No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a period during which the trust was governed by an employees profit sharing plan.

(3) Allocation contingent or absolute taxable — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of an employee who is a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan each amount that is allocated to the employee contingently or absolutely by the trustee under the plan at any time in the year otherwise than in respect of

(a) a payment made by the employee to the trustee;

(b) a capital gain made by the trust before 1972;

(c) a capital gain of the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971;

(d) a gain made by the trust after 1971 from the disposition of a capital property except to the extent that the gain is a capital gain described in paragraph (c); or

(e) a dividend received by the trust from a taxable Canadian corporation.

(4.1) Idem — Notwithstanding subsection 26(6) of the Income Tax Application Rules, where at any time before 1976 the trustee of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan so elects in prescribed manner, the trust shall be deemed

(a) to have, on December 31, 1971, disposed of each property owned by the trust on that day for proceeds of disposition equal to the fair market value of the property on that day, and

(b) to have, on January 1, 1972, reacquired each property described in paragraph (a) for the amount referred to in that paragraph, if the trustee under the plan has, before 1976, allocated the total of all capital gains and capital losses resulting from the deemed dispositions among the employees or other beneficiaries under the plan to the extent that the trustee under the plan has not previously so allocated them.

(4.2) Idem — Where a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan

(a) was governed by an employees profit sharing plan on December 31, 1971, and the trustee of the trust has made an election under subsection (4.1), or

(b) was not governed by an employees profit sharing plan on December 31, 1971, the trustee of the trust may, in any taxation year after 1973, elect in prescribed manner and prescribed form to treat any capital property of the trust as having been disposed of, in which event the property shall be deemed to have been disposed of on any day designated by the trustee for proceeds of disposition equal to

(c) the fair market value of the property on that day,

(d) the adjusted cost base to the trust of the property on that day, or

(e) an amount that is neither greater than the greater of the amounts determined under paragraphs (c) and (d) nor less than the lesser of the amounts determined under those paragraphs whichever is designated by the trustee and to have been reacquired by the trust immediately thereafter at a cost equal to those proceeds.

(7) Beneficiary's receipts that are not deductible — Notwithstanding subsection (6), such portion of an amount received in a taxation year by a beneficiary from the trustee under an employees profit sharing plan as cannot be established to be attributable to

(a) payments made by the employee to the trustee,

(b) amounts required to be included in computing the income of the employee for that or a previous taxation year,

(c) a capital gain made by the trust before 1972,

(d) a capital gain made by the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971, to the extent allocated by the trust to the beneficiary,

(e) a gain made by the trust after 1971 from the disposition of a capital property, except to the extent that the gain is a capital gain made by the trust for a taxation year ending after 1971,

(f) the portion, if any, of the increase in the value of property transferred to the beneficiary by the trustee that would have been considered to be a capital gain made by the trust in 1971 if the trustee had sold the property on December 31, 1971 for its fair market value at that time, or

(g) a dividend received by the trust from a taxable Canadian corporation other than a dividend described in subsection 83(1), to the extent allocated by the trust to the beneficiary, shall be included in computing the beneficiary's income for the year in which the amount was received, except that in determining the amount of any payments or other things described in any paragraph of this subsection, the amount thereof otherwise determined shall be reduced by such portion of the total of all capital losses of the trust for taxation years ending after 1971 as has been allocated by the trust to the beneficiary and has not been applied to reduce the amount of any payments or other things described in any other paragraph of this subsection.

(a) such portion of the income for a taxation year of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan from sources (other than businesses carried on by it) in a foreign country as

(i) may reasonably be considered (having regard to all the circumstances including the terms and conditions of the plan) to be part of

(A) the income that, by virtue of subsection (3), was included in computing the income for a taxation year of a particular employee who was a beneficiary under the plan, or

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of amounts each of which is a capital gain of the trust that, by virtue of subsection (4), was deemed to be a capital gain of the particular employee for a taxation year

exceeds

(II) the total of amounts each of which is a capital loss of the trust that, by virtue of subsection (4), was deemed to be a capital loss of the particular employee for the taxation year, and

(ii) was not designated by the trust in respect of any other employee who was a beneficiary under the plan, shall, if so designated by the trust in respect of the particular employee in its return of income for the year under this Part, be deemed to be income of the particular employee for the taxation year from sources in that country; and

(b) an employee who is a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan shall be deemed to have paid as non-business-income tax for a taxation year, on the income that the employee is deemed by paragraph (a) to have for the year from sources in a foreign country, to the government of that country an amount equal to that proportion of the non-business-income tax paid by the trust governed by the plan for the year to the government of that country, or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of that country (except such portion of that tax as was deductible under subsection 20(11) in computing its income for the year) that

(i) the income that the employee is deemed by paragraph (a) to have for the year from sources in that country

is of

(ii) the income of the trust for the year from sources (other than businesses carried on by it) in that country.

(8.2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 144(8.2) repealed by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(3), applicable to 1992 et seq., except that a taxpayer may elect that the repeal not apply to the taxpayer's 1992 taxation year by so notifying Revenue Canada in writing before the end of December 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(8.2) Where interest has been included in computing the income of a trust for a taxation year during which the trust was governed by an employees profit sharing plan, and there has been allocated by the trustee under the plan for the purposes of this subsection an amount for the year to one or more of the employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, which amount or the total of which amounts does not exceed the amount of the interest so included, each of the employees who are beneficiaries under the plan shall be deemed to have received interest equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, that would be included in computing the employee's income for the year by virtue of this section, if this section were read without reference to paragraph (3)(f), and

(b) the amount, if any, so allocated for the purposes of this subsection to the employee.

(9) Deduction for forfeited amounts — Where a person ceases at any time in a taxation year to be a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan and does not become a beneficiary under the plan after that time and in the year, there may be deducted in computing the person's income for the year the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included in computing the person's income for the year or a preceding taxation year (other than an amount received before that time under the plan or an amount under the plan that the person is entitled at that time to receive) because of an allocation (other than an allocation to which subsection (4) applies) to the person made contingently under the plan before that time;

B is the portion, if any, of the value of A that is included in the value of A because of paragraph 82(1)(b);

C is the total of all taxable dividends deemed to be received by the person because of allocations under subsection (8) in respect of the plan; and

D is the total of all amounts deductible under this subsection in computing the person's income for a preceding taxation year because the person ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan in a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 8(1)(o.1) — Deduction from employment income; 144(3) — Allocation contingent or absolute taxable; 144(10) — Payments out of profits; 152(1) — Assessment; 160.1 — Where excess refunded; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 144(9) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(4), applicable to 1992 et seq., except that a taxpayer may elect that the subsec. not apply to the taxpayer's 1992 taxation year by notifying Revenue Canada in writing before the end of December 1994. That subsec. formerly read:

(9) Refunds — For the purposes of section 164, where an employee who is a beneficiary under an employees profit sharing plan ceases, at any time in a taxation year, to be a beneficiary thereunder, and it is established that

(a) there has been included in computing the income of the employee for that or a previous taxation year an amount by virtue of any allocation made to the employee contingently by the trustee under the plan prior to the time the employee ceased to be a beneficiary thereunder, and

(b) the employee has not at any time received that amount from the trustee under the plan and is not, under the plan, entitled to receive that amount,

the employee shall be deemed to have made, at the time the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan, a payment equal to 15% of that amount on account of tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the employee ceased to be a beneficiary under the plan.

(10) Payments out of profits — Where the terms of an arrangement under which an employer makes payments to a trustee specifically provide that the payments shall be made "out of profits", the arrangement shall, if the employer so elects in prescribed manner, be deemed, for the purpose of subsection (1), to be an arrangement under which payments computed by reference to the employer's profits are required.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(r) — Amalgamation — election by predecessor deemed made by new corporation.

History: Subsec. 144(10) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 68(4), applicable to 1992 et seq. That subsec. formerly read:

(10) Where the terms of an arrangement under which an employer makes payments to a trustee specifically provide that the payments shall be made "out of profits", the arrangement shall, if the employer has so elected in prescribed manner, be deemed, for the purpose of subsection (1), to be an arrangement for payments "computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business".

Regulations: 1500(3) (prescribed manner).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees' profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits.

(11) Taxation year of trust — Where an employees profit sharing plan is accepted for registration by the Minister as a deferred profit sharing plan, the taxation year of the trust governed by the employees profit sharing plan shall be deemed to have ended immediately before the plan is deemed to have become registered as a deferred profit sharing plan pursuant to subsection 147(5).

Registered Retirement Savings Plans

146. (1) Definitions — In this section,

"annuitant" means

(a) until such time after maturity of the plan as an individual's spouse or common-law partner becomes entitled, as a consequence of the individual's death, to receive benefits to be paid out of or under the plan, the individual referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection for whom, under a retirement savings plan, a retirement income is to be provided, and

(b) thereafter, the spouse or common-law partner referred to in paragraph (a);

Related Provisions: 60(l) — Transfer of RRSP premium refunds; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(i) — No deemed disposition on emigration of annuitant; 146(16) — RRSP — deduction on transfer of funds; 160.2(1) — Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

History: The definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. (a) of the definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(1), applicable to taxation years that end after November 1991. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) until such time after maturity of the plan as his or her spouse becomes entitled, as a consequence of the spouse's death, to receive benefits to be paid out of or under the plan, the individual referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection for whom, under a retirement savings plan, a retirement income is to be provided, and

"benefit" includes any amount received out of or under a retirement savings plan other than

(a) the portion thereof received by a person other than the annuitant that can reasonably be regarded as part of the amount included in computing the income of an annuitant by virtue of subsections (8.8) and (8.9),

(b) an amount received by the person with whom the annuitant has the contract or arrangement described in the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection as a premium under the plan,

(c) an amount, or part thereof, received in respect of the income of the trust under the plan for a taxation year for which the trust was not exempt from tax by virtue of paragraph (4)(c), and

(c.1) a tax-paid amount described in paragraph (b) of the definition "tax-paid amount" in this subsection that relates to interest or another amount included in computing income otherwise than because of this section and without restricting the generality of the foregoing includes any amount paid to an annuitant under the plan

(d) in accordance with the terms of the plan,

(e) resulting from an amendment to or modification of the plan, or

(f) resulting from the termination of the plan;

Related Provisions: 160.2(1) — Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP.

History: Para. (c.1) added to the definition "benefit" in subsec. 146(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(2), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992.

"earned income" of a taxpayer for a taxation year means the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada from

(i) an office or employment, determined without reference to paragraphs 8(1)(c), (m) and (m.2),

(ii) a business carried on by the taxpayer either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business, or

(iii) property, where the income is derived from the rental of real property or from royalties in respect of a work or invention of which the taxpayer was the author or inventor,

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(a)(iii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 248(1), will amend subpara. (a)(iii) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) by substituting "real or immovable property" for "real property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) an amount included under paragraph 56(1)(b), (c), (c.1), (c.2), (g) or (o) in computing the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada,

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(b) [superseded below]

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 141(1), will amend para. (b) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to delete the reference to para. 56(1)(c), applicable to 1997 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146(1) defines "earned income", which is relevant in determining the maximum tax-deductible contributions that a taxpayer may make to RRSPs. The definition includes references to a number of provisions that have previously been repealed or re-numbered. The definition is amended to remove these references and update the numbering, with application from the time the provisions were repealed or re-numbered.

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(b)

(b) an amount included under paragraph 56(1)(b), (c.2), (g) or (o) or subparagraph 56(1)(r)(v) in computing the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada,

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 51(1), will amend para. (b) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to read as above, applicable to 1997 et seq., except that in its application to the 1997 to 2007 taxation years, para. (b) is to be read without reference to "or subparagraph 56(1)(r)(v)".

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "earned income" is relevant in determining the maximum tax-deductible contributions that a taxpayer may make to Registered Retirement Savings Plans. Paragraph (b) of the definition is amended to ensure that amounts received under the Wage Earner Protection Program Act (WEPP) is included in the determination of "earned income". For further information regarding the WEPP, readers may refer to the commentary on paragraph 56(1)(r). This amendment applies to the 2008 and subsequent taxation years.

Paragraph (b) is also amended to remove references of provisions that have previously been repealed and to update references to provisions that have been re-numbered . This amendment applies to the 1997 and subsequent taxation years.

(b.1) an amount received by the taxpayer in the year and at a time when the taxpayer is resident in Canada as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a disability pension under the Canada Pension Plan or a provincial pension plan as defined in section 3 of that Act,

(c) the taxpayer's income for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was not resident in Canada from

(i) the duties of an office or employment performed by the taxpayer in Canada, determined without reference to paragraphs 8(1)(c), (m) and (m.2), or

(ii) a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada, either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business except to the extent that the income is exempt from income tax in Canada by reason of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada, or

(d) in the case of a taxpayer described in subsection 115(2), the total that would be determined under paragraph 115(2)(e) in respect of the taxpayer for the year if

(i) that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraphs 115(2)(e)(iii) and (iv), and

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(d)(i)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 141(3), will amend subpara. (d)(i) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to delete the reference to subpara. 115(2)(e)(iii), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Technical Notes: See under 146(1)"earned income"(b).

(ii) subparagraph 115(2)(e)(ii) were read without any reference therein to paragraph 56(1)(n), except any part thereof included in the total determined under this definition by reason of paragraph (c) or exempt from income tax in Canada by reason of a provision contained in a tax convention or agreement with another country that has the force of law in Canada,

exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(e) the taxpayer's loss for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was resident in Canada from

(i) a business carried on by the taxpayer, either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business, or

(ii) property, where the loss is sustained from the rental of real property,

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(e)(ii)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 248(2), will amend subpara. (e)(ii) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) by substituting "real or immovable property" for "real property", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(f) an amount deductible under paragraph 60(b), (c) or (c.1), or deducted under paragraph 60(c.2), in computing the taxpayer's income for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(f)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 141(4), will amend para. (f) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to delete the reference to para. 60(c), applicable to 1997 et seq.

Technical Notes: See under 146(1)"earned income"(b).

(g) the taxpayer's loss for a period in the year throughout which the taxpayer was not resident in Canada from a business carried on by the taxpayer in Canada, either alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business, or

(h) the portion of an amount included under subparagraph (a)(ii) or (c)(ii) in determining the taxpayer's earned income for the year because of subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v)

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"earned income"(h)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 141(5), will amend para. (h) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) to replace "subparagraph 14(1)(a)(v)" with "paragraph 14(1)(b)", applicable to amounts included in computing income for taxation years in respect of business fiscal periods that end after February 27, 2000.

Technical Notes: See under 146(1)"earned income"(b).

and, for the purposes of this definition, the income or loss of a taxpayer for any period in a taxation year is the taxpayer's income or loss computed as though that period were the whole taxation year;

History: Para. (b.1) of the definition "earned income" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 37(3), applicable to amounts received after 1994. Para. (b.1) formerly read:

(b.1) an amount described in paragraph 56(8)(a) received by the taxpayer in the year, where the taxpayer was resident in Canada at the time of receipt,

Para. (h) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(3), applicable to 1995 et seq.

(c) an annuity described in the definition "retirement income" in respect of the annuitant under the plan, if purchased from a licensed annuities provider,

(c.1) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract,

(c.2) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) annual or more frequent periodic payments are or may be made under the contract to the holder of the contract,

(ii) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract,

(iii) neither the time nor the amount of any payment under the contract may vary because of the length of any life, other than the life of the annuitant under the plan (in this definition referred to as the "RRSP annuitant"),

(iv) the day on which the periodic payments began or are to begin (in this paragraph referred to as the "start date") is not later than the end of the year in which the RRSP annuitant attains 72 years of age,

(v) either

(A) the periodic payments are payable for the life of the RRSP annuitant and either there is no guaranteed period under the contract or there is a guaranteed period that begins at the start date and does not exceed a term equal to 90 years minus the lesser of

(I) the age in whole years at the start date of the RRSP annuitant (determined on the assumption that the RRSP annuitant is alive at the start date), and

(II) the age in whole years at the start date of a spouse or common-law partner of the RRSP annuitant (determined on the assumption that a spouse or common-law partner of the RRSP annuitant at the time the contract was acquired is a spouse or common-law partner of the RRSP annuitant at the start date), or

(B) the periodic payments are payable for a term equal to

(I) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(I), or

(II) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(II), and

(vi) the periodic payments

(A) are equal, or

(B) are not equal solely because of one or more adjustments that would, if the contract were an annuity under a retirement savings plan, be in accordance with subparagraphs (3)(b)(iii) to (v) or that arise because of a uniform reduction in the entitlement to the periodic payments as a consequence of a partial surrender of rights to the periodic payments, and

(d) such other investments as may be prescribed by regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance;

(a) for years other than 1996, the money purchase limit for the preceding year, and

(b) for 1996, $13,500;

The definition "RRSP dollar limit" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 34, applicable after 1995. It formerly read:

"RRSP dollar limit" for a calendar year means the money purchase limit for the immediately preceding calendar year;

"refund of premiums" means any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan (other than a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan) as consequence of the death of the annuitant under the plan,

(a) to an individual who was, immediately before the death, a spouse or common-law partner of the annuitant, where the annuitant died before the maturity of the plan, or

(b) to a child or grandchild of the annuitant who was, immediately before the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support;

Related Provisions: 60(l)(ii)(A), 60.011 — Rollover of premiums to Henson trust; 60(l)(v) — Rollover of refund of premiums to RRSP; 146(1.1) — Where child presumed not financially dependent; 146(8.1) — Deemed receipt of refund of premiums; 146(8.9) — Effect of death where person other than spouse becomes entitled; 146.3(1)"designated benefit" — Application of definition to RRIFs; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

History: The definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 82(1), applicable in respect of deaths that occur after 2002. It formerly read:

"refund of premiums" means

(a) any amount paid to a spouse or common-law partner of the annuitant out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant (other than any part of the amount that is a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan), where the annuitant died before the maturity of the plan and the amount was paid as a consequence of the death, or

(b) any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant (other than any part of the amount that is a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan) after the death to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time of the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support, and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if the dependant's income for the year preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died exceeded the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding year;

Para. (a) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. (b) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 42(1), applicable (by subsec. 42(4)) to deaths that occur after 1995 except that, in respect of the death of an individual that occurred after 1995 and before 1999, the para. shall be read as it did before being amended in connection with an amount paid at a particular time out of a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund, unless the following persons jointly elect otherwise in writing filed with the Minister of National Revenue before May 2000 (or before such later day as is acceptable to the Minister):

(a) the legal representative of the deceased individual; and

(b) the individual in whose income an amount would be required to be included as a result of the election, or would be so required to be included if Part I of the Act applied.

Subsec. 42(5) of the said c. 19 reads as follows:

(5) Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5) of the Act, the Minister of National Revenue shall make such assessments, reassessments and additional assessments of tax, interest and penalties and such determinations and redeterminations as are necessary to give effect to an election under subsection (4).

Para. (b) of the definition formerly read:

(b) if the annuitant had no spouse at the time of the annuitant's death, any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant (other than any part of the amount that is a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan) after the death to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time of the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support,

The closing words of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by the said c. 19, subsec. 42(2), applicable to 2000 et seq. except that, in its application to the 2000 taxation year, the reference to "the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding taxation year" shall be read as a reference to "$7,044". The closing words formerly read:

and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if the dependant's ncome for the year preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died exceeded the total of $500 and the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding year;

The closing words of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 59(2), applicable to 1999 et seq. The closing words formerly read:

and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if the income of the dependant for the taxation year preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died exceeded the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding year;

Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(5), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) any amount paid to a spouse of the annuitant out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant, where the annuitant died before the maturity of the plan and that amount was paid as a consequence of the death, or

(b) if the annuitant had no spouse at the time of the annuitant's death, any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant after the death to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time of the death, financially dependent on the annuitant for support,

Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition of "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 69(2), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. Those paras. formerly read:

(a) any amount paid to a spouse of the annuitant, as a consequence of the annuitant's death, out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant prior to its maturity, or

(b) if the annuitant had no spouse at the time of the annuitant's death, any amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant to a child or grandchild (in this definition referred to as a "dependant") of the annuitant, who was, at the time the annuitant died, financially dependent on the annuitant for support,

All that portion of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsec. 146(1) following para. (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), s. 13, applicable to 1993 et seq. That portion formerly read:

and for the purpose of paragraph (b), it shall be assumed, unless the contrary is established, that a dependant was not financially dependent on the annuitant for support at the time of the annuitant's death if

(c) any person other than the annuitant was permitted a deduction under paragraph 118(1)(d) in respect of the dependant in computing that other person's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year immediately preceding the taxation year in which the annuitant died, or

(d) the income of the dependant for the year referred to in paragraph (c) exceeded $5,000;

"retirement income" means

(a) an annuity commencing at maturity, and with or without a guaranteed term commencing at maturity, not exceeding the term referred to in paragraph (b), or, in the case of a plan entered into before March 14, 1957, not exceeding 20 years, payable to

(i) the annuitant for the annuitant's life, or

(ii) the annuitant for the lives, jointly, of the annuitant and the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner and to the survivor of them for the survivor's life, or

(b) an annuity commencing at maturity, payable to the annuitant, or to the annuitant for the annuitant's life and to the spouse or common-law partner after the annuitant's death, for a term of years equal to 90 minus either

(i) the age in whole years of the annuitant at the maturity of the plan, or

(ii) where the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner is younger than the annuitant and the annuitant so elects, the age in whole years of the spouse or common-law partner at the maturity of the plan, issued by a person described in the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection with whom an individual may have a contract or arrangement that is a retirement savings plan, or any combination thereof;

"spousal or common-law partner plan", in relation to a taxpayer, means

(a) a registered retirement savings plan

(i) to which the taxpayer has, at a time when the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant under the plan, paid a premium, or

(ii) that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund that was a spousal or common-law partner plan in relation to the taxpayer, or

(b) a registered retirement income fund that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a spousal or common-law partner plan in relation to the taxpayer;

Related Provisions: 74.5(12) — Application; 146(5.1) — Deduction for contribution to spousal RRSP; 146(8.3) — Attribution on withdrawal from spousal RRSP; 146.3(5.1) — Amount included in income.

History: The definition "spousal or common-law partner plan" in subsec. 146(1) added, and "spousal plan" repealed, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 246(2) and (1), applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected pursuant to s. 144 of 2000, c. 12 in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, the amendment applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years. "Spousal plan" formerly read:

"spousal plan", in relation to a taxpayer, means

(a) a registered retirement savings plan

(i) to which the taxpayer has, at a time when the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant under the plan, paid a premium, or

(ii) that has received a payment out of or a transfer from a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund that was a spousal plan in relation to the taxpayer, or

"tax-paid amount" paid to a person in respect of a registered retirement saving[s] plan means

(a) an amount paid to the person in respect of the amount that would, if this Act were read without reference to subsection 104(6), be income of a trust governed by the plan for a taxation year for which the trust was subject to tax because of paragraph (4)(c), or

(b) where

(i) the plan is a deposit with a depositary referred to in clause (b)(iii)(B) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in this subsection, and

(ii) an amount is received at any time out of or under the plan by the person, the portion of the amount that can reasonably be considered to relate to interest or another amount in respect of the deposit that was required to be included in computing the income of any person (other than the annuitant) otherwise than because of this section;

Related Provisions: 146(1)"benefit"(c.1) — Whether tax-paid amount is a "benefit"; 146(1)"refund of premiums" — Exclusion of tax-paid amount; 146(8.9) — RRSP income inclusion on death; 146(8.92), (8.93) — Deduction to deceased for post-death RRSP losses; 146.3(5)(c) — Tax-paid amount from RRIF excluded from income; 146.3(6.2) — RRIF income inclusion on death.

History: The definition "tax-paid amount" added to subsec. 146(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 170(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992.

"unused RRSP deduction room" of a taxpayer at the end of a taxation year means,

(a) for taxation years ending before 1991, nil, and

(b) for taxation years that end after 1990, the amount, which can be positive or negative, determined by the formula

$$A + B + R - (C + D)$$

where

A is the taxpayer's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the preceding taxation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the lesser of the RRSP dollar limit for the year and 18% of the taxpayer's earned income for the preceding taxation year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is

(ii) the taxpayer's pension adjustment for the preceding taxation year in respect of an employer, or

(iii) a prescribed amount in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

C is the taxpayer's net past service pension adjustment for the year,

D is the total of the amounts deducted by the taxpayer under subsections (5) and (5.1) and paragraph 60(v) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, and

Proposed Amendment — 146(1)"unused RRSP deduction room"(b)D

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted by the taxpayer,

(i) under subsection (5) or (5.1) or paragraph 60(v), in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, or

(ii) under paragraph 10 of Article XVIII of the Canada-United States Tax Convention signed at Washington on September 26, 1980 or a similar provision in another tax treaty, in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year, and Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 51(2), will amend the description of D in para. (b) of the definition "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsec. 146(1) to read as above, applicable for taxation years that begin after 2008.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The "unused RRSP deduction room" of a taxpayer measures the amount of deduction room for RRSP contributions that an individual may carry forward from one year to use in future years.

Variable D of the formula included in the definition describes certain amounts which reduce unused RRSP deduction room. Variable D is amended, consequential on the anticipated entry into effect of the Fifth Protocol to the Canada-United States Tax Convention. Amended variable D includes amounts deducted by the taxpayer in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the year under new paragraph 10 of Article XVIII of the Convention (or a similar provision in another tax treaty). Under new paragraph 11 of Article XVIII of the Convention, which is being introduced as part of the Fifth Protocol, a Canadian resident who works in the U.S. may deduct contributions made to a U.S. pension plan under certain circumstances, but only to the extent of the taxpayer's RRSP deduction limit. New paragraph 11 also provides for a reduction of the taxpayer's unused RRSP deduction room by the amount deducted. The amendment to variable D effects that reduction.

This amendment applies for taxation years that begin after the calendar year in which the Protocol enters into force.

R is the taxpayer's total pension adjustment reversal for the year.

Related Provisions: 128(2)(d), (d.2) — Where individual bankrupt; 146(1) — RRSP deduction limit; 146(5.21) — Anti-avoidance; 204.2(1.1) — Cumulative excess amount re RRSPs; 248(1)"unused RRSP deduction room" — Definition applies to entire Act; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsec. 146(1) amended 1998, c. 19, subsec. 37(2), applicable after 1988 except that, for taxation years before 1998, the description of "R" shall be read as "R is nil". Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) for taxation years that end after 1990,

(i) the amount, which can be positive or negative, determined by the formula

$$A + B - (C + D)$$

where

A is the taxpayer's unused RRSP deduction room at the end of the immediately preceding taxation year,

B is the amount, if any, by which the lesser of the RRSP dollar limit for the year and 18% of the taxpayer's earned income for the immediately preceding taxation year exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the taxpayer's pension adjustment for the immediately preceding taxation year in respect of an employer, or a prescribed amount in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

C is the taxpayer's net past service pension adjustment for the year, and

D is the total of the amounts deducted by the taxpayer under subsections (5) and (5.1) and paragraph 60(v) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year.

(ii) [Repealed]

The opening words of para. (b) of the definition "unused RRSP deduction room" in subsec. 146(1) amended, and subpara. (b)(ii) repealed, by 1997, c. 25, subsecs. 41(1), (2), applicable April 25, 1997. The opening words of para. (b), and subpara. (b)(ii), formerly read:

(b) for taxation years ending after 1990, the lesser of

. . . . .

(ii) the greater of

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, determined in respect of a particular taxation year that is the year or such of the six taxation years immediately preceding the year as end after 1990, that is the lesser of 18% of the taxpayer's earned income for the taxation year immediately preceding the particular taxation year and the RRSP dollar limit for the particular taxation year, and

(B) ½ of the RRSP dollar limit for the year.

(1.1) Restriction — financially dependent — For the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "refund of premiums" in subsection (1), clause 60(l)(v)(B.01) and subparagraph 104(27)(e)(i), it is assumed, unless the contrary is established, that an individual's child or grandchild was not financially dependent on the individual for support immediately before the individual's death if the income of the child or grandchild for the taxation year preceding the taxation year in which the individual died exceeded the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B$$

where

A is the amount used under paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 118(1) for that preceding taxation year; and

B is nil, unless the financial dependency was because of mental or physical infirmity, in which case it is $6,180 adjusted for each such preceding taxation year that is after 2002 in the manner set out in section 117.1.

History: Subsec. 146(1.1) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 82(3), applicable in respect of deaths that occur after 2002.

History [former subsec. 146(1.1)]: Subsec. 146(1.1) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 82(5), applicable after 1992. [See now subsec. 252(4).] Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Definition of "spouse" — For the purposes of the definitions "annuitant", "refund of premiums" and "retirement income" in subsection (1), paragraph (3)(b) and subsections (8.8), (8.91) and (16), "spouse" of an individual means a person of the opposite sex

(a) who is married to the individual; or

(b) who is cohabiting with the individual in a conjugal relationship and

(i) has so cohabited for a period of at least one year, or

(ii) is a parent of a child of whom the individual is a parent.

(2) Acceptance of plan for registration [— conditions] — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any retirement savings plan unless, in the Minister's opinion, it complies with the following conditions:

(a) the plan does not provide for the payment of any benefit before maturity except

(i) a refund of premiums, and

(ii) a payment to the annuitant;

(b) the plan does not provide for the payment of any benefit after maturity except

(i) by way of retirement income to the annuitant,

(ii) to the annuitant in full or partial commutation of retirement income under the plan, and

(iii) in respect of a commutation referred to in paragraph (c.2);

(b.1) the plan does not provide for a payment to the annuitant of a retirement income except by way of equal annual or more frequent periodic payments until such time as there is a payment in full or partial commutation of the retirement income and, where that commutation is partial, equal annual or more frequent periodic payments thereafter;

(b.2) the plan does not provide for periodic payments in a year under an annuity after the death of the first annuitant, the total of which exceeds the total of the payments under the annuity in a year before that death;

(b.3) the plan does not provide for the payment of any premium after maturity;

(b.4) the plan does not provide for maturity after the end of the year in which the annuitant attains 71 years of age;

(c) the plan provides that retirement income under the plan may not be assigned in whole or in part;

(c.1) notwithstanding paragraph (a), the plan permits the payment of an amount to a taxpayer where the amount is paid to reduce the amount of tax otherwise payable under Part X.1 by the taxpayer;

(c.2) the plan requires the commutation of each annuity payable thereunder that would otherwise become payable to a person other than an annuitant under the plan;

(c.3) the plan, where it involves a depositary, includes provisions stipulating that

(i) the depositary has no right of offset as regards the property held under the plan in connection with any debt or obligation owing to the depositary, and

(ii) the property held under the plan cannot be pledged, assigned or in any way alienated as security for a loan or for any purpose other than that of providing for the annuitant, commencing at maturity, a retirement income;

(c.4) the plan requires that no advantage, other than

(i) a benefit,

(i.1) an amount described in paragraph (a) or (c) of the definition "benefit" in subsection (1),

(ii) the payment or allocation of any amount to the plan by the issuer,

(iii) an advantage from life insurance in effect on December 31, 1981, or

(iv) an advantage derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the plan, that is conditional in any way on the existence of the plan may be extended to the annuitant or to a person with whom the annuitant was not dealing at arm's length; and

(d) the plan in all other respects complies with regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

Related Provisions: 139.1(13) — Para. 146(2)(c.4) inapplicable to conversion benefit on demutualization of insurer; 146(3) — Minister may accept plan despite certain other conditions; 146(12) — Change in plan after registration; 146(13.1) — Effect of extending an advantage; 146(13.2) — Where pre-1997 plan does not mature by age 69; 204.2(1.2) — Undeducted RRSP premiums; 248(1)"disposition"(g) — Transfer with same annuitant not a disposition; 248(3)(c) — RRSP set up in Quebec deemed to be trust.

History: Para. 146(2)(b.4) amended by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 17(3), to substitute "71" for "69", applicable after 2006.

Para. 146(2)(b.4) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 41(3), applicable after 1996, except that

(a) the amended para. does not apply to a retirement savings plan accepted for registration before 1997;

(b) the amended para. does not apply to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(c) in applying the para. to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, the reference to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age".

Para. (b.4) formerly read:

(b.4) the plan does not provide for maturity after the end of the year in which the annuitant attains 71 years of age;

(3) Idem — The Minister may accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any retirement savings plan notwithstanding that the plan

(a) provides for the payment of a benefit after maturity by way of dividend;

(b) provides for any annual or more frequent periodic amount payable

(i) to the annuitant referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) of the definition "retirement income" in subsection (1) by way of an annuity described in paragraph (a) of that definition to be reduced, in the event of the death of the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner during the lifetime of the annuitant, in such manner as to provide for the payment of equal annual or more frequent periodic amounts throughout the lifetime of the annuitant thereafter,

(ii) to any person by way of an annuity, to be reduced if a pension becomes payable to that person under the Old Age Security Act, by an annual or other periodic amount not exceeding the amount payable to that person in that period under that Act,

(iii) to any person by way of an annuity, to be increased or reduced depending on the increase or reduction in the value of a specified group of assets constituting the assets of a separate and distinct account or fund maintained in respect of a variable annuities business by a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada that business,

(iii.1) to any person by way of an annuity under a contract that provides for the increase or reduction of the annuity in accordance only with a change in the interest rate on which the annuity is based, if the interest rate, as increased or reduced, equals or approximates a generally available Canadian market interest rate,

(iv) that may be adjusted annually to reflect

(A) in whole or in part increases in the Consumer Price Index, as published by Statistics Canada under the authority of the Statistics Act, or

(B) increases at a rate specified in the annuity contract, not exceeding 4% per annum, or

(v) to the annuitant by way of an annuity to be increased annually to the extent the amount or rate of return that would have been earned on a pool of investment assets (available for purchase by the public and specified in the annuity contract) exceeds an amount or rate specified in the plan and provides that no other increase may be made in the amount payable;

(c) [Repealed under former Act]

(d) provides for the payment of any amount after the death of an annuitant thereunder;

(e) is adjoined to a contract or other arrangement that is not a retirement savings plan; or

(f) contains such other terms and provisions, not inconsistent with this section, as are authorized or permitted by regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

(4) No tax while trust governed by plan — Except as provided in subsection (10.1), no tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year if, throughout the period in the year during which the trust was in existence, the trust was governed by a registered retirement savings plan, except that

(a) if the trust has borrowed money (other than money used in carrying on a business) in the year or has, after June 18, 1971, borrowed money (other than money used in carrying on a business) that it has not repaid before the commencement of the year, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for the year;

(b) in any case not described in paragraph (a), if the trust has carried on any business or businesses in the year, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than from that business or those businesses, as the case may be,

exceeds

(ii) such portion of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the trust for the year as can reasonably be considered to be income from, or from the disposition of, qualified investments for the trust; and

(c) if the last annuitant under the plan has died, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for each year after the year following the year in which the last annuitant died.

(5) Amount of RRSP premiums deductible — There may be deducted in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which the total of all amounts each of which is a premium paid by the taxpayer after 1990 and on or before the day that is 60 days after the end of the year under a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer was the annuitant at the time the premium was paid, other than the portion, if any, of the premium

(i) that was deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year,

(ii) that was designated for any taxation year for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), (j.1) or (l),

(iii) in respect of which the taxpayer received a payment that was deducted under subsection (8.2) in computing the taxpayer's income for a preceding taxation year,

(iv) that was deductible under subsection (6.1) in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year, or

(iv.1) that would be considered to be withdrawn by the taxpayer as an eligible amount (as defined in subsection 146.01(1) or 146.02(1)) less than 90 days after it was paid, if earnings in respect of a registered retirement savings plan were considered to be withdrawn before premiums paid under that plan and premiums were considered to be withdrawn in the order in which they were paid

(v) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts deducted under subsection 147.3(13.1) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts, in respect of transfers occurring before 1991 from registered pension plans, deemed by paragraph 147.3(10)(b) or (c) to be a premium paid by the taxpayer to a registered retirement savings plan, and

(5.2) [Repealed under former Act]

(5.21) Anti-avoidance — Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where

(a) a registered pension plan is amended or administered in such a manner as to terminate, suspend or delay

(i) the membership of an individual in the plan for the individual's 1990 taxation year,

(ii) contributions under the plan by or for the benefit of the individual in respect of the year, or

(iii) the accrual of retirement benefits under the plan for the individual in respect of the year, or

(7) Recovery of property used as security — Where in a taxation year a loan, for which a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan has used or permitted to be used trust property as security, ceases to be extant, and the fair market value of the property so used was included by virtue of subsection (10) in computing the income of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the plan, there may be deducted, in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year, an amount equal to the amount, if any, remaining when

(a) the net loss (exclusive of payments by the trust as or on account of interest) sustained by the trust in consequence of its using the property, or permitting it to be used, as security for the loan and not as a result of a change in the fair market value of the property

(b) the amount so included in computing the income of the taxpayer in consequence of the trust's using the property, or permitting it to be used, as security for the loan.

(8.1) Deemed receipt of refund of premiums — Where a portion of an amount paid out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of a deceased annuitant to the annuitant's legal representative would have been a refund of premiums if it had been paid under the plan to a beneficiary of the deceased's estate, it is, to the extent it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the beneficiary in prescribed form filed with the Minister, deemed to be received by the beneficiary (and not by the legal representative) at the time it was so paid as a benefit that is a refund of premiums.

(8.1) Deemed receipt of refund of premiums — Where a payment out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of a deceased annuitant to the annuitant's legal representative would have been a refund of premiums if it had been paid under the plan to an individual who is a beneficiary (as defined in subsection 108(1)) under the deceased's estate, the payment is, to the extent it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the individual in prescribed form filed with the Minister, deemed to be received by the individual (and not by the legal representative) at the time it was so paid as a benefit that is a refund of premiums.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 141(6), will amend subsec. 146(8.1) to read as above, applicable after 1988 except that, before 1999, it is to be read as follows:

(8.1) Such portion of an amount paid in a taxation year out of or under a registered retirement savings plan of a deceased annuitant to the annuitant's legal representative as, had that portion been paid under the plan to an individual who is a beneficiary (as defined in subsection 108(1)) under the deceased's estate, would have been a refund of premiums is, to the extent it is so designated jointly by the legal representative and the individual in prescribed form filed with the Minister, deemed to be received by the individual in the year as a benefit that is a refund of premiums.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146(8.1) deals with situations in which an amount paid from a deceased individual's RRSP to the individual's estate would have been a "refund of premiums" if it had been paid by the RRSP to a beneficiary under the estate. An amount paid out of an RRSP as a consequence of the death of the annuitant is defined, by subsection 146(1), to be a "refund of premiums" if the recipient was, immediately before the death of the RRSP annuitant, a spouse or common-law partner of the annuitant or a financially dependent child or grandchild of the annuitant.

Subsection 146(8.1) allows the legal representative of a deceased RRSP annuitant's estate and a qualifying beneficiary under the estate to elect jointly to have the RRSP proceeds that were paid to the estate treated as a refund of premiums received by the beneficiary from the RRSP. When such an election is made, the beneficiary may include the deemed refund of premiums in income. If a corresponding amount is used to acquire a qualifying annuity or is paid into an RRSP or registered retirement income fund of the beneficiary and certain other conditions are satisfied, the beneficiary will be entitled to an offsetting deduction under paragraph 60(l).

Subsection 146(8.1) is amended to provide that the expression "beneficiary" under a deceased RRSP annuitant's estate has the meaning assigned by subsection 108(1). This has the effect of extending the provisions of subsection 146(8.1) to an individual who is "beneficially interested" in a deceased RRSP annuitant's estate (as defined in subsection 248(25)), but who is not a beneficiary under the estate. This could occur, for example, where an individual has only an indirect interest in the deceased RRSP annuitant's estate by virtue of being a beneficiary under a trust that is a beneficiary under the estate — a structure typically contemplated in the estate planning of parents of mentally infirm children.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, April 20, 2005:

Dear [xxx]

This is in reply to your letter of January 25, 2005 concerning proposed amendments to paragraph 60(l) of the Income Tax Act, released by the Department of Finance on February 27, 2004. In general terms, the proposed amendments are intended to accommodate a tax-deferred rollover of the proceeds of a deceased individual's RRSP where the proceeds are used to acquire a life annuity under which a qualifying trust for a qualifying infirm individual is the annuitant.

You suggest that additional legislative amendments are needed in order to give effect to the stated intent of the proposed amendments. In this regard, you describe (in your letter and in the Ruling Request to which you make reference) a situation in which the proceeds of a deceased individual's RRSP are transferred to the deceased individual's legal representative. The funds are then used by the deceased's estate to acquire an annuity under which the annuitant is a testamentary trust created under the will of the deceased. A mentally infirm financially dependent child of the deceased is, during the child's lifetime, the sole beneficiary of the testamentary trust. While the child does not have a direct interest in the deceased individual's estate, the child is "beneficially interested" in the estate, within the meaning assigned by subsection 248(25) of the Act, by virtue of being a beneficiary of the testamentary trust, which is, in turn, a beneficiary of the estate.

You are concerned, in particular, with subsection 146(8.1) of the Act. That subsection allows a beneficiary of a deceased individual's estate and the legal representative of the deceased individual to make a joint election to treat proceeds received by the estate from the deceased individual's RRSP as having been received by the beneficiary as a "refund of premiums" (as defined in subsection 146(1) of the Act), to the extent that the proceeds would have been a "refund of premiums" had they been received directly by the beneficiary. When such an election is made, the proceeds are included in the beneficiary's income and, if the proceeds are used as provided for under paragraph 60(l), an offsetting deduction is allowed.

In some situations, the Act extends the normal meaning of beneficiary so that a reference to a beneficiary of a trust or estate includes an individual who is not a direct beneficiary of the trust or estate but who is beneficially interested in the trust or estate. This extended meaning of "beneficiary" does not apply, however, for subsection 146(8.1). Thus, in the situation you describe, no election can be made to treat the RRSP proceeds as having been received by the child as a refund of premiums. Moreover, while the testamentary trust is itself a beneficiary of the estate, no election can be made to treat the testamentary trust as having received a refund of premiums. This is because there is no provision in the Act that would treat proceeds paid directly from the deceased annuitant's RRSP to the testamentary trust as being a refund of premiums received by the trust. As there is no possibility of having the deceased individual's RRSP proceeds treated as a refund of premiums, no rollover under paragraph 60(l) of the Act is available.

I agree that it is not appropriate that a rollover under paragraph 60(l) be denied simply because the child's interest in the deceased annuitant's estate is not a direct interest. I am prepared, therefore, to recommend to the Minister of Finance that subsection 146(8.1) of the Act be amended to extend the meaning of "beneficiary", for the purposes of that subsection, to include persons who are beneficially interested (within the meaning assigned by subsection 248(25) of the Act) in the estate of the deceased individual. This would ensure that, in the situation you describe, an election can be made under subsection 146(8.1) to treat the child of the deceased RRSP annuitant as having received a refund of premiums from the RRSP. I am also prepared to recommend that the Act be amended to clarify that the amount paid to acquire the annuity, whether paid by the estate or by the trust that is the annuitant under the annuity, be treated as having been paid on behalf of the child, thus ensuring that the requirements of paragraph 60(l) in this regard can be met and that the child is not denied the deduction thereunder for the purchase price of the annuity. I will also recommend that these proposed amendments apply as of the effective date of the previously proposed amendments to paragraph 60(l).

You have also asked that consideration be given to amending the Act to allow the trust (rather than the child) that is a direct beneficiary of the estate to include the refund of premiums in its income and to claim the offsetting deduction under paragraph 60(l). Such a measure would go beyond the intended scope of the proposed amendments released in February 2004 and is not something that I could recommend at this time.

While I cannot offer any assurance that the legislative amendments that we intend to recommend will be adopted, I trust that this statement of our position is helpful to you.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

(8.4) [Repealed under former Act]

(8.5) Ordering — Where a taxpayer has paid more than one premium described in subsection (8.3), such a premium or part thereof paid by the taxpayer at any time shall be deemed to have been included in computing the taxpayer's income by virtue of that subsection before premiums or parts thereof paid by the taxpayer after that time.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-307R4: Spousal or common-law registered retirement savings plans.

(8.6) Spouse's [or common-law partner's] income — Where, in respect of an amount required at any time in a taxation year to be included in computing the income of a taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner, all or part of a premium has by reason of subsection (8.3) been included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, the following rules apply:

(a) the premium or part thereof, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of subsections (8.3) and 146.3(5.1) after that time, be deemed not to have been a premium paid to a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant; and

(b) an amount equal to the premium or part thereof, as the case may be, may be deducted in computing the income of the spouse or common-law partner for the year.

Related Provisions: 146(8.21) — Premium deemed not paid; 146.3(5.4) — Spouse's income.

(8.7) Where subsec. (8.3) does not apply — Subsection (8.3) does not apply

(a) in respect of a taxpayer at any time during the year in which the taxpayer died;

(b) in respect of a taxpayer where either the taxpayer or the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner is a non-resident at the particular time referred to in that subsection;

(c) in respect of amounts paid out of or under a plan referred to in subsection (12) as an "amended plan" to which paragraph (12)(a) applied before May 26, 1976;

(d) to any payment that is received in full or partial commutation of a registered retirement income fund or a registered retirement savings plan and in respect of which a deduction was made under paragraph 60(l) if, where the deduction was in respect of the acquisition of an annuity, the terms of the annuity provide that it cannot be commuted, and it is not commuted, in whole or in part within 3 years after the acquisition; or

(e) in respect of an amount that is deemed by subsection (8.8) to have been received by an annuitant under a registered retirement savings plan immediately before the annuitant's death.

(8.8) Effect of death where person other than spouse [or common-law partner] becomes entitled — Where the annuitant under a registered retirement savings plan (other than a plan that had matured before June 30, 1978) dies after June 29, 1978, the annuitant shall be deemed to have received, immediately before the annuitant's death, an amount as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the fair market value of all the property of the plan at the time of death

exceeds

(b) where the annuitant died after the maturity of the plan, the fair market value at the time of the death of the portion of the property described in paragraph (a) that, as a consequence of the death, becomes receivable by a person who was the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner immediately before the death, or would become so receivable should that person survive throughout all guaranteed terms contained in the plan.

Possible Future Amendment — Deceased's RRSP/RRIF rollover to RDSP

The True North Strong and Free*, Conservative Party election platform (conservative.ca), Oct. 7, 2008: Making it Easier for Families to Save for Family Members with Disabilities

A re-elected Conservative Government led by Stephen Harper will make it easier for families to plan for the future of their children with disabilities by improving the Disability Savings Plan. We will allow the proceeds of a deceased individual's Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) or Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF) to be rolled over on a tax deferred basis to the Disability Savings Plan of a financially dependent infirm child or grandchild. This builds on the Disability Savings Plan established by this government in 2007, and will make it easier for a person with disabilities to access money that has been transferred from the unused retirement savings of a deceased family member.

(8.9) Idem — There may be deducted from the amount deemed by subsection (8.8) to have been received by an annuitant as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan an amount not exceeding the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of

(a) all refunds of premiums in respect of the plan,

(b) all tax-paid amounts in respect of the plan paid to individuals who, otherwise than because of subsection (8.1), received refunds of premiums in respect of the plan, and

(c) all amounts each of which is a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan paid to the legal representative of the annuitant under the plan, to the extent that the legal representative would have been entitled to designate that tax-paid amount under subsection (8.1) if tax-paid amounts were not excluded in determining refunds of premiums;

B is the fair market value of the property of the plan at the particular time that is the later of

(a) the end of the first calendar year that begins after the death of the annuitant, and

(b) the time immediately after the last time that any refund of premiums in respect of the plan is paid out of or under the plan;

C is the total of all amounts paid out of or under the plan after the death of the annuitant and before the particular time; and

D is the lesser of

(a) the fair market value of the property of the plan at the time of the annuitant's death, and

Proposed Addition — 146(8.92), (8.93) — Deduction for post-death losses carried back

(8.92) Deduction for post-death reduction in value — If the annuitant under a registered retirement savings plan dies before the maturity of the plan, there may be deducted in computing the annuitant's income for the taxation year in which the annuitant dies an amount not exceeding the amount determined, after all amounts payable out of or under the plan have been paid, by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the amount deemed by subsection (8.8) to have been received by the annuitant as a benefit out of or under the plan,

(b) an amount (other than an amount described in paragraph (c)) received, after the death of the annuitant, by a taxpayer as a benefit out of or under the plan and included, because of subsection (8), in computing the taxpayer's income, or

(c) a tax-paid amount in respect of the plan; and

B is the total of all amounts paid out of or under the plan after the death of the annuitant.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Jan. 27, 2009: Registered Retirement Savings Plans

(7) That, in the case of a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund from which the final payment out of or under the plan or fund is made after 2008 and after the death of the annuitant under the plan or fund,

(a) the Act be amended to allow the annuitant's legal representative to claim a deduction, in computing the annuitant's income for the year in which the annuitant died, of an amount not exceeding the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) the amount deemed by subsection 146(8.8), or subsection 146.3(6), of the Act, to have been received by the annuitant out of or under the plan or fund,

(ii) an amount (other than an amount described in clause (iii)) received, after the death of the annuitant, by a taxpayer as a benefit out of or under the plan or fund and included, because of subsection 146(8) or subsection 146.3(5) of the Act, in computing the taxpayer's income, or

(iii) a tax-paid amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) of the Act) in respect of the plan, or in the case of a registered retirement income fund, an amount that would, if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan, be a tax-paid amount in respect of the fund, and

B is the total of all amounts paid out of the plan or fund after the death of the annuitant;

(b) that the deduction described in subparagraph (a) not be available, except to the extent acceptable to the Minister of National Revenue, in circumstances where

(i) at any time after the death of the annuitant, the plan or fund held a non-qualified investment, or

(ii) the last payment out of or under the plan or fund was made after the year following the year in which the annuitant died.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: RRSP/RRIF Losses After Death

The fair market value of investments held in a Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) at the time of an RRSP annuitant's death is generally included in the income of the deceased for the year of death. A subsequent increase in the value of the RRSP investments is generally included in the income of the beneficiaries of the RRSP upon distribution. Similar rules apply in the case of Registered Retirement Income Funds (RRIFs).

There is, however, no existing income tax provision to recognize a decrease in the value of RRSP or RRIF investments that occurs after the annuitant's death and before they are distributed to beneficiaries.

Budget 2009 proposes to allow, upon the final distribution of property from a deceased annuitant's RRSP or RRIF, the amount of post-death decreases in value of the RRSP or RRIF to be carried back and deducted against the year-of-death RRSP/RRIF income inclusion. The amount that may be carried back will generally be calculated as the difference between the amount in respect of the RRSP or RRIF included in the income of the annuitant as a result of the death of the annuitant and the total of all amounts paid out of the RRSP or RRIF after the death of the annuitant.

This measure will apply in respect of deceased annuitants' RRSPs or RRIFs where the final distribution from the RRSP or RRIF occurs after 2008.

Related Provisions: 146.3(6.4) — Parallel rule for RRIF.

CRA Q&A, Feb. 2, 2009: Registered Retirement Savings Plans (RRSP) and Registered Retirement Income Funds (RRIF)

1. What is the current tax treatment for a post-death decrease in the value of an RRSP or RRIF? Currently, the value of an individual's RRSP or RRIF at the time of death is generally included in the deceased individual's income for the year of death. This income inclusion does not take into account any decreases in the value that may occur after death and prior to the final distribution from the RRSP or RRIF.

2. How does the 2009 budget announcement affect the tax treatment for a post-death decrease in the value of an RRSP or RRIF? For final distributions that occur after 2008, from a deceased individual's RRSP or RRIF, the budget proposes to allow a deduction on the deceased individual's year-of-death return for the amount of post-death decreases in the value of the RRSP or RRIF up until the final distribution.

3. How is the new deduction calculated? The amount of the deduction will generally be calculated as the difference between:

- the amount in respect of the RRSP or RRIF included in the income of the deceased individual as a result of the individual's death; and
- the total of all amounts paid out of the RRSP or RRIF after the individual's death.

4. How is the new deduction claimed? Following the final distribution from the RRSP or RRIF, the deceased individual's legal representative may request a reassessment to carry back the deduction to the individual's year-of-death return.

5. Are there any circumstances where the new deduction will not be available? The deduction will not be available in circumstances where:

- the RRSP or RRIF held a non-qualified investment (as is currently applicable to RRSPs and RRIFs) after the individual died; or
- the final distribution is made after the end of the year that follows the year in which the individual died.

6. Where can I get more information about the proposed deduction for post-death decreases in value of an RRSP or RRIF? The CRA encourages taxpayers to check our Web site often — all new forms, policies, and guidelines will be posted here as they become available. In the meantime, please consult the Department of Finance's Budget 2009 documents for details.

(9) Where disposition of property by trust — Where in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan

(a) disposes of property for a consideration less than the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition, or for no consideration, or

(b) acquires property for a consideration greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the acquisition, the difference between the fair market value and the consideration, if any, shall be included in computing the income for the taxation year of the annuitant under the plan.

(a) acquires a non-qualified investment, or

(b) uses or permits to be used any property of the trust as security for a loan,

the fair market value of

(c) the non-qualified investment at the time it was acquired by the trust, or

(d) the property used as security at the time it commenced to be so used, as the case may be, shall be included in computing the income for the year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the plan at that time.

(10.1) Where tax payable [income from non-qualified investment] — Where in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement savings plan holds a property that is a non-qualified investment,

(a) tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than non-qualified investments and no capital gains or losses other than from dispositions of non-qualified investments; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (a),

(i) "income" includes dividends described in section 83, and

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) shall be read without reference to the fractions set out in those paragraphs.

Proposed Amendment — 146(10.1)(b)(ii)

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) are to be read as if the fraction set out in each of those paragraphs were replaced by the word "all".

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 141(7), will amend subpara. 146(10.1)(b)(ii) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146(10.1) provides that income earned by a trust governed by a retirement savings plan from non-qualified investments is taxable under Part I. Subparagraph 146(10.1)(b)(ii) provides that income for this purpose includes the full amount of capital gains in excess of capital losses. This subparagraph is reworded for clarity.

(12) Change in plan after registration — Where, on any day after a retirement savings plan has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, the plan is revised or amended or a new plan is substituted for it, and the plan as revised or amended or the new plan, as the case may be (in this subsection referred to as the "amended plan"), does not comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, subject to subsection (13.1), the following rules apply:

(a) the amended plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be a registered retirement savings plan; and

(b) the taxpayer who was the annuitant under the plan before it became an amended plan shall, in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year that includes that day, include as income received at that time an amount equal to the fair market value of all the property of the plan immediately before that time.

(13.1) RRSP advantages — Where an issuer of a registered retirement savings plan or any person not dealing at arm's length with the issuer has extended an advantage to the annuitant of the plan (or to a person not dealing at arm's length with the annuitant) and that advantage would have been prohibited if the plan had met the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(c.4),

(a) paragraphs (12)(a) and (b) do not apply by reason only of the extension of that advantage; and

(b) the issuer is liable to a penalty equal to the greater of $100 and the amount or value of that advantage.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Penalty is non-deductible; 146(2)(c.4) — Prohibition against extending advantage; 146(5)(a) — Amount of RRSP premiums deductible.

Related Provisions: 146(12)(b) — Deregistration and income inclusion as a result of deemed amendments to plan; 146(13.3) — Notification required that plan will be deregistered; 147(10.6) — Parallel rules for DPSPs.

History: Subsec. 146(13.2) repealed by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 17(4), applicable after 2006 except that it does not apply to retirement savings plans under which the annuitant attained 69 years of age before 2007. It formerly read:

(13.2) Maturity after age 69 — For the purpose of subsection (12), where a retirement savings plan accepted for registration before 1997 does not mature by the end of the particular year in which the annuitant under the plan attains 69 years of age,

(a) the plan is deemed to have been amended immediately after the particular year; and

(b) the plan as amended is deemed not to comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act.

Subsec. 146(13.2) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 41(4), applicable after 1996, except that

(a) it does not apply to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(b) in applying the subsec. to a retirement savings plan where the annuitant under the plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, the references in that provisions to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age";

(c) it does not apply to a retirement savings plan where an annuity contract was issued before March 6, 1996 under, pursuant to or as the plan to provide the retirement income under the plan and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which annuity payments are to begin under the plan is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the annuitant attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the annuitant had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the annuitant attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined; and

(d) it does not apply to a retirement savings plan that is part of a life insurance policy that was issued before March 6, 1996 and that has a life insurance component that is not a retirement savings plan where, under the terms and conditions of the policy as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the amount of each premium, if any, subsequently payable in respect of the life insurance component of the policy, and a date by which each such premium is to be paid, are fixed and determined,

(ii) the amount payable under the policy because of the death of the annuitant (determined without reference to any amount payable as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend or related interest) is fixed and determined, and

(iii) insurance on the life of the annuitant is provided under the policy for a period of time after the year in which the annuitant attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the annuitant had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the annuitant attained 69 years of age in 1996.

Where, because of (d) above, the subsec. does not apply to a retirement savings plan that is part of a life insurance policy, any part of a premium paid under the policy after March 5, 1996 that was not fixed and determined under the terms and conditions of the policy as they read at the end of that day is deemed, for the purposes of subsecs. 146(5), (5.1) and (8.2), not to have been paid under the policy.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Penalty for failure to comply.

History: Subsec. 146(13.3) repealed by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 17(4), applicable after 2006 except that it does not apply to retirement savings plans under which the annuitant attained 69 years of age before 2007. It formerly read:

(13.3) Notice — Where a retirement savings plan accepted for registration before 1997 does not prevent maturity after the particular year in which the annuitant under the plan attains 69 years of age, the issuer of the plan shall, before July of the particular year, notify the annuitant in writing that, pursuant to subsections (12) and (13.2), the plan will cease to be a registered retirement savings plan if it does not mature by the end of the particular year, except that no such notification is required where, before that month,

(a) the plan has matured; or

(b) arrangements have been made for the plan to mature, or for the property under the plan to be transferred or otherwise paid out of the plan, by the end of the particular year.

Subsecs. 146(13.3) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 41(4), applicable on the same basis as subsec. 146(13.2)

(14) Premiums paid in taxation year — Where any amount has been paid in a taxation year as a premium under a retirement savings plan that was, at the end of that taxation year, a registered retirement savings plan, the amount so paid shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to have been paid in that year as a premium under a registered retirement savings plan.

Related Provisions: 146(1) — "Retirement savings plan".

(15) Plan not registered at end of year entered into — Notwithstanding anything in this section, where an amount is received in a taxation year as a benefit under a registered retirement savings plan that was not, at the end of the year in which the plan was entered into, a registered retirement savings plan, such part, if any, of the amount so received as may be prescribed shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, to have been received in the taxation year otherwise than as a benefit or other payment under a registered retirement savings plan.

Regulations: Part I.

(16) Transfer of funds — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, a registered retirement savings plan may at any time be revised or amended to provide for the payment or transfer before the maturity of the plan, on behalf of the annuitant under the plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor"), of any property thereunder by the issuer thereof

(a) to a registered pension plan for the benefit of the transferor or to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the transferor is the annuitant, or

(b) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the transferor is the annuitant, where the transferor and the transferor's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner are living separate and apart and the payment or transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the transferor and the transferor's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, and, where there has been such a payment or transfer of such property on behalf of the transferor before the maturity of the plan,

(c) the amount of the payment or transfer shall not, solely because of the payment or transfer, be included in computing the income of the transferor or the transferor's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner,

(d) no deduction may be made under subsection (5), (5.1) or (8.2) or section 8 or 60 in respect of the payment or transfer in computing the income of any taxpayer, and

(e) where the payment or transfer was made to a registered retirement savings plan, for the purposes of subsection (8.2), the amount of the payment or transfer shall be deemed not to be a premium paid to that plan by the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 60(l) — Transfer of RRSP premium refunds; 146.3(14)(a) — Transfer of RRIF on marriage breakdown; 160.2(1) — Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP; 204.2(1) — Excess amount for a year for RRSP; 204.2(2) — Where terminated plan deemed to continue to exist; 248(23.1)(a) — Where property transferred to spouse after death; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse"; Reg. 8300(1)"excluded contribution" — Amount transferred is excluded contribution.

History: Subsec. 146(16) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. 146(16)(b) amended applicable after 1992, and all that portion of subsec. (16) following para. (b) amended applicable to 1991 et seq., by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 82(9) and (10). Those portions formerly read:

(b) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the spouse or former spouse of the transferor is the annuitant, where the transferor and the transferor's spouse or former spouse are living separate and apart and the payment or transfer is made pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the transferor and the transferor's spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or other conjugal relationship, on or after the breakdown of the marriage or other relationship, and on the payment or transfer of such property before the maturity of the plan,

(c) the amount so paid or transferred on behalf of the transferor shall not by reason only of that payment or transfer be included by virtue of subsection (8) in computing the income of the transferor or the spouse or former spouse, and

(d) no deduction may be made under subsection (5), (5.1) or (8.2) or section 8 or 60, in respect of the amount so paid or transferred, in computing the income of any taxpayer.

(17)–(19) [Repealed under former Act]

(20) Credited or added amount deemed not received — Where

(a) an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit,

(b) the deposit is a registered retirement savings plan at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(c) during the calendar year in which the amount is credited or added or during the preceding calendar year, the annuitant under the plan was alive, the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant or any other person solely because of the crediting or adding.

Related Provisions: 81(1)(r) — No income inclusion where amount credited or added to foreign retirement arrangement; 146(8) — Tax on withdrawals from plan.

History: Subsec. 146(20) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 69(9), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(20) Where amount credited or added deemed not received — Where an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition "retirement savings plan" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit, and where

(a) the deposit is a registered retirement savings plan at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(b) the annuitant under the plan is alive during the year in which the amount is credited or added, the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant by reason only of the crediting or adding.

(21) Prescribed provincial pension plans — Where

(a) an amount (other than an amount that is part of a series of periodic payments) is transferred directly from an individual's account under a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v)

(i) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the individual, or a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual, is the annuitant,

(ii) to acquire from a licensed annuities provider an annuity that would be described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) if the individual, or a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual, were the taxpayer referred to in that subparagraph and if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause 60(l)(ii)(B), or

(iii) to an account under the plan of a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual, and

(b) if the transfer is in respect of a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the individual,

(i) the individual and the spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner are living separate and apart and the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, or

(ii) the amount is transferred as a consequence of the individual's death,

the following rules apply:

(c) the amount shall not, solely because of the transfer, be included because of subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i) in computing the income of a taxpayer, and

(d) no deduction may be made under any provision of this Act in respect of the transfer in computing the income of a taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d.2) — Income inclusion; 70(3.1)(a) — "Rights or things" treatment on death ; 146.3(2)(f)(vii) — Conditions for RRIF — transfer of funds under 146(21); 148(1)(e) — Amounts included in computing policyholder's income; 204.2(1.2)I(a)(iii) — Transfer under 146(21) excluded from cumulative excess RRSP amount; 212(1)(h)(iii.1)(A), 212(1)(h)(iv.1) — Transfers under 146(21) excluded from withholding tax on pension benefits.

History: Subsec. 146(21) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 146(21) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 59(6), applicable to transfers made after 1994. It formerly read:

(21) Where an amount (other than an amount that is part of a series of periodic payments) is transferred on behalf of a particular individual directly from a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v)

(a) to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund under which the particular individual is the annuitant,

(b) to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the spouse or former spouse of the particular individual is the annuitant, where the particular individual and the spouse or former spouse are living separate and apart and the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the particular individual and the spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage,

(c) to acquire, from a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business, an annuity that would be described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) if the particular individual were the taxpayer referred to therein and if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause (B) thereof, or

(d) to acquire, from a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business, an annuity that would be described in subparagraph 60(l)(ii) if the particular individual's spouse or former spouse were the taxpayer referred to therein and if that subparagraph were read without reference to clause (B) thereof, where the particular individual and the spouse or former spouse are living separate and apart and the transfer is made under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and the spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage, except where the amount arose as a consequence of the death of an individual (other than the particular individual or a spouse or former spouse of the particular individual),

(e) the amount shall not, solely because of that transfer, be included because of subparagraph 56(1)(a)(i) in computing the income of a taxpayer, and

(f) no deduction may be made under any provision of this Act in respect of the transfer in computing the income of a taxpayer.

Subsec. 146(21) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 69(10), applicable to transfers occurring after 1991, except that

(a) where a taxpayer elects under subsec. 26(10) of 1994, c. 21 [i.e. with respect to subpara. 60(l)(v)], subsec. 146(21) does not apply in respect of transfers made on behalf of the taxpayer in 1992; and

(b) with respect to transfers made in 1992,

(i) the word "spouse", wherever it appears in subsec. 146(21), shall have the meaning assigned by subsec. 146(1.1) as it read in its application to that year, and

(ii) the word "marriage" in paras. 146(21)(b) and (d), shall be read as "marriage or other conjugal relationship".

Regulations: 7800(1) (prescribed provincial pension plan is the Saskatchewan Pension Plan).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

(22) Deemed payment of RRSP premiums and provincial pension plan contributions [extension of contribution deadline] — If the Minister so directs,

(a) except for the purposes of subparagraphs (5)(a)(iv.1) and (5.1)(a)(iv), an amount paid by an individual in a taxation year (other than an amount paid in the first 60 days of the year) as a contribution to an account under a prescribed provincial pension plan or as a premium is deemed to have been paid at the beginning of the year and not at the time it was actually paid;

(b) all or part of the amount may be designated in writing by the individual for the purpose of paragraph 60(j), (j.1) or (l) or subsection 146.01(3) or 146.02(3); and

(c) the designation is deemed to have been made in the individual's return of income for the preceding taxation year or in a prescribed form filed with that return, as the case may be.

Home Buyers' Plan

Proposed Addition — First-Time Home Buyer's Credit

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: See after 118.03.

146.01 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"annuitant" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"benefit" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"completion date", in respect of an amount received by an individual, is

(a) where the amount was received before March 2, 1993, October 1, 1993,

(b) where the amount was received after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994, October 1, 1994, and

(c) in any other case, October 1 of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the amount was received;

History: Paras. (b) and (c) substituted for para. (b) in the definition "completion date" in subsec. 146.01(1) by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(1), applicable to 1994 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, October 1, 1994;

The definition "completion date" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(3), applicable to 1992 et seq.

"designated withdrawal" of an individual is an amount received by the individual, as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan, pursuant to the individual's written request in the prescribed form referred to in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" (as that definition read in its application to amounts received before 1999), paragraph (a) of the definition "regular eligible amount" or paragraph (a) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount";

History: The definition "designated withdrawal" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"eligible amount" of an individual is a regular eligible amount or supplemental eligible amount of the individual;

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under Home Buyers' Plan ineligible for RRSP contribution; 146(8), 146.01(1)"excluded withdrawal" — Eligible amount can be withdrawn from RRSP without paying tax; 146.01(2) — Interpretation; 146.01(3), (4) — Repayment of eligible amounts to RRSP.

History: The definition "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(1), applicable to amounts received after 1998. It formerly read:

> "eligible amount" in respect of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan where
> (a) the amount is received after February 25, 1992 pursuant to the written request of the individual in prescribed form in which the individual sets out the location of a qualifying home that the individual has begun, or intends not later than one year after its acquisition by the individual to begin, using as a principal place of residence,
> (b) the individual is resident in Canada at the particular time and entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of the qualifying home or with respect to its construction,
> (c) the individual acquires the qualifying home (or replacement property for the qualifying home) after February 25, 1992 and before the completion date in respect of the amount,
> (d) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,
> (d.1) if the particular time is after March 1, 1994,
> (i) the individual did not have an owner-occupied home in the period that began at the beginning of the fourth preceding calendar year that ended before the particular time and ended on the 31st day before the particular time, and
> (ii) the individual's spouse did not have an owner-occupied home in the period referred to in subparagraph (i)
> (A) that is inhabited by the individual during the spouse's marriage to the individual, or
> (B) that is a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation that relates to a housing unit that is inhabited by the individual during the spouse's marriage to the individual,
> (e) unless the individual acquired the qualifying home before the particular time, the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the particular time and ending at the earliest of any time at which the individual acquired the qualifying home or any replacement property for the qualifying home,

"excluded premium" in respect of an individual means a premium under a registered retirement savings plan where the premium

(a) was designated by the individual for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), (j.1), (j.2) or (l),

(b) was an amount transferred directly from a registered retirement savings plan, registered pension plan, registered retirement income fund, deferred profit sharing plan or a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v),

(c) was deductible under subsection 146(6.1) in computing the individual's income for any taxation year, or

(d) was deducted in computing the individual's income for the 1991 taxation year;

History: Para. (b) of "excluded premium" in subsec. 146.01(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 70, applicable to 1992 et seq. That para. formerly read:

> (b) was an amount transferred directly from a registered retirement savings plan, registered pension plan, registered retirement income fund or deferred profit sharing plan,

"excluded withdrawal" of an individual means

(a) an eligible amount received by the individual,

(b) a particular amount (other than an eligible amount) received while the individual was resident in Canada and in a calendar year if

(i) the particular amount would be an eligible amount of the individual if the definition "regular eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (g) of that definition and the definition "supplemental eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (d) and (f) of that definition,

(ii) a payment (other than an excluded premium) equal to the particular amount is made by the individual under a retirement saving plan that is, at the end of the taxation year of the payment, a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant,

(iii) the payment is made before the particular time that is

(A) if the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income for the taxation year in which the particular amount was received, the earlier of

(I) the end of the following calendar year, and

(II) the time at which the individual filed the return,

(B) where clause (A) does not apply and the particular amount would, but for subclause (2)(c)(ii)(A)(II), be an eligible amount, the end of the second following calendar year, and

(C) in any other case, the end of the following calendar year, and

(iv) either

(A) if the particular time is before 2000, the payment is made, as a repayment of the particular amount, to the issuer of the registered retirement savings plan from which the particular amount was received, no other payment is made as a repayment of the particular amount and that issuer is notified of the payment in prescribed form submitted to the issuer at the time the payment is made, or

(B) the payment is made after 1999 and before the particular time and the payment (and no other payment) is designated under this clause as a repayment of the particular amount in prescribed form filed with the Minister on or before the particular time (or before such later time as is acceptable to the Minister), or

(c) an amount (other than an eligible amount) that is received in a calendar year before 1999 and that would be an eligible amount of the individual if the definition "eligible amount", as it applied to amounts received before 1999, were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) of that definition, where the individual

(i) died before the end of the following calendar year, and

(ii) was resident in Canada throughout the period that began immediately after the amount was received and ended at the time of the death;

Related Provisions: 146(1)"premium" — Definition excludes repayment described in para. (b); 146(8) — Home Buyers' Plan withdrawal not to be included in income; 146.01(2)(c) — Special rules.

History: The definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(2), applicable to amounts received after 1996, except that the portion of para. (b) of the definition before subpara. (ii), as amended, shall in its application to amounts received before 1999 be read as follows:

(b) a particular amount (other than an eligible amount), received in a calendar year, that would be an eligible amount of the individual if

(i) the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) of that definition,

The definition formerly read:

"excluded withdrawal" in respect of an individual means

(a) an eligible amount received by the individual, or

(b) an amount (other than an eligible amount) that would, if the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) thereof, be an eligible amount received by the individual out of or under a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which a person is the issuer, where either

(i) the individual

(A) died before the end of the calendar year that includes the completion date in respect of the amount, and

(B) was resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the amount was received and ending at the time of the death, or

(ii) the amount is repaid before the end of the calendar year described in clause (i)(A) to a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which the person is the issuer (or, where the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount was received by the individual, before the earlier of the end of the calendar year described in clause (i)(A) and the time at which the individual filed that return) and the issuer is notified of the repayment in prescribed form submitted to the issuer at the time the repayment is made,

except that where an amount would, but for subclause (2)(c)(ii)(A)(II), be an eligible amount, subparagraph (b)(ii) applies in respect of the amount as if the first reference therein to "described in clause (i)(A)" were read as "following the calendar year described in clause (i)(A)";

That portion of the definition of "excluded withdrawal" in subsec. 146.01(1) following para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(b) an amount (other than an eligible amount) that would, if the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (c) and (e) of that definition, be an eligible amount received by the individual out of or under a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which a person is the issuer, where either

(i) the individual died before 1994 and was resident in Canada throughout the period beginning immediately after the amount was received and ending at the time of the death, or

(ii) the amount is repaid before 1994 to a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which the person is the issuer (or, where the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount was received by the individual, before the earlier of January 1, 1994 and the time the individual filed that return) and the issuer is notified of the repayment in prescribed form submitted to the issuer at the time the repayment is made, except that, where an amount would, but for subclause (2)(c)(ii)(A)(II), be an eligible amount, subparagraph (b)(ii) applies in respect of the amount as if the first reference therein to "1994" were "1995";

Regulations: 104(3) — No tax withheld at source on excluded withdrawal.

"HBP balance" of an individual at any time means the amount, if any, by which the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual at or before that time exceeds the total of

(a) all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual for taxation years that ended before that time, and

(b) all amounts each of which is included under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year that ended before that time;

Related Provisions: 150(1.1)(b)(iv) — Individual with HBP balance must file tax return.

History: The definition "HBP balance" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"issuer" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"participation period" of an individual means each period

(a) that begins at the beginning of a calendar year in which the individual receives an eligible amount, and

History: The definition "participation period" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"premium" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1);

"qualifying home" means

(a) a housing unit located in Canada, or

(b) a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation, the holder of which is entitled to possession of a housing unit located in Canada, except that, where the context so requires, a reference to a qualifying home that is a share described in paragraph (b) means the housing unit to which the share described in that paragraph relates;

"quarter" means any of the following periods in a calendar year:

(a) the period beginning on January 1 and ending on March 31,

(b) the period beginning on April 1 and ending on June 30,

(c) the period beginning on July 1 and ending on September 30, and

(d) the period beginning on October 1 and ending on December 31;

Proposed Repeal — 146.01(1)"quarter"

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 142(1), will repeal the definition "quarter" in subsec. 146.01(1), applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146.01(1) contains the definition "quarter" for purposes of the rules relating to the HBP. This definition is repealed as a consequence of the repeal of subsection 146.01(8), where this definition applied.

"regular eligible amount" of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan if

(a) the amount is received pursuant to the individual's written request in a prescribed form in which the individual sets out the location of a qualifying home that the individual has begun, or intends not later than one year after its acquisition by the individual to begin, using as a principal place of residence,

(b) the individual entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of it or with respect to its construction,

(c) the individual

(i) acquires the qualifying home (or a replacement property for the qualifying home) before the completion date in respect of the amount, or

(ii) dies before the end of the calendar year that includes the completion date in respect of the amount,

(d) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse or common-law partner acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,

(e) the individual did not have an owner-occupied home in the period

(i) that began at the beginning of the fourth preceding calendar year that ended before the particular time, and

(ii) that ended on the 31st day before the particular time,

(f) the individual's spouse or common-law partner did not, in the period referred to in paragraph (e), have an owner-occupied home

(i) that was inhabited by the individual during the spouse's or common-law partner's marriage or common-law partnership to the individual, or

(ii) that was a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation that relates to a housing unit inhabited by the individual during the spouse's or common-law partner's marriage or common-law partnership to the individual,

(g) the individual

(i) acquired the qualifying home before the particular time and is resident in Canada at the particular time, or

(ii) is resident in Canada throughout the period that begins at the particular time and ends at the earlier of the time of the individual's death and the earliest time at which the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it,

(h) the total of the amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual in the calendar year that includes the particular time does not exceed $20,000, and

(i) the individual's HBP balance at the beginning of the calendar year that includes the particular time is nil;

Related Provisions: 146.01(1)"eligible amount" — Regular eligible amount included in "eligible amount".

History: Para. (d) and the opening words of para. (f) of the definition "regular eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subparas. (f)(i) and (ii) of the definition "regular eligible amount" amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 7, to replace "spouse's" with "spouse's or common-law partner's", and by Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced under 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "regular eligible amount" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable to amounts received after 1998.

Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

"replacement property" for a particular qualifying home in respect of an individual, or of a specified disabled person in respect of the individual, means another qualifying home that

(a) the individual or the specified disabled person agrees to acquire, or begins the construction of, at a particular time that is after the latest time that the individual made a request described in the definition "designated withdrawal" in respect of the particular qualifying home,

(b) at the particular time, the individual intends to be used by the individual or the specified disabled person as a principal place of residence not later than one year after its acquisition, and

(c) none of the individual, the individual's spouse or common-law partner, the specified disabled person or that person's spouse or common-law partner had acquired before the particular time;

History: Para. (c) of the definition "replacement property" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "replacement property" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(3), applicable after 1998. It formerly read:

"replacement property" for a particular qualifying home in respect of an individual means another qualifying home where

(a) the individual

(i) agreed to acquire, or

(ii) began the construction of the other qualifying home at a particular time that is after the latest time that the individual requested a withdrawal in respect of the particular qualifying home under paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount",

(b) the individual intended, at the particular time, that the other qualifying home be used by the individual as a principal place of residence not later than one year after its acquisition, and

(c) neither the individual nor the individual's spouse had acquired the other qualifying home before the particular time.

Proposed Amendment — 146.01(1)"regular eligible amount"(h)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 52(1), will amend para. (h) of the definition "regular eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) to substitute "25,000" for "$20,000", applicable to 2009 et seq. in respect of withdrawals made after January 27, 2009.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Jan. 27, 2009: Home Buyers' Plan — Increased Withdrawal Limit

(5) That, for the 2009 and subsequent calendar years, in respect of withdrawals made after January 27, 2009, the Home Buyers' Plan limits described in paragraph (h) of the definition "regular eligible amount", and in paragraph (g) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount", in subsection 146.01(1) of the Act be increased to $25,000.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Home Buyers' Plan

The Home Buyers' Plan (HBP) allows first-time home buyers to withdraw amounts from a Registered Retirement Savings Plan (RRSP) to purchase or build a home without having to pay tax on the withdrawal [146.01(1)"excluded withdrawal", 146(8) — ed.]. Budget 2009 proposes to increase the HBP withdrawal limit [146.01(1)"eligible amount" — ed.] to $25,000 from $20,000.

For HBP purposes, an individual is generally considered to be a first-time home buyer if neither the individual nor the individual's spouse or common-law partner owned and lived in another home in the calendar year in which the HBP withdrawal is made or in any of the four preceding calendar years [146.01(1)"regular eligible amount"(e), (f) — ed.]. Special rules apply to facilitate the acquisition of a home that is more accessible or better suited for the personal needs and care of an individual who is eligible for the disability tax credit, even if the first-time home-buyer requirement is not met [146.01(1)"supplemental eligible amount" — ed.]. These rules will also be modified to provide the same $25,000 withdrawal limit.

Withdrawn funds must generally be used to acquire a home before October of the year following the year of withdrawal [146.01(1)"completion date"(c), "regular eligible amount"(c), "supplemental eligible amount"(d) — ed.]. Amounts withdrawn under the HBP are repayable in instalments over a period not exceeding 15 years. To the extent that a scheduled repayment for a year is not made, it is added to the participant's income for the year [146.01(4) — ed.]. A special rule denies an RRSP deduction for contributions withdrawn under the HBP within 90 days of being contributed [146(5)(a)(iv.1) — ed.].

This increase in the HBP withdrawal limit will apply to the 2009 and subsequent calendar years in respect of withdrawals made after January 27, 2009.

"specified disabled person", in respect of an individual at any time, means a person who

(a) is the individual or is related at that time to the individual, and

(b) would be entitled to a deduction under subsection 118.3(1) in computing tax payable under this Part for the person's taxation year that includes that time if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (c) of that subsection;

Related Provisions: 146.01(1)"supplemental eligible amount" — Withdrawal to acquire accessible home for specified disabled person.

History: The definition "specified disabled person" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable after 1998.

"spouse" — [Repealed]

History: Definition of "spouse" in subsec. 146.01(1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 83(2), applicable to 1992 taxation year only. The definition read:

"spouse" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1).

"supplemental eligible amount" of an individual means an amount received at a particular time by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan if

(a) the amount is received pursuant to the individual's written request in a prescribed form identifying a specified disabled person in respect of the individual and setting out the location of a qualifying home

(i) that has begun to be used by that person as a principal place of residence, or

(ii) that the individual intends to be used by that person as a principal place of residence not later than one year after its first acquisition after the particular time,

(b) the purpose of receiving the amount is to enable the specified disabled person to live

(i) in a dwelling that is more accessible by that person or in which that person is more mobile or functional, or

(ii) in an environment better suited to the personal needs and care of that person,

(c) the individual or the specified disabled person entered into an agreement in writing before the particular time for the acquisition of the qualifying home or with respect to its construction,

(d) either

(i) the individual or the specified disabled person acquires the qualifying home (or a replacement property for it) after 1998 and before the completion date in respect of the amount, or

(ii) the individual dies before the end of the calendar year that includes the completion date in respect of the amount,

(e) none of the individual, the spouse or common-law partner of the individual, the specified disabled person or the spouse or common-law partner of that person acquired the qualifying home more than 30 days before the particular time,

(f) either

(i) the individual or the specified disabled person acquired the qualifying home before the particular time and the individual is resident in Canada at the particular time, or

(ii) the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period that begins at the particular time and ends at the earlier of the time of the individual's death and the earliest time at which

(A) the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it, or

(B) the specified disabled person acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it,

(g) the total of the amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual in the calendar year that includes the particular time does not exceed $20,000, and

Proposed Amendment — 146.01(1)"supplemental eligible amount"(g)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 52(2), will amend para. (g) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) to substitute "25,000" for "$20,000", applicable to 2009 et seq. in respect of withdrawals made after January 27, 2009.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: See under 146.01(1)"regular eligible amount"(h).

(h) the individual's HBP balance at the beginning of the calendar year that includes the particular time is nil.

Related Provisions: 118.2(2)(l.2), (l.21) — Medical expense credit for disability-related renovations and construction costs; 146.01(1)"eligible amount" — Supplemental eligible amount included in "eligible amount".

History: Para. (e) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount" in subsec. 146.01(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "supplemental eligible amount" added to subsec. 146.01(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(4), applicable to amounts received after 1998.

Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

(2) Special rules — For the purposes of this section,

(a) an individual shall be considered to have acquired a qualifying home if the individual acquired it jointly with one or more other persons;

(a.1) an individual shall be considered to have an owner-occupied home at any time where, at that time, the individual owns, whether jointly with another person or otherwise, a housing unit or a share of the capital stock of a cooperative housing corporation and

(i) the housing unit is inhabited by the individual as the individual's principal place of residence at that time, or

(ii) the share was acquired for the purpose of acquiring a right to possess a housing unit owned by the corporation and that unit is inhabited by the individual as the individual's principal place of residence at that time;

(b) where an individual agrees to acquire a condominium unit, the individual shall be deemed to have acquired it on the day the individual is entitled to immediate vacant possession of it;

(c) except for the purposes of subparagraph (g)(ii) of the definition "regular eligible amount" and subparagraph (f)(ii) of the definition "supplemental eligible amount", an individual or a specified disabled person in respect of the individual is deemed to have acquired, before the completion date in respect of a designated withdrawal received by the individual, the qualifying home in respect of which the designated withdrawal was received if

(i) neither the qualifying home nor a replacement property for it was acquired by the individual or the specified disabled person before that completion date, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual or the specified disabled person

(I) is obliged under the terms of a written agreement in effect on that completion date to acquire the qualifying home (or a replacement property for it) on or after that date, and

(II) acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for it before the day that is one year after that completion date, or

(B) the individual or the specified disabled person made payments, the total of which equalled or exceeded the total of all designated withdrawals that were received by the individual in respect of the qualifying home,

(I) to persons with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length,

(II) in respect of the construction of the qualifying home or a replacement property for it, and

(III) in the period that begins at the time the individual first received a designated withdrawal in respect of the qualifying home and that ends before that completion date; and

(d) an amount received by an individual in a particular calendar year is deemed to have been received by the individual at the end of the preceding calendar year and not at any other time if

(i) the amount is received in January of the particular year (or at such later time as is acceptable to the Minister),

(ii) the amount would not be an eligible amount if this section were read without reference to this paragraph, and

(iii) the amount would be an eligible amount if the definition "regular eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (i) of that definition and the definition "supplemental eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraph (h) of that definition.

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under Home Buyers' Plan ineligible for RRSP contribution.

History: Para. 146.01(2)(c) amended, paras. (d) and (e) repealed, and para. (f) amended and renumbered as para. (d), by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 60(5), applicable to amounts received after 1998. Paras. (c)–(f) formerly read:

(c) where

(i) neither a qualifying home in respect of which an individual withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) nor a replacement property for the qualifying home has been acquired by the individual before the completion date in respect of the amount, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual

(I) is obliged under the terms of a written agreement in effect on that completion date to acquire the qualifying home (or a replacement property for the qualifying home) on or after that date,

(II) acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home before the day that is one year after that completion date, and

(III) is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning on that completion date and ending on the earlier of October 1 in the first calendar year beginning after that date and the earliest of any day on which the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, or

(B) the individual made payments

(I) to persons with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length,

(II) in respect of the construction of the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, and

(III) in the period beginning at the time the individual first withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of that definition in respect of the qualifying home and ending before that completion date, and the total of all payments so made was not less than the total of all amounts described in that paragraph in respect of the qualifying home that were withdrawn by the individual, except for the purpose of this paragraph, the individual shall be deemed to have acquired the qualifying home before that completion date;

(d) where

(i) an individual or a spouse of the individual receives an eligible amount before March 2, 1993,

(ii) at a particular time after March 1, 1993 and before April 1993 (or at such later time in 1993 as is acceptable to the Minister), the individual receives another amount that would, if the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (g) thereof, be an eligible amount, and

(iii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the other amount was received was made before March 2, 1993 or at such later time as is acceptable to the Minister, except for the purposes of paragraphs (a) to (f) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) and the purposes of this paragraph, the other amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual on March 1, 1993 and not at the particular time and any premium paid by the individual or the individual's spouse after March 1, 1993 and before the particular time under a registered retirement savings plan shall be deemed to have been paid on March 1, 1993;

(e) where

(i) at a particular time after March 1, 1994 and before April 1994 (or at such later time in 1994 as is acceptable to the Minister), an individual receives an amount that would, if paragraph (g) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to the words "and before March 2, 1994" and that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (d.1) and (h) thereof, be an eligible amount,

(ii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the amount was received was made before March 2, 1994 or, where the individual received an eligible amount before March 2, 1994, at such later time as is acceptable to the Minister, and

(iii) the individual does not elect by notifying the Minister in writing before the end of 1995 that this paragraph not apply except for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (a) to (f) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1), that amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual on March 1, 1994 and not at the particular time and any premium paid under a registered retirement savings plan by the individual or the individual's spouse after March 1, 1994 and before the particular time shall be deemed to have been paid on March 1, 1994; and

(f) where

(i) an individual receives an eligible amount in a particular calendar year,

(ii) at a particular time in January of the following calendar year (or at such later time in that following year as is acceptable to the Minister), an individual receives another amount that would, if the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read without reference to paragraph (i) thereof, be an eligible amount, and

(iii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the other amount was received was made before the end of the particular calendar year except for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (a) to (h) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1), the other amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual at the end of the particular calendar year and not at the particular time.

Para. 146.01(2)(a.1) added by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(5), applicable to 1994 et seq.

Subparas. 146.01(2)(d)(ii) and (iii) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(6), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subparas. (ii) and (iii) formerly read:

(ii) at a particular time after March 1, 1993 and before April 1993 the individual receives another amount that would, if the reference to "March 1, 1993" in paragraph (g) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read as "March 1993", be an eligible amount, and

(iii) the request described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) pursuant to which the other amount was received was made before March 2, 1993,

Paras. 146.01(2)(e) and (f) substituted for para. (e) by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(7); para. (e) applicable to 1992 et seq., and para. (f) applicable to 1995 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

(e) where

(i) at a particular time after March 1, 1994 and before April 1994, an individual receives an amount that would, if the reference to "March 2, 1994" in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) were read as "April 1994", be an eligible amount, and except for the purposes of paragraphs (b) to (g) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) and the purposes of this paragraph, that amount shall be deemed to have been received by the individual on March 1, 1994 and not at the particular time and any premium paid by the individual or the individual's spouse after March 1, 1994 and before the particular time under a registered retirement savings plan shall be deemed to have been paid on March 1, 1994.

Para. 146.01(2)(c) amended, paras. (d) and (e) added, by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(4), applicable to 1992 et seq. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) where

(i) neither a qualifying home in respect of which an individual withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) nor a replacement property for the qualifying home has been acquired by the individual before October 1, 1993, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual

(I) is obliged under the terms of a written agreement in effect on October 1, 1993 to acquire the qualifying home (or a replacement property for the qualifying home) on or after that day,

(II) acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home before October 1, 1994, and

(III) is resident in Canada throughout the period beginning on October 1, 1993 and ending on the earlier of October 1, 1994 and the earliest of any day on which the individual acquires the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, or

(B) the individual made payments

(I) to persons with whom the individual was dealing at arm's length,

(II) in respect of the construction of the qualifying home or a replacement property for the qualifying home, and

(III) in the period beginning at the time the individual first withdrew an amount described in paragraph (a) of that definition in respect of the qualifying home and ending before October 1, 1993,

and the total of all payments so made was not less than the total of all amounts described in that paragraph in respect of the qualifying home that were withdrawn by the individual, except for the purposes of this paragraph, the individual shall be deemed to have acquired the qualifying home on September 30, 1993.

(7) Where subsec. (6) does not apply — Where

(a) an individual's spouse was resident in Canada immediately before the death of the individual in a taxation year,

(b) the spouse and the individual's legal representatives jointly so elect in writing in the individual's return of income under this Part for the year, and

(c) either

(i) the spouse or the individual did not receive any eligible amount before the death, or

(ii) the spouse and the individual both received eligible amounts before the death and all the completion dates in respect of those amounts were the same or occurred before 1995,

the following rules apply:

(d) subsection (6) does not apply to the individual;

(e) the spouse shall be deemed to have received an eligible amount at the time of the death equal to the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual;

(f) for the purpose only of determining whether an amount received after the death is an eligible amount in respect of the spouse, the spouse shall be deemed to have received all eligible amounts in respect of the individual at the times that those amounts were received by the individual; and

(g) the completion date in respect of the eligible amount deemed by paragraph (e) to have been received by the spouse shall be deemed to be

(i) where the spouse received an eligible amount before the death, the completion date in respect of that amount,

(ii) where subparagraph (i) does not apply and the individual received an eligible amount before the death, the completion date in respect of that amount, and

(iii) in any other case, October 1 of the year.

(7) Idem — Where an individual's spouse was resident in Canada immediately before the death of the individual in a taxation year and the spouse and the individual's legal representative jointly so elect in writing in the individual's return of income under this Part for the year,

(a) subsection (6) does not apply in respect of the individual; and

(b) except for the purposes of subsections (9) and (10), the spouse shall be deemed to have received an eligible amount at the time of the individual's death equal to the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual.

Para. 146.01(7)(b) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(6), applicable to 1992 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) except for the purpose of subsection (9), the spouse shall be deemed to have received an eligible amount at the time of the individual's death equal to the amount that would, but for this subsection, be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual .

(8) Filing of prescribed form — A prescribed form referred to in this section that is submitted to an issuer shall be filed with the Minister by the issuer not later than 15 days after the quarter in which it was submitted to the issuer.

Proposed Repeal — 146.01(8)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 142(2), will repeal subsec. 146.01(8), applicable to 2002 et seq.

Technical Notes: In order for an RRSP withdrawal to qualify as an HBP withdrawal, the taxpayer must make a written request in prescribed form to the RRSP issuer. The prescribed form for this purpose is the T1036. Under subsection 146.01(8), an RRSP issuer to whom a T1036 is submitted must file the form with the Minister of National Revenue no later than 15 days after the quarter in which it was so submitted.

Subsection 146.01(8) is repealed. Rather than reporting HBP withdrawals on a quarterly basis by filing the relevant T1036, RRSP issuers are instead required (by subsection 214(1) of the Regulations) to report such withdrawals on an annual basis using the T4RSP.

Forms: T1 Sched. 7: RRSP unused contributions, transfers, and HBP or LLP activities; T1036: Home buyers' plan — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP.

(9)–(13) [Repealed]

History: Subsecs. 146.01(9)–(13) repealed by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 44(13), applicable to 1994 et seq. The subsecs. formerly read:

(9) Income inclusion for 1992 — There shall be included in computing the income for the 1992 taxation year of an individual who was resident in Canada at the end of that year an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the net premium balance for the year of the individual, and

(b) the total of

(i) all eligible amounts received by the individual before March 2, 1993, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual's spouse is the annuitant, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all eligible amounts received before March 2, 1993 by the individual's spouse

exceeds

(II) the net premium balance for the year of the individual's spouse.

(10) Income inclusion for 1993 — There shall be included in computing the income for the 1993 taxation year of an individual who was resident in Canada at the end of that year an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the net premium balance for the year of the individual, and

(b) the total of

(i) all eligible amounts received after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994 by the individual, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after December 2, 1992 and before March 2, 1994 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual's spouse is the annuitant, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all eligible amounts received after March 1, 1993 and before March 2, 1994 by the individual's spouse

exceeds

(II) the net premium balance for the year of the individual's spouse.

(11) Net premium balance for 1992 — For the purpose of subsection (9), the net premium balance for the 1992 taxation year of an individual is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse is the annuitant

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the individual or the individual's spouse after February 25, 1992 and before 1994 and included under subsection 146(8) or (8.3) in computing the individual's income for the 1992 or 1993 taxation year (other than an amount in respect of which an amount is deductible under paragraph 146(8.6)(b) in computing the income of the individual or in respect of premiums paid by the individual after March 1, 1993).

(12) Net premium balance for 1993 — For the purpose of subsection (10), the net premium balance for the 1993 taxation year of an individual is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after December 2, 1992 and before March 2, 1994 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse is the annuitant

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the individual or the individual's spouse after December 2, 1992 and before 1995 and included under subsection 146(8) or (8.3) in computing the individual's income for the 1992, 1993 or 1994 taxation year (other than an amount in respect of which an amount is deductible under paragraph 146(8.6)(b) in computing the income of the individual or in respect of premiums paid by the individual after March 1, 1994).

(13) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to subsections (9) and (10).

Subsecs. 146.01(9)–(13) substituted for subsecs. 146.01(9)–(11) by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 19(7), applicable to 1992 et seq. Those subsecs. formerly read:

(9) Income inclusion — There shall be included in computing the income for the 1992 taxation year of an individual who was resident in Canada at the end of that year an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the net premium balance of the individual, and

(b) the total of

(i) all amounts each of which is an eligible amount received in 1992 or 1993 by the individual, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual's spouse is the annuitant, and

(B) the amount, if any, by which

(I) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible amount received in 1992 or 1993 by the individual's spouse

exceeds

(II) the net premium balance of the individual's spouse.

(10) Net premium balance — For the purposes of subsection (9), the net premium balance of an individual is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all premiums (other than excluded premiums in respect of the individual) paid by the individual after February 25, 1992 and before March 2, 1993 under registered retirement savings plans under which the individual or the individual's spouse is the annuitant

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received by the individual or the individual's spouse after February 25, 1992 and before 1994 and included under subsection 146(8) or (8.3) in computing the individual's income for the 1992 or 1993 taxation year (other than an amount in respect of which an amount is deductible under paragraph 146(8.6)(b) in computing the income of the individual or in respect of premiums paid by the individual after March 1, 1993).

(11) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4) to (5), such assessments of tax, interest and penalties shall be made as are necessary to give effect to amounts included in income under subsection (9).

Lifelong Learning Plan

146.02 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"annuitant" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1).

"benefit" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1).

"eligible amount" of an individual means a particular amount received at a particular time in a calendar year by the individual as a benefit out of or under a registered retirement savings plan if

(a) the particular amount is received after 1998 pursuant to the individual's written request in a prescribed form;

(b) in respect of the particular amount, the individual designates in the form a person (in this definition referred to as the "designated person") who is the individual or the individual's spouse or common-law partner;

(c) the total of the particular amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual at or before the particular time and in the year does not exceed $10,000;

(d) the total of the particular amount and all other eligible amounts received by the individual at or before the particular time (other than amounts received in participation periods of the individual that ended before the year) does not exceed $20,000;

(e) the individual did not receive an eligible amount at or before the particular time in respect of which someone other than the designated person was designated (other than an amount received in a participation period of the individual that ended before the year);

(f) the designated person

(i) is enrolled at the particular time as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program, or

(ii) has received written notification before the particular time that the designated person is absolutely or contingently entitled to enrol before March of the following year as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program;

(g) the individual is resident in Canada throughout the period that begins at the particular time and ends immediately before the earlier of

(i) the beginning of the following year, and

(ii) the time of the individual's death;

(h) except where the individual dies after the particular time and before April of the following year, the designated person is enrolled as a full-time student in a qualifying educational program after the particular time and before March of the following year and

(i) the designated person completes the program before April of the following year,

(ii) the designated person does not withdraw from the program before April of the following year, or

(iii) less than 75% of the tuition paid, after the beginning of the year and before April of the following year, in respect of the designated person and the program is refundable; and

(i) if an eligible amount was received by the individual before the year, the particular time is neither

(i) in the individual's repayment period for the individual's participation period that includes the particular time, nor

(ii) after January (or a later month where the Minister so permits) of the fifth calendar year of that participation period.

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under LLP ineligible for RRSP contribution; 146.01(2) — Interpretation; 146.02(3), (4) — Repayment of eligible amounts to RRSP.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsec. 146.02(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Regulations: 214(1) (information return).

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP; RC4112: Lifelong learning plan [guide].

"excluded premium" of an individual means a premium that

(a) was designated by the individual for the purpose of paragraph 60(j), (j.1) or (l) or subsection 146.01(3);

(b) was a repayment to which paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsection 146.01(1) applies;

(c) was an amount transferred directly from a registered retirement savings plan, registered pension plan, registered retirement income fund, deferred profit sharing plan or a provincial pension plan prescribed for the purpose of paragraph 60(v); or

(d) was deductible under subsection 146(6.1) in computing the individual's income for any taxation year.

"excluded withdrawal" of an individual means

(a) an eligible amount received by the individual; or

(b) a particular amount (other than an eligible amount) received while the individual was resident in Canada and in a calendar year if

(i) the particular amount would be an eligible amount of the individual if the definition "eligible amount" were read without reference to paragraphs (g) and (h) of that definition,

(ii) a payment (other than an excluded premium) equal to the particular amount is paid by the individual under a retirement savings plan that is, at the end of the taxation year of payment, a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant,

(iii) the payment is made before the particular time that is,

(A) if the individual was not resident in Canada at the time the individual filed a return of income for the taxation year in which the particular amount was received, the earlier of

(I) the end of the following calendar year, and

(II) the time at which the individual filed the return, and

(B) in any other case, the end of the following calendar year, and

(iv) the payment (and no other payment) is designated under this subparagraph as a repayment of the particular amount in prescribed form filed with the Minister on or before the particular time (or before such later time as is acceptable to the Minister).

Related Provisions: 146(1)"premium" — Definition excludes repayment described in para. (b); 146(8) — LLP withdrawal not to be included in income.

"full-time student" in a taxation year includes an individual to whom subsection 118.6(3) applies for the purpose of computing tax payable under this Part for the year or the following taxation year.

"LLP balance" of an individual at any time means the amount, if any, by which the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual at or before that time exceeds the total of

(a) all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual for taxation years that ended before that time, and

(b) all amounts each of which is included under subsection (4) or (5) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year that ended before that time.

Related Provisions: 150(1.1)(b)(iv) — Individual with LLP balance must file tax return.

"participation period" of an individual means each period

(a) that begins at the beginning of a calendar year

(i) in which the individual receives an eligible amount, and

(ii) at the beginning of which the individual's LLP balance is nil; and

(b) that ends immediately before the beginning of the first subsequent calendar year at the beginning of which the individual's LLP balance is nil.

"premium" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1).

"qualifying educational program" means a program at a designated educational institution, as defined in subsection 118.6(1), of not less than three consecutive months duration that requires that each student taking the program spend not less than ten hours per week on courses or work in the program and that is

(a) of a technical or vocational nature designed to furnish a person with skills for, or improve a person's skills in, an occupation, if the program is at an institution described in subparagraph (a)(ii) of that definition; and

(b) at a post-secondary school level, in any other case.

History: The definition "qualifying educational program" in subsec. 146.02(1) amended by 2005, c. 19, s. 33, applicable after 2003. The definition formerly read:

"qualifying educational program" means a qualifying educational program (as defined in subsection 118.6(1)) at a designated educational institution (as defined in subsection 118.6(1)), except that the definition "qualifying educational program" in subsection 118.6(1) shall be read

(a) without reference to paragraphs (a) and (b) of that definition; and

(b) as if the expression "3 consecutive weeks" were "3 consecutive months".

"repayment period" of an individual for a participation period of the individual in respect of a person designated under paragraph (b) of the definition "eligible amount" means the period, if any, within the participation period

(a) that begins

(i) at the beginning of the third calendar year within the participation period, if the person would not be entitled to claim an amount under subsection 118.6(2) in respect of at least three months in each of the second and third calendar years within the participation period, if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (b) of the description of B in that subsection,

(ii) at the beginning of the fourth calendar year within the participation period, if subparagraph (i) does not apply and the person would not be entitled to claim an amount under subsection 118.6(2) in respect of at least three months in each of the third and fourth calendar years within the participation period, if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (b) of the description of B in that subsection,

(iii) at the beginning of the fifth calendar year within the participation period, if subparagraphs (i) and (ii) do not apply and the person would not be entitled to claim an amount under subsection 118.6(2) in respect of at least three months in each of the fourth and fifth calendar years within that period, if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph (b) of the description of B in that subsection, and

(iv) in any other case, at the beginning of the sixth calendar year within the participation period; and

(b) that ends at the end of the participation period.

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP; RC4112: Lifelong learning plan [guide].

(2) Rule of application — For the purpose of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1), a particular person is deemed to be the only person in respect of whom a particular amount was designated under paragraph (b) of that definition if

(a) an individual received the particular amount;

(b) the individual files a prescribed form with the Minister in which the particular person is specified in connection with the receipt of the particular amount;

(c) the particular amount would be an eligible amount of the individual if

(i) that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (b) and (e) of that definition, and

(ii) each reference in the portion of that definition after paragraph (d) to "designated person" were read as "individual" or "individual's spouse or common-law partner"; and

(d) the Minister so permits.

Related Provisions: 146(5)(a)(iv.1), 146(5.1)(a)(iv) — Amount withdrawn within 90 days under LLP ineligible for RRSP contribution.

History: Subpara. 146.02(2)(c)(ii) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP.

(3) Repayment of eligible amount — An individual may designate a single amount for a taxation year in prescribed form filed with the individual's return of income for the year if the amount does not exceed the lesser of

(a) the total of all amounts (other than excluded premiums, repayments to which paragraph (b) of the definition "excluded withdrawal" in subsection (1) applies and amounts paid by the individual in the first 60 days of the year that can reasonably be considered to have been deducted in computing the individual's income, or designated under this subsection, for the preceding taxation year) paid by the individual in the year or within 60 days after the end of the year under a retirement savings plan that is at the end of the year or the following taxation year a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant, and

(b) the individual's LLP balance at the end of the year.

Forms: RC96: LLP — request to withdraw funds from an RRSP.

(4) If portion of eligible amount not repaid — There shall be included in computing an individual's income for a particular taxation year that begins after 2000 the amount determined by the formula

$$[(A - B - C)/(10 - D)] - E$$

where

A is

(a) nil, if

(i) the individual died or ceased to be resident in Canada in the particular year, or

(ii) the beginning of the particular year is not included in a repayment period of the individual, and

(b) in any other case, the total of all eligible amounts received by the individual in preceding taxation years (other than taxation years in participation periods of the individual that ended before the particular year);

B is

(a) nil, if the particular year is the first taxation year in a repayment period of the individual, and

(b) in any other case, the total of all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual for preceding taxation years (other than taxation years in participation periods of the individual that ended before the particular year);

C is the total of all amounts each of which is included under this subsection or subsection (5) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year (other than a taxation year included in a participation period of the individual that ended before the particular year);

D is the lesser of nine and the number of taxation years of the individual that end in the period that

(a) begins at the beginning of the individual's last repayment period that began at or before the beginning of the particular year, and

(b) ends at the beginning of the particular year; and

E is

(a) if the particular year is the first taxation year within a repayment period of the individual, the total of the amount designated under subsection (3) by the individual for the particular year and all amounts so designated for preceding taxation years (other than taxation years in participation periods of the individual that ended before the particular year), and

(b) in any other case, the amount designated under subsection (3) by the individual for the particular year.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(h.1) — Inclusion in income; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Forms: RC4112: Lifelong learning plan [guide].

(5) Ceasing residence in Canada — If at any time in a taxation year an individual ceases to be resident in Canada, there shall be included in computing the individual's income for the period in the year during which the individual was resident in Canada the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is an eligible amount received by the individual in the year or a preceding taxation year

exceeds the total of

(b) all amounts designated under subsection (3) by the individual in respect of amounts paid not later than 60 days after that time and before the individual files a return of income for the year, and

(c) all amounts included under subsection (4) or this subsection in computing the individual's income for preceding taxation years.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(h.2) — LLP — income inclusion; 128.1(4) — Ceasing residence in Canada.

(6) Death of individual — If an individual dies at any time in a taxation year, there shall be included in computing the individual's income for the year the amount, if any, by which

(a) the individual's LLP balance immediately before that time

exceeds

(b) the amount designated under subsection (3) by the individual for the year.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(h.2) — LLP — income inclusion; 70(5) — Effect of death; 146.01(7) — Optional transfer of repayment obligation to spouse.

(7) Exception — If a spouse or common-law partner of an individual was resident in Canada immediately before the individual's death at a particular time in a taxation year and the spouse or common-law partner and the individual's legal representatives jointly so elect in writing in the individual's return of income for the year,

(a) subsection (6) does not apply to the individual;

(b) the spouse or common-law partner is deemed to have received a particular eligible amount at the particular time equal to the amount that, but for this subsection, would be determined under subsection (6) in respect of the individual;

(c) subject to paragraph (d), for the purpose of applying this section after the particular time, the spouse or common-law partner is deemed to be the person designated under paragraph (b) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) in respect of the particular amount; and

(d) where the spouse or common-law partner received an eligible amount before the particular time in the spouse's or common-law partner's participation period that included the particular time and the particular individual designated under paragraph (b) of the definition "eligible amount" in subsection (1) in respect of that eligible amount was not the spouse or common-law partner, for the purpose of applying this section after the particular time the particular individual is deemed to be the person designated under that paragraph in respect of the particular amount.

History: Subsec. 146.02(7) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 7, to replace "spouse's"with "spouse's or common-law partner's", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. The definition "education savings plan" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable to contracts made after 1997. The definition formerly read:

"education savings plan" means a contract entered into at any time between an individual (in this section referred to as a "subscriber") and a person or organization (in this section referred to as a "promoter") under which, in consideration of payment by the subscriber of any periodic or other amount as consideration under the contract, the promoter agrees to pay or to cause to be paid to or for a beneficiary educational assistance payments;

"educational assistance payment" means any amount, other than a refund of payments, paid out of an education savings plan to or for an individual to assist the individual to further the individual's education at a post-secondary school level;

Related Provisions: 56(1)(q), 146.1(7) — EAPs included in income; 146.1(2)(g.1), 204.9(1) — Limitations on EAPs; 146.1(2.21), (2.22) — EAP can be made up to 6 months after ceasing to be student; 212(1)(r) — Non-resident withholding tax on EAPs.

History: The definition "educational assistance paymen" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "educational assistance payment" means any amount, other than a refund of payments, paid or payable under an education savings plan to or for a beneficiary to assist the beneficiary to further the beneficiary's education at the post-secondary school level;

Regulations: 200(2)(j) (information return).

RESP Bulletins: 1 (up to $20,000 EAP accepted administratively as legitimate).

"post-secondary educational institution" means

(a) an educational institution in Canada that is described in paragraph (a) of the definition "designated educational institution" in subsection 118.6(1), or

(b) an educational institution outside Canada that is a university, college or other educational institution that provides courses at a post-secondary school level at which a beneficiary was enrolled in a course of not less than 13 consecutive weeks;

History: The definition "post-secondary education institution" (formerly 146.1(1)(c.1) before consolidation in R.S.C. 1985 (5th Supp.)) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(2), applicable after February 20, 1990.

"post-secondary school level" includes a program of courses, at an institution described in subparagraph (a)(ii) of the definition "designated educational institution" in subsection 118.6(1), of a technical or vocational nature designed to furnish a person with skills for, or improve a person's skills in, an occupation;

History: The definition "post-secondary school level" in subsec. 146.1(1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 34(2), applicable after 2003.

"pre-1972 income" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "pre-1972 income" in subsec. 146.1(1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(1), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "pre-1972 income" means the total of all amounts each of which is the income (within the meaning of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read in its application to the particular taxation year) for a taxation year ending before 1972 of a trust governed by an education savings plan;

"public primary caregiver", of a beneficiary under an education savings plan in respect of whom a special allowance is payable under the Children's Special Allowances Act, means the department, agency or institution that maintains the beneficiary or the public trustee or public curator of the province in which the beneficiary resides;

Proposed Amendment — 146.1(1)"public primary caregiver"

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Jan. 7, 2008: See under 204.94(2).

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a registered education savings plan means

(a) an investment that would be described by any of paragraphs (a) to (d), (f) and (g) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the reference in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as a reference to "a trust governed by a registered education savings plan" and if that definition were read without reference to the words "with the exception of excluded property in relation to the trust",

(b) [Repealed]

(c) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract,

(d) an investment that was acquired by the trust before October 28, 1998, and

(e) a prescribed investment;

Related Provisions: 87(10) — New share issued on amalgamation of public corporation deemed listed; 132.2(1)(k) [to be repealed], 132.2(3)(h) [draft] — Where share ceases to be qualified investment due to mutual fund reorganization; 146.1(2.1)(a) — Acquisition of non-qualified investment makes plan revocable; 207.1(3) — Tax payable by RESP on holding non-qualified investments.

History: Para. (a) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended, para. (b) repealed, by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 18(2), applicable in determining whether a property is, at any time after March 18, 2007, a qualified investment. The paras. formerly read:

> (a) an investment that would be described in any of paragraphs (a), (b), (d) and (f) to (h) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the reference in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as a reference to "a trust governed by a registered education savings plan",
> (b) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation
> (i) issued by a corporation the shares of which are listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada, or
> (ii) issued by an authorized foreign bank and payable at a branch in Canada of the bank,

Para. (b) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 140, applicable after June 27, 1999. The para. formerly read:

> (b) a bond, debenture, note or similar obligation of a corporation the shares of which are listed on a prescribed stock exchange in Canada,

The definition "qualified investment" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(3), applicable after 1997.

"qualifying educational program" means a program at a post-secondary school level of not less than three consecutive weeks duration that requires that each student taking the program spend not less than ten hours per week on courses or work in the program;

History: The definition "qualifying educational program" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 34(1), applicable after 2003. The definition formerly read:

> "qualifying educational program" has the meaning that would be assigned by the definition of that expression in subsection 118.6(1) if that definition were read without reference to paragraph (a);

The definition "qualifying educational program" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 42(1), applicable to 1996 et seq. It formerly read:

> "qualifying educational program" has the meaning assigned by subsection 118.6(1);

The definition "qualifying educational program" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(2), applicable after February 20, 1990.

"RESP annual limit" — [Repealed]

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(k) — Contributions not to exceed RESP annual limit; 204.9"excess amount"(a) — Penalty tax on exceeding RESP annual limit.

History: The definition "RESP annual limit" in subsec. 146.1(1) repealed by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 18(1), applicable to contributions made after 2006. It formerly read:

> "RESP annual limit" for a year means,
> (a) for 1990 to 1995, $1,500,
> (b) for 1996, $2,000, and
> (c) for 1997 and subsequent years, $4,000;

The definition "RESP annual limit" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(4), applicable after 1989.

"refund of payments" at any time under a particular registered education savings plan means

(a) a refund at that time of a contribution that had been made at a previous time, if the contribution was made

(i) otherwise than by way of a transfer from another registered education savings plan, and

(ii) into the particular plan by or on behalf of a subscriber under the particular plan, or

(b) a refund at that time of an amount that was paid at a previous time into the particular plan by way of a transfer from another registered education savings plan, where the amount would have been a refund of payments under the other plan if it had been paid at the previous time directly to a subscriber under the other plan;

History: The definition "refund of payments" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable to 1997 et seq. The definition formerly read:

> "refund of payments" means any amount (not in excess of the total of amounts paid by or on behalf of a subscriber under an education savings plan) paid or payable to the subscriber, the subscriber's heirs, executors or assigns as or on account of a refund of amounts paid to the plan by or on behalf of the subscriber under the plan;

"registered education savings plan" means

(a) an education savings plan registered for the purposes of this Act, or

(b) a registered education savings plan as it is amended from time to time

but, except for the purposes of subsections (7) and (7.1) and Part X.4, a plan ceases to be a registered education savings plan immediately after the day as of which its registration is revoked under subsection (13);

Related Provisions: 75(3)(a) — Reversionary trust rules do not apply to RESP; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iii) — No deemed disposition of RESP on emigration; 248(1)"disposition"(f)(vi) — Rollover from one trust to another; 248(1)"registered education savings plan" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "registered education savings plan" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(2), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "registered education savings plan" means an education savings plan accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act as complying with the requirements of this section;

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

"specified educational program" means a program at a post-secondary school level of not less than three consecutive weeks duration that requires each student taking the program to spend not less than 12 hours per month on courses in the program;

History: The definition "specified educational program" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 18(3), applicable to 2007 et seq.

"specified plan" means an education savings plan

(a) that does not allow more than one beneficiary under the plan at any one time,

(b) under which the beneficiary is an individual in respect of whom paragraphs 118.3(1)(a) to (b) apply for the beneficiary's taxation year that ends in the 31st year following the year in which the plan was entered into, and

(c) that provides that, at all times after the end of the 35th year following the year in which the plan was entered into, no other individual may be designated as a beneficiary under the plan;

History: Para. (b) of the definition "specified plan" amended to substitute "31st" for "21st", and para. (c) amended to substitute "35th" for "25th", by 2008, c. 28, subsec. 23(1), applicable to 2008 et seq.

The definition "specified plan" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 2005, c. 30, subsec. 10(1), applicable to 2005 et seq.

"subscriber" under an education savings plan at any time means

(a) each individual or the public primary caregiver with whom the promoter of the plan enters into the plan,

(a.1) another individual or another public primary caregiver who has before that time, under a written agreement, acquired a public primary caregiver's rights as a subscriber under the plan,

(b) an individual who has before that time acquired a subscriber's rights under the plan pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and a subscriber under the plan in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, or

(c) after the death of an individual described in any of paragraphs (a) to (b), any other person (including the estate of the deceased individual) who acquires the individual's rights as a subscriber under the plan or who makes contributions into the plan in respect of a beneficiary but does not include an individual or a public primary caregiver whose rights as a subscriber under the plan had, before that time, been acquired by an individual or public primary caregiver in the circumstances described in paragraph (a.1) or (b);

History: Para. (a) of the definition "subscriber" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended and para. (a.1) added by 2004, c. 26, subsec. 21(3), in force December 15, 2004. Para. (a) formerly read:

> (a) each individual with whom the promoter of the plan entered into the plan,

The portion of the definition "subscriber" after para. (b) amended by the said c. 26, subsec. 21(4), in force December 15, 2004. The portion formerly read:

> (c) after the death of a subscriber under the plan, any other person (including the estate of the subscriber) who makes contributions into the plan in respect of a beneficiary
> but does not include an individual who, before that time, disposed of the individual's rights as a subscriber under the plan in the circumstances described in paragraph (b);

The definition "subscriber" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "subscriber" added to subsec. 146.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(4), applicable to contracts made after 1997.

"tax-paid-income" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "tax-paid-income" in subsec. 146.1(1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(1), applicable after 1997. The definition formerly read:

> "tax-paid-income" means the amount determined by the formula
> $$A - (B - C)$$
>
> where
> A is the fair market value on December 31, 1971 of all the property of a trust governed by an education savings plan,
> B is the total of all amounts paid to the plan on or before December 31, 1971 by or on behalf of the subscriber under the plan, and
> C is the total amount of all refunds of payments made under the plan on or before December 31, 1971; and

"trust", except in this definition and the definition "education savings plan", means any person who irrevocably holds property under an education savings plan for any of, or any combination of, the following purposes:

(a) the payment of educational assistance payments,

(b) the payment after 1997 of accumulated income payments,

(c) the refund of payments,

(c.1) the repayment of amounts (and the payment of amounts related to that repayment) under the Canada Education Savings Act or under a designated provincial program,

(d) the payment to, or to a trust in favour of, designated educational institutions in Canada referred to in subparagraph (a)(i) of the definition of that expression in subsection 118.6(1), or

(e) the payment to a trust that irrevocably holds property pursuant to a registered education savings plan for any of the purposes set out in paragraphs (a) to (d).

Related Provisions: 104(1) — Reference to trust or estate; 108(1)"trust"(a) — "trust" does not include a RESP for certain purposes; 146.1(14)(a) — Reference to Canada Education Savings Act includes reference to earlier DHRD Act.

History: Para. (c.1) of the definition "trust" in subsec. 146.1(1) amended to substitute "designated provincial program" for "program administered pursuant to an agreement entered into under section 12 of that Act" by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 45(2), applicable to 2007 et seq.

Para. (c.1) of the definition "trust" amended by 2004, c. 26, subsec. 21(5), in force December 15, 2004. The para. formerly read:

> (c.1) the repayment of amounts under Part III.1 of the Department of Human Resources Development Act, Para. (c.1) added to the definition "trust" by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(2), applicable after 1997.

The portion of the definition "trust" in subsec. 146.1(1) before para. (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(3), applicable after 1997. The portion formerly read:

"trust", except in this definition, means any person who irrevocably holds property pursuant to an education savings plan for

(a) the payment of educational assistance payments,

(b) the payment of scholarships or other amounts to persons, other than a beneficiary, to assist them to further their education at the post-secondary school level,

That portion of the definition of "trust" in subsec. 146.1(1) preceding para. (a) amended to substitute "holds property" for "holds property or money", and para. (e) amended to substitute "holds property pursuant to a registered education savings plan" for "holds money or property transferred to it", by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 118(4), (5), applicable after July 13, 1990.

RESP Bulletins: 1 (designated provincial program).

(2) Conditions for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any education savings plan of a promoter unless, in the Minister's opinion, the following conditions are complied with:

(a) the plan provides that the property of any trust governed by the plan (after the payment of trustee and administration charges) is irrevocably held for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1) by a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as a trustee;

(b) at the time of the application by the promoter for registration of the plan, there are not fewer than 150 plans entered into with the promoter each of which complied, at the time it was entered into, with all the other conditions set out in this subsection, as it read at that time;

(b.1) application for registration of the plan is made by the promoter in prescribed form containing prescribed information;

(c) the promoter and all trusts governed by the plan are resident in Canada;

(d) the plan does not allow for any payment before 1998 to a subscriber, other than a refund of payments, unless the subscriber is also the beneficiary under the plan;

(d.1) subject to subsection (2.2), if the plan allows accumulated income payments, the plan provides that an accumulated income payment is permitted to be made only if

(i) the payment is made to, or on behalf of, a subscriber under the plan who is resident in Canada when the payment is made,

(ii) the payment is not made jointly to, or on behalf of, more than one subscriber, and

(iii) any of

(A) the payment is made after the 9th year that follows the year in which the plan was entered into and each individual (other than a deceased individual) who is or was a beneficiary under the plan has attained 21 years of age before the payment is made and is not, when the payment is made, eligible under the plan to receive an educational assistance payment,

(B) the payment is made in the year in which the plan is required to be terminated in accordance with paragraph (i), or

(C) each individual who was a beneficiary under the plan is deceased when the payment is made;

(e) the plan is substantially similar to the type of plan described in or annexed to a prospectus filed by the promoter with a securities commission in Canada or a body performing a similar function in a province;

(f) in the event that a trust governed by the plan is terminated, the property held by the trust is required to be used for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1);

(g) the plan does not allow for the payment of educational assistance payments before 1997 to an individual unless the individual is, at the time the payment is made, a student in full-time attendance at a post-secondary educational institution and enrolled in a qualifying educational program at the institution;

(g.1) the plan does not allow for the payment of an educational assistance payment to or for an individual at any time after 1996 unless

(i) either

(A) the individual is, at that time, enrolled as a student in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution, or

(B) the individual has, before that time, attained the age of 16 years and is, at that time, enrolled as a student in a specified educational program at a post-secondary educational institution, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual satisfies, at that time, the condition set out in clause (i)(A), and

(I) has satisfied that condition throughout at least 13 consecutive weeks in the 12-month period that ends at that time, or

(II) the total of the payment and all other educational assistance payments made under a registered education savings plan of the promoter to or for the individual in the 12-month period that ends at that time does not exceed $5,000 or any greater amount that the Minister designated for the purpose of the Canada Education Savings Act approves in writing with respect to the individual, or

(B) the individual satisfies, at that time, the condition set out in clause (i)(B) and the total of the payment and all other educational assistance payments made under a registered education savings plan of the promoter to or for the individual in the 13-week period that ends at that time does not exceed $2,500 or any greater amount that the Minister designated for the purpose of the Canada Education Savings Act approves in writing with respect to the individual;

(g.2) the plan does not allow for any contribution into the plan, other than a contribution made by or on behalf of a subscriber under the plan in respect of a beneficiary under the plan or a contribution made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan;

Proposed Addition — 146.1(2)(g.3)

(g.3) the plan provides that an individual is permitted to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan, and that a contribution to the plan in respect of an individual who is a beneficiary under the plan is permitted to be made, only if

(i) in the case of a designation, the individual's Social Insurance Number is provided to the promoter before the designation is made and either

(A) the individual is resident in Canada when the designation is made, or

(B) the designation is made in conjunction with a transfer of property into the plan from another registered education savings plan under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer, and

(ii) in the case of a contribution, either

(A) the individual's Social Insurance Number is provided to the promoter before the contribution is made and the individual is resident in Canada when the contribution is made, or

(B) the contribution is made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 143(1), will add para. 146.1(2)(g.3), applicable after 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146.1(2) sets out the conditions that must be satisfied in order for an education savings plan to be accepted for registration.

New paragraph 146.1(2)(g.3) is introduced to preclude non-residents and individuals who have not yet been assigned a Social Insurance Number (SIN) from becoming a beneficiary under a registered education savings plan (RESP) or from benefiting from RESP contributions.

Specifically, paragraph 146.1(2)(g.3) requires that an education savings plan not permit an individual to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan, and not allow a contribution for an individual who is a beneficiary under the plan, unless the individual's SIN has been provided to the promoter of the plan and the individual is resident in Canada.

If an individual is designated as a beneficiary under an RESP in conjunction with the transfer of property into the plan from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer, the requirement that the individual be resident in Canada in order to be designated as a beneficiary does not apply. However, subject to the exceptions in new subsection 146.1(2.3), the individual's SIN has to be provided to the promoter in order for the individual to be designated as a beneficiary under the transferee RESP. This special rule is intended primarily to accommodate transfers from an RESP to a replacement RESP after the beneficiary has ceased to be resident of Canada. (It should be noted that the transfer itself, as a contribution to an RESP, is not subject to the SIN and residency conditions that apply to ordinary contributions.)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 15, 2003:

Dear [xxx]

I am responding to your letter of January 17, 2003 to Mr. Brett Baker, regarding the proposed Income Tax Act (ITA) amendments contained in the legislative proposals that were released on December 20, 2002. Your letter raises concerns about the amendment requiring registered education savings plan (RESP) promoters to obtain a beneficiary's Social Insurance Number (SIN) before accepting any contributions into an RESP. I want to express my appreciation for the recent opportunity I had to meet with you and several of your colleagues to further elaborate on this matter.

The federal government is committed to helping Canadian families save for their children's post-secondary education, and recognizes the important role that RESPs play in helping them achieve their financial goal. As you know, the government has taken significant steps in recent years to enhance the attractiveness of RESPs as a savings instrument: the lifetime contribution limit was increased to $42,000 per beneficiary; the annual contribution limit was raised to $4,000 to give families flexibility to make "catch-up" contributions; investment income can be paid out to the contributor in the event the beneficiary does not pursue post-secondary education; and the Canada Education Savings Grant (CESG) program was introduced in the 1998 Budget as part of the Canadian Opportunities Strategy.

The SIN is already required for the effective administration of both the RESP and CESG programs, and must currently be provided in order to register an RESP. The proposed amendment to the ITA is intended to help ensure that RESP beneficiaries fully benefit from RESP tax benefits and the CESG supplement, and will minimize the potential for adverse consequences that can currently arise when the SIN is not provided on time.

In the event that parents face significant delays in obtaining a SIN for their child, they can generally make "catch-up" contributions to the RESP and thus obtain the full CESG.

We appreciate comments and suggestions that we have received on the proposed amendment from members of your organization and others in the RESP industry. While imposing a requirement for obtaining a SIN prior to setting up an RESP is appropriate, for the reasons set out above, we understand that implementing this change too quickly might be disruptive and have some adverse impacts on the sale of RESPs. In order to provide for a smoother transition, I will recommend to the Minister of Finance that the coming-into-force date of the proposed amendment be deferred from March 21, 2003 until January 1, 2004.

I trust this addresses your concerns and thank you for bringing this matter to the government's attention.

Yours sincerely,

Stephen R. Richardson
Senior Assistant Deputy Minister

CCRA Registered Plans release, April 28, 2003: Technical Income Tax Amendments for Registered Education Savings Plans

On December 20, 2002, the Minister of Finance released a package of draft technical amendments to the Income Tax Act (ITA). The technical bill indicated that these amendments were to be applicable after the 90th day after the announcement date (i.e., March 21, 2003). In order to provide for a smoother transition, the Department of Finance intends to propose an amendment [February 27, 2004 — ed.] to the coming into force date, which would change it from March 21, 2003 to January 1, 2004.

Summary of Changes

Paragraph 146.1(2)(g.3) and subsection 146.1(2.3) have been introduced, both of which apply December 31, 2003. Subparagraph 146.1(2)(g.3)(i) of the Act permits an individual to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan only if the individual's SIN is provided to the promoter before the designation is made, and the individual is resident in Canada when the designation is made. The residency requirement is not applicable when the designation is made in conjunction with a transfer of property from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer.

Subparagraph 146.1(2)(g.3)(ii) of the Act permits a contribution to the plan in respect of an individual who is a beneficiary only if the individual's SIN is provided to the promoter before the contribution is made and the individual is resident in Canada, or where the contribution is made by way of a transfer from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer.

As an exception to the requirement to provide the individual's SIN above, subsection 146.1(2.3) does not require an individual's SIN to be provided in respect of a contribution to the plan, if the plan was entered into before 1999. Such contributions continue to be ineligible for the CESG, and the SIN exception is relevant only for existing beneficiaries under such plans.

Under the second new exception, an educational savings plan may permit a non-resident individual who does not have a SIN to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan provided that such designation is made in conjunction with a transfer of property from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer.

Promoter requirements

As well as amending your RESP specimen plan(s) to comply with the proposed changes for new contracts, you may also need to amend existing contracts so that they may maintain their registered status and eligibility for the Canada Education Savings Grant (CESG).

We will require that the amendments be submitted to this office a year from the date the amendment to the Income Tax Act receives Royal Assent. Please note that the plans must be administered as if they were amended as of January 1, 2004.

(h) the plan provides that no contribution (other than a contribution made by way of a transfer from another registered education savings plan) may be made into the plan after

(i) in the case of a specified plan, the 35th year following the year in which the plan was entered into, and

(ii) in any other case, the 31st year following the year in which the plan was entered into;

(i) the plan provides that it must be terminated on or before the last day of

(i) in the case of a specified plan, the 40th year following the year in which the plan was entered into, and

(ii) in any other case, the 35th year following the year in which the plan was entered into;

(i.1) if the plan allows accumulated income payments in accordance with paragraph (d.1), the plan provides that it must be terminated before March of the year following the year in which the first such payment is made out of the plan;

(i.2) the plan does not allow for the receipt of property by way of direct transfer from another registered education savings plan after the other plan has made any accumulated income payment;

(j) if the plan allows more than one beneficiary under the plan at any one time, the plan provides

(i) that each of the beneficiaries under the plan is required to be connected to each living subscriber under the plan, or to have been connected to a deceased original subscriber under the plan, by blood relationship or adoption,

(ii) that a contribution into the plan in respect of a beneficiary is permitted to be made only if

(A) the beneficiary had not attained 31 years of age before the time of the contribution, or

(B) the contribution is made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan that allows more than one beneficiary at any one time, and

(iii) that an individual is permitted to become a beneficiary under the plan at any particular time only if

(A) the individual had not attained 21 years of age before the particular time, or

(B) the individual was, immediately before the particular time, a beneficiary under another registered education savings plan that allows more than one beneficiary at any one time;

(k) [Repealed]

(l) the plan provides that the promoter shall, within 90 days after an individual becomes a beneficiary under the plan, notify the individual (or, where the individual is under 19 years of age at that time and either ordinarily resides with a parent of the individual or is maintained by a public primary caregiver of the individual, that parent or public primary caregiver) in writing of the existence of the plan and the name and address of the subscriber in respect of the plan;

(m) the Minister has no reasonable basis to believe that the promoter will not take all reasonable measures to ensure that the plan will continue to comply with the conditions set out in paragraphs (a), (c) to (d.1) and (f) to (l) for its registration for the purposes of this Act; and

(n) the Minister has no reasonable basis to believe that the plan will become revocable.

Possible Future Amendment — RESPs set up by charities and NPOs

The True North Strong and Free*, Conservative Party election platform (conservative.ca), Oct. 7, 2008: Helping Parents Save for Their Education

A re-elected Conservative Government will expand the current Registered Education Savings Plan (RESP) to allow charities and not-for-profit organizations to establish RESPs, in partnership with parents, for children from low-income families that otherwise would not have the ability to save.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2.1) — RESP becoming revocable; 146.1(2.2) — Waiver of conditions for disabled beneficiary; 146.1(2.21), (2.22) — EAP can be made up to 6 months after ceasing to be student; 146.1(2.3) — Circumstances where Social Insurance Number not required; 146.1(3) — Deemed registration; 146.1(4) — Registration of plan without prospectus; 146.1(4.1) — Amendments must be filed with CRA; 146.1(13) — Revocation where plan ceases to comply with requirements; 146.1(14) — References to Canada Education Savings Act includes references to earlier DHRD Act; 172(3) — Appeal from refusal to register; 204.9(1)"excess amount" — Limit on RESP contributions; 204.91 — Tax payable by subscribers; 248(3)(c) — RESP set up in Quebec deemed to be trust.

History: Subpara. 146.1(2)(h)(i) amended to substitute "35th" for "25th", and subpara. (ii) amended to substitute "31st" for "21st", by 2008, c. 28, subsec. 23(2), applicable to 2008 et seq.

Subpara. 146.1(2)(i)(i) amended to substitute "40th" for "30th", and subpara. (ii) amended to substitute "35th" for "25th", by the said c. 28, subsec. 23(3), applicable to 2008 et seq.

Cl. 146.1(2)(j)(ii)(A) amended to substitute "31" for "21", by the said c. 28, subsec. 23(4), applicable to 2008 et seq.

Subparas. 146.1(2)(g.1)(i) and (ii) amended by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 18(4), applicable to 2007 et seq. They formerly read:

(i) either

(A) the individual is at that time enrolled as a full-time or part-time student in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution, or

(B) the individual is at that time enrolled as a student in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution and has at that time a mental or physical impairment the effects of which on the individual have been certified in writing, by a person described in paragraph 118.3(1)(a.2) in relation to the individual's impairment, to be such that the individual cannot reasonably be expected to be enrolled as a full-time student, and

(ii) either

(A) the individual has satisfied the condition set out in subparagraph (i) throughout at least 13 consecutive weeks in the 12-month period that ends at that time, or

(B) the total of the payment and all other educational assistance payments made under a registered education savings plan of the promoter to or for the individual in the 12-month period that ends at that time does not exceed $5,000 or any greater amount that the Minister designated for the purpose of the Canada Education Savings Act approves in writing with respect to the individual;

Para. 146.1(2)(k) repealed by the said c. 29, subsec. 18(5), applicable to contributions made after 2006. It formerly read:

(k) the plan does not allow the total of all contributions made into the plan in respect of a beneficiary for a year (other than contributions made by way of transfer from registered education savings plans) to exceed the RESP annual limit for the year;

Cl. 146.1(2)(d.1)(iii)(B), paras. (2)(h) and (i) amended, by 2005, c. 30, subsecs. 10(2), (3), applicable to 2005 et seq. The cl. and paras. formerly read:

(B) the payment is made in the 25th year following the year in which the plan is entered into, or

. . . . .

(h) the plan provides that no payments may be made into the plan by or on behalf of a subscriber after the 21st year following the year in which the plan is entered into;

(i) the plan provides that it must be terminated on or before the last day of the 25th year following the year in which the plan is entered into;

Para. 146.1(2)(d.1) amended by 2004, c. 26, subsec. 21(7), in force December 15, 2004. The para. formerly read:

(d.1) subject to subsection (2.2), the plan does not allow accumulated income payments under the plan, or the plan allows an accumulated income payment at a particular time only if

(i) the payment is made to, or on behalf of, a person and not jointly to, or on behalf of, more than one person,

(ii) the particular time is after 1997,

(iii) the person is resident in Canada at the particular time,

(iv) either

(A) the person is a subscriber under the plan at the particular time, or

(B) an individual died at any previous time and was a subscriber under the plan immediately before death,

(v) each individual in respect of whom a subscriber has made a contribution into the plan

(A) has before the particular time attained 21 years of age and is not, at the particular time, eligible under the plan to receive an educational assistance payment, or

(B) has died before the particular time, and

(vi) either

(A) the particular time is after the 9th year that follows the year in which the plan was entered into, or

(B) each individual in respect of whom a subscriber has made a contribution into the plan has died before the particular time and was, or was related to, a subscriber under the plan (or was the nephew, niece, great nephew or great niece of a subscriber under the plan);

Cl. 146.1(2)(g.1)(i)(A) amended by the said c. 26, subsec. 21(7.1), to replace "full-time" with "full-time or part-time", in force December 15, 2004.

Cl. 146.1(2)(g.1)(ii)(B) and para. (2)(l) amended by the said c. 26, subsecs. 21(8) and (9), in force December 15, 2004. The cl. and para. formerly read:

(B) the total of the payment and all other educational assistance payments made under a registered educational savings plan of the promoter to or for the individual in the 12-month period that ends at that time does not exceed $5,000 or such greater amount as the Minister of Human Resources Development approves in writing with respect to the individual;

(l) the plan provides that the promoter shall, within 90 days after an individual becomes a beneficiary under the plan, notify the individual (or, where the individual is under 19 years of age at that time and ordinarily resides with a parent of the individual, that parent) in writing of the existence of the plan and the name and address of the subscriber in respect of the plan;

Para. 146.1(2)(b.1) added, subpara. 146.1(2)(j)(ii) amended and subpara. (iii) added, by 1999, c. 22, subsecs. 62(4) and (7), applicable to plans entered into after 1998. Subpara. (j)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) that a contribution into the plan in respect of a beneficiary is permitted to be made only if

(A) the beneficiary had not attained 21 years of age at the time the plan was entered into,

(B) the contribution is made by way of transfer from another registered education savings plan into which a contribution had been made before the transfer in respect of the beneficiary, or

(C) the contribution is made (after a contribution to which clause (B) applied was made) into the plan in respect of the beneficiary;

The opening words of para. 146.1(2)(d.1) amended, para. 146.1(2)(n) added, by the said c. 22, subsecs. 62(5) and (8), applicable after 1997. The opening words formerly read:

(d.1) the plan does not allow accumulated income payments under the plan, or the plan allows an accumulated income payment at a particular time under the plan only if

Para. 146.1(2)(g.1) amended by the said c. 22, subsec. 62(6), applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990, except that

(a) for plans entered into before 1998, references in the amendment to "individual" shall be read as "beneficiary"; and

(b) subpara. 146.1(2)(g.1)(ii), as amended, does not apply to plans entered into before 1999.

Para. (g.1) formerly read:

(g.1) the plan does not allow for the payment of educational assistance payments after 1996 to an individual unless the individual is, at the time the payment is made, enrolled in a qualifying educational program as a full-time student at a post-secondary educational institution;

The opening words of subsec. 146.1(2), paras. 146.1(2)(b) and (m) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 38(5), (6), and (11), applicable to applications made after 1997. Those provisions formerly read:

(2) Conditions for acceptance of plan for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any education savings plan of a promoter unless, in the Minister's opinion, it complies with the following conditions:

(b) at the time of the application by the promoter for registration of the plan, there are not fewer than 150 subscribers who have entered into education savings plans with the promoter each of which complied, at the time it was entered into, with all the other conditions set out in this subsection, or subsection 146.1(2) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as the case may be, as the applicable subsection read at that time;

. . . . .

(m) the plan complies with prescribed conditions.

Para. 146.1(2)(d) amended, and add para. (d.1) added, by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(7), applicable to 1998 et seq. Para. 146.1(2)(d) formerly read:

(d) the plan does not allow for any payment to a subscriber other than a refund of payments unless the subscriber is also the beneficiary under the plan;

Para. 146.1(2)(g) amended, and add paras. (g.1) and (g.2) added, by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(8), paras. (g) and (g.1) applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990 except that, for plans entered into before 1998, the references to "an individual" and "the individual" in para. (g.1) shall be read as "a beneficiary" and "the beneficiary"; and para. (g.2) applicable to 1997 et seq. Para. 146.1(2)(g) formerly read:

(g) the plan does not allow for the payment of educational assistance payments to an individual unless the individual is, at the time the payment is made, a student in full-time attendance at a post-secondary educational institution and enrolled in a qualifying educational program at the institution;

Paras. 146.1(2)(i.1) and (i.2) added, and para. (j) amended, by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(9), applicable to 1998 et seq., except that

(a) para. (j) does not apply to plans entered into before July 14, 1990; and

(b) subpara. (j)(ii) does not apply to plans entered into before 1998.

Para. (j) formerly read:

(j) where the plan provides that a subscriber may name more than one beneficiary under the plan at any one time, the plan provides that each of the beneficiaries under the plan is required to be connected to the subscriber by blood relationship or adoption;

Para. 146.1(2)(k) amended by the said c. 19, subsec. 38(10), applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990. Para. 146.1(2)(k) formerly read:

(k) the plan provides that the total of all payments made into the plan in respect of a beneficiary for a year shall not exceed $2,000;

Para. 146.1(2)(k) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 42(2), applicable to 1996 et seq., except in respect of plans entered into before February 21, 1990. Para. (k) formerly read:

(k) the plan provides that the total of all payments made into the plan in respect of a beneficiary for a year shall not exceed $1,500;

Paras. 146.1(2)(a), (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(6), applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990. Paras. (a), (b) formerly read:

(a) the plan provides that the property of any trust established under the plan (after payment of trustee and administration charges) is irrevocably held for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1);

(b) at the time of the application by the promoter for registration of the plan, there are not less than 150 subscribers who have entered into education savings plans with the promoter that comply with the conditions set out in paragraphs (a) and (c) to (g);

Para. 146.1(2)(c) amended to substitute "governed by the plan" for "established under the plan", and para. (f) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 118(7), (8), applicable after July 13, 1990. Para. (f) formerly read:

(f) in the event that a trust established under the plan is terminated, the property or money held by the trust is required to be used for any of the purposes described in the definition "trust" in subsection (1); and

Paras. 146.1(2)(g) to (m) substituted for para. (g) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(9), paras. (g) to (i), (k) and (m) applicable to plans entered into after February 20, 1990, para. (j) applicable to plans entered into after July 13, 1990, and para. (l) applicable to plans entered into after March 1991. Para. (g) formerly read:

(g) the plan in all other respects complies with any regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

Regulations: No prescribed conditions for 146.1(2)(m).

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

Registered Plans Compliance Bulletins: 1 (educational assistance payments (EAP) and RESP contributions).

RESP Bulletins: 1 (up to $20,000 EAP accepted administratively as legitimate).

Forms: T3GR: Group income tax and information return for RRSP, RRIF or RESP trusts (and worksheets); T550: Application for registration of RSPs, ESPs or RIFs under s. 146, 146.1 and 146.3 of the ITA; T1171: Tax withholding waiver on accumulated income payments from RESPs; T1172: Additional tax on accumulated income payments from RESPs.

Proposed Addition — 146.1(2.01) [already reversed, so no effect]

(2.01) Amount of RESP contributions deductible — There may be deducted in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year such amount as the taxpayer claims not exceeding the lesser of

(a) the total of all contributions made by the taxpayer into a registered education savings plan in the taxation year; and

(b) the RESP lifetime limit minus the total of all contributions made by the taxpayer into a registered education savings plan in previous taxation years, to a maximum of $5,000.

Application: Bill C-253 (First Senate Reading March 6, 2008; requires re-introduction), subsec. 2(1), would have added subsec. 146.1(2.01), in force on Royal Assent. Bill C-50 (S.C. 2008, c. 28, Royal Assent June 18, 2008), subsec. 47(1), repeals subsec. 146.1(2.01), deemed in force on the date of Royal Assent for Bill C-253.

Technical Notes [Bill C-50]: Clause 45 of the present enactment provides that measures contained in clauses 46 to 48 will apply only if Bill C-253, introduced in the 1st session of the 39th Parliament and entitled An Act to amend the Income Tax Act (deductibility of RESP contributions), receives royal assent. The effect of those measures would be to undo the changes made in respect of the tax treatment of registered education savings plans (RESPs) by Bill C-253, and specifically to replace paragraph 60(i) of the Income Tax Act, repeal subsection 146.1(2.01) of that Act, repeal its paragraph 146.1(7.1)(c) and re-enact its subsection 146.1(7.2), all with effect as of the day on which Bill C-253 received royal assent.

(2.1) RESP is revocable — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(n) and (12.1)(d), a registered education savings plan is revocable at any time after October 27, 1998 at which

(a) a trust governed by the plan acquires property that is not a qualified investment for the trust;

(b) property held by a trust governed by the plan ceases to be a qualified investment for the trust and the property is not disposed of by the trust within 60 days after that time;

(c) a trust governed by the plan begins carrying on a business; or

(d) a trustee that holds property in connection with the plan borrows money for the purposes of the plan, except where

(i) the money is borrowed for a term not exceeding 90 days,

(ii) the money is not borrowed as part of a series of loans or other transactions and repayments, and

(iii) none of the property of the trust is used as security for the borrowed money.

Related Provisions: 146.1(12.1) — Notice of intent to revoke registration; 146.1(12.2), (13) — Revocation of registration; 248(10) — Series of transactions; 253.1 — Limited partner not considered to carry on business of partnership; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

History: Subsec. 146.1(2.1) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(9) applicable after 1997.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(2.2) Waiver of conditions for accumulated income payments — The Minister may, on written application of the promoter of a registered education savings plan, waive the application of the conditions in clause (2)(d.1)(iii)(A) in respect of the plan where a beneficiary under the plan suffers from a severe and prolonged mental impairment that prevents, or can reasonably be expected to prevent, the beneficiary from enrolling in a qualifying educational program at a post-secondary educational institution.

History: Subsec. 146.1(2.2) amended by 2004, c. 26, subsec. 21(9.1) to replace "subparagraphs (2)(d.1)(v) and (vi)" with "clause (2)(d.1)(iii)(A)", in force December 15, 2004.

Subsec. 146.1(2.2) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(9), applicable after 1997.

(2.21) Extension for making educational assistance payments — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(g.1), an education savings plan may allow for the payment of an educational assistance payment to or for an individual at any time in the six-month period immediately following the partic- ular time at which the individual ceases to be enrolled as a student in a qualifying educational program or a specified educational program, as the case may be, if the payment would have complied with the requirements of paragraph (2)(g.1) had the payment been made immediately before the particular time.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2.22) — Timing of payment.

History: Subsec. 146.1(2.21) added by 2008, c. 28, subsec. 23(5), applicable to 2008 et seq., except that it does not apply in respect of cessations of enrolment that occur before 2008.

(2.22) Timing of payment — An educational assistance payment that is made at any time in accordance with subsection (2.21) but not in accordance with paragraph (2)(g.1) is deemed, for the purposes of applying that paragraph at and after that time, to have been made immediately before the particular time referred to in subsection (2.21).

History: Subsec. 146.1(2.22) added by 2008, c. 28, subsec. 23(5), applicable to 2008 et seq., except that it does not apply in respect of cessations of enrolment that occur before 2008.

Proposed Addition — 146.1(2.3)

(2.3) Social Insurance Number not required — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(g.3), an education savings plan may provide that an individual's Social Insurance Number need not be provided in respect of

(a) a contribution to the plan, if the plan was entered into before 1999; and

(b) a designation of a non-resident individual as a beneficiary under the plan, if the individual was not assigned a Social Insurance Number before the designation is made.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 143(2), will add subsec. 146.1(2.3), applicable after 2003.

Technical Notes: New subsection 146.1(2.3) provides two additional exceptions to the SIN condition that are primarily of relevance to RESPs that were entered into before 1999 and RESPs that replace such plans. These exceptions recognize that the Canada Revenue Agency only began requiring the beneficiary's SIN to be provided on the application for registration for plans entered into after 1998.

The first new exception allows an education savings plan that was entered into before 1999 to not require that an individual's SIN be provided in respect of a contribution to the plan. Such contributions, however, continue to be ineligible for the Canada Education Savings Grant. It should be noted that this exception is only relevant for contributions made for existing beneficiaries under such plans. An individual without a SIN is prevented from being designated as a new beneficiary under such a plan.

Under the second new exception, an education savings plan may permit a non-resident individual who does not have a SIN to be designated as a beneficiary under the plan provided that the designation is being made in conjunction with a transfer of property into the plan from another RESP under which the individual was a beneficiary immediately before the transfer. This exception is intended, in particular, to accommodate the transfer of property from an RESP that was entered into before 1999, under which the beneficiary had always been non-resident or had ceased to be resident in Canada before having been assigned a SIN, to a replacement RESP (and successive transfers).

CCRA Registered Plans release, April 28, 2003: See under 146.1(2)(g.3).

(3) Deemed registration — Where in any year an education savings plan cannot be accepted for registration solely because the condition set out in paragraph (2)(b) has not been complied with, if the plan is subsequently registered, it shall be deemed to have been registered on the first day of January of

(a) the year in which all of the conditions set out in subsection (2) (except in paragraph (2)(b)) were complied with, or

(b) the year preceding the year in which the plan was subsequently registered, whichever is the later.

Related Provisions: 146.1(12) — Deemed date of registration; 212(1)(r) — Non-residents — registered education savings plan.

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

(4) Registration of plans without prospectus — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(e), where a promoter has not filed a prospectus in respect of an education savings plan referred to in that paragraph, the Minister may register the plan if the promoter is not otherwise required by the laws of Canada or a province to file such a prospectus with a securities commission in Canada or a body performing a similar function in a province and the plan complies with the other conditions set out in subsection (2).

History: Subsec. 146.1(4) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(10), applicable to plans registered after February 20, 1990. Subsec. 146.1(4) formerly read:

> (4) Registration of plans in existence on October 15, 1973 — Notwithstanding paragraph (2)(e), where a promoter has not filed a prospectus referred to in that paragraph, the Minister may register an education savings plan if the plan was in existence on October 15, 1973 and as of that date the other conditions set out in subsection (2) had been complied with.

(4.1) Obligation to file amendment — When a registered education savings plan is amended, the promoter shall file the text of the amendment with the Minister not later than 60 days after the day on which the plan is amended.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Penalty for failure to comply.

History: Subsec. 146.1(4.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(12), in force on June 18, 1998.

(5) Trust not taxable — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year if, throughout the period in the year during which the trust was in existence, the trust was governed by a registered education savings plan.

Related Provisions: 18(11)(h) — No deduction for interest paid on money borrowed to make RESP contribution; 149(1)(u) — Exemption from tax.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

Information Circulars: 93-3R: Registered education savings plans.

Forms: T3GR: Group income tax and information return for RRSP, RRIF or RESP trusts (and worksheets).

(6) Subscriber not taxable — No tax is payable by a subscriber on the income of a trust for a taxation year after 1971 throughout which the trust was governed by a registered education savings plan.

Related Provisions: 146.1(5) — Trust not taxable; 204.91 — Tax payable by subscribers; 212(1)(r) — Non-residents — registered education savings plan.

(6.1) Transfers between plans — Where property irrevocably held by a trust governed by a registered education savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor plan") is transferred to a trust governed by another registered education savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee plan"),

(a) [Repealed]

(b) for the purposes of this paragraph, the definition "specified plan" in subsection (1) and paragraphs (2)(d.1), (h) and (i), the transferee plan is deemed to have been entered into on the day that is the earlier of

(i) the day on which the transferee plan was entered into, and

(ii) the day on which the transferor plan was entered into; and

(c) notwithstanding subsections (7) and (7.1), no amount shall be included in computing the income of any person because of the transfer.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2)(g.2), (i.2) — Restrictions on transfers between RESPs; 204.9(5) — Transfers between RESPs.

History: The opening words of para. 146.1(6.1)(b) amended to add ", the definition "specified plan" in subsection (1)" by 2005, c. 30, subsec. 10(4), applicable to 2005 et seq.

The opening words of para. 146.1(6.1)(b) amended by 2004, c. 26, subsec. 21(10), in force December 15, 2004. The opening words formerly read:

(b) for the purposes of this paragraph, subparagraph (2)(d.1)(vi) and paragraphs (2)(h) and (i), the transferee plan is deemed to have been entered into on the day that is the earlier of Para. 146.1(6.1)(a) repealed, para. (b) amended, and para. (c) added, by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 38(13), (14), para. (a) applicable to transfers made after 1996, para. (b) applicable after 1997, and para. (c) applicable to transfers made after 1997. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) for the purposes of Part X.4,

(i) the transferee plan shall be deemed to be the same plan as, and a continuation of, the transferor plan, and

(ii) the transfer of property shall be deemed not to be a payment made into the transferee plan; and

(b) for the purposes of this paragraph and paragraphs (2)(h) and (i), the transferee plan shall be deemed to have been entered into on the earlier of

(i) the day on which the transferee plan was entered into, and

(ii) the day on which the transferor plan was entered into.

Subsec. 146.1(6.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 118(11), applicable after February 20, 1990.

(7.2) Excluded amount — For the purpose of paragraph (7.1)(b), an excluded amount in respect of a registered education savings plan is

(a) any amount received under the plan;

(b) any amount received in satisfaction of a right to a refund of payments under the plan; or

(c) any amount received by a taxpayer under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, relating to a division of property between the taxpayer and the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership.

Proposed Repeal — 146.1(7.2) [already reversed, so no effect]

Application: Bill C-253 (First Senate Reading March 6, 2008; requires re-introduction), subsec. 2(3), would have repealed subsec. 146.1(7.2), in force on Royal Assent. Bill C-50 (S.C. 2008, c. 28, Royal Assent June 18, 2008), subsec. 47(3), reinstates subsec. 146.1(7.2) as currently enacted, deemed in force on the date of Royal Assent for Bill C-253.

Technical Notes: See under 146.1(2.01).

History: Para. 146.1(7.2)(c) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 146.1(7.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq.

(8) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.1(8) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(8) formerly read:

(8) Definition of "beneficiary's portion of the tax-paid-income" — For the purposes of subsection (7), a "beneficiary's portion of the tax-paid-income" for a taxation year under a registered education savings plan means the greater of

(a) the lesser of

(i) one-third of the pre-1972 income reported on or before April 30, 1972 by the trust governed by the plan to the subscriber as having been earned in respect of amounts paid to the plan by or on behalf of the subscriber, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the pre-1972 income reported on or before April 30, 1972 by the trust governed by the plan to the subscriber as having been earned in respect of amounts paid to the plan by or on behalf of the subscriber

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts, if any, referred to in paragraph (7)(c) in respect of preceding taxation years, and

(b) the amount of the tax-paid-income actually allocated under the trust governed by the plan to the beneficiary in the year.

(9) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.1(9) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(9) formerly read:

(9) Limitation on allocation of tax-paid-income — For the purposes of paragraph (8)(b), no amount of the tax-paid-income shall be allocated in a particular taxation year if an allocation has been made in respect of the same amount in a previous taxation year.

(10) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.1(10) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(15), applicable to 1998 et seq. Subsec. 146.1(10) formerly read:

> (10) Allocation of tax-paid-income — For the purposes of this subsection and subsections (8) and (9), in any taxation year there shall be allocated by the trust governed by a registered education savings plan an amount of the tax-paid-income to a beneficiary that is not less than the amount determined under paragraph (8)(a) for the year.

(11) Trust deemed to be inter vivos trust — For any taxation year during which an education savings plan is not registered, a trust governed by the plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of section 122, to be a trust referred to in subsection 122(1) established after June 17, 1971.

(12) Deemed date of registration — Subject to subsection (3), an education savings plan that is registered

(a) before 1976 shall be deemed to have been registered since the later of

(i) January 1, 1972, and

(ii) the first day of January of the year in which the plan was created; and

(b) after 1975 shall be deemed to have been registered on the first day of January in the year of registration.

(12.1) Notice of intent to revoke registration — When a particular day is

(a) a day on which a registered education savings plan ceases to comply with the conditions of subsection (2) for the plan's registration,

(b) a day on which a registered education savings plan ceases to comply with any provision of the plan,

(c) the last day of a month in respect of which tax is payable under Part X.4 by an individual because of contributions made, or deemed for the purpose of Part X.4 to have been made, by or on behalf of the individual into a registered education savings plan,

(d) a day on which a registered education savings plan is revocable, or

(e) a day on which a person fails to comply with a condition or an obligation, imposed under the Canada Education Savings Act or under a program administered pursuant to an agreement entered into under section 12 of that Act, that applies with respect to a registered education savings plan, the Minister may send written notice (referred to in this subsection and subsection (12.2) as a "notice of intent") to the promoter of the plan that the Minister proposes to revoke the registration of the plan as of the day specified in the notice of intent, which day shall not be earlier than the particular day.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2.1) — RESP becoming revocable; 146.1(12.2) — Notice of revocation; 146.1(14)(a) — Reference to Canada Education Savings Act includes reference to earlier DHRD Act; 172(3)(e.1) — Appeal to Federal Court of Appeal from giving of notice of intent; 180(1)(c.1) — Deadline for filing appeal to Federal Court of Appeal; 248(7) — Notice deemed received on day mailed.

History: Para. 146.1(12.1)(e) amended by 2004, c. 26, subsec. 21(11), in force December 15, 2004. The para. formerly read:

> (e) a day on which a person fails to comply with a condition or obligation imposed under Part III.1 of the Department of Human Resources Development Act that applies with respect to a registered education savings plan, Paras. 146.1(12.1)(d) and (e) added by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 62(10), applicable after 1997.

Subsec. 146.1(12.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(16), applicable after 1997.

(12.2) Notice of revocation — When the Minister sends a notice of intent to revoke the registration of a registered education savings plan to the promoter of the plan, the Minister may, after 30 days after the receipt by the promoter of the notice, send written notice (referred to in this subsection and subsection (13) as a "notice of revocation") to the promoter that the registration of the plan is revoked as of the day specified in the notice of revocation, which day shall not be earlier than the day specified in the notice of intent.

Related Provisions: 146.1(13) — Revocation; 248(7) — Notice deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 146.1(12.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(16), applicable after 1997.

(13) Revocation of registration — When the Minister sends a notice of revocation of the registration of a registered education savings plan under subsection (12.2) to the promoter of the plan, the registration of the plan is revoked as of the day specified in the notice of revocation, unless the Federal Court of Appeal or a judge thereof, on application made at any time before the determination of an appeal under subsection 172(3), orders otherwise.

Related Provisions: 146.1(2) — Requirements for registration; 146.1(5) — Trust becomes taxable after revocation; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 146.1(13) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 38(16), applicable after 1997. Subsec. 146.1(13) formerly read:

> (13) Where at any time an education savings plan that has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act ceases to comply with the requirements of this section for its registration as such, the Minister may revoke its registration as of any date after that time and shall give notice of the revocation by registered mail to the subscriber and to the promoter.

Tax-free Savings Accounts

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 146.2 provides rules relating to tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs). Several amendments are being made to section 146.2 to respond to issues identified after the introduction of S.C. 2008, c. 28 (the Budget Implementation Act, 2008), which contained the original legislation to implement TFSAs. These amendments are discussed in the commentary below.

Consequential to these amendments, subsections 146.2(3) to (6) are renumbered as subsections 146.2(5) to (8) and subsections 146.2(7) to (9) are renumbered as subsections 146.2(10) to (12). References in these notes are to the subsections as renumbered. For ease of reference, the effects of the renumbering are outlined in the following Table of Concordance.

Former 146.2 Subsection	New 146.2 Subsection
(1) Definitions	(1) Definitions
(2) Qualifying arrangement conditions	(2) Qualifying arrangement conditions

(8) Deposit ceasing to be a TFSA	(11) Deposit ceasing to be a TFSA
(9) Arrangement is TFSA only	(12) Arrangement is TFSA only
	(13) Regulations

The amendments to section 146.2 apply to the 2009 and subsequent taxation years.

146.2 (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this section and in Part XI.01.

"distribution" under an arrangement of which an individual is the holder means a payment out of or under the arrangement in satisfaction of all or part of the holder's interest in the arrangement.

"holder" of an arrangement means

(a) until the death of the individual who entered into the arrangement with the issuer, the individual; and

(b) at and after the death of the individual, the individual's survivor, if the survivor acquires

(i) all of the individual's rights as the holder of the arrangement, and

(ii) to the extent it is not included in the rights described in subparagraph (i), the unconditional right to revoke any beneficiary designation made, or similar direction imposed, by the individual under the arrangement or relating to property held in connection with the arrangement.

Related Provisions: 207.04 — Tax on holder if TFSA acquires prohibited or non-qualified investment.

"issuer" of an arrangement means the person described as the issuer in the definition "qualifying arrangement".

"qualifying arrangement", at a particular time, means an arrangement

(a) that is entered into after 2008 between a person (in this definition referred to as the "issuer") and an individual (other than a trust) who is at least 18 years of age;

(b) that is

(i) an arrangement in trust with an issuer that is a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee,

(ii) an annuity contract with an issuer that is a licensed annuities provider, other than a contract that is adjoined to another contract or arrangement, or

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(1)"qualifying arrangement"(b)(ii)

(ii) an annuity contract with an issuer that is a licensed annuities provider, or

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(1), will amend subpara. (b)(ii) of the definition "qualifying arrangement" in subsec. 146.2(1) to read as above, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The definition "qualifying arrangement" in subsection 146.2(1) is relevant primarily for subsection 146.2(5). Under that subsection, an arrangement can become a tax-free savings account (TFSA) only if it is a qualifying arrangement at the time it is entered into, and ceases to be a TFSA if it subsequently ceases to be a qualifying arrangement.

An annuity contract with a licensed annuities provider is one of the three types of qualifying arrangements. To qualify, subparagraph (b)(ii) of the definition requires that the annuity contract not be adjoined to another contract or arrangement. This condition was intended to preclude contracts commonly referred to as "split dollar" arrangements due to potential concerns about shared-ownership and cross-subsidization between arrangements. However, this condition may have overly broad effects in some instances.

Given that the policy concerns that the condition was intended to address are generally addressed by other provisions in section 146.2 and Part XI.01, subparagraph (b)(ii) is amended to eliminate this condition.

(iii) a deposit with an issuer that is

(A) a person who is, or is eligible to become, a member of the Canadian Payments Association, or

(B) a credit union that is a shareholder or member of a body corporate referred to as a "central" for the purposes of the Canadian Payments Act;

(c) that provides for contributions to be made under the arrangement to the issuer in consideration of, or to be used, invested or otherwise applied for the purpose of, the issuer making distributions under the arrangement to the holder;

(d) under which the issuer and the individual agree, at the time the arrangement is entered into, that the issuer will file with the Minister an election to register the arrangement as a TFSA; and

(e) that, at all times throughout the period that begins at the time the arrangement is entered into and that ends at the particular time, complies with the conditions in subsection (2).

Related Provisions: 146.2(5) [proposed] — Qualifying arrangement is a TFSA; 207.01–207.07 — Tax on excess contributions and inappropriate investments.

Forms: RC4466: TFSA information sheet [guide].

"survivor" of an individual means another individual who is, immediately before the individual's death, a spouse or common-law partner of the individual.

Related Provisions: 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse".

(2) Qualifying arrangement conditions — The conditions referred to in paragraph (e) of the definition "qualifying arrangement" in subsection (1) are as follows:

(a) the arrangement requires that it be maintained for the exclusive benefit of the holder (determined without regard to any right of a person to receive a payment out of or under the arrangement only on or after the death of the holder);

(b) the arrangement prohibits, while there is a holder of the arrangement, anyone that is neither the holder nor the issuer of the arrangement from having rights under the arrangement relating to the amount and timing of distributions and the investing of funds;

(c) the arrangement prohibits anyone other than the holder from making contributions under the arrangement;

(d) the arrangement permits distributions to be made to reduce the amount of tax otherwise payable by the holder under section 207.02 or 207.03;

(e) the arrangement provides that, at the direction of the holder, the issuer shall transfer all or any part of the property held in connection with the arrangement (or an amount equal to its value) to another TFSA of the holder;

(f) if the arrangement is an arrangement in trust, it prohibits the trust from borrowing money or other property for the purposes of the arrangement; and

(g) the arrangement complies with prescribed conditions.

Related Provisions: 146.2(3), (4) [proposed] — Where TFSA can be used as security; 146.2(5)(c) [proposed] — Arrangement ceases to be TFSA if conditions not complied with. See also Related Provisions under 146.2(3).

Regulations: No prescribed conditions for 142.2(2)(g).

Proposed Addition — 146.2(3)

(3) Paras. (2)(a), (b) and (e) not applicable — The conditions in paragraphs (2)(a), (b) and (e) do not apply to the extent that they are inconsistent with subsection (4).

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will add new subsec. 146.2(3), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsections 146.2(3) and (4) are introduced to clarify that none of the rules in paragraphs 146.2(2)(a), (b) and (e) apply to prevent the holder of a tax-free savings account (TFSA) from using his or her interest in the TFSA as security for a loan or other indebtedness. To guard against the "sale" or "rental" of TFSA contribution room, the relief conferred by these subsections will apply only if the debt agreement is on arm's length terms and it is reasonable to conclude that none of its main purposes is to enable another person or partnership to benefit from the exemption from tax provided in respect of the TFSA.

Proposed Addition — 146.2(4)

(4) Using TFSA interest as security for a loan — A holder of a TFSA may use the holder's interest or, for civil law, right in the TFSA as security for a loan or other indebtedness if

(a) the terms and conditions of the indebtedness are terms and conditions that persons dealing at arm's length with each other would have entered into; and

(b) it can reasonably be concluded that none of the main purposes for that use is to enable a person (other than the holder) or a partnership to benefit from the exemption from tax under this Part of any amount in respect of the TFSA.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will add new subsec. 146.2(4), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): See under 146.2(3).

Forms: RC4466: TFSA information sheet [guide].

(3) TFSA [tax-free savings account] — If the issuer of an arrangement that is, at the time it is entered into, a qualifying arrangement files with the Minister, on or before the day that is 60 days after the end of the calendar year in which the arrangement was entered into, an election in prescribed form and manner to register the arrangement as a TFSA under the Social Insurance Number of the individual with whom the arrangement was entered into, the arrangement becomes a TFSA at the time the arrangement was entered into and ceases to be a TFSA immediately before the earliest of the following events:

(a) the death of the last holder of the arrangement,

(b) the arrangement ceasing to be a qualifying arrangement, and

(c) the arrangement not being administered in accordance with the conditions in subsection (2).

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(3) renumbered as 146.2(5)

(5) TFSA [tax-free savings account] — If the issuer of an arrangement that is, at the time it is entered into, a qualifying arrangement files with the Minister, before March of the calendar year following the calendar year in which the arrangement was entered into, an election in prescribed form and manner to register the arrangement as a TFSA under the Social Insurance Number of the individual with whom the arrangement was entered into, the arrangement becomes a TFSA at the time the arrangement was entered into and ceases to be a TFSA at the earliest of the following times:

(a) the time at which the last holder of the arrangement dies;

(b) the time at which the arrangement ceases to be a qualifying arrangement; or

(c) the earliest time at which the arrangement is not administered in accordance with the conditions in subsection (2).

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(3) as 146.2(5) and amend it to read as above, applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 146.2(5) describes the circumstances under which an arrangement becomes, and ceases to be, a tax-free savings account (TFSA). One of the conditions that must be met for an arrangement to be considered to be a TFSA is that, on or before the 60th day after the year in which the arrangement was entered into, the issuer file with the Minister an election (in prescribed form and manner) to register the arrangement as a TFSA..

Subsection 146.2(5) is amended in two respects. First, the filing deadline for the election is changed to the last day of February of the year following the year in which the arrangement is entered into. This corresponds to the filing deadline for the TFSA annual information return required under new subsection 223(1) of the Income Tax Regulations. It is expected that the filing of the first information return for a TFSA will constitute a valid election, provided that the return is filed on time. Second, subsection 146.2(5) is amended to clarify the precise timing as to when an arrangement ceases to be a TFSA.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d)(iii) — Annuity from TFSA not taxable; 248(3)(c) — TFSA set up in Quebec deemed to be trust.

Forms: RC4466: TFSA information sheet [guide].

Related Provisions: 18(1)(u) — Investment counselling and administration fees for TFSA are non-deductible; 18(11) — No deduction for interest on money borrowed to contribute to TFSA; 74.5(12)(c) — Attribution rules do not apply to contributions; 75(3)(a) — Reversionary trust rules do not apply to TFSA; 108(1)"trust"(a) — "Trust" does not include TFSA for certain purposes; 118.1(5.3) — Designation of charity as beneficiary of TFSA; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iii.2) — No deemed disposition on emigration of holder; 138.1(7) — Segregated fund rules do not apply to TFSA; 146.2(8), (10), (11) [proposed] — Effect of arrangement ceasing to be TFSA; 148(1)(b.2) — No income inclusion on disposition of life insurance policy; 207.02 — Tax on excess contributions; 207.03 — Tax on non-resident contributions; 207.04 — Tax on holder if TFSA acquires inappropriate investment; 211(1)"registered life insurance policy"(a) — TFSA exempt from tax on life insurers; 248(1)"disposition"(f)(vi) — Transfer from TFSA to TFSA is not a disposition; 248(1)"TFSA" — Definition applies to entire Act.

(4) Trust not taxable — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust that is governed by a TFSA on its taxable income for a taxation year, except that, if at any time in the taxation year, it carries on one or more businesses or holds one or more properties that are non-qualified investments (as defined in subsection 207.01(1)) for the trust, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount that would be its taxable income for the taxation year if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than those businesses and properties, and no capital gains or capital losses other than from dispositions of those properties, and for that purpose,

(a) "income" includes dividends described in section 83; and

(b) the trust's taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss from the disposition of a property is equal to its capital gain or capital loss, as the case may be, from the disposition.

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(4) renumbered as 146.2(6)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(4) as 146.2(6), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Related Provisions: 12(11)"investment contract"(d.1) — Exemption from annual interest accrual rules; 149(1)(u.2) — TFSA exempt to extent provided in 146.2; 207.04(3) — Where investment both prohibited and non-qualified; 207.04(4) — Refund of tax on disposition of investment; 253.1 — Investment in limited partnership is not carrying on business for 146.2(4); 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Regulations: 223(1) (information return).

(5) Amount credited to a deposit — An amount that is credited or added to a deposit that is a TFSA as interest or other income in respect of the TFSA is deemed not to be received by the holder of the TFSA solely because of that crediting or adding.

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(5) renumbered as 146.2(7)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(5) as 146.2(7), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d)(iii) — Annuity from TFSA not taxable.

(6) Trust ceasing to be a TFSA — If an arrangement that governs a trust ceases, at a particular time, to be a TFSA,

(a) the trust is deemed

(i) to have disposed, immediately before the particular time, of each property held by the trust for proceeds equal to the property's fair market value immediately before the particular time, and

(ii) to have acquired, at the particular time, each such property at a cost equal to that fair market value;

(b) the trust's last taxation year that began before the particular time is deemed to have ended immediately before the particular time; and

(c) a taxation year of the trust is deemed to begin at the particular time.

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(6) renumbered as 146.2(8)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(6) as 146.2(8), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Related Provisions: 146.2(10), (11) [proposed] — Parallel rules for annuity contract and deposit.

Proposed Addition — 146.2(9)

(9) Trust ceasing to be a TFSA on death of holder — If an arrangement that governs a trust ceases to be a TFSA because of the death of the holder of the TFSA,

(a) the arrangement is deemed, for the purposes of subsections (6) and (8), any regulations made under subsection (13), the definition "trust" in subsection 108(1), paragraph 149(1)(u.2) and the definitions "qualified investment" and "non-qualified investment" in subsection 207.01(1), to continue to be a TFSA until, and to cease to be a TFSA immediately after, the exemption-end time, being in this subsection the earlier of

(i) the time at which the trust ceases to exist, and

(ii) the end of the first calendar year that begins after the holder dies;

(b) there shall be included in computing a taxpayer's income for a taxation year the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of a payment made out of or under the trust, in satisfaction of all or part of the taxpayer's beneficial interest in the trust, in the taxation year, after the holder's death and at or before the exemption-end time, and

B is an amount designated by the trust not exceeding the lesser of

(i) the amount of the payment, and

(ii) the amount by which the fair market value of all of the property held by the trust immediately before the holder's death exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the value of B in respect of any other payment made out of or under the trust; and

(c) there shall be included in computing the trust's income for its first taxation year, if any, that begins after the exemption-end time the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the fair market value of all of the property held by the trust at the exemption-end time, and

B is the amount by which the fair market value of all of the property held by the trust immediately before the holder's death exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is the value of B in paragraph (b) in respect of a payment made out of or under the trust.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will add new subsec. 146.2(9), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 146.2(5) provides that an arrangement ceases to be a tax-free savings account (TFSA), and thus loses its tax-exempt status, on the death of the last holder of the TFSA. In the case of a trusteed arrangement, subsection 146.2(8) treats the trust as having disposed of and reacquired all of its property for the property's fair market value (FMV). This ensures that the trust is taxed only on income accruing after the holder's death, and that capital gains and losses arising from any subsequent dispositions of property reflect only increases or decreases in value occurring after the holder's death.

New subsection 146.2(9) is introduced to prevent this treatment of trusteed TFSAs from causing undue administrative and reporting difficulties. The new subsection provides several rules that modify the tax treatment of trusteed TFSAs on the death of the holder, and bring the tax treatment of trusteed TFSAs into closer alignment with the tax treatment of trusteed RRSPs on the death of the annuitant.

New paragraph 146.2(9)(a) deems the trusteed arrangement to continue to be a TFSA for specified provisions and Regulations. (For all other purposes, it is no longer a TFSA.) The main effect of this deeming rule is to allow the trust to continue to maintain its tax-exempt status under subsection 146.2(6) until the end of the year following the year in which the holder dies. If it is still in existence at the beginning of the second year following the holder's death, the trust will become taxable from that point forward and, by virtue of subsection 146.2(8) of the Act, will be treated as having disposed of, and reacquired, its property for its FMV at that time.

New paragraph 146.2(9)(b) requires that any payments made from the trust during the exempt period in full or partial satisfaction of a taxpayer's beneficial interest in the trust be included in the taxpayer's income for the year of receipt, except to the extent designated by the trust as being attributable to the FMV of the TFSA at death. In other words, to the extent that the payment represents the distribution of income earned on, or appreciation in the value of, the trust's property during the exempt period, that amount will be included in the taxpayer's income. As with RRSPs, there are no specific rules in the Act for the trust to follow in determining the extent to which any given payment made following the death of the TFSA holder is attributable to post-death income or appreciation in value. The only constraint imposed on the trust is that the total amounts designated as being non-taxable cannot exceed the FMV of the trust's assets at death.

New paragraph 12(1)(z.5) requires that the income inclusion determined under paragraph 146.2(9)(b) be included in the determining the taxpayer's income from property. With the exception of payments to non-residents, there is no requirement for the issuer to withhold tax on the payments.

New paragraph 146.2(9)(c) is relevant only if the trust continues to exist after the end of the exempt period. It provides that the trust is required to include in its income for its first taxable year any post-death exempt period income or appreciation that was not paid out during the exempt period. Paragraph 12(1)(z.5) requires this amount to be included in the trust's income as income from property, which may be flowed out to the beneficiaries of the trust under regular trust taxation rules.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(z.5) — Inclusion in income from property; 212(1)(p) — Non-resident withholding tax; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

Regulations: 223(2) (information return).

(7) Annuity contract ceasing to be a TFSA — If an annuity contract ceases, at a particular time, to be a TFSA,

(a) the holder of the TFSA is deemed to have disposed of the contract immediately before the particular time for proceeds equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time;

(b) the contract is deemed to be a separate annuity contract issued and effected at the particular time otherwise than pursuant to or as a TFSA; and

(c) each person who has an interest or, for civil law, a right in the separate annuity contract at the particular time is deemed to acquire the interest at the particular time at a cost equal to its fair market value at the particular time.

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(7) renumbered as 146.2(10)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(7) as 146.2(10), applicable to 2009 et seq.

(8) Deposit ceasing to be a TFSA — If a deposit ceases, at a particular time, to be a TFSA,

(a) the holder of the TFSA is deemed to have disposed of the deposit immediately before the particular time for proceeds equal to its fair market value immediately before the particular time; and

(b) each person who has an interest or, for civil law, a right in the deposit at the particular time is deemed to acquire the interest at the particular time at a cost equal to its fair market value at the particular time.

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(8) renumbered as 146.2(11)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(8) as 146.2(11), applicable to 2009 et seq.

(9) Arrangement is TFSA only — An arrangement that is a qualifying arrangement at the time it is entered into is deemed not to be a retirement savings plan, an education savings plan, a retirement income fund or a disability savings plan.

Proposed Amendment — 146.2(9) renumbered as 146.2(12)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will renumber subsec. 146.2(9) as 146.2(12), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Proposed Addition — 146.2(13)

(13) Regulations — The Governor in Council may make regulations requiring issuers of TFSAs to file information returns in respect of TFSAs.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 53(2), will add subsec. 146.2(13), applicable to 2009 et seq.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 146.2(13) allows the Governor in Council to make regulations requiring issuers to file information returns relating to tax-free savings accounts (TFSAs). In this regard, new subsection 223(1) of the Regulations requires TFSA issuers to file annual information returns. For further details, refer to the commentary on that subsection below.

Registered Retirement Income Funds

146.3 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"annuitant" under a retirement income fund at any time means

(a) the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund, where the first individual is alive at that time,

(b) after the death of the first individual, a spouse or common-law partner (in this definition referred to as the "survivor") of the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the first individual, where the survivor is alive at that time and the undertaking was made pursuant to an election described in that definition of the first individual with the consent of the legal representative of the first individual, and

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(1)"annuitant"(b)

(b) after the death of the first individual, a spouse or common-law partner (in this definition referred to as the "survivor") of the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the first individual, if the survivor is alive at that time and the undertaking was made

(i) pursuant to an election that is described in that definition and that was made by the first individual, or

(ii) with the consent of the legal representative of the first individual, and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 144(1), will amend para. (b) of the definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146.3(1) to read as above, applicable to 2001 et seq. except that, if a taxpayer and a person have jointly elected under s. 144 of the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act [S.C. 2000, c. 12; see the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner"], in respect of the 1998, 1999 or 2000 taxation years, it applies to the taxpayer and the person in respect of the applicable taxation year and subsequent taxation years.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146.3(1) contains the definition "annuitant" for purposes of the rules relating to RRIFs. Paragraph (b) of the definition allows the spouse or common-law partner of a deceased annuitant to become the successor annuitant under the RRIF, if the deceased annuitant so elected or the legal representative of the deceased annuitant consents. When this paragraph was amended by S.C. 2000, c. 12 (the Modernization of Benefits and Obligations Act, formerly Bill C-23), the word

"or" in the English version was inadvertently removed. The definition is amended to correct this error, and to improve the readability of this paragraph, with the same application as the initial amendment in Bill C-23.

(c) after the death of the survivor, another spouse or common-law partner of the survivor to whom the carrier has undertaken, with the consent of the legal representative of the survivor, to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the survivor, where that other spouse or common-law partner is alive at that time;

History: Paras. (b) and (c) of the definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146.3(1) by 2000, c. 12, s. 136, applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History note to 248(1)"common-law partner". The paras. formerly read:

(b) after the death of the first individual, a spouse (in this paragraph[47] referred to as the "surviving spouse") of the first individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the first individual, where the surviving spouse is alive at that time and the undertaking was made pursuant to an election described in that definition of the first individual or with the consent of the legal representative of the first individual, and

(c) after the death of the surviving spouse, another spouse of the surviving spouse to whom the carrier has undertaken, with the consent of the legal representative of the surviving spouse, to make payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" out of or under the fund after the death of the surviving spouse, where that other spouse is alive at that time;

The definition "annuitant" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(1), applicable to deaths occurring after 1990. The definition formerly read:

"annuitant" under a retirement income fund at any particular time means the individual to whom the carrier has undertaken to make the payments described in the definition "retirement income fund" in this subsection out of or under the fund;

Forms: RC4178: Death of a RRIF annuitant [guide].

"carrier" of a retirement income fund means

(a) a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business,

(b) a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee,

(c) a corporation approved by the Governor in Council for the purposes of section 146 that is licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to issue investment contracts, or

(d) a person referred to as a depositary in section 146, that has agreed to make payments under a retirement income fund to the individual who is the annuitant under the fund;

Forms: T3GR: Group income tax and information return for RRSP, RRIF or RESP trusts (and worksheets).

"designated benefit" of an individual in respect of a registered retirement income fund means the total of

(a) such amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder to the legal representative of that annuitant

(i) as would, had they been paid under the fund to the individual, have been refunds of premiums (in this paragraph having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan that had not matured before the death, and

(ii) as are designated jointly by the legal representative and the individual in prescribed form filed with the Minister, and

(b) amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder to the individual that would be refunds of premiums had the fund been a registered retirement savings plan that had not matured before the death;

Related Provisions: 146.3(6.1) — Designated benefit deemed received; 146.3(6.11) — Transfer of designated benefit.

History: The definition "designated benefit" added to subsec. 146.3(1) by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(2), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992.

Forms: T1090: Death of a RRIF annuitant — designated benefit.

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for a year means, for the year in which the fund was entered into [and see special rules in History for 2007 and 2008 — ed.], a nil amount, and, for any other year, the amount determined by the formula

$$(A \times B) + C$$

where

A is the total fair market value of all properties held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year (other than annuity contracts held by a trust governed by the fund that, at the beginning of the year, are not described in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment");

B is

(a) where the first annuitant under the fund elected in respect of the fund under paragraph (b) of the definition "minimum amount" in this subsection, as it read before 1992, or under subparagraph 146.3(1)(f)(i) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, to use the age of another individual, the prescribed factor for the year in respect of the other individual,

(b) where paragraph (a) does not apply and the first annuitant under the fund so elects before any payment has been made under the fund by the carrier, the prescribed factor for the year in respect of an individual who was the spouse or common-law partner of the first annuitant at the time of the election, and

(c) in any other case, the prescribed factor for the year in respect of the first annuitant under the fund, and

C is, where the fund governs a trust, the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) a periodic payment under an annuity contract held by the trust at the beginning of the year (other than an annuity contract described at the beginning of the year in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment") that is paid to the trust in the year, or

(b) if the periodic payment under such an annuity contract is not made to the trust because the trust disposed of the right to that payment in the year, a reasonable estimate of that payment on the assumption that the annuity contract had been held throughout the year and no rights under the contract were disposed of in the year;

Related Provisions: 60.021 — Recontribution of overwithdrawn amount for 2008; 146.3(1)"retirement income fund" — Requirement to withdraw minimum amount annually; 146.3(1.1) — Minimum amount for 2008; 146.3(2)(e.1), (e.2) — Requirement for carrier to retain enough property to pay out minimum amount; 146.3(5.1) — Amount included in income; Reg. 100(1)"remuneration"(j.1), 103(6)(d.1) — Withholding tax on payments; Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act 5"periodic pension payment"(c) — Withdrawal of more than twice the minimum amount per year is not "periodic".

History: The opening words of the definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 19(2), applicable after 2006, except that

(a) in applying the amendment in 2007 (other than for the purposes of subsec. 146.3(5.1), regulations made under subsec. 153(1) and the definition "periodic pension payment" in s. 5 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act), the opening words shall be read as follows:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for a year means, for the year in which the fund was entered into (and for 2007, if the individual who was the annuitant under the fund on January 1, 2007 attained 69 or 70 years of age in 2006), a nil amount, and, for any other year, the amount determined by the formula

[47] Sic. This should read "in this definition" — ed.

(b) in applying the amendment in 2008 (other than for the purposes of subsec. 146.3(5.1), regulations made under subsec. 153(1) and the definition "periodic pension payment" in s. 5 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act), the opening words shall be read as follows:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for a year means, for the year in which the fund was entered into (and for 2008, if the individual who was the annuitant under the fund on January 1, 2008 attained 70 years of age in 2007), a nil amount, and, for any other year, the amount determined by the formula

The opening words formerly read:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for a year is the amount determined by the formula

The definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 171(1), applicable

(a) to 1998 et seq. with respect to

(i) retirement income funds entered into after February 1986, and

(ii) retirement income funds entered into before March 1986 and revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1998;

(b) to the year in which a retirement income fund is first revised or amended after 1997 and to subsequent years, if the fund was entered into before March 1986 and was not revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1998; and

(c) with respect to a retirement income fund that governs a trust that, after July 1997, holds a contract for an annuity, to all years that begin after the first day

(i) that is after July 1997, and

(ii) on which the trust holds such a contract.

The definition formerly read:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund for the year in which the fund is entered into is nil and for each subsequent year is the product obtained when the fair market value of the property held in connection with the fund at the beginning of that subsequent year is multiplied by

(a) where the first annuitant under the fund elected in respect of the fund under paragraph (b), as it read before 1992, or under subparagraph 146.3(1)(f)(i) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read before 1986, to use the age of another individual, the prescribed amount for that subsequent year in respect of the other individual,

(b) where paragraph (a) does not apply and the first annuitant under the fund so elects before any payment has been made under the fund by the carrier, the prescribed amount for that subsequent year in respect of an individual who was the spouse of the first annuitant at the time of the election, or

(c) in any other case, the prescribed amount for that subsequent year in respect of the first annuitant under the fund;

The definition "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(2), applicable

(a) to 1992 et seq. with respect to retirement income funds

(i) entered into after February 1986, and

(ii) entered into before March 1986 and revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992; and

(b) to the taxation year in which a retirement income fund is first revised or amended after February 1986 and to subsequent taxation years, where the fund was entered into before March 1986 and was not revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992.

However, the amended definition does not apply, for the purposes of subsec. 146.3(5.1), prescribed rules made for the purpose of subsection 153(1) of the Act, and section 5 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act, to payments made before 1993. The definition formerly read:

"minimum amount" under a retirement income fund

(a) for the year in which the fund was entered into is nil and

(b) for each subsequent year, the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{90-B}$$

where

A is the fair market value of the property held in connection with the fund at the beginning of the year, and

B is

(i) the number that is, or would be, the age in whole years of the annuitant at the beginning of the year, or

(ii) where the annuitant so elects before any payment has been made by the carrier of the fund, the number that is or would be the age in whole years of the annuitant's spouse at the beginning of the year;

"property held" in connection with a retirement income fund means property held by the carrier of the fund, whether held by the carrier as trustee or beneficial owner thereof, the value of which, or the income or loss from which, is relevant in determining the amount for a year payable to the annuitant under the fund;

"qualified investment" for a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund means

(a) an investment that would be described by any of paragraphs (a) to (d), (f) and (g) of the definition "qualified investment" in section 204 if the reference in that definition to "a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan" were read as a reference to "a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund" and if that definition were read without reference to the words "with the exception of excluded property in relation to the trust",

(b) [Repealed]

(b.1) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract, and

(ii) the holder of the contract has a right to surrender the contract at any time for an amount that would, if reasonable sales and administration charges were ignored, approximate the value of funds that could otherwise be applied to fund future periodic payments under the contract,

(b.2) a contract for an annuity issued by a licensed annuities provider where

(i) annual or more frequent periodic payments are or may be made under the contract to the holder of the contract,

(ii) the trust is the only person who, disregarding any subsequent transfer of the contract by the trust, is or may become entitled to any annuity payments under the contract,

(iii) neither the time nor the amount of any payment under the contract may vary because of the length of any life, other than

(A) if the annuitant under the fund (in this paragraph referred to as the "RRIF annuitant") has made the election referred to in the definition "retirement income fund" in respect of the fund and a spouse or common-law partner, the life of the RRIF annuitant or the life of the spouse or common-law partner, and

(B) in any other case, the life of the RRIF annuitant,

(iv) the day on which the periodic payments began or are to begin (in this paragraph referred to as the "start date") is not later than the end of the year following the year in which the contract was acquired by the trust,

(v) either

(A) the periodic payments are payable for the life of the RRIF annuitant or the joint lives of the RRIF annuitant and the RRIF annuitant's spouse or common-law partner and either there is no guaranteed period under the contract or there is a guaranteed period that begins at the start date and does not exceed a term equal to 90 years minus the lesser of

(I) the age in whole years at the start date of the RRIF annuitant (determined on the assumption that the RRIF annuitant is alive at the start date), and

(II) the age in whole years at the start date of a spouse or common-law partner of the RRIF annuitant (determined on the assumption that a spouse or common-law partner of the RRIF annuitant at the time the contract was acquired is a spouse or common-law partner of the RRIF annuitant at the start date), or

(B) the periodic payments are payable for a term equal to

(I) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(I), or

(II) 90 years minus the age described in subclause (A)(II), and

(vi) the periodic payments

(A) are equal, or

(B) are not equal solely because of one or more adjustments that would, if the contract were an annuity under a retirement savings plan, be in accordance with subparagraphs 146(3)(b)(iii) to (v) or that arise because of a uniform reduction in the entitlement to the periodic payments as a consequence of a partial surrender of rights to the periodic payments, and

(c) such other investments as may be prescribed by regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance;

"retirement income fund" means an arrangement between a carrier and an annuitant under which, in consideration for the transfer to the carrier of property, the carrier undertakes to pay amounts to the annuitant (and, where the annuitant so elects, to the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner after the annuitant's death), the total of which is, in each year in which the minimum amount under the arrangement for the year is greater than nil, not less than the minimum amount under the arrangement for that year, but the amount of any such payment does not exceed the value of the property held in connection with the arrangement immediately before the time of the payment.

Related Provisions: 146.2(12) [proposed] — TFSA deemed not to be RIF; 146.3(1)"minimum amount" — determination of minimum amount to be paid out; 248(1)"retirement income fund" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "retirement income fund" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 19(1), applicable after 2006. It formerly read:

"retirement income fund" means an arrangement between a carrier and an annuitant under which, in consideration for the transfer to the carrier of property, the carrier undertakes to pay to the annuitant and, where the annuitant so elects, to the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner after the annuitant's death, in each year that begins not later than the first calendar year after the year in which the arrangement was entered into one or more amounts the total of which is not less than the minimum amount under the arrangement for the year, but the amount of any such payment shall not exceed the value of the property held in connection with the arrangement immediately before the time of the payment.

The definition "retirement income fund" in subsec. 146.3(1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

The definition "retirement income fund" in subsec. 146.3(1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(1), applicable

(a) to 1992 et seq. with respect to

(i) retirement income funds entered into after February 1986, and

(ii) retirement income funds entered into before March 1986 and revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992; and

(b) where a retirement income fund was entered into before March 1986 and was not revised or amended after February 1986 and before 1992, to the taxation year in which the fund is first revised or amended after February 1986 and to subsequent taxation years.

That definition formerly read:

"retirement income fund" means an arrangement between a carrier and an annuitant under which, in consideration for the transfer to the carrier of property (including money), the carrier undertakes to pay to the annuitant and, where the annuitant so elects, to the annuitant's spouse after the annuitant's death,

(a) in each year, commencing not later than the first calendar year after the year in which the arrangement is entered into, one or more amounts the total of which is not less than the minimum amount under the arrangement for a year, but the amount of any such payment shall not exceed the value of the property held in connection with the arrangement immediately before the time of the payment, and

(b) at the end of the year in which the last payment under the arrangement is, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the arrangement, required to be made, an amount equal to the value of the property, if any, held in connection with the arrangement at that time.

(1.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 146.3(1.1) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(3), applicable after 1992 [see now subsec. 252(4)]; and, in applying the subsec. in 1991 and 1992, the reference therein to "minimum amount" shall be read as ""annuitant", "minimum amount"". Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Definition of "spouse" — For the purposes of the definitions "minimum amount" and "retirement income fund" in subsection (1) paragraph (2)(d), subparagraph (2)(f)(iv), subsection (6) and paragraph (14)(b), "spouse" has the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1.1).

Proposed Addition — 146.3(1.1), (1.2)

(1.1) Adjusted minimum amount for 2008 — The minimum amount under a retirement income fund for 2008 is 75 per cent of the amount that would, in the absence of this subsection, be the minimum amount under the fund for the year.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 146.3 requires that payments be made each year from a RRIF that are not less than the minimum amount for the RRIF for the year. The minimum amount is defined in subsection 146.3(1), and is generally the fair market value of the fund's assets at the beginning of the year multiplied by an age-based factor set out in the Income Tax Regulations.

New subsection 146.3(1.1) provides that the minimum amount for a RRIF for 2008 is reduced by 25%.

Related Provisions: 60.021 — Recontribution of overwithdrawn amount for 2008; 146.3(1.2) — Exceptions; Reg. 8506(7)(b) — Parallel rule for registered pension plan.

(1.2) Exceptions — Subsection (1.1) does not apply to a retirement income fund

(a) for the purposes of subsections (5.1) and 153(1) and the definition "periodic pension payment" in section 5 of the Income Tax Conventions Interpretation Act; nor

(b) if the individual who was the annuitant under the fund on January 1, 2008 attained 70 years of age in 2007.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 146.3(1.2) provides that the unreduced minimum amount for 2008 (i.e. before applying the 25% reduction provided for by new subsection 146.3(1.1)) continues to apply for certain limited relieving purposes. Specifically, the unreduced minimum amount will apply for the purposes of

- the exemption from withholding tax on RRIF withdrawals up to the minimum amount;
- the spousal attribution rules; and
- non-resident withholding taxes.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 54(1), will add subsecs. 146.3(1.1) and (1.2), in force on Royal Assent.

Federal Economic Statement, Nov. 27, 2008: Temporary Reduction in RRIF Minimum Withdrawals

Many seniors are concerned about the impact of the deterioration of market conditions on their retirement savings. In particular, seniors have expressed concerns about the reduction in value of their retirement savings and whether they will be required to liquidate their Registered Retirement Income Fund (RRIF) assets to meet minimum withdrawal requirements. The Government understands these concerns.

In recognition of these exceptional market conditions and their effect on retirees' savings, the Government proposes to reduce the required minimum withdrawal amount for RRIFs by 25 per cent for 2008, so that retirees may keep more of their savings in their RRIFs. This measure will apply to all RRIF holders regardless of age.

RRIF holders who withdraw more than the reduced 2008 minimum amount will be permitted to re-contribute the excess to their RRIFs, until the later of March 1, 2009 and 30 days after this proposal is enacted (up to the amount of the reduction provided by this measure). Re-contributions will be deductible for the 2008 taxation year.

Similar rules will apply to those receiving variable benefit payments under a money purchase Registered Pension Plan.

This measure is expected to reduce federal revenues by $200 million in 2008–09. Draft legislation to implement these proposals, together with explanatory notes, may be found in Annex 2.

While seniors may also be concerned about an obligation to liquidate assets in order to satisfy the RRIF minimum withdrawal requirement, the income tax rules, in fact, permit "in-kind" asset transfers to meet the minimum withdrawal requirements — they do not require the sale of assets. The in-kind distribution of assets allows individuals to meet the RRIF minimum withdrawal requirements and keep their assets intact, so that the assets may benefit from future market growth.

The Government has asked all financial institutions to accommodate the in-kind distribution of assets from a RRIF, as permitted under the tax rules, at no cost to clients, or to offer another solution that achieves the same result.

These measures to support retirement savings complement previous action by the Government to ensure that Canadians have adequate opportunities to save. Most recently, in Budget 2008, the Government introduced the Tax-Free Savings Account (see 146.2 — ed.).

Minister's Speech, Federal Economic Statement, Nov. 27, 2008: Now, these are exceptional circumstances, and we are taking further action to allow RRIF holders to keep more of their savings in their RRIFs.To help seniors cope, today I am proposing a one-time change that will allow RRIF holders to reduce their required minimum withdrawal by 25% for this tax year. For example, for an individual otherwise required to withdraw $10,000 from their RRIF in 2008, the required withdrawal will be reduced to $7,500.If the individual has already withdrawn more than $7,500, they will be permitted to recontribute the excess up to $2,500, and claim an offsetting deduction for the 2008 taxation year.

CRA News Release, Dec. 11, 2008: The Canada Revenue Agency facilitates the use by taxpayers of tax measures proposed in the 2008 Economic and Fiscal Statement

The Honourable Jean-Pierre Blackburn, Minister of National Revenue, announced today that the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) will follow its longstanding practice by facilitating the use by taxpayers of tax measures proposed in the 2008 Economic and Fiscal Statement.

"In light of prorogation of Parliament, many seniors and financial institutions are seeking confirmation that they can act upon the government's proposal in the 2008 Economic and Fiscal Statement to reduce the registered retirement income fund (RRIF) minimum withdrawal for 2008 by 25%," said Minister Blackburn. "Accordingly, I want to confirm today that the CRA will allow taxpayers to act upon this measure, which is included in a Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled on November 28, 2008, in the House of Commons."

"I want to assure Canadian seniors, who are understandably concerned about the impact of the recent sharp decline in financial markets on their retirement savings, that the government is committed to allowing them to keep more of their savings in their RRIFs for 2008," said the Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance. "We recognize the difficult circumstances they face. That is why we acted, and that is why we fully intend to proceed with the RRIF proposal."

"Canadian seniors built this country and deserve to live with dignity and respect," said the Honourable Marjory LeBreton, Minister of State (Seniors). "The decisive action that our government is taking to allow them to reduce their minimum RRIF withdrawals for 2008 by 25% will help them cope with the difficulties of the global economic slowdown."

The CRA has advised financial institutions that it can administer the proposed change before the law is passed. Further, the proposed change provides for a period of 30 days after the law is passed to make an eligible re contribution.

The CRA has also indicated that if a taxpayer or a financial institution acts in good faith on the basis of a proposal and, subsequently, that proposal is not passed into law, the CRA will not apply penalties for acting upon the proposed change in law. However, the taxpayer may be required to withdraw the ineligible amount from their RRIF.

The CRA will work with financial institutions to ensure that individuals who wish to avail themselves of this proposed change for the 2008 tax year can do so.

The RRIF measure reduces by 25% the minimum amount that a senior must withdraw from his or her RRIF in 2008. If a senior has already withdrawn more than the new reduced minimum amount, he or she can re-contribute the excess (up to the original minimum amount) and can claim a deduction on this amount for 2008. Similar rules will apply to variable benefit money purchase registered pension plans.

Further information regarding these measures may be found at www.cra.gc.ca/seniors.

CRA Notice, Dec. 11, 2008: Economic Statement — Proposed Measure for Annuitants of Registered Retirement Income Funds: Questions and Answers for Financial Institutions

1. Will financial institutions be required to reprogram their systems for 2008 to report, in boxes 16 and 24 of the T4RIF slip, the excess amount based on the proposed 25% reduction of the 2008 registered retirement income fund (RRIF) minimum amount?

No. The Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) will not require any changes to existing reporting requirements. This means that the excess amount reported in box 24 of the T4RIF slip should continue to be based on the unreduced minimum amount for 2008. This is consistent with the approach adopted for the 2007 Budget measure that provided a waiver of the minimum amount in 2007 and 2008 for certain individuals. For more details, go to cra.gc.ca/tx/rgstrd/bdgt2007-eng.html#T4RIF.

For information about how to report other RRIF amounts on T4RIF slips, refer to Guide T4079, T4RSP and T4RIF Guide, on our Web site at cra.gc.ca/forms or call 1-800-959-5525.

2. Are there any changes to the RRIF withholding tax rules?

No. The exemption from withholding tax on RRIF withdrawals up to the minimum amount will continue to be based on the unreduced minimum amount for 2008.

3. An individual received the reduced minimum amount in 2008 based upon the proposed change. Will financial institutions be required to issue amended T4RIF slips for 2008 if the proposed changes are not passed into law?

No. Financial institutions will not be required to issue amended T4RIF slips for 2008 if the proposed changes are not passed into law. However, the taxpayer may be required to withdraw the ineligible amount from his or her RRIF and report the amount as income in 2009.

4. If an individual received an unreduced minimum amount in 2008, and re-contributed an amount up to the 25% minimum amount reduction, is the financial institution required to issue a separate RRIF receipt for the re-contributed amount?

Yes. A separate RRIF re-contribution receipt should be issued. The receipt should show that the amount received was a contribution to a RRIF. In addition, the receipt should include:

- the name of the RRIF carrier;
- the signature of an authorized official;
- the contract number;
- the annuitant's name and social insurance number;
- the total amount received; and
- the date the amount was received.

Receipts that bear a facsimile signature of an authorized official, without countersigning or initialling, are acceptable if the receipts are serial-numbered and your company retains a copy of each receipt issued.

Financial institutions are not required to provide copies of these RRIF receipts to the CRA. Further, these RRIF contributions must not form part of the records included in the RRSP Contribution Information Return for any year.

5. Are financial institutions required to issue an official registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) receipt if an individual contributes to his or her RRSP an amount up to the 25% minimum amount reduction where the individual was paid the unreduced minimum amount in 2008?

Yes. Official RRSP receipts are to be issued for these RRSP contributions. The contributions have to form part of the records you include with the 2008 RRSP Contribution Information Return you have to file electronically by May 1, 2009. Information about this return is available on our Web site at cra.gc.ca/tx/bsnss/tpcs/slps/fmncl/rrsp-reer.

CRA Notice, Dec. 9, 2008: Economic Statement — Proposed Measure for Annuitants of Registered Retirement Income Funds (update)

On November 27, 2008, the Honourable James M. Flaherty, Minister of Finance, presented the government's 2008 Economic and Fiscal Statement. That statement included proposed changes to the calculation of the 2008 required minimum withdrawal for registered retirement income funds (RRIF).

The followings [sic] questions and answers are provided to help financial institutions and RRIF annuitants understand the proposed changes.

What are the proposed changes?

The main proposed changes are the following:

- The minimum amount that must be withdrawn from RRIFs will be reduced by 25% for 2008. For example, if the 2008 minimum amount would have been $10,000, the reduced minimum amount will be $7,500.
- Individuals who have already withdrawn more than the reduced 2008 minimum amount, based on the existing law, will be permitted to re-contribute to their RRIFs an amount up to the 25% proposed reduction. The re-contribution will be deductible for the 2008 taxation year.
- Individuals who opt to make a re-contribution can do this up to March 1, 2009, or 30 days after the proposed legislative changes are enacted by Parliament, whichever is later.

2. Given that Parliament has prorogued, what is the status of the Government's proposal to reduce the required RRIF minimum withdrawals for 2008 by 25% and to permit related re-contributions?

The proposal was included in a detailed Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled in the House of Commons on Friday, November 28, 2008.

It is the longstanding practice of the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) to allow taxpayers to act upon proposed tax measures on the assumption that the legislation for these measures will be enacted.

It is the Government's intention to proceed with the RRIF proposal.

3. Will the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA) permit individuals to take advantage of these proposals before the law has passed?

Yes. Many income tax proposals are expressed to have immediate application but require Parliamentary approval to take effect. In these cases, taxpayers will often base their actions on the assumption that the change will be adopted.

Consistent with our general approach for other proposed income tax changes, the CRA will allow financial institutions and individuals to act upon the proposals before the law is passed. Both parties must, however, ensure that the transaction is in accordance with the proposed changes in law.

4. What happens if my financial institution does not permit the payout of the reduced minimum amount or allow me to make a re-contribution before the law is passed?

The CRA has advised financial institutions that they can administer the proposed changes before the law is passed. Ultimately, it is up to those institutions to decide whether to do so.

Note that the proposed changes provide for a period of 30 days after the law is passed to make your eligible re-contribution.

5. What happens if I received a reduced minimum amount or made a re-contribution, and the proposed law is not passed?

A taxpayer remains potentially liable to the effects of the current law if the proposed change is not adopted. This means that Parliament's adoption of the proposed law is ultimately what matters.

If a taxpayer or a financial institution has, in good faith, acted on the basis of the proposal that, subsequently, is not passed into law, the CRA would not penalize them for acting upon the proposal. However, the taxpayer may be required to withdraw the ineligible amount from their RRIF.

6. Is the 25% reduction to the minimum amount applicable for 2008 and future years?

No. The proposed change applies only for 2008.

7. Is the 25% reduction to the minimum amount available only for individuals 71 years of age and older?

No. The 25% reduction applies to all RRIF annuitants, regardless of age. However, it does not affect individuals who turned 71 in 2008 because changes were made in 2007 that deemed the 2008 minimum amount for these individuals to be nil.

8. Will a re-contribution made in 2009 affect the minimum amount calculation for 2009?

No. The minimum amount for 2009 is based upon the fair market value of the RRIF property at the beginning of 2009.

9. I received my 2008 minimum amount payment of $10,000 by way of a transfer of 1,000 shares of a publicly-traded company. Can I make my re-contribution by transferring 250 of the shares back to my RRIF, even though the share price has changed?

The amount that you may re-contribute is limited to $2,500 (25% of the minimum amount of $10,000). If you choose to make an in-kind re-contribution, the fair market value of the property at the time of the re-contribution must be used.

10. Do the proposed changes apply to Life Income Funds and other locked-in RRIFs?

Yes. These proposed changes apply to all types of RRIFs.

11. Does the re-contribution have to be contributed to the same RRIF from which my minimum amount was paid to me?

No. The re-contribution can be made to any of your RRIFs.

12. Can I make the re-contribution to my registered retirement savings plan (RRSP) instead?

Yes. The re-contribution may be made to either your RRIF or RRSP. However, to contribute the amount to your RRSP, you have to be 71 years of age or younger at the end of the year in which you make your contribution. This is because you have to convert your RRSP to a RRIF by the end of the year in which you turn 71 years of age.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Previously Announced Measures

Budget 2009 confirms the Government's intention to proceed with the following previously-announced tax measures, as modified to take into account consultations and deliberations since their release:

- Measures included in the Notice of Ways and Means Motion tabled by the Government in Parliament on November 28, 2008, including the reduced 2008 minimum withdrawal amounts in respect of Registered Retirement Income Funds and variable benefits under a Registered Pension Plan;

(2) Acceptance of fund for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any retirement income fund of an individual unless, in the Minister's opinion, the following conditions are complied with:

(a) the fund provides that the carrier shall make only those payments described in any of paragraphs (d) and (e), the definition "retirement income fund" in subsection (1), and subsections (14) and (14.1);

(b) the fund provides that payments thereunder may not be assigned in whole or in part;

(c) where the carrier is a person referred to as a depository in section 146, the fund provides that

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(2)(c) opening words

(c) if the carrier is a person referred to as a depositary in section 146, the fund provides that

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 144(2), will amend the opening words of para. 146.3(2)(c) to read as above, applicable after 2001.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146.3(2) outlines the conditions that must be satisfied in order for a retirement income fund to be registered as a RRIF.

Paragraph 146.3(2)(c) of the English version refers to a carrier who "is a person referred to as a depository in section 146". This paragraph is amended to replace the word "depository" with the word "depositary", which is the term used in section 146.

(i) the carrier has no right of offset as regards the property held in connection with the fund in respect of any debt or obligation owing to the carrier, and

(ii) the property held in connection with the fund cannot be pledged, assigned or in any way alienated as security for a loan or for any purpose other than that of the making by the carrier to the annuitant those payments described in paragraph (a);

(d) the fund provides that, except where the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner becomes the annuitant under the fund, the carrier shall, as a consequence of the death of the annuitant, distribute the property held in connection with the fund at the time of the annuitant's death or an amount equal to the value of such property at that time;

(e) the fund provides that, at the direction of the annuitant, the carrier shall transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at the time of the direction (other than property required to be retained in accordance with the provision described in paragraph (e.1) or (e.2)), together with all information necessary for the continuance of the fund, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant;

(e.1) where the fund does not govern a trust or the fund governs a trust created before 1998 that does not hold an annuity contract as a qualified investment for the trust, the fund provides that if an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant or to a registered pension plan in accordance with subsection (14.1), the transferor shall retain an amount equal to the lesser of

(i) the fair market value of such portion of the property as would, if the fair market value thereof does not decline after the transfer, be sufficient to ensure that the minimum amount under the fund for the year in which the transfer is made may be paid to the annuitant in the year, and

(ii) the fair market value of all the property;

(e.2) where paragraph (e.1) does not apply, the fund provides that if an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant or to a registered pension plan in accordance with subsection (14.1), the transferor shall retain property in the fund sufficient to ensure that the total of

(i) all amounts each of which is the fair market value, immediately after the transfer, of a property held in connection with the fund that is

(A) property other than an annuity contract, or

(B) an annuity contract described, immediately after the transfer, in paragraph (b.1) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsection (1), and

(ii) all amounts each of which is a reasonable estimate, as of the time of the transfer, of the amount of an annual or more frequent periodic payment under an annuity contract (other than an annuity contract described in clause (i)(B)) that the trust may receive after the transfer and in the year of the transfer is not less than the amount, if any, by which the minimum amount under the fund for that year exceeds the total of all amounts received out of or under the fund before the transfer that are included in computing the income of the annuitant under the fund for that year;

(f) the fund provides that the carrier shall not accept property as consideration thereunder other than property transferred from

(i) a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant,

(ii) another registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant,

(iii) the individual to the extent only that the amount of the consideration was an amount described in subparagraph 60(l)(v),

(iv) a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan of the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and the individual's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership,

(v) a registered pension plan of which the individual is a member (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)),

(vi) a registered pension plan in accordance with subsection 147.3(5) or (7), or

(vii) a provincial pension plan in circumstances to which subsection 146(21) applies;

Proposed Addition — 146.3(2)(f)(viii)

(viii) a deferred profit sharing plan in accordance with subsection 147(19);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 144(3), will add subpara. 146.3(2)(f)(viii), applicable after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 146.3(2)(f) prohibits a RRIF from receiving property, other than property transferred from sources listed in that paragraph. The paragraph is amended so that a RRIF may receive property transferred directly from a deferred profit sharing plan (DPSP) in accordance with subsection 147(19). This amendment is consequential on an amendment to subsection 147(19) that permits direct transfers from DPSPs to RRIFs. For more details, see the commentary to that subsection.

(g) the fund requires that no benefit or loan, other than

(i) a benefit the amount of which is required to be included in computing the annuitant's income,

(ii) an amount referred to in paragraph (5)(a) or (b), or

(iii) the benefit derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the fund, that is conditional in any way on the existence of the fund may be extended to the annuitant or to a person with whom the annuitant was not dealing at arm's length; and

(h) the fund in all other respects complies with regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

Related Provisions: 139.1(13) — Para. 146(2)(c.4) inapplicable to conversion benefit on demutualization of insurer; 146.3(11) — Change in fund after registration; 146.3(14)–(14.2) — Transfers; 172(3) — Appeal from refusal to register; 248(1)"disposition"(g) — Transfer with same annuitant not a disposition; 248(3)(c) — RRIF set up in Quebec deemed to be trust; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse".

History: Para. 146.3(2)(a) and the opening words of para. 146.3(2)(e.1) and (e.2) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsecs. 83(1)–(3), applicable after 2003. Those provisions formerly read:

(a) the fund provides that the carrier shall make only those payments described in any of paragraphs (d) and (e), the definition "retirement income fund" in subsection (1) and paragraph (14)(b);

. . . . .

(e.1) where the fund does not govern a trust or the fund governs a trust created before 1998 that does not hold an annuity contract as a qualified investment for the trust, the fund provides that if an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant, the transferor shall retain an amount equal to the lesser of

. . . . .

(e.2) where paragraph (e.1) does not apply, the fund provides that if an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to a person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant, the transferor shall retain property in the fund sufficient to ensure that the total of

Subsec. 146.3(2) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, ss. 1 and 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. 146.3(2)(a) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 171(3), applicable to taxation years that end after November 1991. Para. 146.3(2)(a) formerly read:

(a) the fund provides that the carrier shall make only those payments described in paragraphs (d) and (e), the definition "retirement income [fund]" in subsection (1) and paragraph (14)(b);

Para. 146.3(2)(e) and the opening words of para. (e.1) amended, para. 146.3(2)(e.2) added, by the said c. 19, subsecs. 171(4)–(6), applicable to retirement income funds entered into after July 13, 1990 and, in the application of para. (e) to retirement income funds entered into before July 14, 1990, the para. shall be read without reference to the words "in prescribed form and manner". Para. 146.3(2)(e) and the opening words of para. (e.1) formerly read:

(e) the fund provides that, at the direction of the annuitant, the carrier shall, in prescribed form and manner, transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at the time of such direction (other than property required to be retained in accordance with the provision described in paragraph (e.1)), together with all information necessary for the continuance of the fund, to any person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund of the annuitant;

(e.1) the fund provides that where an annuitant, at any time, directs that the carrier transfer all or part of the property held in connection with the fund, or an amount equal to its value at that time, to any person who has agreed to be a carrier of another registered retirement income fund, as described in paragraph (e), the carrier shall retain an amount equal to the lesser of

Subpara. 146.3(2)(f)(vii) added by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(3), applicable after 1991.

Para. 146.3(2)(d) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(4), applicable after 1990. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) the fund provides that, except where the annuitant's spouse becomes the annuitant under the fund pursuant to the terms of the fund or the provisions of the will of the deceased annuitant, the carrier shall, as a consequence of the death of the annuitant, distribute the property held in connection with the fund at the time of death or an amount equal to the value of the property at that time;

Subpara. 146.3(2)(f)(iv) amended applicable after 1992, and subparas. (f)(v) and (vi) added applicable after August 29, 1990, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 84(5) and (6). Subpara. (f)(iv) formerly read:

(iv) a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan of the individual's spouse or former spouse pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal or a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the individual and the individual's spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or other conjugal relationship, on or after the breakdown of their marriage or other relationship;

Para. 146.3(2)(e) amended to add "(other than property required to be retained in accordance with the provision described in paragraph (e.1))"; and para. (e.1) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 119, applicable to RIFs entered into after July 13, 1990.

(3) No tax while trust governed by fund — Except as provided in subsection (9), no tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year if, throughout the period in the year during which the trust was in existence, the trust was governed by a registered retirement income fund of an individual, except that if the trust has

(a) borrowed money in the year or has borrowed money that it has not repaid before the commencement of the year,

(b) received a gift of property (other than a transfer from a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning of subsection 146(1)) or a transfer from a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant)

(i) in the year, or

(ii) in a preceding year and has not divested itself of the property or any property substituted therefor before the commencement of the year, or

(c) carried on any business or businesses in the year, tax is payable under this Part by the trust,

(d) where paragraph (a) or (b) applies, on its taxable income for the year, and

(e) where neither paragraph (a) nor (b) applies and where paragraph (c) applies, on the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than from the business or businesses, as the case may be,

exceeds

(ii) such portion of the amount determined under subparagraph (i) in respect of the trust for the year as can reasonably be considered to be income from, or from the disposition of, qualified investments for the trust.

(3.1) Notwithstanding subsection (3), if the last annuitant under a registered retirement income fund has died, tax is payable under this Part by the trust governed by the fund on its taxable income for each year after the year of the annuitant's death.

(4) Disposition or acquisition of property by trust — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund

(a) disposes of property for a consideration less than the fair market value of the property at the time of the disposition, or for no consideration, or

(b) acquires property for a consideration greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the acquisition,

2 times the difference between that fair market value and the consideration, if any, shall be included in computing the income for the taxation year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the fund at that time.

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(5.1) opening words

(5.1) Amount included in income [spousal attribution] — If at any time in a taxation year a particular amount in respect of a registered retirement income fund that is a spousal or common-law partner plan (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) in relation to a taxpayer is required to be included in the income of the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner and the taxpayer is not living separate and apart from the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner at that time by reason of the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, there shall be included at that time in computing the taxpayer's income for the year an amount equal to the least of

Technical Notes: In 2000, the Act was amended to include common-law partners, but some provisions, including the English version of subsection 146.3(5.1), were overlooked. This subsection is therefore amended to correct this omission. The amendment applies, in general, to the 2001 and subsequent taxation years. However, it may apply as of 1998 if the common-law partners jointly choose to be deemed as such, beginning in that year, for the purposes of the application of the Act.

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a premium (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) paid by the taxpayer in the year or in one of the two immediately preceding taxation years to a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) at the time the premium was paid,

(b) the particular amount, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the fund that is required, in the year and at or before that time, to be included in the income of the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner

exceeds

(ii) the minimum amount under the fund for the year.

(5.2) [Repealed under former Act]

(5.3) Ordering — Where a taxpayer has paid more than one premium described in subsection (5.1), such a premium or part thereof paid by the taxpayer at any time shall be deemed to have been included in computing the taxpayer's income by virtue of that subsection before premiums or parts thereof paid by the taxpayer after that time.

(5.4) Spouse's income — Where, in respect of an amount required at any time in a taxation year to be included in computing the income of a taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner, all or part of a premium has, by reason of subsection (5.1), been included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year, the following rules apply:

(a) the premium or part thereof, as the case may be, shall, for the purposes of subsections (5.1) and 146(8.3) after that time, be deemed not to have been a premium paid to a registered retirement savings plan under which the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)); and

(5.5) Where subsec. (5.1) does not apply — Subsection (5.1) does not apply

(a) in respect of a taxpayer at any time during the year in which the taxpayer dies;

(b) in respect of a taxpayer where either the taxpayer or the annuitant is a non-resident at the particular time referred to in that subsection;

(c) to any payment that is received in full or partial commutation of a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund and in respect of which a deduction was made under paragraph 60(l) if, where the deduction was in respect of the acquisition of an annuity, the terms of the annuity provide that it cannot be commuted, and it is not commuted, in whole or in part within 3 years after the acquisition; or

(d) in respect of an amount that is deemed by subsection (6) to have been received by an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund immediately before the annuitant's death.

(6) Where last annuitant dies — Where the last annuitant under a registered retirement income fund dies, that annuitant shall be deemed to have received, immediately before death, an amount out of or under a registered retirement income fund equal to the fair market value of the property of the fund at the time of the death.

Possible Future Amendment — Deceased's RRSP/RRIF rollover to RDSP

History: Subsec. 146.3(6) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(6) Effect of death where person other than spouse becomes entitled — Where the last annuitant under a registered retirement income fund dies, the annuitant shall be deemed to have received, immediately before the annuitant's death, an amount out of or under a registered retirement income fund equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the fair market [value] of all the property of the fund at the time of death

exceeds

(b) the portion thereof that, as a consequence of the death, becomes receivable by the annuitant's spouse.

(6.11) Transfer of designated benefit — For the purpose of subparagraph 60(l)(v), the eligible amount of a particular individual for a taxation year in respect of a registered retirement income fund is nil unless the particular individual was

(a) a spouse or common-law partner of the last annuitant under the fund, or

(b) a child or grandchild of that annuitant who was dependent because of physical or mental infirmity on that annuitant, in which case the eligible amount shall be determined by the formula

$$A \times \left[1 - \frac{(B - C)}{D} \right]$$

where

A is the portion of the designated benefit of the particular individual in respect of the fund that is included because of subsection (5) in computing the particular individual's income for the year,

B is the minimum amount under the fund for the year,

C is the lesser of

(a) the total amounts included because of subsection (5) in computing the income of an annuitant under the fund for the year in respect of amounts received by the annuitant out of or under the fund, and

(b) the minimum amount under the fund for the year, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is the portion of a designated benefit of an individual in respect of the fund that is included because of subsection (5) in computing the individual's income for the year.

(a) if the taxation year is 2007, the taxpayer was the annuitant under the fund on January 1, 2007 and the taxpayer attained 69 or 70 years of age in 2006, the lesser of

(i) the total amounts included because of subsec. 146.3(5) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in respect of amounts received out of or under the fund (other than an amount paid by direct transfer from the fund to another fund or a registered retirement savings plan), and

(ii) the amount that would, but for the first paragraph (a) above, be the minimum amount under the fund for 2007; and

(b) if the taxation year is 2008, the taxpayer was the annuitant under the fund on January 1, 2008 and the taxpayer attained 70 years of age in 2007, the lesser of

(i) the total amounts included because of subsec. 146.3(5) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year in respect of amounts received out of or under the fund (other than an amount paid by direct transfer from the fund to another fund or a registered retirement savings plan), and

(ii) the amount that would, but for the first paragraph (b) above, be the minimum amount under the fund for 2008.

Subsec. 146.3(6.11) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

(6.2) Amount deductible — There may be deducted from the amount deemed by subsection (6) to be received by an annuitant out of or under a registered retirement income fund an amount not exceeding the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of

(a) all designated benefits of individuals in respect of the fund,

(b) all amounts that would, if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan, be tax-paid amounts (in this subsection having the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) in respect of the fund received by individuals who received, otherwise than because of subsection (6.1), designated benefits in respect of the fund, and

(c) all amounts each of which is an amount that would, if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan, be a tax-paid amount in respect of the fund received by the legal representative of the last annuitant under the fund, to the extent that the legal representative would have been entitled to designate that tax-paid amount under paragraph (a) of the definition "designated benefit" in subsection (1) if tax-paid amounts were not excluded in determining refunds of premiums (as defined in subsection 146(1));

B is the fair market value of the property of the fund at the particular time that is the later of

(a) the end of the first calendar year that begins after the death of the annuitant, and

(b) the time immediately after the last time that any designated benefit in respect of the fund is received by an individual;

C is the total of all amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the last annuitant thereunder and before the particular time; and

D is the lesser of

(a) the fair market value of the property of the fund at the time of the death of the last annuitant thereunder, and

(b) the sum of the values of B and C in respect of the fund.

History: The description of A in subsec. 146.3(6.2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 171(8), applicable to deaths that occur after 1992. The description formerly read:

A is the total of all designated benefits of individuals in respect of the fund;

Subsec. 146.3(6.2) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(6), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(6.2) Amount deductible — There may be deducted from the amount deemed by subsection (6) to have been received by an annuitant under a registered retirement income fund the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) that portion of an amount paid out of or under the fund that is deemed to be received by a beneficiary as a benefit that is a refund of premiums pursuant to subsection (6.1), or

(b) an amount paid under the fund to a child or grandchild of the annuitant that would be a refund of premiums (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) had the fund been a registered retirement savings plan and each amount described in paragraph (b) that is paid to a child or grandchild of the deceased shall be deemed to be received by the child or grandchild, as the case may be, as a benefit that is a refund of premiums under a registered retirement savings plan (within the meanings assigned by subsection 146(1)) and not to be received out of or under a registered retirement income fund.

Proposed Addition — 146.3(6.3), (6.4) — Deduction for post-death losses carried back

(6.3) Deduction for post-death reduction in value — If the last annuitant under a registered retirement income fund dies, there may be deducted in computing the annuitant's income for the taxation year in which the annuitant dies an amount not exceeding the amount determined, after all amounts payable out of or under the fund have been paid, by the formula

A – B

A is the total of all amounts each of which is

(a) the amount deemed by subsection (6) to have been received by the annuitant out of or under the fund,

(b) an amount (other than an amount described in paragraph (c)) received, after the death of the annuitant, by a taxpayer out of or under the fund and included, because of subsection (5), in computing the taxpayer's income, or

(c) an amount that would, if the fund were a registered retirement savings plan, be a tax-paid amount (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) in respect of the fund; and

B is the total of all amounts paid out of or under the fund after the death of the annuitant.

(6.4) Subsec. (6.3) not applicable — Except where the Minister has waived in writing the application of this subsection with respect to all or any portion of the amount determined in subsection (6.3) in respect of a registered retirement income fund, that subsection does not apply if

(a) at any time after the death of the annuitant, a trust governed by the fund held an investment that is not a qualified investment; or

(b) the last payment out of or under the fund was made after the end of the year following the year in which the annuitant died.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 54(2), will add subsecs. 146.3(6.3) and (6.4), applicable in respect of a registered retirement income fund in respect of which the last payment out of the fund is made after 2008.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: See under 146(8.8).

Related Provisions: 146(8.93) — Parallel rule for RRSP.

(7) Acquisition of non-qualified investment by trust — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund

(a) acquires an investment that is not a qualified investment, or

(b) uses or permits to be used a property of the trust as security for a loan,

the fair market value of

(c) the investment at the time it was acquired by the trust, or

(d) the property used as security at the time it commenced to be so used as the case may be, shall be included in computing the income for the year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the fund at that time.

Related Provisions: 146.3(9) — Tax payable where non-qualified investment acquired; 146.3(10) — Recovery of property used as security; 212(1)(q), 214(3)(i) — Non-resident withholding tax; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Registered Plans Compliance Bulletins: 4 (abusive schemes — RRSP stripping).

(8) Disposition of non-qualified investment — Where at any time in a taxation year a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund disposes of a property that, when acquired, was not a qualified investment, there may be deducted in computing the income for the taxation year of the taxpayer who is the annuitant under the fund at that time, an amount equal to the lesser of

(a) the amount that, by virtue of subsection (7), was included in computing the income of a taxpayer in respect of the acquisition of that property, and

(b) the proceeds of disposition of the property.

Related Provisions: 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

Regulations: 215(3) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(9) Tax payable where non-qualified investment acquired — Where a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund has acquired a property that is not a qualified investment,

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(9) opening words

(9) Tax payable on income from non-qualified investment — If a trust that is governed by a registered retirement income fund holds, at any time in a taxation year, a property that is not a qualified investment,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 144(5), will amend the opening words of subsec. 146.3(9) to read as above, applicable to 2003 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 146.3(9) provides that, if a trust governed by a RRIF acquires a non-qualified investment, any income earned by the trust from the investment is taxable under Part I.

Subsection 146.3(9) is amended to clarify that income from property that was a qualified investment at the time it was acquired but later became non-qualified is also taxable in respect of the non-qualified period. This amendment, which applies to the 2003 and subsequent taxation years, is consistent with the tax treatment of income earned by RRSP trusts from non-qualified investments under subsection 146(10.1).

(a) tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than the property that is not a qualified investment or no capital gains or capital losses other than from the disposition of that property, as the case may be; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (a),

(i) "income" includes dividends described in section 83, and

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) shall be read without reference to the fractions set out therein.

Proposed Amendment — 146.3(9)(b)(ii)

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) are to be read as if the fraction set out in each of those paragraphs were replaced by the word "all".

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 144(6), will amend subpara. 146.3(9)(b)(ii) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Subparagraph 146.3(9)(b)(ii) is reworded for clarity, applicable on Royal Assent.

Related Provisions: 146.3(3) — No tax while trust governed by fund; 146.3(7) — Acquisition of non-qualified investment by trust; 149(1)(x) — RRIF exemption; 207.1(4) — Tax payable by RRIF on non-qualified investments; 259(1) — Election for proportional holdings in trust property.

(10) Recovery of property used as security — Where at any time in a taxation year a loan for which a trust governed by a registered retirement income fund has used or permitted to be used trust property as security ceases to be extant, and the fair market value of the property so used was included by virtue of subsection (7) in computing the income of a taxpayer who was the annuitant under the fund, there may be deducted in computing the income for a taxation year of the taxpayer who is at that time the annuitant, an amount equal to the amount, if any, remaining when

(a) the net loss (exclusive of payments by the trust as or on account of interest) sustained by the trust in consequence of its using or permitting to be used the property as security for the loan and not as a result of a change in the fair market value of the property

(b) the amount so included in computing the income of a taxpayer in consequence of the trust's using or permitting to be used the property as security for the loan.

Regulations: 215(3) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-320R3: Qualified investments — Trusts governed by RRSPs, RESPs and RRIFs.

(11) Change in fund after registration — Where, on any day after a retirement income fund has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, the fund is revised or amended or a new fund is substituted therefor, and the fund as revised or amended or the new fund substituted therefor, as the case may be, (in this subsection referred to as the "amended fund") does not comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) the amended fund shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be a registered retirement income fund; and

(b) the taxpayer who was the annuitant under the fund before it became an amended fund shall, in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year that includes that day, include as income received out of the fund at that time an amount equal to the fair market value of all the property held in connection with the fund immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 146.3(2) — Requirements for acceptance for registration; 146.3(12) — Where arrangement deemed to be new fund substituted for RRIF; 146.3(13) — Where fund deemed revised or amended; 147.3(13.1) — Withdrawal of excessive transfers to RRSPs and RRIFs; 153(1)(l) — Withholdings; 204.2(1.4) — Deemed receipt where RRSP or RRIF amended; 212(1)(q), 214(3)(i) — Non-resident withholding tax.

Forms: T1234 SCH B: Allowable amounts of non-refundable tax credits; T2205: Amounts from a spousal or common-law partner RRSP or RRIF to include in income.

(12) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (11), an arrangement under which a right or obligation under a retirement income fund is released or extinguished either wholly or in part and either in exchange or substitution for any right or obligation, or otherwise (other than an arrangement the sole object and legal effect of which is to revise or amend the fund) or under which payment of any amount by way of loan or otherwise is made on the security of a right under a retirement income fund, shall be deemed to be a new fund substituted for the retirement income fund.

Regulations: 215(4) (information return).

(13) Idem — Where at any time a benefit or loan is extended or continues to be extended as a consequence of the existence of a registered retirement income fund and that benefit or loan would be prohibited if the fund met the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(g), for the purposes of subsection (11), the fund shall be deemed to have been revised or amended at that time so that it fails to meet the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(g).

(14) Transfer on breakdown of marriage or common-law partnership — An amount is transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant in accordance with this subsection if the amount

(a) is transferred on behalf of an individual who is a spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner of the annuitant and who is entitled to the amount under a decree, an order or a judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, that relates to a division of property between the annuitant and the individual in settlement of rights that arise out of, or on a breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership; and

(b) is transferred directly to

(i) a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant, or

(ii) a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)).

History: Subsec. 146.3(14) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 83(4), applicable after 2003. It formerly read:

(14) Transfers — Notwithstanding anything in this section, an amount

(a) transferred as described in paragraph (2)(e), or

(b) transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant to a registered retirement income fund or registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner under a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the annuitant and the annuitant's spouse or common-law partner or former spouse or common-law partner in settlement of rights arising out of, or on the breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership, shall be deemed not to be an amount received by the annuitant out of or under a registered retirement income fund.

Subsec. 146.3(14) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 2, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Para. 146.3(14)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 84(7), applicable after 1992. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) transferred from a registered retirement income fund of an annuitant to a registered retirement income fund or a registered retirement savings plan of the annuitant's spouse or former spouse pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal or a written separation agreement, relating to a division of property between the annuitant and the annuitant's spouse or former spouse in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or other conjugal relationship, on or after the breakdown of their marriage or other relationship,

History: Subsec. 146.3(14.1) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 83(4), applicable after 2003.

(14.2) Taxation of amount transferred — An amount transferred on behalf of an individual in accordance with paragraph (2)(e) or subsection (14) or (14.1)

(a) is not, solely because of that transfer, to be included in computing the income of any taxpayer; and

(b) is not to be deducted in computing the income of any taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 146.3(14.2) added by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 83(4), applicable after 2003.

(15) Credited or added amount deemed not received — Where

(a) an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in paragraph (d) of the definition "carrier" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit,

(b) the deposit is a registered retirement income fund at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(c) during the calendar year in which the amount is credited or added or during the preceding calendar year, the annuitant under the fund was alive, the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant or any other person solely because of the crediting or adding.

History: Subsec. 146.3(15) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 71(7), applicable to deaths occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(15) Where amount credited or added deemed not received — Where an amount is credited or added to a deposit with a depositary referred to in paragraph (d) of the definition "carrier" in subsection (1) as interest or income in respect of the deposit, and where

(a) the deposit is a registered retirement income fund at the time the amount is credited or added to the deposit, and

(b) the annuitant under the fund is alive during the year in which the amount is credited or added, the amount shall be deemed not to be received by the annuitant by reason only of the crediting or adding.

Registered Disability Savings Plan

146.4 (1) Definitions — The following definitions apply in this section.

"assistance holdback amount", in relation to a disability savings plan, has the meaning assigned under the Canada Disability Savings Act.

"contribution" to a disability savings plan does not include (other than for the purpose of paragraph (b) of the definition "disability savings plan") an amount paid into the plan under the Canada Disability Savings Act or a prescribed payment.

Regulations: No "prescribed payment" has been proposed for purposes of this definition.

"disability assistance payment", in relation to a disability savings plan of a beneficiary, means any payment made from the plan to the beneficiary or to the beneficiary's estate.

Related Provisions: 146.4(7) — Non-taxable portion of payment; 146.4(10)(b), (c) — Deemed disability assistance payment from non-compliant plan.

"disability savings plan" of a beneficiary means an arrangement

(a) between

(i) a corporation (in this section referred to as the "issuer")

(A) that is licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee, and

(B) with which the specified Minister has entered into an agreement that applies to the arrangement for the purposes of the Canada Disability Savings Act, and

(ii) one or more of the following:

(A) the beneficiary,

(B) an entity that, at the time the arrangement is entered into, is a qualifying person in relation to the beneficiary, and

(C) a legal parent of the beneficiary who, at the time the arrangement is entered into, is not a qualifying person in relation to the beneficiary but is a holder of another arrangement that is a registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary;

(b) under which one or more contributions are to be made in trust to the issuer to be invested, used or otherwise applied by the issuer for the purpose of making payments from the arrangement to the beneficiary; and

(c) that is entered into in a taxation year in respect of which the beneficiary is a DTC-eligible individual.

Proposed Amendment — RDSP deadline for 2008 extended

Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 81:

(1) For the purposes of the Income Tax Act and the Canada Disability Savings Act, specified RDSP events are deemed to have occurred, in the order that they actually occurred, on December 31, 2008 and not on the day or days that they actually occurred.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), "specified RDSP event" means an event occurring after 2008 and before March 3, 2009 that

(a) establishes a "disability savings plan" as defined in subsection 146.4(1) of the Income Tax Act;

(b) satisfies conditions in subsection 146.4(2) of the Income Tax Act;

(c) establishes a "registered disability savings plan" as defined in subsection 146.4(1) of the Income Tax Act for a beneficiary who is, in respect of the 2008 taxation year, a "DTC-eligible individual" as defined in subsection 146.4(1) of the Income Tax Act and who was resident in Canada at the end of that year;

(d) is the making of any contribution to the registered disability savings plan;

(e) satisfies the requirement in paragraph 3(b) of the Canada Disability Savings Regulations; or

(f) is the taking of any other action to ensure that the registered disability savings plan is validly established and contributions to the plan are validly made.

Dept. of Finance news release 2008-110, Dec. 23, 2008: Government Welcomes National Availability of Registered Disability Savings Plans and Extends Deadline for Establishing a Plan and Applying for the 2008 Grant and Bond

At an event celebrating the national availability of Registered Disability Savings Plans (RDSPs), the Honourable Jim Flaherty, Minister of Finance, and the Honourable Diane Finley, Minister of Human Resources and Skills Development, today announced that the deadline for opening an RDSP, making contributions and applying for the matching Grant and the income-tested Bond for the 2008 contribution year has been extended to March 2, 2009 from December 31, 2008. The 2009 RDSP contribution year will begin March 3, 2009.

"The Government announced RDSPs in Budget 2007 to help parents and others set aside funds today to financially support a child with a severe disability when they are no longer able to provide support," said Minister Flaherty. "I am very pleased that this long-term financial support is now available and I congratulate the Bank of Montreal for being the first major bank to offer RDSPs.

"To ensure that as many individuals as possible can establish an account and be eligible for a full year of the Canada Disability Savings Grant and the Canada Disability Savings Bond, we are pleased to announce a two month extension to the 2008 deadline for opening an RDSP and applying for the 2008 Grant and Bond."

"We want to help parents and families that care for people with disabilities to save toward the long-term security of their loved ones," said Minister Finley. "The RDSP is a long-term tax-assisted savings vehicle to support the vulnerable and to provide assistance to those Canadians who face unique and difficult challenges. About 280,000 Canadians are eligible to open RDSPs."

"Congratulations to Canada for showing the world the way in making sure that people with disabilities and their families get the long-term financial support and peace of mind they need," said Tom Flynn, Executive Vice-President and Chief Risk Officer, BMO Financial Group and Vice Chair Bloorview Kids Rehab. "BMO is very pleased to be the first major Canadian financial institution to offer the RDSP. On a personal note, as someone who knows many children and families who will benefit from this, I extend my heartfelt thanks to everyone who turned a great idea into a great program."

"On behalf of families from coast to coast, the Planned Lifetime Advocacy Network would like to thank the Government of Canada for its leadership in implementing an RDSP, the first of its kind in the world," said Al Etmanski, President of PLAN. "With my daughter, Liz, I have been eagerly awaiting this announcement. Aside from ensuring the financial well-being of our sons and daughters, the Government of Canada is sending a major signal to Canadians with disabilities and their families — 'we know you have extra expenses; we know you want to participate and contribute to society; we trust you to decide how best to do this.'"

Individuals who qualify for the disability tax credit, their families and others may save for the long-term financial security of a person with a severe disability by contributing to an RDSP. These contributions may be supplemented by matching Canada Disability Savings Grants from the Government of Canada. The Canada Disability Savings Bond is also available for low- and middle-income families even if no contributions are made.

The RDSP is a tax-assisted savings plan. Contributions to an RDSP will not be deductible, nor will they be included in income when withdrawn. Investment income, grants and bonds are included in the income of the beneficiary when withdrawn from an RDSP.

To maximize the effectiveness of RDSPs and ensure that payments from the plan supplement rather than reduce income and benefits from other sources, amounts paid out of RDSPs will not affect federal income-tested benefits and credits such as the Canada Child Tax Benefit, the Goods and Services Tax Credit and Old Age Security.

The Government of Canada has also worked with the provinces and territories to ensure that RDSPs are as effective as possible. To date, Newfoundland and Labrador, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, British Columbia and the Yukon have announced that RDSP income and assets will not affect calculations for income support benefits. Quebec, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island have announced that RDSP payments will be exempt from income support reductions up to certain limits. The Northwest Territories announced a limited income exemption from social assistance, which will partially accommodate beneficiaries of RDSPs.

RDSPs are also now available to Canadians with disabilities who reside in Quebec at the Société de gérance des Fonds FMOQ, which is also accepting applications for the grant and bond.

Additional information on the grant and bond can be found on the Human Resources and Skills Development Canada website at: www.hrsdc.gc.ca/disability.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Previously Announced Measures

Budget 2009 confirms the Government's intention to proceed with the following previously-announced tax measures, as modified to take into account consultations and deliberations since their release:

- Extension of the 2008 deadline for Registered Disability Savings Plan contributions, announced on December 23, 2008;

Related Provisions: 146.2(12) [proposed] — TFSA deemed not to be DSP.

"DTC-eligible individual", in respect of a taxation year, means an individual in respect of whom an amount is deductible, or would if this Act were read without reference to paragraph 118.3(1)(c) be deductible, under section 118.3 in computing a taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year.

"holder" of a disability savings plan at any time means each of the following:

(a) an entity that has, at that time, rights as an entity with whom the issuer entered into the plan;

(b) an entity that has, at that time, rights as a successor or assignee of an entity described in paragraph (a) or in this paragraph; and

(c) the beneficiary if, at that time, the beneficiary is not an entity described in paragraph (a) or (b) and has rights under the plan to make decisions (either alone or with other holders of the plan) concerning the plan, except where the only such right is a right to direct that disability assistance payments be made as provided for in subparagraph (4)(n)(iii)).

Related Provisions: 146.4(13)(a) — Notification required of change in holders; 160.21 — Liability of holder for non-compliance by RDSP; 206(3) — Liability of holder for tax on inadequate consideration; 206.1(3) — Liability of holder for tax on non-qualified investment; 206.2(3) — Liability of holder for tax where advantage extended; 207(3) — Discharge of Part XI tax liability.

"lifetime disability assistance payments" under a disability savings plan of a beneficiary means disability assistance payments that are identified under the terms of the plan as lifetime disability assistance payments and that, after they begin to be paid, are payable at least annually until the earlier of the day on which the beneficiary dies and the day on which the plan is terminated.

"plan trust", in relation to a disability savings plan, means the trust governed by the plan.

"qualifying person", in relation to a beneficiary of a disability savings plan, at any time, means

(a) if the beneficiary has not, at or before that time, attained the age of majority, an entity that is, at that time,

(i) a legal parent of the beneficiary,

(ii) a guardian, tutor, curator or other individual who is legally authorized to act on behalf of the beneficiary, or

(ii) a public department, agency or institution that is legally authorized to act on behalf of the beneficiary, and

(b) if the beneficiary has, at or before that time, attained the age of majority and is not, at that time, contractually competent to enter into a disability savings plan, an entity that is, at that time, an entity described in subparagraph (a)(ii) or (iii).

"registered disability savings plan" means a disability savings plan that satisfies the conditions in subsection (2), but does not include a plan to which subsection (3) or (10) applies.

Proposed Amendment — Plan established by March 2/09 deemed established in 2008

Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 81: See under 146.4(1)"disability savings plan"(c).

Related Provisions: 18(11)(i) — No deduction for interest paid on money borrowed to make contribution; 40(2)(g) — No capital loss on disposition of RDSP; 74.5(12)(a.2) — Attribution rules do not apply to RDSP; 75(3)(a) — Reversionary trust rules do not apply to RDSP; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(iii.1) — No capital gains tax on emigration from Canada; 146.4(2)–(4) — Conditions for plan to be and remain registered; 146.4(5) — Whether RSDP pays tax; 146.4(10)(a) — Non-compliant plan ceases to be RDSP; 206.2 — Tax on advantage extended other than by making disability assistance payment; 248(1)"registered disability savings plan" — Definition applies to entire Act.

Forms: RC4460: Registered disability savings plan [guide, draft].

"specified Minister" means the minister designated under section 4 of the Canada Disability Savings Act.

"specified year" for a disability savings plan of a beneficiary means the particular calendar year in which a medical doctor licensed to practice under the laws of a province (or of the place where the beneficiary resides) certifies in writing that the beneficiary's state of health is such that, in the professional opinion of the medical doctor, the beneficiary is not likely to survive more than five years, and each of the five calendar years following the particular calendar year, but does not include any calendar year prior to the calendar year in which the certification is provided to the issuer of the plan.

(2) Registered status — The conditions that must be satisfied for a disability savings plan of a beneficiary to be a registered disability savings plan are as follows:

(a) before the plan is entered into, the issuer of the plan has received written notification from the Minister that, in the Minister's opinion, a plan whose terms are identical to the plan would, if entered into by entities eligible to enter into a disability savings plan, comply with the conditions in subsection (4);

(b) at or before the time the plan is entered into, the issuer of the plan has been provided with the Social Insurance Number of the beneficiary and the Social Insurance Number or business number, as the case may be, of each entity with which the issuer has entered into the plan; and

(c) at the time the plan is entered into, the beneficiary is resident in Canada, except that this condition does not apply if, at that time, the beneficiary is the beneficiary under another registered disability savings plan.

Proposed Amendment — Plan established by March 2/09 deemed established in 2008

Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), s. 81: See under 146.4(1)"disability savings plan"(c).

(3) Registered status nullified — A disability savings plan is deemed never to have been a registered disability savings plan if

(a) the issuer of the plan has not, on or before the day that is 60 days after the particular day on which the plan was entered into, provided notification of the plan's existence in prescribed form containing prescribed information to the specified Minister; or

(b) the beneficiary was, on the particular day, the beneficiary under another registered disability savings plan and that other plan has not been terminated on or before the day that is 120 days after the particular day or any later day that the specified Minister considers reasonable in the circumstances.

(4) Plan conditions — The conditions referred to in paragraph (2)(a) are as follows:

(a) the plan stipulates

(i) that it is to be operated exclusively for the benefit of the beneficiary under the plan,

(ii) that the designation of the beneficiary under the plan is irrevocable, and

(iii) that no right of the beneficiary to receive payments from the plan is capable, either in whole or in part, of surrender or assignment;

(b) the plan allows an entity to acquire rights as a successor or assignee of a holder of the plan only if the entity is

(i) the beneficiary,

(ii) the beneficiary's estate,

(iii) a holder of the plan at the time the rights are acquired,

(iv) a qualifying person in relation to the beneficiary at the time the rights are acquired, or

(v) an individual who is a legal parent of the beneficiary and was previously a holder of the plan;

(c) the plan provides that, where an entity (other than a legal parent of the beneficiary) that is a holder of the plan ceases to be a qualifying person in relation to the beneficiary at any time, the entity ceases at that time to be a holder of the plan;

(d) the plan provides for there to be at least one holder of the plan at all times that the plan is in existence and may provide for the beneficiary (or the beneficiary's estate, as the case may be) to automatically acquire rights as a successor or assignee of a holder in order to ensure compliance with this requirement;

(e) the plan provides that, where an entity becomes a holder of the plan after the plan is entered into, the entity is prohibited (except to the extent otherwise permitted by the Minister or the specified Minister) from exercising their rights as a holder of the plan until the issuer has been advised of the entity having become a holder of the plan and been provided with the entity's Social Insurance Number or business number, as the case may be;

(f) the plan prohibits contributions from being made to the plan at any time if

(i) the beneficiary is not a DTC-eligible individual in respect of the taxation year that includes that time, or

(ii) the beneficiary died before that time;

(g) the plan prohibits a contribution from being made to the plan (other than as a transfer in accordance with subsection (8)) at any time if

(i) the beneficiary attained the age of 59 years before the calendar year that includes that time,

(ii) the beneficiary is not resident in Canada at that time, or

(iii) the total of the contribution and all other contributions made (other than as a transfer in accordance with subsection

(8)) at or before that time to the plan or to any other registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary would exceed $200,000;

(h) the plan prohibits contributions to the plan by any entity that is not a holder of the plan, except with written consent of a holder of the plan;

(i) the plan provides that no payments may be made from the plan other than

(i) disability assistance payments,

(ii) a transfer in accordance with subsection (8), and

(iii) repayments under the Canada Disability Savings Act;

(j) the plan prohibits a disability assistance payment from being made if it would result in the fair market value of the property held by the plan trust immediately after the payment being less than the assistance holdback amount in relation to the plan;

(k) the plan provides for lifetime disability assistance payments to begin to be paid no later than the end of the particular calendar year in which the beneficiary attains the age of 60 years or, if the plan is established in or after the particular year, in the calendar year following the calendar year in which the plan is established;

(l) the plan provides that the total amount of lifetime disability assistance payments made in any particular calendar year (other than a specified year for the plan) shall not exceed the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the fair market value of the property held by the plan trust at the beginning of the calendar year (other than annuity contracts held by the plan trust that, at the beginning of the calendar year, are not described in paragraph (b) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsection 205(1)),

B is the greater of 80 and the age in whole years of the beneficiary at the beginning of the calendar year,

C is the age in whole years of the beneficiary at the beginning of the calendar year, and

D is the total of all amounts each of which is

(i) a periodic payment under an annuity contract held by the plan trust at the beginning of the calendar year (other than an annuity contract described at the beginning of the calendar year in paragraph (b) of the definition "qualified investment" in subsection 205(1)) that is paid to the plan trust in the calendar year, or

(ii) if the periodic payment under such an annuity contract is not made to the plan trust because the plan trust disposed of the right to that payment in the calendar year, a reasonable estimate of that payment on the assumption that the annuity contract had been held throughout the calendar year and no rights under the contract were disposed of in the calendar year;

(m) the plan stipulates whether or not disability assistance payments that are not lifetime disability assistance payments are to be permitted under the plan;

(n) the plan provides that when the total of all amounts paid under the Canada Disability Savings Act before the beginning of a calendar year to any registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary exceeds the total of all contributions made (other than as a transfer in accordance with subsection (8)) before the beginning of the calendar year to any registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary,

(i) if the calendar year is not a specified year for the plan, the total amount of disability assistance payments made from the plan to the beneficiary in the calendar year shall not exceed the amount determined by the formula set out in paragraph (l) in respect of the plan for the calendar year, except that, in calculating that total amount, any payment made following a transfer in the calendar year from another plan in accordance with subsection (8) is to be disregarded if it is made

(A) to satisfy an undertaking described in paragraph (8)(d), or

(B) in lieu of a payment that would otherwise have been permitted to be made from the other plan in the calendar year had the transfer not occurred,

(ii) if the beneficiary attained the age of 59 years before the calendar year, the total amount of disability assistance payments made from the plan to the beneficiary in the calendar year shall not be less than the amount determined by the formula set out in paragraph (l) in respect of the plan for the calendar year (or such lesser amount as is supported by the property of the plan trust), and

(iii) if the beneficiary attained the age of 27 years, but not the age of 59 years, before the calendar year, the beneficiary has the right to direct that, within the constraints imposed by subparagraph (i) and paragraph (j), one or more disability assistance payments be made from the plan to the beneficiary in the calendar year;

(o) the plan provides that, at the direction of the holders of the plan, the issuer shall transfer all of the property held by the plan trust (or an amount equal to its value) to another registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary, together with all information in its possession that may reasonably be considered necessary for compliance, in respect of the other plan, with the requirements of this Act and with any conditions and obligations imposed under the Canada Disability Savings Act; and

(p) the plan provides for any amounts remaining in the plan (after taking into consideration any repayments under the Canada Disability Savings Act) to be paid to the beneficiary or the beneficiary's estate, as the case may be, and for the plan to be terminated, by the end of the calendar year following the earlier of

(i) the calendar year in which the beneficiary dies, and

(ii) the first calendar year throughout which the beneficiary has no severe and prolonged impairments with the effects described in paragraph 118.3(1)(a.1).

Related Provisions: 146.4(10)(c) — Effect of non-compliance with para. (4)(h); 146.4(11) — Non-compliance with subsec. (4); 146.4(13)(b) — No amendment to plan unless Minister rules amendments comply; 205–207 — Part XI taxes on RDSPs; 248(3)(c) — RDSP set up in Quebec deemed to be trust.

History: Subpara. 146.4(4)(p)(ii) amended by 2008, c. 28, subsec. 25(1), applicable to 2008 et seq. It formerly read:

(p) the plan provides for any amounts remaining in the plan (after taking into consideration any repayments under the Canada Disability Savings Act) to be paid to the beneficiary or the beneficiary's estate, as the case may be, and for the plan to be terminated, by the end of the calendar year following the earlier of

(i) the calendar year in which the beneficiary dies, and

(ii) the taxation year in respect of which the beneficiary ceases to be a DTC-eligible individual.

Forms: RC4460: Registered disability savings plan [guide, draft].

(5) Trust not taxable — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year if, throughout the period in the year during which the trust was in existence, the trust was governed by a registered disability savings plan, except that

(a) tax is payable under this Part by the trust on its taxable income for the year if the trust has borrowed money

(i) in the year, or

(ii) in a preceding taxation year and has not repaid it before the beginning of the year; and

(b) if the trust is not otherwise taxable under paragraph (a) on its taxable income for the year and, at any time in the year, it carries on one or more businesses or holds one or more properties that are not qualified investments (as defined in subsection 205(1)) for the trust, tax is payable under this Part by the trust on the amount that its taxable income for the year would be if it had no incomes or losses from sources other than those businesses and properties, and no capital gains or losses other than from dispositions of those properties, and for this purpose,

(i) "income" includes dividends described in section 83, and

(ii) paragraphs 38(a) and (b) are to be read as if the fraction set out in each of those paragraphs were replaced by the word "all".

Related Provisions: 149(1)(u.1) — RDSP exempt to extent provided by 146.4; 205–207 — Other taxes on RDSPs; 253.1 — Investment in limited partnership is not carrying on business for 146.4(5)(b).

(6) Taxation of disability assistance payments — Where a disability assistance payment is made from a registered disability savings plan of a beneficiary, the amount, if any, by which the amount of the payment exceeds the non-taxable portion of the payment shall be included,

(a) if the beneficiary is alive at the time the payment is made, in computing the beneficiary's income for the beneficiary's taxation year in which the payment is made; and

(b) in any other case, in computing the income of the beneficiary's estate for the estate's taxation year in which the payment is made.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(q.1) — Income inclusion; 60(z) — Repayment deductible; 74.5(12)(a.2) — Attribution rules do not apply to RDSP; 122.5(1)"adjusted income" — Income not counted for purposes of GST/HST Credit; 122.6"adjusted income" — Income not counted for purposes of Child Tax Benefit; 146.4(7) — Non-taxable portion of payment; 146.4(10)(b), (c) — Deemed payment from non-compliant plan; 180.2(1)"adjusted income" — Income not counted for purposes of Old Age Security clawback; 206.2 — Tax on advantage extended other than by making disability assistance payment.

(7) Non-taxable portion of disability assistance payment — The non-taxable portion of a disability assistance payment made at a particular time from a registered disability savings plan of a beneficiary is the lesser of the amount of the disability assistance payment and the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the disability assistance payment;

B is the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a contribution made before the particular time to any registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary (other than as a transfer in accordance with subsection (8))

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the non-taxable portion of a disability assistance payment made before the particular time from any registered disability savings plan of the beneficiary; and

C is the amount by which the fair market value of the property held by the plan trust immediately before the payment exceeds the assistance holdback amount in relation to the plan.

Related Provisions: 146.4(6) — Remainder of payment is taxable.

(8) Transfer of funds — An amount is transferred from a registered disability savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "prior plan") of a beneficiary in accordance with this subsection if

(a) the amount is transferred directly to another registered disability savings plan (in this subsection referred to as the "new plan") of the beneficiary;

(b) the prior plan is terminated immediately after the transfer;

(c) the issuer of the prior plan provides the issuer of the new plan with all information in its possession concerning the prior plan as may reasonably be considered necessary for compliance, in respect of the new plan, with the requirements of this Act and with any conditions and obligations imposed under the Canada Disability Savings Act; and

(d) where the beneficiary attained the age of 59 years before the calendar year in which the transfer occurs, the issuer of the new plan undertakes to make (in addition to any other disability assistance payments that would otherwise have been made from the new plan in the year) one or more disability assistance payments from the plan in the year, the total of which is equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total amount of disability assistance payments that would have been required to be made from the prior plan in the year if the transfer had not occurred

exceeds

(ii) the total amount of disability assistance payments made from the prior plan in the year.

Related Provisions: 146.4(9) — No tax on transfer; 248(1)"disposition"(f)(vi) — Transfer from RDSP to RDSP is not disposition.

(9) No income inclusion on transfer — An amount transferred in accordance with subsection (8) is not, solely because of that transfer, to be included in computing the income of any taxpayer.

(10) Non-compliance — cessation of registered status — Where, at any particular time, a registered disability savings plan is non-compliant as described in subsection (11),

(a) the plan ceases, as of the particular time, to be a registered disability savings plan (other than for the purposes of applying, as of the particular time, this subsection and subsection (11));

(b) a disability assistance payment is deemed to have been made from the plan at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "relevant time") immediately before the particular time to the beneficiary under the plan (or, if the beneficiary is deceased at the relevant time, to the beneficiary's estate), the amount of which payment is equal to the amount, if any, by which

(i) the fair market value of the property held by the plan trust at the relevant time

exceeds

(ii) the assistance holdback amount in relation to the plan; and

(c) if the plan is non-compliant because of a payment that is not in accordance with paragraph (4)(j), a disability assistance payment is deemed to have been made from the plan at the relevant time (in addition to the payment deemed by paragraph (b) to have been made) to the beneficiary under the plan (or, if the beneficiary is deceased at the relevant time, to the beneficiary's estate)

(i) the amount of which payment is equal to the amount by which the lesser of

(A) the assistance holdback amount in relation to the plan, and

(B) the fair market value of the property held by the plan trust at the relevant time

exceeds

(C) the fair market value of the property held by the plan trust immediately after the particular time, and

(ii) the non-taxable portion of which is deemed to be nil.

Related Provisions: 160.21 — Joint and several liability for tax; 205–207 — Other taxes on RDSPs.

(11) Non-compliance — A registered disability savings plan is non-compliant

(a) at any time that the plan fails to comply with a condition in subsection (4);

(b) at any time that there is a failure to administer the plan in accordance with its terms (other than those terms which the plan is required by subparagraph (4)(a)(i) to stipulate); and

(c) at any time that a person fails to comply with a condition or an obligation imposed, with respect to the plan, under the Canada Disability Savings Act, and the specified Minister has notified the Minister that, in the specified Minister's opinion, it is appropriate that the plan be considered to be non-compliant because of the failure.

Related Provisions: 146.4(10) — Effect of non-compliance; 146.4(12) — Exceptions to subsec. (11); 146.4(13)(c) — Notification of non-compliance required.

(12) Non-application of subsec. (11) — Where a registered disability savings plan would otherwise be non-compliant at a particular time because of a failure described in paragraph (11)(a) or (b),

(a) the Minister may waive the application of the relevant paragraph with respect to the failure, if it is just and equitable to do so;

(b) the Minister may deem the failure to have occurred at a later time;

(c) if the failure consists of the making of a contribution that is prohibited under any of paragraphs (4)(f) to (h), an amount equal to the amount of the contribution has been withdrawn from the plan within such period as is specified by the Minister and the Minister has approved the application of this paragraph with respect to the failure,

(i) the contribution is deemed never to have been made, and

(ii) the withdrawal is deemed not to be a disability assistance payment and not to be in contravention of the condition in paragraph (4)(i); or

(d) if the failure consists of the plan not being terminated by the time set out in paragraph (4)(p) and the failure was due to the issuer being unaware of, or there being some uncertainty as to, the existence of circumstances requiring that the plan be terminated,

(i) the Minister may specify a later time by which the plan is to be terminated (but no later than is reasonably necessary for the plan to be terminated in an orderly manner), and

(ii) paragraph (4)(p) and the plan terms are, for the purposes of paragraphs (11)(a) and (b), to be read as though they required the plan to be terminated by the time so specified.

History: Para. 146.4(12)(d) amended by 2008, c. 28, subsec. 25(2), applicable to 2008 et seq. It formerly read:

(d) if the failure consists of the plan not being terminated as required under paragraph (4)(p) and was due either to the issuer not being aware of the beneficiary having died or having ceased to be a DTC-eligible individual or to some uncertainty as to the beneficiary having ceased to be a DTC-eligible individual, the Minister may specify a later date by which it is reasonable to assume that the plan can be terminated in an orderly manner and, for the purposes of paragraphs (11)(a) and (b), paragraph (4)(p) and the plan terms are to be read as though they required the plan to be terminated by that date.

(13) Obligations of issuer — The issuer of a registered disability savings plan shall,

(a) where an entity becomes a holder of the plan after the plan is entered into, so notify the specified Minister in prescribed form containing prescribed information on or before the day that is 60 days after the later of

(i) the day on which the issuer is advised of the entity having become a holder of the plan, and

(ii) the day on which the issuer is provided with the new holder's Social Insurance Number or business number, as the case may be;

(b) not amend the plan before having received notification from the Minister that, in the Minister's opinion, a plan whose terms are identical to the amended plan would, if entered into by entities eligible to enter into a disability savings plan, comply with the conditions in subsection (4);

(c) where the issuer becomes aware that the plan is, or is likely to become, non-compliant (determined without reference to paragraph (11)(c) and subsection (12)), notify the Minister and the specified Minister of this fact on or before the day that is 30 days after the day on which the issuer becomes so aware; and

(d) exercise the care, diligence and skill of a reasonably prudent person to minimize the possibility that a holder of the plan may become liable to pay tax under Part XI in connection with the plan.

Possible Future Amendment — RDSPs

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Feb. 26, 2008: Registered Disability Savings Plans

Budget 2007 introduced the Registered Disability Savings Plan (RDSP) to help parents and others save to ensure the long-term financial security of a child with a severe disability. Legislation to implement the RDSP has received Royal Assent and regulations under the Canada Disability Savings Act, providing details of the requirements for Canada Disability Savings Grants (CDSGs) and Canada Disability Savings Bonds (CDSBs) to be paid to an RDSP, are being finalized. The Government is working with financial institutions to put the necessary administrative mechanisms in place to allow them to offer RDSPs, with the objective that plans be made available in 2008.

Three-Year Review of Registered Disability Savings Plans

To ensure that RDSPs meet the needs of Canadians with severe disabilities and their families, the RDSP program will be reviewed three years after plans become operational, as recommended in the December 2006 report of the Expert Panel on Financial Security for Children with Severe Disabilities.

Deferred Profit Sharing Plans

147. (1) Definitions — In this section,

"deferred profit sharing plan" means a profit sharing plan accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act, on application therefor in prescribed manner by a trustee under the plan and an employer of employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, as complying with the requirements of this section;

Related Provisions: 75(3)(a) — Reversionary trust rules do not apply to DPSP; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iv) — No deemed disposition of DPSP on emigration.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-528: Transfers of funds between registered plans.

Forms: T2214: Application for registration as a deferred profit sharing plan.

"forfeited amount", under a deferred profit sharing plan or a plan the registration of which has been revoked pursuant to subsection (14) or (14.1), means an amount to which a beneficiary under the plan has ceased to have any rights, other than the portion thereof, if any, that is payable as a consequence of the death of the beneficiary to a person who is entitled thereto by virtue of the participation of the beneficiary in the plan;

"licensed annuities provider" means a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business;

Related Provisions: 248(1)"licensed annuities provider" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "licensed annuities provider" added to subsec. 147(1) by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(1), applicable after 1991.

"profit sharing plan" means an arrangement under which payments computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business, or by reference to those profits and the profits, if any, from the business of a corporation with which the employer does not deal at arm's length, are or have been made by the employer to a trustee in trust for the benefit of employees or former employees of that employer.

Related Provisions: 147(16) — Payments out of profits; 248(1)"deferred profit sharing plan", "profit sharing plan" — Definitions apply to entire Act; 248(8) — Occurrences as a consequence of death.

Regulations: 1501 (prescribed manner).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits.

Information Circulars: 77-1R4: Deferred profit sharing plans. See also at end of s. 147.

Forms: T3D: Income tax return for DPSP or revoked DPSP.

(1.1) Participating employer — An employer is considered to participate in a profit sharing plan where the employer makes or has made payments under the plan to a trustee in trust for the benefit of employees or former employees of the employer.

History: Subsec. 147(1.1) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(2), applicable after 1988.

(2) Acceptance of plan for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any profit sharing plan unless, in the Minister's opinion, it complies with the following conditions:

(a) the plan provides that each payment made under the plan to a trustee in trust for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder is the total of amounts each of which is required to be allocated by the trustee in the year in which it is received by the trustee, to the individual beneficiary in respect of whom the amount was so paid;

(a.1) the plan includes a stipulation that no contribution may be made to the plan other than

(i) a contribution made in accordance with the terms of the plan by an employer for the benefit of the employer's employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, or

(ii) an amount transferred to the plan in accordance with subsection (19);

(b) the plan does not provide for the payment of any amount to an employee or other beneficiary thereunder by way of loan;

(c) the plan provides that no part of the funds of the trust governed by the plan may be invested in notes, bonds, debentures, bankers' acceptances or similar obligations of

(i) an employer by whom payments are made in trust to a trustee under the plan for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder, or

(ii) a corporation with whom that employer does not deal at arm's length;

(d) the plan provides that no part of the funds of the trust governed by the plan may be invested in shares of a corporation at least 50% of the property of which consists of notes, bonds, debentures, bankers' acceptances or similar obligations of an employer or a corporation described in paragraph (c);

(e) the plan includes a provision stipulating that no right or interest under the plan of an employee who is a beneficiary thereunder is capable, either in whole or in part, of surrender or assignment;

Proposed Amendment — 147(2)(e)

(e) the plan includes a provision stipulating that no right of a person under the plan is capable of any surrender or assignment other than

(i) an assignment under a decree, an order or a judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, that relates to a division of property between an individual and the individual's spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, in settlement of rights that arise out of, or on a breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership,

(ii) an assignment by a deceased individual's legal representative on the distribution of the individual's estate, and

(iii) a surrender of benefits to avoid revocation of the plan's registration;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 145(1), will amend para. 147(2)(e) to read as above, applicable after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 147(2) sets out the conditions that a profit sharing plan must satisfy in order to be registered as a DPSP. Paragraph 147(2)(e) requires that such a plan include a provision stipulating that no right of an employee who is a beneficiary under the plan is capable of surrender or assignment.

Paragraph 147(2)(e) is amended in two ways. First, it is amended to extend the application of the provision to require that the stipulation apply to all persons who have rights under a DPSP, not just employee beneficiaries. Second, it is amended to provide that the stipulation is not required to prohibit:

- an assignment under a court order or written agreement relating to the division of property on the breakdown of a marriage or common-law partnership;
- an assignment by a deceased individual's legal representative on the distribution of the individual's estate; and
- a surrender of benefits to avoid revocation of the plan's registration.

These new provisions are similar to the rule in Regulation 8502(f) that applies to registered pension plans (RPPs). The new provisions are, in part, consequential on amendments to subsection 147(19) that accommodate the division of DPSP assets on the breakdown of a marriage or common-law partnership.

(f) the plan includes a provision stipulating that each of the trustees under the plan shall be resident in Canada;

(g) the plan provides that, if a corporation licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada the business of offering to the public its services as trustee is not a trustee under the plan, there shall be at least 3 trustees under the plan who shall be individuals;

(h) the plan provides that all income received, capital gains made and capital losses sustained by the trust governed by the plan must be allocated to beneficiaries under the plan on or before a day 90 days after the end of the year in which they were received, made or sustained, as the case may be, to the extent that they have not been allocated in years preceding that year;

(i) the plan provides that each amount allocated or reallocated by a trustee under the plan to a beneficiary under the plan vest irrevocably in that beneficiary,

(i) in the case of an amount allocated or reallocated before 1991, at a time that is not later than 5 years after the end of the year in which it was allocated or reallocated, unless the beneficiary becomes, before that time, an individual who is not an employee of any employer who participates in the plan, and

(ii) in the case of any other amount, not later than the later of the time of allocation or reallocation and the day on which the beneficiary completes a period of 24 consecutive months as a beneficiary under the plan or under any other deferred profit sharing plan for which the plan can reasonably be considered to have been substituted;

(i.1) the plan requires that each forfeited amount under the plan and all earnings of the plan reasonably attributable thereto be paid to employers who participate in the plan, or be reallocated to beneficiaries under the plan, on or before the later of December 31, 1991 and December 31 of the year immediately following the calendar year in which the amount is forfeited, or such later time as is permitted in writing by the Minister under subsection (2.2);

(j) the plan provides that a trustee under the plan inform, in writing, all new beneficiaries under the plan of their rights under the plan;

(k) the plan provides that, in respect of each beneficiary under the plan who has been employed by an employer who participates in the plan, all amounts vested under the plan in the beneficiary become payable

(i) to the beneficiary, or

(ii) in the event of the beneficiary's death, to another person designated by the beneficiary or to the beneficiary's estate, not later than the earlier of

(iii) the end of the year in which the beneficiary attains 71 years of age, and

(iv) 90 days after the earliest of

(A) the death of the beneficiary,

(B) the day on which the beneficiary ceases to be employed by an employer who participates in the plan where, at the time of ceasing to be so employed, the beneficiary is not employed by another employer who participates in the plan, and

(C) the termination or winding-up of the plan, except that the plan may provide that, on election by the beneficiary, all or any part of the amounts payable to the beneficiary may be paid

(v) in equal instalments payable not less frequently than annually over a period not exceeding 10 years from the day on which the amount became payable, or

(vi) by a trustee under the plan to a licensed annuities provider to purchase for the beneficiary an annuity where

(A) payment of the annuity is to begin not later than the end of the year in which the beneficiary attains 71 years of age, and

(B) the guaranteed term, if any, of the annuity does not exceed 15 years;

(k.1) the plan requires that no benefit or loan, other than

(i) a benefit the amount of which is required to be included in computing the beneficiary's income,

(ii) an amount referred to in paragraph (10)(b),

(ii.1) an amount paid pursuant to or under the plan by a trustee under the plan to a licensed annuities provider to purchase for a beneficiary under the plan an annuity to which subparagraph (k)(vi) applies,

(iii) a benefit derived from an allocation or reallocation referred to in subsection (2), or

(iv) the benefit derived from the provision of administrative or investment services in respect of the plan, that is conditional in any way on the existence of the plan may be extended to a beneficiary thereunder or to a person with whom the beneficiary was not dealing at arm's length;

(k.2) the plan provides that no individual who is

(i) a person related to the employer,

(ii) a person who is, or is related to, a specified shareholder of the employer or of a corporation related to the employer,

(iii) where the employer is a partnership, a person related to a member of the partnership, or

(iv) where the employer is a trust, a person who is, or is related to, a beneficiary under the trust may become a beneficiary under the plan; and

(l) the plan, in all other respects, complies with regulations of the Governor in Council made on the recommendation of the Minister of Finance.

History: Subpara. 147(2)(k)(iii) and cl. 147(2)(k)(vi)(A) amended to substitute "71" for "69" by 2007, c. 29, subsecs. 20(2), (4), applicable after 2006.

Para. 147(2)(k) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(3), applicable after 1996, except that

(a) where a beneficiary under a profit sharing plan attained 70 years of age before 1997,

(i) in applying subpara. (iii) in respect of the beneficiary, that subpara. shall be read as follows:

(iii) 90 days after the day on which the beneficiary attains 71 years of age, and

(ii) in applying cl. (vi)(A) in respect of the beneficiary, the reference in that clause to "the end of the year in which the beneficiary attains 69 years of age" shall be read as "the day on which the beneficiary attains 71 years of age", and

(b) where a beneficiary under a profit sharing plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, in applying subpara. (iii) and cl. (vi)(A) in respect of the beneficiary, the references in those provisions to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age".

Para. (k) formerly read:

(k) the plan provides that, in respect of each employee who is a beneficiary under the plan, all amounts vested in the employee become payable to the employee or, in the event of the employee's death, to a beneficiary designated by the employee or to the employee's estate, not later than 90 days after the earliest of

(i) the death of the employee,

(ii) the day on which the employee ceases to be employed by an employer who makes or has made payments under the plan to a trustee under the plan,

(iii) the day on which the employee becomes 71 years of age, and

(iv) the termination or winding up of the plan, except that the plan may provide that, on election by the employee, all or any part of the amounts payable to the employee may be paid

(v) in equal instalments payable not less frequently than annually over a period not exceeding 10 years from the day on which the amount became payable, or

(vi) by a trustee under the plan to a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on in Canada an annuities business, to purchase for the employee an annuity commencing not later than a day 71 years after the day of the employee's birth, the guaranteed term of which, if any, does not exceed 15 years;

Subpara. 147(2)(k.1)(ii) amended, and subpara. (ii.1) added, by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(4), applicable after 1991. Subpara. (k.1)(ii) formerly read:

(ii) an amount referred to in paragraph (10)(a) or (b),

The opening words of para. 147(2)(c), and para. (d), substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsecs. 72(1), (2), applicable to 1993 et seq. Those portions formerly read:

(c) the plan provides that no part of the funds of the trust governed by the plan may be invested in notes, bonds, debentures or similar obligations of

. . . . .

(d) the plan provides that no part of the funds of the trust governed by the plan may be invested in shares of a corporation at least 50% of the property of which consists of notes, bonds, debentures or similar obligations of an employer or a corporation described in paragraph (c);

(2.1) Terms limiting contributions — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act a profit sharing plan unless it includes terms that are adequate to ensure that the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan will be satisfied for each calendar year.

(2.2) Reallocation of forfeitures — The Minister may, on written application, extend the time for satisfying the requirements of paragraph (2)(i.1) where

(a) the total of the forfeited amounts arising in a calendar year is greater than normal because of unusual circumstances; and

(b) the forfeited amounts are to be reallocated on a reasonable basis to a majority of beneficiaries under the plan.

(3) Acceptance of employees profit sharing plan for registration — The Minister shall not accept for registration for the purposes of this Act any employees profit sharing plan unless all the capital gains of or made by the trust governed by the plan before the date of application for registration of the plan and all the capital losses of or sustained by the trust before that date have been allocated by the trustee under the plan to employees and other beneficiaries thereunder.

(4) Capital gains determined — For the purposes of subsections (3) and (11), such amount as may be determined by the Minister, on request in prescribed manner by the trustee of a trust governed by an employees profit sharing plan, shall be deemed to be the amount of

(a) the capital gains of or made by the trust governed by the plan before the date of application for registration of the plan, or

(b) the capital losses of or sustained by the trust before that date, as the case may be.

(5) Registration date — Where a profit sharing plan is accepted by the Minister for registration as a deferred profit sharing plan, the plan shall be deemed to have become registered as a deferred profit sharing plan

(a) on the date the application for registration of the plan was made; or

(b) where in the application for registration a later date is specified as the date on which the plan is to commence as a deferred profit sharing plan, on that date.

Related Provisions: 144(11) — Taxation year of trust accepted as DPSP.

(5.1) Contribution limits — For the purposes of subsections (2.1) and (9) and paragraph (14)(c.4), the requirements of this subsection in respect of a deferred profit sharing plan are satisfied for a calendar year if, in the case of each beneficiary under the plan and each employer in respect of whom the beneficiary's pension credit (as prescribed by regulation) for the year under the plan is greater than nil,

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's pension credit (as prescribed by regulation) for the year in respect of the employer under a deferred profit sharing plan does not exceed the lesser of

(i) ½ of the money purchase limit for the year, and

(ii) 18% of the amount that would be the beneficiary's compensation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition;

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's pension credit (as prescribed by regulation) for the year under a deferred profit sharing plan in respect of

(i) the employer, or

(ii) any other employer who, at any time in the year, does not deal at arm's length with the employer does not exceed ½ of the money purchase limit for the year; and

(c) the total of

(i) the beneficiary's pension adjustment for the year in respect of the employer, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's pension adjustment for the year in respect of any other employer who, at any time in the year, does not deal at arm's length with the employer does not exceed the lesser of

(iii) the money purchase limit for the year, and

(iv) 18% of the total of all amounts each of which is the beneficiary's compensation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) for the year from the employer or any other employer referred to in subparagraph (ii).

(5.11) Compensation — Where at any time in a calendar year an individual ceases to be employed by an employer,

(a) for the purposes of paragraph (5.1)(a), the amount that would be the individual's compensation (in this subsection having the meaning assigned by subsection 147.1(1)) from the employer for the year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition shall be deemed to be the greater of

(i) that amount determined without reference to this paragraph, and

(ii) the amount that would be the individual's compensation from the employer for the immediately preceding year if the definition "compensation" in subsection 147.1(1) were read without reference to paragraph (b) of that definition; and

(b) for the purposes of paragraph (5.1)(c), the individual's compensation from the employer for the year shall be deemed to be the greater of

(i) that compensation determined without reference to this paragraph, and

(ii) the individual's compensation from the employer for the immediately preceding year.

Proposed Repeal — 147(5.11)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 145(2), will repeal subsec. 147(5.11), applicable to cessations of employment that occur after 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 147(5.1) sets out the employer contribution limits for DPSPs. In general terms, the maximum employer contributions in respect of an individual for a calendar year cannot exceed the lesser of: (i) 18% of the individual's compensation for the year from the employer; and (ii) ½ of the year's money purchase limit. For this purpose, "compensation" and "money purchase limit" are generally as defined in subsection 147.1(1). Additional cross-plan limits apply if the individual also participates in an RPP sponsored by the employer or in a DPSP or RPP sponsored by a non-arm's length employer.

If the contribution limits are not respected for a calendar year, the Minister of National Revenue may revoke the registration of the DPSP. In addition, the employer is denied a deduction for all contributions made in the year, except as expressly permitted in writing by the Minister.

Subsection 147(5.11) provides a special relieving rule that applies when an employee who is a beneficiary under a DPSP terminates employment with a participating employer in a calendar year. In this circumstance, for the purposes of determining whether the contribution limits have been satisfied, the employee's compensation can be based on the compensation for the immediately preceding year, if it is more than the compensation for the year of termination.

This rule recognizes that it is common practice for an employer to make contributions to a DPSP only after its fiscal year-end, since this is when profits are determined. This can often result in employer contributions being made based (in whole or in part) on employees' earnings in the previous calendar year, but being included in the employees' contribution limits for the current calendar year. This in turn can give rise to over-contributions when an employee terminates employment later in the year before having earned sufficient compensation to support the contribution. However, subsection 147(5.11) generally ensures that such over-contributions do not result in adverse tax effects by allowing the contribution limits to be based on the employee's compensation from the preceding calendar year.

There are, however, two policy concerns with the approach used in subsection 147(5.11). The first concern is that the provision deals only with over-contributions that involve employees who terminate employment. It does not provide relief for similar over-contributions that arise where an employee takes an unpaid leave of absence before having earned sufficient compensation to support any contributions that the employer had already made on his or her behalf. The second concern is that the provision allows DPSP contributions to be made in situations where there is no supporting employment income.

To address these concerns, subsection 147(5.11) is repealed and replaced by a broader relief mechanism in section 8301 of the Regulations [see Reg. 8301(2), (2.1) — ed.]. The new mechanism will provide relief in both of the situations described above by allowing over-contributions to be ignored for purposes of the DPSP contribution limits, provided the excess is refunded from the plan.

The repeal of subsection 147(5.11) applies to cessations of employment that occur in 2003 and subsequent calendar years, while the new refund mechanism in the Regulations applies for 2002 and subsequent calendar years. As a result, for excess contributions relating to cessations of employment that occur in 2002, employers will be entitled to relief either by relying on existing 147(5.11) or by using the new refund mechanism.

(6) Deferred plan not employees profit sharing plan — For a period during which a plan is a deferred profit sharing plan, the plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be an employees profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 144(11) — Year-end of EPSP on becoming DPSP.

(7) No tax while trust governed by plan — No tax is payable under this Part by a trust on the taxable income of the trust for a period during which the trust was governed by a deferred profit sharing plan.

Related Provisions: 149(1)(s) — Exemption for DPSP; 198 — Tax on acquisition of non-qualified investments and use of assets as security; 207.1(2) — Tax payable by DPSP on holding non-qualified investments.

(8) Amount of employer's contribution deductible — Subject to subsection (9), there may be deducted in computing the income of an employer for a taxation year the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid by the employer in the year or within 120 days after the end of the year to a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan for the benefit of the employer's employees who are beneficiaries under the plan, to the extent that the amount was paid in accordance with the terms of the plan and was not deducted in computing the employer's income for a preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 6(1)(a)(i) — Employer's contribution to DPSP not a taxable benefit; 20(1)(y) — Employer's contribution to DPSP deductible; 147(5.1) — Contribution limits; 147(9), (9.1) — Limitations on deduction; 147(20) — Taxation of amount transferred; 204.1(3) — Tax payable by DPSP on excess amount.

(9) Limitation on deduction — Where the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of a deferred profit sharing plan are not satisfied for a calendar year by reason that the pension credits of a beneficiary under the plan in respect of a particular employer do not comply with paragraph (5.1)(a) or the beneficiary's pension credits or pension adjustments in respect of a particular employer and other employers who do not deal at arm's length with the particular employer do not comply with paragraph (5.1)(b) or (c), the particular employer is not entitled to a deduction under subsection (8) in computing the particular employer's income for any taxation year in respect of an amount paid to a trustee under the plan in the calendar year except to the extent expressly permitted in writing by the Minister, and, for the purposes of this subsection, an amount paid to a trustee of a deferred profit sharing plan in the first two months of a calendar year shall be deemed to have been paid in the immediately preceding year and not to have been paid in the year to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be in respect of the immediately preceding year.

Forms: T2 SCH 15: Deferred income plans.

(9.1) No deduction — Notwithstanding subsection (8), no deduction shall be made in computing the income of an employer for a taxation year in respect of an amount paid by the employer for the year to a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan in respect of a beneficiary who is described in paragraph (2)(k.2) in respect of the plan.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits; IT-363R2: Deferred profit sharing plans — deductibility of employer contributions and taxation of amounts received by a beneficiary (archived).

(10) Amounts received taxable — There shall be included in computing the income of a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan for a taxation year the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of all amounts received by the beneficiary in the year from a trustee under the plan (other than as a result of acquiring an annuity described in subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) under which the beneficiary is the annuitant)

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined for the year under subsection (10.1), (11) or (12) in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary.

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d.2)(iii) — Income from annuity purchased with plan funds is taxable; 56(1)(i) — Deferred profit sharing plan; 60(j) — Transfer of superannuation benefits; 104(27.1) — DPSP benefits; 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iv) — No deemed disposition of DPSP on emigration; 139.1(12) — Conversion benefit on demutualization of insurance corporation not taxable; 147(10.1) — Single payment on retirement etc.; 147(10.4) — Income on disposal of shares; 147(11) — Portion of receipts deductible; 147(18) — Inadequate consideration on purchase from or sale to trust; 147(20) — Taxation of amount transferred; 153(1)(h) — Withholdings; 212(1)(m), 214(3)(d) — Withholding tax on payments to non-residents.

History: Subsec. 147(10) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(5), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (10) formerly read:

(10) There shall be included in computing the income of a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan for a taxation year the amount by which the total of the amounts received by the beneficiary in the year from a trustee under the plan exceeds the total of

(a) any amounts determined for the year under subsection (10.1), (11) or (12) in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary, and

(b) amounts paid by a trustee under the plan pursuant to the plan to a person described in subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) to purchase an annuity described in that subparagraph.

(10.2) Idem — Where a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan has at any time in a taxation year made under the plan a single payment that included shares referred to in subsection (10.1) to a beneficiary who was resident in Canada at the time and the beneficiary has made an election under that subsection in respect of that payment,

(a) the trustee shall be deemed to have disposed of those shares for proceeds of disposition equal to the cost amount to the trust of those shares immediately before the single payment was made;

(b) the cost to the beneficiary of those shares shall be deemed to be their cost amount to the trust immediately before the single payment was made;

(c) the cost to the beneficiary of each of those shares shall be deemed to be the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times \frac{B}{C}$$

where

A is the amount determined under paragraph (a) in respect of all of those shares,

B is the fair market value of that share at the time the single payment was made, and

C is the fair market value of all those shares at the time the single payment was made; and

(d) for the purposes of paragraph 60(j), the cost to the beneficiary of those shares is an eligible amount in respect of the beneficiary for the year.

(10.3) Amount contributed to or forfeited under a plan — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a beneficiary described in paragraph (2)(k.2) the total of amounts allocated or reallocated to the beneficiary in the year in respect of

(a) any amount contributed after December 1, 1982 by an employer to, or

(b) any forfeited amount under a deferred profit sharing plan or a plan the registration of which has been revoked pursuant to subsection (14) or (14.1).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-363R2: Deferred profit sharing plans — deductibility of employer contributions and taxation of amounts received by a beneficiary (archived).

(10.4) Income on disposal of shares — Where a taxpayer has a share in respect of which the taxpayer has made an election under subsection (10.1), there shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer disposed of or exchanged the share or ceased to be a resident of Canada, whichever is the earlier, the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the share at the time the taxpayer acquired it exceeds the cost to the taxpayer, determined under paragraph (10.2)(c), of the share at the time the taxpayer acquired it.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-281R2: Elections on single payments from a deferred profit-sharing plan (archived).

(10.5) Amended contract — Where an amendment is made to an annuity contract to which subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) applies, the sole effect of which is to defer annuity commencement to no later than the end of the calendar year in which the individual in respect of whom the contract was purchased attains 71 years of age, the annuity contract is deemed not to have been disposed of by the individual.

History: Subsec. 147(10.5) added by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 20(5); applicable after 2006.

Former subsec. 147(10.5) repealed by 2001, c. 17, s. 142, applicable to shares acquired, but not disposed of, before February 28, 2000 and to shares acquired after February 27, 2000. The subsec. formerly read:

(10.5) Order of disposal of shares — For the purposes of subsection (10.4), a taxpayer shall be deemed to have disposed of or exchanged shares that are identical properties in the order in which the taxpayer acquired them.

(10.6) [Repealed]

Related Provisions: 56(1)(d.2)(iii) — Beneficiary required to include fair market value of annuity in income; 146(13.2) — Parallel rules for RRSPs; 198(6)(d) — Life insurance policy purchased with DPSP maturing by age 69.

History: Subsec. 147(10.6) repealed by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 20(6), applicable after 2006, except that the repeal does not apply to annuities under which the annuitant attained 69 years of age before 2007. It formerly read:

(10.6) Commencement of annuity after age 69 — Where an amount is paid before 1997 pursuant to or under a deferred profit sharing plan to purchase for a beneficiary under the plan an annuity to which subparagraph (2)(k)(vi) applies, and payment of the annuity has not begun by the end of the particular year in which the beneficiary attains 69 years of age,

(a) the beneficiary is deemed to have disposed of the annuity immediately after the particular year and to have received as proceeds of the disposition an amount equal to the fair market value of the annuity at the end of the particular year;

(b) the beneficiary is deemed to have acquired immediately after the particular year an interest in the annuity as a separate and newly issued annuity contract at a cost equal to the amount referred to in paragraph (a); and

(c) the issue and acquisition of the contract referred to in paragraph (b) are deemed not to be pursuant to or under a deferred profit sharing plan.

Subsec. 147(10.6) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 43(6), applicable after 1996 except that

(a) where a beneficiary under a profit sharing plan attained 70 years of age before 1997, the subsec. does not apply to an annuity purchased for the beneficiary;

(b) where a beneficiary under a profit sharing plan attained 69 years of age in 1996, in applying subsec. (10.6) to an annuity purchased for the beneficiary, the reference to "69 years of age" shall be read as "70 years of age"; and

(c) the subsec. does not apply to an annuity purchased before March 6, 1996 for a beneficiary under a deferred profit sharing plan where, under the terms and conditions of the annuity contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the beneficiary attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the beneficiary had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the beneficiary attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined.

(11) Portion of receipts deductible — For the purposes of subsections (10), (10.1) and (12), where an amount was received in a taxation year from a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan by an employee or other beneficiary thereunder, and the employee was a beneficiary under the plan at a time when the plan was an employees profit sharing plan, the amount determined for the year under this subsection in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary is such portion of the total of the amounts so received in the year as does not exceed

(a) the total of

(i) each amount included in respect of the plan in computing the income of the employee for the year or for a previous taxation year by virtue of section 144,

(ii) each amount paid by the employee to a trustee under the plan at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan, and

(iii) each amount that was allocated to the employee or other beneficiary by a trustee under the plan, at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan, in respect of a capital gain made by the trust before 1972,

minus

(b) the total of

(i) each amount received by the employee or other beneficiary in a previous taxation year from a trustee under the plan at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan,

(ii) each amount received by the employee or other beneficiary in a previous taxation year from a trustee under the plan at a time when it was a deferred profit sharing plan, and

(iii) each amount allocated to the employee or other beneficiary by a trustee under the plan, at a time when it was an employees profit sharing plan, in respect of a capital loss sustained by the trust before 1972.

(12) Idem — For the purposes of subsections (10) and (10.1), where an amount was received in a taxation year from a trustee under a deferred profit sharing plan by an employee or other beneficiary thereunder, and the employee has made a payment in the year or a previous year to a trustee under the plan at a time when the plan was a deferred profit sharing plan, the amount determined for the year under this subsection in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary is such portion of the total of the amounts so received in the year (minus any amount determined for the year under subsection (11) in relation to the plan and in respect of the beneficiary) as does not exceed

(a) the total of all amounts each of which was so paid by the employee in the year or a previous year to the extent that the payment was not deductible in computing the employee's income,

minus

(b) the total of all amounts each of which was received by the employee or other beneficiary from a trustee under the plan, at a time when it was a deferred profit sharing plan, to the extent that it was included in the computation of an amount determined for a previous year under this subsection in relation to the plan and in respect of the employee or other beneficiary.

Related Provisions: 60(j) — Transfer of superannuation benefits; 147(10) — Amounts received taxable; 147(11) — Portion of receipts deductible; 147(17) — Meaning of "other beneficiary".

(13) Appropriation of trust property by employer — Where funds or property of a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan have been appropriated in any manner whatever to or for the benefit of a taxpayer who is

(a) an employer by whom payments are made in trust to a trustee under the plan, or

(b) a corporation with which that employer does not deal at arm's length, otherwise than in payment of or on account of shares of the capital stock of the taxpayer purchased by the trust, the amount or value of the funds or property so appropriated shall be included in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxation year of the taxpayer in which the funds or property were so appropriated, unless the funds or property or an amount in lieu thereof equal to the amount or value of the funds or property was repaid to the trust within one year from the end of the taxation year, and it is established by subsequent events or otherwise that the repayment was not made as part of a series of appropriations and repayments.

Related Provisions: 201 — Tax on forfeitures; 214(3)(d) — Non-resident withholding tax; 248(10) — Series of transactions.

(14) Revocation of registration — Where, at any time after a profit sharing plan has been accepted by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act,

(a) the plan has been revised or amended or a new plan has been substituted therefor, and the plan as revised or amended or the new plan substituted therefor, as the case may be, ceased to comply with the requirements of this section for its acceptance by the Minister for registration for the purposes of this Act,

(b) any provision of the plan has not been complied with,

(c) the plan is a plan that did not, as of January 1, 1968,

(i) comply with the requirements of paragraphs (2)(a), (b) to (h), (j) and (k), and paragraph 147(2)(i) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it read on January 1, 1972, and

(ii) provide that the amounts held by the trust for the benefit of beneficiaries thereunder that remain unallocated on December 31, 1967 must be allocated or reallocated, as the case may be, before 1969,

(c.1) the plan becomes a revocable plan pursuant to subsection (21),

(c.2) the plan does not comply with the requirements of paragraphs (2)(a) to (k) and (l),

(c.3) in the case of a plan that became registered after March, 1983, the plan does not comply with the requirements of paragraphs (2)(k.1) and (k.2),

(c.4) the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan are not satisfied for a calendar year, or

(c.5) an employer who participates in the plan fails to file an information return reporting a pension adjustment of a beneficiary under the plan as and when required by regulation, the Minister may revoke the registration of the plan,

(d) where paragraph (a) applies, as of the date that the plan ceased so to comply, or any subsequent date,

(e) where paragraph (b) applies, as of the date that any provision of the plan was not so complied with, or any subsequent date,

(f) where paragraph (c) applies, as of any date following January 1, 1968,

(g) where paragraph (c.1) applies, as of the date on which the plan became a revocable plan, or any subsequent date,

(h) where paragraph (c.2) or (c.3) applies, as of the date on which the plan did not so comply, or any subsequent date, but not before January 1, 1991,

(i) where paragraph (c.4) applies, as of the end of the year for which the requirements of subsection (5.1) in respect of the plan are not satisfied, or any subsequent date, and

(j) where paragraph (c.5) applies, as of any date after the date by which the information return was required to be filed, and the Minister shall thereafter give notice of the revocation by registered mail to a trustee under the plan and to an employer of employees who are beneficiaries under the plan.

Related Provisions: 147(2) — Requirements for registration; 147(10.3) — Amount contributed to or forfeited under a plan; 147(15) — Rules applicable to revoked plan; 172(3)(c) — Appeal from refusal to register, revocation of registration, etc.; 198 — Tax on non-qualified investments and use of assets as security; 204 — "Revoked plan"; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

I.T. Application Rules: 69 (meaning of "chapter 148 of ...").

(14.1) Idem — Where on any day after June 30, 1982 a benefit or loan is extended or continues to be extended as a consequence of the existence of a deferred profit sharing plan and that benefit or loan would be prohibited if the plan met the requirement for registration contained in paragraph (2)(k.1), the Minister may revoke the registration of the plan as of that or any subsequent day that is specified by the Minister in a notice given by registered mail to a trustee under the plan and to an employer of employees who are beneficiaries under the plan.

Related Provisions: 147(15) — Rules applicable to revoked plan; 198 — Tax on non-qualified investments and use of assets as security; 204 — "Revoked plan"; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(15) Rules applicable to revoked plan — Where the Minister revokes the registration of a deferred profit sharing plan, the plan (in this section referred to as the "revoked plan") shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be a deferred profit sharing plan, and notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules shall apply:

(a) the revoked plan shall not be accepted for registration for the purposes of this Act or be deemed to have become registered as a deferred profit sharing plan at any time within a period of one year commencing on the date the plan became a revoked plan;

(b) subsection (7) does not apply to exempt the trust governed by the plan from tax under this Part on the taxable income of the trust for a taxation year in which, at any time therein, the trust was governed by the revoked plan;

(c) no deduction shall be made by an employer in computing the employer's income for a taxation year in respect of an amount paid by the employer to a trustee under the plan at a time when it was a revoked plan;

(d) there shall be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year

(i) all amounts received by the taxpayer in the year from a trustee under the revoked plan that, by virtue of subsection (10), would have been so included if the revoked plan had been a deferred profit sharing plan at the time the taxpayer received those amounts, and

(ii) the amount or value of any funds or property appropriated to or for the benefit of the taxpayer in the year that, by virtue of subsection (13), would have been so included if the revoked plan had been a deferred profit sharing plan at the time of the appropriation of the funds or property; and

(e) the revoked plan shall be deemed, for the purposes of this Act, not to be an employees profit sharing plan or a retirement compensation arrangement.

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(a)(iv) — Emigration — no deemed disposition of interest in revoked plan; 147(14), (14.1) — Revocation of DPSP; 147(18) — Inadequate consideration on purchase from or sale to trust; 214(3)(d) — Non-resident withholding tax.

(16) Payments out of profits — Where the terms of an arrangement under which an employer makes payments to a trustee specifically provide that the payments shall be made "out of profits", the arrangement shall be deemed, for the purpose of subsection (1), to be an arrangement for payments "computed by reference to an employer's profits from the employer's business".

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-280R: Employees profit sharing plans — payments computed by reference to profits.

(17) Interpretation of "other beneficiary" — Where the expression "employee or other beneficiary" under a profit sharing plan occurs in this section, the words "other beneficiary" shall be construed as meaning any person, other than the employee, to whom any amount is or may become payable by a trustee under the plan as a result of payments made to the trustee under the plan in trust for the benefit of employees, including the employee.

Related Provisions: 202(1) — Returns and payment of estimated tax.

(18) Inadequate consideration on purchase from or sale to trust — Where a trust governed by a deferred profit sharing plan or revoked plan

(a) disposes of property to a taxpayer for a consideration less than the fair market value of the property at the time of the transaction, or for no consideration, or

(b) acquires property from a taxpayer for a consideration greater than the fair market value of the property at the time of the transaction, the difference between that fair market value and the consideration, if any

(c) shall, for the purposes of subsections (10) and (15), be deemed to be an amount received by the taxpayer at the time of the disposal or acquisition, as the case may be, from a trustee under the plan as if the taxpayer were a beneficiary under the plan, and

(d) is an amount taxable under section 201 for the calendar year in which the trust disposes of or acquires the property, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 201 — 50% tax payable on amount taxable.

(19) Transfer to RPP, RRSP or DPSP — An amount is transferred from a deferred profit sharing plan in accordance with this subsection if the amount

(a) is not part of a series of periodic payments;

(b) is transferred on behalf of an individual

(i) who is an employee or former employee of an employer who participated in the plan on the employee's behalf, or

(ii) who is entitled to the amount as a consequence of the death of an employee or former employee referred to in subparagraph (i) and who was, at the date of the employee's death, a spouse or common-law partner of the employee,

Proposed Amendment — 147(19)(b)(ii)

(ii) who is a spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, of an employee or former employee referred to in subparagraph (i) and who is entitled to the amount

(A) as a consequence of the death of the employee or former employee, or

(B) under a decree, an order or a judgment of a competent tribunal, or under a written agreement, that relates to a division of property between the employee or former employee and the individual in settlement of rights that arise out of, or on a breakdown of, their marriage or common-law partnership;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 145(3), will amend subpara. 147(19)(b)(ii) to read as above, applicable to transfers that occur after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 147(19) provides for the tax-free transfer on behalf of an individual of a lump sum amount from a DPSP to an RPP, an RRSP or another DPSP for the individual's benefit. Currently, direct transfers may be made on behalf of an individual only if the individual is an employee or former employee of an employer who participated in the plan or was a spouse or common-law partner of a deceased employee as at the date of the employee's death.

A number of technical amendments are being made to subsection 147(19) to provide greater consistency with the transfer provisions that apply to RPPs.

Subsection 147(19) is amended so that the direct transfer on the death of an employee may be made on behalf of a former spouse or common-law partner of the deceased employee. It is also amended to allow for direct transfers of DPSP assets to be made on behalf of a spouse or common-law partner, or former spouse or common-law partner, of an employee or former employee, where the transfer relates to a division of property arising on the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership.

in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under the plan;

(c) would, if it were paid directly to the individual, be included under subsection (10) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year; and

(d) is transferred for the benefit of the individual directly to

(i) a registered pension plan,

(ii) a registered retirement savings plan under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)), or

(iii) a deferred profit sharing plan that can reasonably be expected to have at least 5 beneficiaries at all times throughout the calendar year in which the transfer is made.

Proposed Addition — 147(19)(d)(iv)

(iv) a registered retirement income fund under which the individual is the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)).

(7) Obligations of administrator — The administrator of a registered pension plan shall

(a) administer the plan in accordance with the terms of the plan as registered except that, where the plan fails to comply with the prescribed conditions for registration or any other requirement of this Act or the regulations, the administrator may administer the plan as if it were amended to so comply;

(b) before July, 1990, in the case of a person or body that is the administrator on January 1, 1989 or becomes the administrator before June, 1990, and, in any other case, within 30 days after becoming the administrator, inform the Minister in writing

(i) of the name and address of the person who is the administrator, or

(ii) of the names and addresses of the persons who constitute the body that is the administrator; and

(c) where there is any change in the information provided to the Minister in accordance with this paragraph or paragraph (b), inform the Minister in writing, within 60 days after the change, of the new information.

(8) Pension adjustment limits — Except as otherwise provided by regulation, a registered pension plan (other than a multi-employer plan) becomes, at the end of a calendar year after 1990, a revocable plan where

(a) the pension adjustment for the year of a member of the plan in respect of a participating employer exceeds the lesser of

(i) the money purchase limit for the year, and

(ii) 18% of the member's compensation from the employer for the year; or

(b) the total of

(i) the pension adjustment for the year of a member of the plan in respect of a participating employer, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is the member's pension adjustment for the year in respect of an employer who, at any time in the year, does not deal at arm's length with the employer referred to in subparagraph (i) exceeds the money purchase limit for the year.

(10) Past service benefits — With respect to each past service event that is relevant to the determination of benefits in respect of a member under a defined benefit provision of a registered pension plan, such benefits as are in respect of periods after 1989 and before the calendar year in which the event occurred shall be determined, for the purpose of a payment to be made from the plan or a contribution to be made to the plan at a particular time, with regard to the event only if

(a) where the member is alive at the particular time and except as otherwise provided by regulation, the Minister has certified in writing, before the particular time, that prescribed conditions are satisfied,

(b) where the member died before the particular time and the event occurred before the death of the member,

(i) this subsection did not require that the event be disregarded in determining benefits that were payable to the member immediately before the member's death (or that would have been so payable had the member been entitled to receive benefits under the provision immediately before the member's death), or

(ii) the event, as it affects the benefits provided to each individual who is entitled to benefits as a consequence of the death of the member, is acceptable to the Minister,

(c) where the member died before the particular time and the event occurred after the death of the member, the event, as it affects the benefits provided to each individual who is entitled to benefits as a consequence of the death of the member, is acceptable to the Minister, and

(d) no past service event that occurred before the event is required by reason of the application of this subsection to be disregarded at the particular time in determining benefits in respect of the member, and, for the purposes of this subsection as it applies with respect to contributions that may be made to a registered pension plan, where application has been made for a certification referred to in paragraph (a) and the Minister has not refused to issue the certification, the Minister shall be deemed to have issued the certification.

(11) Revocation of registration — notice of intention — Where, at any time after a pension plan has been registered by the Minister,

(a) the plan does not comply with the prescribed conditions for registration,

(b) the plan is not administered in accordance with the terms of the plan as registered,

(c) the plan becomes a revocable plan,

(d) a condition imposed by the Minister in writing and applicable with respect to the plan (including a condition applicable generally to registered pension plans or a class of such plans and a condition first imposed before 1989) is not complied with,

(e) a requirement under subsection (6) or (7) is not complied with,

(f) a benefit is paid by the plan, or a contribution is made to the plan, contrary to subsection (10),

(g) the administrator of the plan fails to file an information return or actuarial report relating to the plan or to a member of the plan as and when required by regulation,

(h) a participating employer fails to file an information return relating to the plan or to a member of the plan as and when required by regulation, or

(i) registration of the plan under the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province is refused or revoked, the Minister may give notice (in this subsection and subsection (12) referred to as a "notice of intent") by registered mail to the plan administrator that the Minister proposes to revoke the registration of the plan as of a date specified in the notice of intent, which date shall not be earlier than the date as of which,

(j) where paragraph (a) applies, the plan failed to so comply,

(k) where paragraph (b) applies, the plan was not administered in accordance with its terms as registered,

(l) where paragraph (c) applies, the plan became a revocable plan,

(m) where paragraph (d) or (e) applies, the condition or requirement was not complied with,

(n) where paragraph (f) applies, the benefit was paid or the contribution was made,

(o) where paragraph (g) or (h) applies, the information return or actuarial report was required to be filed, and

(p) where paragraph (i) applies, the registration referred to in that paragraph was refused or revoked.

(18) Regulations — The Governor in Council may make regulations

(a) prescribing conditions for the registration of pension plans and enabling the Minister to impose additional conditions or waive any conditions that are prescribed;

(b) prescribing circumstances under which a registered pension plan becomes a revocable plan;

(c) specifying the manner of determining, or enabling the Minister to determine, the portion of a member's benefits under a registered pension plan that is in respect of any period;

(d) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to make determinations in connection with the computation of pension adjustments, past service pension adjustments, total pension adjustment reversals or any other related amounts (all such amounts referred to in this subsection as "specified amounts");

(e) requiring that the method used to determine a specified amount be acceptable to the Minister, where more than one method would otherwise comply with the regulations;

(f) enabling the Minister to permit or require a specified amount to be determined in a manner different from that set out in the regulations;

(g) requiring that any person who has information required by another person in order to determine a specified amount provide the other person with that information;

(h) enabling the Minister to require any person to provide the Minister with information relating to the method used to determine a specified amount;

(i) enabling the Minister to require any person to provide the Minister with information relevant to a claim that paragraph (10)(a) is not applicable by reason of an exemption provided by regulation;

(j) respecting applications for certifications for the purposes of subsection (10);

(k) enabling the Minister to waive the requirement for a certification for the purposes of subsection (10);

(l) prescribing rules for the purposes of subsection (10), so that that subsection applies or does not apply with respect to benefits provided as a consequence of particular transactions, events or circumstances;

(m) requiring any person to provide the Minister or the administrator of a registered pension plan with information in connection with an application for certification for the purposes of subsection (10);

(n) requiring any person who obtains a certification for the purposes of subsection (10) to provide the individual in respect of whom the certification was obtained with an information return;

(o) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to file information with respect to amendments to such plans and to the arrangements for funding benefits thereunder;

(p) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to file information returns respecting such plans;

(q) enabling the Minister to require any person to provide the Minister with information for the purpose of determining whether the registration of a pension plan may be revoked;

(r) requiring administrators of registered pension plans to submit reports to the Minister, prescribing the class of persons by whom the reports shall be prepared and prescribing information to be contained in those reports;

(s) enabling the Minister to impose any requirement that may be imposed by regulation made under paragraph (r);

(t) defining, for the purposes of this Act, the expressions "multi-employer plan", "past service event", "past service pension adjustment", "pension adjustment", "specified multi-employer plan" and "total pension adjustment reversal"; and

(u) generally to carry out the purposes and provisions of this Act relating to registered pension plans and the determination and reporting of specified amounts.

147.2 (1) Pension contributions deductible — employer contributions — For a taxation year ending after 1990, there may be deducted in computing the income of a taxpayer who is an employer the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution made by the employer after 1990 and either in the taxation year or within 120 days after the end of the taxation year to a registered pension plan in respect of the employer's employees or former employees, to the extent that

(a) in the case of a contribution in respect of a money purchase provision of a plan, the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered and in respect of periods before the end of the taxation year;

(b) in the case of a contribution in respect of the defined benefit provisions of a plan (other than a specified multi-employer plan), the contribution

(i) is an eligible contribution,

(ii) was made to fund benefits provided to employees and former employees of the employer in respect of periods before the end of the taxation year, and

(iii) complies with subsection 147.1(10);

(c) in the case of a contribution made to a plan that is a specified multi-employer plan, the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered and in respect of periods before the end of the taxation year; and

(d) the contribution was not deducted in computing the income of the employer for a preceding taxation year.

(2) Employer contributions — defined benefit provisions — For the purposes of subsection (1), a contribution made by an employer to a registered pension plan in respect of the defined benefit provisions of the plan is an eligible contribution if it is a prescribed contribution or if it complies with prescribed conditions and is made pursuant to a recommendation by an actuary in whose opinion the contribution is required to be made so that the plan will have sufficient assets to pay benefits under the defined benefit provisions of the plan, as registered, in respect of the employees and former employees of the employer, where

(a) the recommendation is based on an actuarial valuation that complies with the following conditions, except the conditions in subparagraphs (iii) and (iv) to the extent that they are inconsistent with any other conditions that apply for the purpose of determining whether the contribution is an eligible contribution:

(i) the effective date of the valuation is not more than 4 years before the day on which the contribution is made,

(ii) actuarial liabilities and current service costs are determined in accordance with an actuarial funding method that produces a reasonable matching of contributions with accruing benefits,

(iii) all assumptions made for the purposes of the valuation are reasonable at the time the valuation is prepared and at the time the contribution is made,

(iv) the valuation is prepared in accordance with generally accepted actuarial principles,

(v) the valuation complies with prescribed conditions, which conditions may include conditions regarding the benefits that may be taken into account for the purposes of the valuation, and

(vi) where more than one employer participates in the plan, assets and actuarial liabilities are apportioned in a reasonable manner among participating employers in respect of their employees and former employees, and

(b) the recommendation is approved by the Minister in writing, and, for the purposes of this subsection and except as otherwise provided by regulation,

(c) the benefits taken into account for the purposes of a recommendation may include anticipated cost-of-living and similar adjustments where the terms of a pension plan do not require that those adjustments be made but it is reasonable to expect that they will be made, and

(d) a recommendation with respect to the contributions required to be made by an employer in respect of the defined benefit provisions of a pension plan may be prepared without regard to such portion of the assets of the plan apportioned to the employer in respect of the employer's employees and former employees as does not exceed the least of

(i) the amount of actuarial surplus in respect of the employer,

(ii) 20% of the amount of actuarial liabilities apportioned to the employer in respect of the employer's employees and former employees, and

(iii) the greater of

(A) 2 times the estimated amount of current service contributions that would, if there were no actuarial surplus, be required to be made by the employer and the employer's employees for the 12 months immediately following the effective date of the actuarial valuation on which the recommendation is based, and

(B) the amount that would be determined under subparagraph (ii) if the reference therein to "20%" were read as a reference to "10%".

(4) Amount of employee's pension contributions deductible — There may be deducted in computing the income of an individual for a taxation year ending after 1990 an amount equal to the total of

(a) service after 1989 — the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than a prescribed contribution) made by the individual in the year to a registered pension plan that is in respect of a period after 1989 or that is a prescribed eligible contribution, to the extent that the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered,

(b) service before 1990 while not a contributor — the least of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an additional voluntary contribution or a prescribed contribution) made by the individual in the year or a preceding taxation year and after 1945 to a registered pension plan in respect of a particular year before 1990, if all or any part of the particular year is included in the individual's eligible service under the plan and if

(I) in the case of a contribution that the individual made before March 28, 1988 or was obliged to make under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into before March 28, 1988, the individual was not a contributor to the plan in the particular year, or

(II) in any other case, the individual was not a contributor to any registered pension plan in the particular year

exceeds

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted, in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, in respect of contributions included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (A),

(ii) $3,500, and

(iii) the amount determined by the formula

$$($3{,}500 \times Y) - Z$$

where

Y is the number of calendar years before 1990 each of which is a year

(A) all or any part of which is included in the individual's eligible service under a registered pension plan to which the individual has made a contribution that is included in the total determined under clause (i)(A) and in which the individual was not a contributor to any registered pension plan, or

(B) all or any part of which is included in the individual's eligible service under a registered pension plan to which the individual has made a contribution

(I) that is included in the total determined under clause (i)(A), and

(II) that the individual made before March 28, 1988 or was obliged to make under the terms of an agreement in writing entered into before March 28, 1988, and in which the individual was not a contributor to the plan, and

Z is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted, in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year,

(A) in respect of contributions included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (i)(A), or

(B) where the preceding year was before 1987, under subparagraph 8(1)(m)(ii) (as it read in its application to that preceding year) in respect of additional voluntary contributions made in respect of a year that satisfies the conditions in the description of Y, and

(c) service before 1990 while a contributor — the lesser of

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than an additional voluntary contribution, a prescribed contribution or a contribution included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (b)(i)(A)) made by the individual in the year or a preceding taxation year and after 1962 to a registered pension plan in respect of a particular year before 1990 that is included, in whole or in part, in the individual's eligible service under the plan

(B) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted, in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, in respect of contributions included in the total determined in respect of the individual for the year under clause (A), and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which $3,500 exceeds the total of the amounts deducted by reason of paragraphs (a) and (b) in computing the individual's income for the year.

Related Provisions: 8(1)(m) — Employee's RPP contributions deductible; 56(1)(a)(i) — Pension benefits taxable when received; 87(2)(q) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 147.1(8), (9) — Pension adjustment limits; 147.2(5) — Teachers; 147.2(6) — Additional deduction for year taxpayer dies; 152(6)(f) — Minister required to reassess past year to allow additional deduction following death; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Para. 147.2(4)(a) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 143, applicable to contributions made after 1990. The para. formerly read:

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a contribution (other than a prescribed contribution) made by the individual in the year to a registered pension plan in respect of a period after 1989, to the extent that the contribution was made in accordance with the plan as registered,

(7) Letter of credit — For the purposes of this section and any regulations made under subsection (2) or under subsection 147.1(18), an amount paid to a registered pension plan by the issuer of a letter of credit issued in connection with an employer's funding obligations under a defined benefit provision of the plan is deemed to be an eligible contribution made to the plan in respect of the provision by the employer with respect to the employer's employees or former employees, if

(a) the amount is paid under the letter of credit;

(b) the use of the letter of credit is permitted under the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province; and

(c) the amount would have been an eligible contribution under subsection (2) if

(i) it had been paid to the plan by the employer, and

(ii) this section were read without reference to this subsection.

History [subsec. 147.2(7)]: Subsec. 147.2(7) added by 2007, c. 2, s. 39, applicable after 2005.

(12) Restriction re transfers — A registered pension plan becomes a revocable plan at any time that an amount is transferred from the plan to another registered pension plan, to a registered retirement savings plan or to a registered retirement income fund unless

(a) the amount is transferred in accordance with any of subsections (1) to (8); or

(b) where the amount is transferred on behalf of an individual,

(i) the amount is deductible by the individual under paragraph 60(j) or (j.2), or

(ii) the Pension Benefits Standards Act, 1985 or a similar law of a province prohibits the payment of the amount to the individual.

(13) Excess transfer — Where

(a) the transfer in a calendar year of an amount from a registered pension plan on behalf of a member of the plan would, but for this subsection, be in accordance with subsection (1) or (2), and

(b) the plan becomes, at the end of the year, a revocable plan as a consequence of an excess determined under any of paragraphs 147.1(8)(a) and (b) and (9)(a) and (b) with respect to the member (whether or not such an excess is also determined with respect to any other member),

such portion of the amount transferred as may reasonably be considered to derive from amounts allocated or reallocated to the member in the year or from earnings reasonably attributable to those amounts shall, except to the extent otherwise expressly provided in writing by the Minister, be deemed to be an amount that was not transferred in accordance with subsection (1) or (2), as the case may be.

(13.1) Withdrawal of excessive transfers to RRSPs and RRIFs — There may be deducted in computing the income of an individual for a taxation year the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 146(8), (8.3) or (12) or 146.3(5), (5.1) or (11) in computing the individual's income for the year, to the extent that the amount is not a prescribed withdrawal,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under paragraph 60(l) or subsection 146(8.2) in computing the income of the individual for the year, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that was

(A) transferred to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the individual was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1), as the case may be),

(B) included in computing the income of the individual for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(C) deemed by paragraph (10)(b) or (c) to have been paid by the individual as a premium to a registered retirement savings plan,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount

(A) deductible under this subsection in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, or

(B) deducted under subsection 146(5) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (i).

Related Provisions: 60(i) — Premium or payment under RRSP or RRIF; 146(5) — Amount of RRSP premiums deductible; 146(8.2) — Amount deductible where withdrawn after mistaken contribution; Reg. Reg. 8307(4) — Eligibility of withdrawn amount for designation.

History: Subsec. 147.3(13.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 86(8), applicable to 1992 et seq. except that in its application to the 1992 taxation year it shall be read as follows:

(13.1) There may be deducted in computing the income of an individual for the 1992 taxation year the lesser of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 146(8), (8.3) or (12) or 146.3(5), (5.1) or (11) in computing the individual's income for a taxation year ending after 1988 and before 1993, to the extent that the amount is not a prescribed withdrawal,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deductible under paragraph 60(l) or subsection 146(8.2) in computing the income of the individual for a taxation year ending after 1988 and before 1993, and

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount

(A) transferred to a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund under which the individual was the annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1) or 146.3(1), as the case may be),

(B) included in computing the income of the individual for the year or a preceding taxation year, and

(C) deemed by paragraph (10)(b) or (c) to have been paid by the individual as a premium to a registered retirement savings plan,

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 146(5) in computing the individual's income for a preceding taxation year, to the extent that the amount can reasonably be considered to be in respect of an amount referred to in subparagraph (i).

(15) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 147.3(15) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 175(2), applicable after 1996. Subsec. 147.3(15) formerly read:

(15) Annuity contract commencing after age 69 — Where, under circumstances in which paragraph 254(a) applies, an individual receives before 1997 an interest in an annuity contract in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a registered pension plan, and payment of the annuity has not begun by the end of the particular year in which the individual attains 69 years of age,

(a) that interest is deemed not to exist after the particular year;

(b) the individual is deemed to have received immediately after the particular year the payment of a single amount from the plan equal to the fair market value of the interest at the end of the particular year;

(c) the individual is deemed to have acquired immediately after the particular year an interest in the annuity contract as a separate and newly issued annuity contract at a cost equal to the amount referred to in paragraph (b); and

(d) the issue and acquisition of the newly issued annuity contract are deemed not to be pursuant to or under a registered pension plan.

Subsec. 147.3(15) added by 1997, c. 25, s. 45, applicable after 1996, except that

(a) it does not apply to an individual who attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(b) in applying the subsec. to an individual who attained 69 years of age in 1996, the reference to "69 years of age" shall be read as a reference to "70 years of age"; and

(c) it does not apply to an annuity contract where an individual received an interest in the contract before March 6, 1996 and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which the annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the individual attains

(A) 69 years of age, where the individual had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, where the individual attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined.

147.4 (1) RPP annuity contract — Where

(a) at any time an individual acquires, in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a registered pension plan, an interest in an annuity contract purchased from a licensed annuities provider,

(b) the rights provided for under the contract are not materially different from those provided for under the plan as registered,

(c) the contract does not permit premiums to be paid at or after that time, other than a premium paid at that time out of or under the plan to purchase the contract,

(d) either the plan is not a plan in respect of which the Minister may, under subsection 147.1(11), give a notice of intent to revoke the registration of the plan or the Minister waives the application of this paragraph with respect to the contract and so notifies the administrator of the plan in writing, and

(e) the individual does not acquire the interest as a consequence of a transfer of property from the plan to a registered retirement savings plan or a registered retirement income fund,

the following rules apply for the purposes of this Act:

(f) the individual is deemed not to have received an amount out of or under the registered pension plan as a consequence of acquiring the interest, and

(g) other than for the purposes of sections 147.1 and 147.3, any amount received at or after that time by any individual under the contract is deemed to have been received under the registered pension plan.

Related Provisions: 147.4(2) — Amendment to RPP annuity contract.

(2) Amended contract — Where

(a) an amendment is made at any time to an annuity contract to which subsection (1) or paragraph 254(a) applies, other than an amendment the sole effect of which is to

(i) defer annuity commencement to no later than the end of the calendar year in which the individual in respect of whom the contract was purchased attains 71 years of age, or

(ii) enhance benefits under the annuity contract in connection with the demutualization (as defined by subsection 139.1(1)) of an insurance corporation that is considered for the purpose of section 139.1 to have been a party to the annuity contract, and

(b) the rights provided for under the contract are materially altered as a consequence of the amendment,

the following rules apply for the purposes of this Act:

(c) each individual who has an interest in the contract immediately before that time is deemed to have received at that time the payment of an amount under a pension plan equal to the fair market value of the interest immediately before that time,

(d) the contract as amended is deemed to be a separate annuity contract issued at that time otherwise than pursuant to or under a superannuation or pension fund or plan, and

(e) each individual who has an interest in the separate annuity contract immediately after that time is deemed to have acquired the interest at that time at a cost equal to the fair market value of the interest immediately after that time.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(g) — No demutualization benefit.

History: Subpara. 147.4(2)(a)(i) amended by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 21(1), applicable after 2006. It formerly read:

(3) New contract — For the purposes of this Act, where an annuity contract (in this subsection referred to as the "original contract") to which subsection (1) or paragraph 254(a) applies is, at any time, substituted by another contract,

(a) if the rights provided for under the other contract

(i) are not materially different from those provided for under the original contract, or

(ii) are materially different from those provided for under the original contract only because of an enhancement of benefits that can reasonably be considered to have been provided solely in connection with the demutualization (as defined by subsection 139.1(1)) of an insurance corporation that is considered for the purposes of section 139.1 to have been a party to the original contract, the other contract is deemed to be the same contract as, and a continuation of, the original contract; and

(b) in any other case, each individual who has an interest in the original contract immediately before that time is deemed to have received at that time the payment of an amount under a pension plan equal to the fair market value of the interest immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 139.1(2)(g) — No demutualization benefit due to substitution under 147.4(3)(a).

History: Para. 147.4(3)(a) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 43(2), applicable to amendments and substitutions that occur after December 15, 1998. The para. formerly read:

(a) if the rights provided for under the other contract are not materially different from those provided for under the original contract, the other contract is deemed to be the same contract as, and a continuation of, the original contract; and

(4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 147.4(4) repealed by 2007, c. 29, subsec. 21(2), applicable after 2006, except that the repeal does not apply to annuities under which the annuitant attained 69 years of age before 2007. It formerly read:

(4) RPP annuity contract beginning after age 69 — For the purposes of this Act, where, under circumstances to which paragraph 254(a) applied, an individual acquired before 1997 an interest in an annuity contract in full or partial satisfaction of the individual's entitlement to benefits under a registered pension plan, and payment of the annuity has not begun by the end of the particular year in which the individual attains 69 years of age,

(a) the interest is deemed not to exist after the particular year;

(b) the individual is deemed to have received immediately after the particular year the payment of an amount from the plan equal to the fair market value of the interest at the end of the particular year;

(c) the individual is deemed to have acquired immediately after the particular year an interest in the contract as a separate annuity contract issued immediately after the particular year at a cost equal to the amount referred to in paragraph (b); and

(d) the issue and acquisition of the separate annuity contract are deemed not to be pursuant to or under a registered pension plan.

Subsec. 147.4(4) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 176, applicable after 1996, except that

(a) it does not apply to an individual who attained 70 years of age before 1997;

(b) in applying it to an individual who attained 69 years of age in 1996, the reference in that provision to "69 years of age" shall be read as a reference to "70 years of age"; and

(c) it does not apply to an annuity contract if an individual received an interest in the contract before March 6, 1996 and, under the terms and conditions of the contract as they read immediately before that day,

(i) the day on which the annuity payments are to begin under the contract is fixed and determined and is after the year in which the individual attains

(A) 69 years of age, if the individual had not attained that age before 1997, or

(B) 70 years of age, if the individual attained 69 years of age in 1996, and

(ii) the amount and timing of each annuity payment are fixed and determined.

Life Insurance Policies

148. (1) Amounts included in computing policyholder's income — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a policyholder in respect of the disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy, other than a policy that is or is issued pursuant to

(a) a registered pension plan,

(b) a registered retirement savings plan,

(b.1) a registered retirement income fund,

(b.2) a TFSA,

(c) an income-averaging annuity contract,

(d) a deferred profit sharing plan, or

(e) an annuity contract where

(i) the payment for the annuity contract was deductible under paragraph 60(l) in computing the policyholder's income, or

Proposed Addition — 148(1)(e)(i.1)

(i.1) the annuity contract is a qualifying trust annuity with respect to a taxpayer and the amount paid to acquire it was deductible under paragraph 60(l) in computing the taxpayer's income, or

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 146, will add subpara. 148(1)(e)(i.1), applicable after August 1992.

Para. 148(1)(e), as it applies after 1988 and before September 1992, is to be read as follows:

(e) an annuity contract

(i) the payment for which was deductible in computing the policyholder's income by virtue of paragraph 60(l), or

(ii) that is a qualifying trust annuity with respect to a taxpayer, the payment for which was deductible under paragraph 60(l) in computing the taxpayer's income,

Technical Notes: Subsection 148(1) requires the inclusion in income of certain amounts from the disposition of a life insurance policy, but excludes from this rule annuities described in paragraph 148(1)(e).

Paragraph 148(1)(e) describes

- an annuity the payment for which was deductible under paragraph 60(l) in computing the policyholder's income, and
- an annuity acquired by a policyholder in circumstances to which subsection 146(21) applies (i.e., an annuity described in paragraph 60(l) and acquired with funds paid out of the Saskatchewan Pension Plan).

An annuity described in paragraph 148(1)(e) is defined, by paragraph 304(1)(b) of the Income Tax Regulations, to be a "prescribed annuity contract" and, as such, is not subject to the accrual rules set out in section 12.2. This treatment reflects the fact that the policyholder acquiring such an annuity does so with taxdeferred funds, and is generally meant to be taxed only when amounts are paid out of the annuity.

Subsection 148(1) is amended to include, in the annuities described in paragraph (e), an annuity that is a "qualifying trust annuity" with respect to a taxpayer (as defined in new subsection 60.011(2)), the payment for which was deductible by the taxpayer under paragraph 60(l). This reflects the fact that a qualifying trust annuity will typically be held by a trust, rather than by the taxpayer who is entitled to the deduction under paragraph 60(l), and ensures that it is treated, for tax purposes, in the same manner as if it were held by the taxpayer.

(ii) the policyholder acquired the annuity contract in circumstances to which subsection 146(21) applied, the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of the disposition of the policyholder's interest in the policy that the policyholder, beneficiary or assignee, as the case may be, became entitled to receive in the year exceeds the adjusted cost basis to the policyholder of that interest immediately before the disposition.

(1.1) Amount included in computing taxpayer's income — There shall be included in computing the income for a taxation year of a taxpayer in respect of a disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy described in paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in subsection (9) the amount, if any, by which the amount of a payment described in paragraph (e) of that definition that the taxpayer became entitled to receive in the year exceeds the amount that would be the taxpayer's adjusted cost basis of the taxpayer's interest in the policy immediately before the disposition if, for the purposes of the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection (9), the taxpayer were, in respect of that interest in the policy, the policyholder.

Regulations: 217(2) (information return).

(2) Deemed proceeds of disposition — For the purposes of subsections (1) and 20(20) and the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsection (9),

(a) where at any time a policyholder becomes entitled to receive under a life insurance policy a particular amount as, on account of, in lieu of payment of or in satisfaction of, a policy dividend, the policyholder shall be deemed

(i) to have disposed of an interest in the policy at that time, and

(ii) to have become entitled to receive proceeds of the disposition equal to the amount, if any, by which

(A) the particular amount

exceeds

(B) the part of the particular amount applied immediately after that time to pay a premium under the policy or to repay a policy loan under the policy, as provided for under the terms and conditions of the policy;

(b) where in a taxation year a holder of an interest in, or a person whose life is insured or who is the annuitant under, a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract or an exempt policy) last acquired after December 1, 1982 or an annuity contract (other than a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, entered into before November 13, 1981 or a prescribed annuity contract) dies, the policyholder shall be deemed to have disposed of the policyholder's interest in the policy or the contract, as the case may be, immediately before the death;

(c) where, as a consequence of a death, a disposition of an interest in a life insurance policy is deemed to have occurred under paragraph (b), the policyholder immediately after the death shall be deemed to have acquired the interest at a cost equal to the accumulating fund in respect thereof, as determined in prescribed manner, immediately after the death; and

(d) where at any time a life insurance policy last acquired after December 1, 1982, or a life insurance policy to which subsection 12.2(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, applies by virtue of paragraph 12.2(9)(b) of that Act, ceases to be an exempt policy (otherwise than as a consequence of the death of an individual whose life is insured under the policy or at a time when that individual is totally and permanently disabled), the policyholder shall be deemed to have disposed of the policyholder's interest in the policy at that time for proceeds of disposition equal to the accumulating fund with respect to the interest, as determined in prescribed manner, at that time and to have reacquired the interest immediately after that time at a cost equal to those proceeds.

(3) Special rules for certain policies — For the purposes of this section, where all or any part of an insurer's reserves for a life insurance policy vary in amount depending on the fair market value of a specified group of properties (in this subsection referred to as a "segregated fund"),

(a) in computing the adjusted cost basis of the policy,

(i) an amount paid by the policyholder or on the policyholder's behalf as or on account of premiums under the policy or to acquire an interest in the policy shall, to the extent that the amount was used by the insurer to acquire property for the purposes of the segregated fund, be deemed not to have been so paid, and

(ii) any transfer of property by the insurer from the segregated fund that resulted in an increase in the portion of its reserves for the policy that do not vary with the fair market value of the segregated fund shall be deemed to have been a premium paid under the policy by the policyholder; and

(b) the proceeds of the disposition of an interest in the policy shall be deemed not to include the portion thereof, if any, payable out of the segregated fund.

(4) Income from disposition — For the purpose of computing a taxpayer's income from the disposition (other than a disposition deemed to have occurred under paragraph (2)(a) or a disposition described in paragraph (b) of the definition "disposition" in subsection (9)) of a part of the taxpayer's interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired after December 1, 1982 or an annuity contract, the adjusted cost basis to the taxpayer, immediately before the disposition, of the part is the proportion of the adjusted cost basis to the taxpayer of the taxpayer's interest immediately before the disposition that

(a) the proceeds of the disposition

are of

(b) the accumulating fund with respect to the taxpayer's interest, as determined in prescribed manner, immediately before the disposition.

Regulations: 307 (accumulating fund).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-87R2: Policyholders' income from life insurance policies.

(4.1), (5) [Repealed under former Act]

(6) Proceeds receivable as annuity — Where, under the terms of a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired before December 2, 1982, a policyholder became entitled to receive from the insurer at any time before the death of the person whose life was insured thereunder, all the proceeds (other than policy dividends) payable at that time under the policy in the form of an annuity contract or annuity payments,

(a) the payments shall be regarded as annuity payments made under an annuity contract;

(b) the purchase price of the annuity contract shall be deemed to be the adjusted cost basis of the policy to the policyholder immediately before the first payment under that contract became payable; and

(c) the annuity contract or annuity payments shall be deemed not to be proceeds of the disposition of an interest in the policy,

Related Provisions: 148(10)(b) — References to "person whose life was insured". See also at end of s. 148.

(7) Disposition at non-arm's length and similar cases — Where, otherwise than by virtue of a deemed disposition under paragraph (2)(b), an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy is disposed of by way of a gift (whether during the policyholder's lifetime or by the policyholder's will), by distribution from a corporation or by operation of law only to any person, or in any manner whatever to any person with whom the policyholder was not dealing at arm's length, the policyholder shall be deemed thereupon to become entitled to receive proceeds of the disposition equal to the value of the interest at the time of the disposition, and the person who acquires the interest by virtue of the disposition shall be deemed to acquire it at a cost equal to that value.

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

(8) Idem — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, where

(a) an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) has been transferred to the policyholder's child for no consideration, and

(b) a child of the policyholder or a child of the transferee is the person whose life is insured under the policy, the interest shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the policyholder for proceeds of the disposition equal to the adjusted cost basis to the policyholder of the interest immediately before the transfer, and to have been acquired by the person who acquired the interest at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 148(8.1) — Inter vivos transfer to spouse; 148(8.2) — Transfer to spouse at death. See also at end of s. 148.

History: Paras. 148(8)(a), (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 121(2), applicable to transfers and distributions occurring after 1989. Paras. (a), (b) formerly read:

(a) an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) has been transferred to

(i) the policyholder's spouse or child, for no consideration,

(ii) the spouse or a former spouse of the policyholder, in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage, or

(iii) an individual, pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal made in accordance with prescribed provisions of the law of a province if that individual is a person within a prescribed class of persons referred to in those provisions, and

(b) the transferee or a child of the policyholder or transferee is the person whose life is insured under the policy,

(8.1) Inter vivos transfer to spouse [or common-law partner] — Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, where

(a) an interest of a policyholder in a life insurance policy (other than a policy that is, or is issued under, a plan or contract referred to in any of paragraphs (1)(a) to (e)) is transferred to

(i) the policyholder's spouse or common-law partner, or

(ii) a former spouse or common-law partner of the policyholder in settlement of rights arising out of their marriage or common-law partnership, and

(iii) [Repealed]

(b) both the policyholder and the transferee are resident in Canada at the time of the transfer, unless an election is made in the policyholder's return of income under this Part for the taxation year in which the interest was transferred to have this subsection not apply, the interest shall be deemed to have been disposed of by the policyholder for proceeds of the disposition equal to the adjusted cost basis to the policyholder of the interest immediately before the transfer and to have been acquired by the transferee at a cost equal to those proceeds.

Related Provisions: 73(1) — Inter vivos transfer of property of spouse, etc., or trust; 148(8.2) — Transfer to spouse at death; 252(3) — Extended meaning of "spouse" and "former spouse". See additional Related Provisions and Definitions at end of s. 148.

"adjusted cost basis" to a policyholder as at a particular time of the policyholder's interest in a life insurance policy means the amount determined by the formula

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the cost of an interest in the policy acquired by the policyholder before that time but not including an amount referred to in the description of B or E,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid before that time by or on behalf of the policyholder in respect of a premium under the policy, other than amounts referred to in clause (2)(a)(ii)(B), in subparagraph (iii) of the description of C in paragraph (a) of the definition "proceeds of the disposition" or in subparagraph (b)(i) of that definition,

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the disposition of an interest in the policy before that time that was required to be included in computing the policyholder's income or taxable income earned in Canada for a taxation year,

D is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the policyholder's interest in the policy that was included by virtue of subsection 12(3) or section 12.2 or of paragraph 56(1)(d.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, in computing the policyholder's income for any taxation year ending before that time or the portion of an amount paid to the policyholder in respect of the policyholder's interest in the policy on which tax was imposed by virtue of paragraph 212(1)(o) before that time,

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the repayment before that time and after March 31, 1978 of a policy loan not exceeding the total of the proceeds of the disposition, if any, in respect of that loan and the amount, if any, described in the description of J but not including any payment of interest thereon, any loan repayment that was deductible under paragraph 60(s) of this Act or paragraph 20(1)(hh) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952 (as it applied in taxation years before 1985) or any loan repayment referred to in clause (2)(a)(ii)(B),

F is the amount, if any, by which the cash surrender value of the policy as at its first anniversary date after March 31, 1977 exceeds the adjusted cost basis (determined under the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it would have read on that date if subsection 148(8) of that Act, as it read in its application to the period ending immediately before April 1, 1978, had not been applicable) of the policyholder's interest in the policy on that date,

G is, in the case of an interest in a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, to which subsection 12.2(1) applies for the taxation year that includes that time (or would apply if the contract had an anniversary day in the year at a time when the taxpayer held the interest), the total of all amounts each of which is a mortality gain, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the contract in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest immediately before the end of the calendar year ending in a taxation year commencing before that time,

Proposed Amendment — Life annuity contracts

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 12, 2002: See under Reg. 301(1).

G.1 [is,] in the case of an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) to which subsection (8.2) applied before that time, the total of all amounts each of which is a mortality gain, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the policy in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest immediately before the end of the calendar year ending in a taxation year beginning before that time,

H is the total of all amounts each of which is the proceeds of the disposition of the policyholder's interest in the policy that the policyholder became entitled to receive before that time,

I is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the policyholder's interest in the policy that was deducted by virtue of subsection 20(19) in computing the policyholder's income for any taxation year commencing before that time,

J is the amount payable on March 31, 1978 in respect of a policy loan in respect of the policy,

K is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount received before that time in respect of the policy that the policyholder was entitled to deduct under paragraph 60(a) in computing the policyholder's income for a taxation year, and

(a) in the case of an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) that was last acquired after December 1, 1982 by the policyholder, the total of all amounts each of which is the net cost of pure insurance, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the policy in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest immediately before the end of the calendar year ending in a taxation year commencing after May 31, 1985 and before that time,

(b) in the case of an interest in an annuity contract to which subsection 12.2(1) applies for the taxation year that includes that time (or would apply if the contract had an anniversary day in the year and while the taxpayer held the interest), the total of all annuity payments paid in respect of the interest before that time and while the policyholder held the interest, or

(c) in the case of an interest in a contract referred to in the description of G, the total of all amounts each of which is a mortality loss, as defined by regulation and determined by the issuer of the contract in accordance with the regulations, in respect of the interest before that time;

Related Provisions: 12.2(5) — Amounts included in income — taxpayer's interest in an annuity contract; 148(2) — Deemed proceeds of disposition; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero. See also at end of s. 148.

History: The description of B in the definition "adjusted cost basis" in subsec. 148(9) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(4), applicable to amounts paid in taxation years commencing after December 20, 1991. The description formerly read:

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid before that time, by the policyholder or on the policyholder's behalf, in respect of a premium under the policy,

The description of E in "adjusted cost basis" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(5), applicable to loan repayments occurring in taxation years beginning after December 20, 1991. The description formerly read:

E is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount in respect of the repayment before that time and after March 31, 1978 of a policy loan not exceeding the total of the proceeds of the disposition, if any, in respect of that loan and the amount, if any, referred to in the description of J but not including any payment of interest thereon or any repayment of the loan that was deductible pursuant to paragraph 20(1)(hh) or 60(s),

G.1 and its description added to "adjusted cost basis" by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 87(3.1), (6), applicable to transfers and distributions occurring after 1989.

The description of G in "adjusted cost basis" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 121(4), to substitute "subsection 12.2(1)" for "subsection 12.2(1) or (3)" and to add "(or would apply if the contract had an anniversary day in the year at a time when the taxpayer held the interest)", applicable to policies last acquired after 1989.

Para. (b) of the description of L in para. 148(9)(a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 121(5), applicable to policies last acquired after 1989. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in the case of an interest in an annuity contract to which subsection 12.2(1) or (3) applies, the total of all amounts each of which is an annuity payment paid in respect of the interest before that time and while the policyholder held the interest, or

"amount payable", in respect of a policy loan, has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"cash surrender value" at a particular time of a life insurance policy means its cash surrender value at that time computed without regard to any policy loans made under the policy, any policy dividends (other than paid-up additions) payable under the policy or any interest payable on those dividends;

Related Provisions: Reg. 1408(1)"cash surrender value" — Definition applies for policy reserve calculation.

"child" of a policyholder includes a child as defined in subsection 70(10);

Related Provisions: 252(1) — Extended meaning of "child".

"disposition", in relation to an interest in a life insurance policy, includes

(a) a surrender thereof,

(b) a policy loan made after March 31, 1978,

(c) the dissolution of that interest by virtue of the maturity of the policy,

(d) a disposition of that interest by operation of law only, and

(e) the payment by an insurer of an amount (other than an annuity payment, a policy loan or a policy dividend) in respect of a policy (other than a policy described in paragraph (1)(a), (b), (c), (d) or (e)) that is a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, entered into after November 16, 1978, and before November 13, 1981,

but does not include

(f) an assignment of all or any part of an interest in the policy for the purpose of securing a debt or a loan other than a policy loan,

(g) a lapse of the policy in consequence of the premiums under the policy remaining unpaid, if the policy was reinstated not later than 60 days after the end of the calendar year in which the lapse occurred,

(h) a payment under a policy as a disability benefit or as an accidental death benefit,

(i) an annuity payment,

(j) a payment under a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) that

(i) was last acquired before December 2, 1982, or

(ii) is an exempt policy

in consequence of the death of any person whose life was insured under the policy, or

(k) any transaction or event by which an individual becomes entitled to receive, under the terms of an exempt policy, all of the proceeds (including or excluding policy dividends) payable under the policy in the form of an annuity contract or annuity payments, if, at the time of the transaction or event, the individual whose life is insured under the policy was totally and permanently disabled;

"interest", in relation to a policy loan, has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"life insurance policy" — [Repealed under former Act]

"policy loan" means an amount advanced by an insurer to a policyholder in accordance with the terms and conditions of the life insurance policy;

"premium" under a policy includes

(a) interest paid after 1977 to a life insurer in respect of a policy loan, other than interest deductible in the 1978 or any subsequent taxation year pursuant to paragraph 20(1)(c) or (d), and

(b) a prepaid premium under the policy to the extent that it cannot be refunded otherwise than on termination or cancellation of the policy,

but does not include

(c) where the interest in the policy was last acquired after December 1, 1982, that portion of any amount paid after May 31, 1985 under the policy with respect to

(i) an accidental death benefit,

(ii) a disability benefit,

(iii) an additional risk as a result of insuring a substandard life,

(iv) an additional risk in respect of the conversion of a term policy into another policy after the end of the year,

(v) an additional risk under a settlement option,

(vi) an additional risk under a guaranteed insurability benefit, or

(vii) any other prescribed benefit that is ancillary to the policy;

Related Provisions: 60(s) — Repayment of policy loan. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 148.

Regulations: No prescribed benefits for subpara. (c)(vii).

"proceeds of the disposition" of an interest in a life insurance policy means the amount of the proceeds that the policyholder, beneficiary or assignee, as the case may be, is entitled to receive on a disposition of an interest in the policy and for greater certainty,

(a) in respect of a surrender or maturity thereof, means the amount determined by the formula

$$(A - B) - C$$

where

A is the cash surrender value of that interest in the policy at the time of surrender or maturity,

B is that portion of the cash surrender value represented by A that is applicable to the policyholder's interest in the related segregated fund trust as referred to in paragraph 138.1(1)(e), and

C is the total of amounts each of which is

(i) an amount payable at that time by the policyholder in respect of a policy loan in respect of the policy,

(ii) a premium under the policy that is due but unpaid at that time, or

(iii) an amount applied, immediately after the time of the surrender, to pay a premium under the policy, as provided for under the terms and conditions of the policy,

(b) in respect of a policy loan made after March 31, 1978 means the lesser of

(i) the amount of the loan, other than the part thereof applied, immediately after the loan, to pay a premium under the policy, as provided for under the terms and conditions of the policy, and

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the cash surrender value of the policy immediately before the loan was made exceeds the total of the balances outstanding at that time of any policy loans in respect of the policy,

(c) in respect of a payment described in paragraph (e) of the definition "disposition" in this subsection, means the amount of that payment, and

(d) in respect of a disposition deemed to have occurred under paragraph (2)(b), means the accumulating fund in respect of the interest, as determined in prescribed manner,

(i) immediately before the time of death in respect of a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired after December 1, 1982, or

(ii) immediately after the time of death in respect of an annuity contract;

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero. See also at end of s. 148.

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount payable at that time by the policyholder in respect of a policy loan in respect of the policy or a premium under the policy that is due but unpaid at that time,

Subpara. (b)(i) of "proceeds of the disposition" amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 87(8), applicable to policy loans made in taxation years beginning after December 20, 1991. That subpara. formerly read:

(i) the amount of the loan, and

"relevant authority" — [Repealed]

History: The definition "relevant authority" in subsec. 148(9) repealed by 1997, c. 25, s. 46, applicable April 25, 1997. It formerly read:

"relevant authority" has the meaning assigned by subsection 138(12);

"tax anniversary date", in relation to a life insurance policy, means the second anniversary date of the policy to occur after October 22, 1968;

"value" at a particular time of an interest in a life insurance policy means

(a) where the interest includes an interest in the cash surrender value of the policy, the amount in respect thereof that the holder of the interest would be entitled to receive if the policy were surrendered at that time, and

(b) in any other case, nil.

(9.1) Application of subsec. 12.2(11) — The definitions in subsection 12.2(11) apply to this section.

Origin of subsec. 148(9.1): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words of subsec. 12.2(11)).

(10) Life annuity contracts — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a reference to "insurer" or "life insurer" shall be deemed to include a reference to a person who is licensed or otherwise authorized under a law of Canada or a province to issue contracts that are annuity contracts;

(b) a reference to a "person whose life was insured" shall be deemed to include a reference to an annuitant under a life annuity contract, as defined by regulation, entered into before November 17, 1978;

(c) where a policyholder is a person who has held an interest in a life insurance policy continuously since its issue date, the interest shall be deemed to have been acquired on the later of the date on which

(i) the policy came into force, and

(ii) the application in respect of the policy signed by the policyholder was filed with the insurer;

(d) except as otherwise provided, a policyholder shall be deemed not to have disposed of or acquired an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) as a result only of the exercise of any provision (other than a conversion into an annuity contract) of the policy; and

(e) where an interest in a life insurance policy (other than an annuity contract) last acquired before December 2, 1982 to which subsection 12.2(9) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, does not apply has been acquired by a taxpayer from a person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, the interest shall be deemed to have been last acquired by the taxpayer before December 2, 1982.

Eligible Funeral Arrangements

148.1 (1) Definitions — In this section,

"cemetery care trust" means a trust established pursuant to an Act of a province for the care and maintenance of a cemetery;

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(e)(iii) — No deemed disposition on emigration of individual; 149(1)(s.2) — No tax on cemetery care trust; 248(1)"cemetery care trust" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "cemetery care trust" added to subsec. 148.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(4), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Regulations: 204(3)(d.1) (cemetery care trust need not file T3 return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"cemetery services" with respect to an individual means property (including interment vaults, markers, flowers, liners, urns, shrubs and wreaths) and services that relate directly to cemetery arrangements in Canada in consequence of the death of the individual including, for greater certainty, property and services to be funded out of a cemetery care trust;

History: The definition "cemetery services" added to subsec. 148.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(4), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"custodian" of an arrangement means

(a) where a trust is governed by the arrangement, a trustee of the trust, and

(b) in any other case, a qualifying person who receives a contribution under the arrangement as a deposit for the provision by the person of funeral or cemetery services;

Related Provisions: 212(1)(v) — Withholding tax on payment by custodian to non-resident person.

History: Para. (b) of the definition "custodian" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(2), applicable to 1993 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) in any other case, a qualifying person who receives a contribution under the arrangement as a deposit for the provision by the person of funeral services;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-87R2: Policyholders' income from life insurance policies; IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"eligible funeral arrangement" at a particular time means an arrangement established and maintained by a qualifying person solely for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to one or more individuals and of which there is one or more custodians each of whom was resident in Canada at the time the arrangement was established, where

(a) each contribution made before the particular time under the arrangement was made for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services to be provided by the qualifying person with respect to an individual, and

(b) for each such individual, the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual does not exceed

(i) $15,000, where the arrangement solely covers funeral services with respect to the individual,

(ii) $20,000, where the arrangement solely covers cemetery services with respect to the individual, and

(iii) $35,000, in any other case, and, for the purpose of this definition, any payment (other than the portion of the payment to be applied as a contribution to a cemetery care trust) that is made in consideration for the immediate acquisition of a right to burial in or on property that is set apart or used as a place for the burial of human remains or of any interest in a building or structure for the permanent placement of human remains, shall be considered to have been made pursuant to a separate arrangement that is not an eligible funeral arrangement;

Related Provisions: 128.1(10)"excluded right or interest"(e)(iv) — No deemed disposition on emigration of individual; 149(1)(s.1) — No tax on eligible funeral arrangement; 212(1)(v) — Withholding tax on payment from eligible funeral arrangement to non-resident; 248(1)"eligible funeral arrangement" — Definition applies to entire Act.

History: The definition "eligible funeral arrangement" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"eligible funeral arrangement" at a particular time means an arrangement established and maintained by a qualifying person solely for the purpose of funding funeral services with respect to one or more individuals and of which there is one or more custodians each of whom was resident in Canada at the time the arrangement was established, where

(a) each contribution made before the particular time under the arrangement was made for the purpose of funding funeral services to be provided by the qualifying person with respect to an individual, and

(b) for each such individual, the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual under the arrangement does not exceed $15,000;

Regulations: 201(1)(f) (information return on return of funds); 202(2)(m) (information return on payment to non-resident).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"funeral or cemetery services" with respect to an individual means funeral services with respect to the individual, cemetery services with respect to the individual or any combination of such services;

History: The definition "funeral or cemetery services" added to subsec. 148.1(1) by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(4), applicable to 1993 et seq.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"funeral services" with respect to an individual means property and services (other than cemetery services with respect to the individual) that relate directly to funeral arrangements in Canada in consequence of the death of the individual;

Related Provisions: 255 — "Canada" includes coastal waters.

History: The definition "funeral services" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"funeral services" with respect to an individual means property and services that relate directly to funeral, burial, cremation or cemetery arrangements in Canada in consequence of the death of the individual or to any combination of such arrangements;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"qualifying person" means a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of a province to provide funeral or cemetery services with respect to individuals;

History: The definition "qualifying person" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(1), applicable to 1993 et seq. The definition formerly read:

"qualifying person" means a person licensed or otherwise authorized under the laws of a province to provide funeral services for individuals;

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

"relevant contribution" in respect of an individual under a particular arrangement means

(a) a contribution under the particular arrangement (other than a contribution made by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement) for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual, or

(b) such portion of a contribution to another arrangement that was an eligible funeral arrangement (other than any such contribution made by way of a transfer from any eligible funeral arrangement) as can reasonably be considered to have subsequently been used to make a contribution under the particular arrangement by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual.

Related Provisions: 148.1(1)"eligible funeral arrangement"(b) — Dollar limits on relevant contributions.

History: Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "relevant contribution" in subsec. 148.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(3), applicable to 1993 et seq. Paras. (a) and (b) formerly read:

(a) a contribution under the particular arrangement (other than a contribution made by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement) for the purpose of funding funeral services with respect to the individual, or

(b) such portion of a contribution to another arrangement that was an eligible funeral arrangement (other than any such contribution made by way of a transfer from any eligible funeral arrangement) as can reasonably be considered to have subsequently been used to make a contribution under the particular arrangement by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement for the purpose of funding funeral services with respect to the individual.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

(2) Exemption for eligible funeral arrangements — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act,

(a) no amount that has accrued, is credited or is added to an eligible funeral arrangement shall be included in computing the income of any person solely because of such accrual, crediting or adding;

(b) subject to paragraph (c) and subsection (3), no amount shall be

(i) included in computing a person's income solely because of the provision by another person of funeral or cemetery services under an eligible funeral arrangement, or

(ii) included in computing a person's income because of the disposition of an interest under an eligible funeral arrangement or an interest in a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement; and

(c) subparagraph (b)(ii) shall not affect the consequences under this Act of the disposition of any right under an eligible funeral arrangement to payment for the provision of funeral or cemetery services.

Related Provisions: 149(1)(s.1) — No tax on trust governing an eligible funeral arrangement; 149(1)(s.2) — No tax on cemetery care trust.

History: Paras. 148.1(2)(b) and (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(5), applicable to 1993 et seq. Paras. 148.1(2)(b) and (c) formerly read:

(b) subject to paragraph (c) and subsection (3), no amount shall be

(i) included in computing a person's income solely because of the provision by another person of funeral services under an eligible funeral arrangement, or

(ii) included in computing a person's income because of the disposition of an interest under an eligible funeral arrangement or an interest in a trust governed by an eligible funeral arrangement; and

(c) subparagraph (b)(ii) shall not affect the consequences under this Act of the disposition of any right under an eligible funeral arrangement to payment for the provision of funeral services.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

(3) Income inclusion on return of funds — Where at any particular time in a taxation year a particular amount is distributed (otherwise than as payment for the provision of funeral or cemetery services with respect to an individual) to a taxpayer from an arrangement that was, at the time it was established, an eligible funeral arrangement and the particular amount is paid from the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement, there shall be added in computing the taxpayer's income for the year from property the lesser of the particular amount and the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement immediately before the particular time (determined without regard to the value of property in a cemetery care trust);

B is the total of all payments made from the arrangement before the particular time for the provision of funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual (other than cemetery services funded by property in a cemetery care trust); and

C is the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual under the particular arrangement (other than contributions in respect of the individual that were in a cemetery care trust).

Proposed Amendment — 148.1(3)C

C is the amount determined by the formula

$$D - E$$

where

D is the total of all relevant contributions made before the particular time in respect of the individual under the arrangement (other than contributions in respect of the individual that were in a cemetery care trust), and

E is the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(a) an amount relating to the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement that is deemed by subsection (4) to have been distributed before the particular time from the arrangement

exceeds

(b) the portion of the amount referred to in paragraph (a) that is added, because of this subsection, in computing a taxpayer's income.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 147(2), will amend the description of C in subsec. 148.1(3) to read as above, applicable to amounts that are transferred, credited or added after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes Section 148.1 is amended to provide specific rules relating to transfers from one EFA account to another. In general terms, the changes are as follows:

- The provision that requires EFA distributions to be included in income (subsection 148.1(3)) is amended to ensure that the determination of the amount that can subsequently be distributed from the transferor EFA account on a tax-free basis is reduced by the portion of the transferred amount that was not included in income (i.e., that portion of the transferred amount that represents a return of contributions).

These changes are described in more detail below.

Subsection 148.1(3) provides for an income inclusion by a taxpayer in the event that there is a distribution of funds from an individual's EFA account to the taxpayer (otherwise than as a payment for the provision of funeral or cemetery services with respect to the individual). The amount of the income inclusion is the lesser of the distributed amount and a second amount. In general terms, this second amount is determined by the formula:

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the balance in the EFA account immediately before the distribution.

B is the total of all payments made from the EFA account before the distribution for the provision of funeral or cemetery services, and

C is the total of all "relevant contributions" in respect of the EFA account that were made before the distribution.

For the purpose of the description of C, an amount is defined in subsection 148.1(1) to be a "relevant contribution" in respect of a particular EFA account if

- the amount was contributed to the particular EFA account otherwise than by way of transfer from another EFA account, or
- the amount was contributed to another EFA account (otherwise than by way of transfer) and subsequently transferred (either from the original or a subsequent EFA account) to the particular EFA account.

The effect of subsection 148.1(3) is to include in the income of the taxpayer the lesser of the amount received and an amount which generally represents the income accumulated in the EFA account. If the amount received by the taxpayer is greater than the amount included in the taxpayer's income, the excess generally represents a non-taxable refund of relevant contributions (represented by the variable C in the formula).

The description of C is amended so that its value is reduced, in effect, by any relevant contributions previously transferred from the EFA account to another EFA account. This ensures that the amount of the transferred relevant contribution (which, by virtue of subsection 148.1(3), can be distributed from the recipient EFA account tax-free) cannot also be used to support a subsequent tax-free withdrawal from the transferor EFA account.

The description of C is amended to provide that its value is determined by the formula

$$D - E$$

For this purpose, the value of D is the amount determined under the existing description of C. The value of E is the total of all amounts each of which is

- an amount which was previously transferred from the EFA account and deemed, by new subsection 148.1(4), to be a distribution

minus

- the portion of the deemed distribution that was required, by subsection 148.1(3), to be included in computing a taxpayer's income.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(z.4) — Inclusion into income from property; 212(1)(v) — Withholding tax on payment to non-resident; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History [148.1(3)]: Subsec. 148.1(3) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 177(6), applicable to 1993 et seq. Subsec. 148.1(3) formerly read:

(3) Where at any particular time in a taxation year a particular amount is distributed (otherwise than as payment for the provision of funeral services with respect to an individual) to a taxpayer from an arrangement that was, at the time it was established, an eligible funeral arrangement and the particular amount is paid from the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement, there shall be added in computing the taxpayer's income for the year from property the lesser of the particular amount and the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the balance in respect of the individual under the arrangement immediately before the particular time;

B is the total of all payments made from the arrangement before the particular time for the provision of funeral services with respect to the individual; and

C is the total of all relevant contributions made before that time in respect of the individual under the particular arrangement.

Regulations: 201(1)(f) (information return).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-531: Eligible funeral arrangements.

Proposed Addition — 148.1(4), (5)

(4) Deemed distribution on transfer — If at a particular time an amount relating to the balance in respect of an individual (referred to in this subsection and in subsection (5) as the "transferor") under an eligible funeral arrangement (referred to in this subsection and in subsection (5) as the "transferor arrangement") is transferred, credited or added to the balance in respect of the same or another individual (referred to in this subsection and in subsection (5) as the "recipient") under the same or another eligible funeral arrangement (referred to in this subsection and in subsection (5) as the "recipient arrangement"),

(a) the amount is deemed to be distributed to the transferor (or, if the transferor is deceased at the particular time, to the recipient) at the particular time from the transferor arrangement and to be paid from the balance in respect of the transferor under the transferor arrangement; and

(b) the amount is deemed to be a contribution made (other than by way of a transfer from an eligible funeral arrangement) at the particular time under the recipient arrangement for the purpose of funding funeral or cemetery services with respect to the recipient.

Related Provisions 148.1(5) — No deemed distribution on transfer to same individual

(5) Non-application of subsection (4) — Subsection (4) does not apply if

(a) the transferor and the recipient are the same individual;

(b) the amount that is transferred, credited or added to the balance in respect of the individual under the recipient arrangement is equal to the balance in respect of the individual under the transferor arrangement immediately before the particular time; and

(c) the transferor arrangement is terminated immediately after the transfer.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 147(3), will add subsecs. 148.1(4) and (5), applicable to amounts that are transferred, credited or added after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Section 148.1 is amended to provide specific rules relating to transfers from one EFA account to another. In general terms, the changes are as follows:

- A new provision (paragraph 148.1(4)(a)) deems the transferred amount to be distributed to the individual from whose EFA account the amount is transferred. However, if that individual is deceased, the amount is deemed to be distributed to the individual to whose EFA account the amount is transferred. This ensures that the transfer is included in income (to the extent that it does not exceed the income accumulated in the transferor account).
- A new provision (paragraph 148.1(4)(b)) deems the transferred amount to be a contribution made to the recipient EFA account other than by way of transfer. This ensures that the earnings portion of the transferred amount is not taxed again when it is distributed from the recipient EFA account. . . .

- A new provision (subsection 148.1(5)) provides that these new rules do not apply if the transferor and the recipient EFA accounts are in respect of the same person, the entire balance in the transferor account is transferred to the recipient account and the transferor EFA account is terminated immediately after the transfer.

These changes are described in more detail below. . . .

New subsection 148.1(4) contains rules that apply when an amount is transferred from one EFA account to another EFA account of the same or another person.

Paragraph 148.1(4)(a) deems the transfer to be a distribution from the transferor EFA account. If the individual from whose account the amount is transferred is alive at the time of the transfer, that individual is deemed to be the recipient of the distribution. Otherwise, the recipient is deemed to be the individual to whose EFA account the amount is transferred. This deeming provision ensures that subsection 148.1(3) applies to the transfer. Consequently, the transferred amount will be included in computing the income of the deemed recipient, except to the extent that the transferred amount exceeds the income accumulated in the transferor EFA account.

Paragraph 148.1(4)(b) deems the amount transferred to be a contribution made (otherwise than by way of transfer) under the recipient EFA account. This ensures that the income portion of the transferred amount (which is included in income, under subsection 148.1(3), as a distribution from the transferor account) is considered to be a "relevant contribution" in respect of the recipient EFA account (which it would not otherwise be, because of the definition "relevant contribution" in subsection 148.1(1)). This allows it to subsequently be withdrawn from the recipient EFA account on a tax-free basis.

New subsection 148.1(5) provides that new subsection 148.1(4) does not apply when the entire balance of an individual's EFA account is transferred to another EFA account of the same individual and the transferor EFA account is terminated immediately after the transfer. Consequently, there will be no deemed distribution resulting from such a transfer.

The following examples illustrate the application of the amendments to subsection 148.1.

Example 1

Paul sets up an EFA account for the pre-funding of his funeral expenses. He contributes $10,000 to his account, and earns $7,000 of interest in the account. Paul transfers $3,000 to an EFA account which he establishes for his daughter, Gaby.

The transferred amount is deemed to be a distribution to Paul under new paragraph 148.1(4)(a). Consequently, Paul includes in his income, under subsection 148.1(3), an amount of $3,000, which is the lesser of

- $3,000, which is the amount distributed, and
- $7,000, which is the amount determined by the formula under subsection 148.1(3):

$$A + B - C \text{ (where } C = D - E) = $17,000 + $0 - ($10,000 - $0)$$

The transfer is treated, in effect, as a distribution of a portion of the income accumulated in the plan.

Under new paragraph 148.1(4)(b), the transferred amount is also deemed to be a contribution made, other than by way of transfer, to Gaby's EFA account. Thus, the $3,000 is considered to be a relevant contribution in respect of Gaby's EFA account, and can subsequently be withdrawn tax-free.

Example 2

The facts are the same as in Example 1, except that Paul transfers $13,000 to Gaby's EFA.

The transferred amount is deemed to be a distribution to Paul under new paragraph 148.1(4)(a). Consequently, Paul includes in his income, under subsection 148.1(3), an amount of $7,000, which is the lesser of

- $13,000, which is the amount distributed, and
- $7,000, which is the amount determined by the formula under subsection 148.1(3):

The transfer is treated, in effect, as a distribution of all of the income accumulated in the plan ($7,000), which is taxable, plus a return of a portion of the relevant contributions in respect of the EFA ($6,000), which is not taxable.

Under new paragraph 148.1(4)(b), the transferred amount is also deemed to be a contribution made, other than by way of transfer, to Gaby's EFA account. This has no particular significance with respect to the portion of the transfer that represents relevant contributions in respect of Paul's EFA account, since this amount would be considered to be a relevant contribution to Gaby's EFA account under the existing rules. However, it does have significance with respect to the portion of the transfer that represents income in Paul's EFA account, in that it allows that portion to become a relevant contribution in respect of Gaby's EFA account which can then be withdrawn from Gaby's account tax-free.

Example 3

The facts are the same as in Example 2. After the transfer of $13,000, the balance in Paul's EFA account is $4,000, all of which represents relevant contributions in respect of the account. Over the next few years, the account earns an additional $2,500 of interest. Paul then withdraws the entire balance from the account.

The withdrawal is a distribution under subsection 148.1(3). Consequently, Paul includes $2,500 in his income, which is the lesser of:

- $6,500, which is the amount of the withdrawal, and
- $2,500, which is the amount determined by the formula under subsection 148.1(3):

$$A + B - C \text{ (where } C = D - E) = $6,500 + 0 - ($10,000 - $6,000)$$

The value of E ($6,000) is the excess of the amount that was previously transferred and to which subsection 148.1(4) applied ($13,000) over the portion of that amount that was included in income under subsection 148.1(3) ($7,000)

149. (1) Miscellaneous exemptions — No tax is payable under this Part on the taxable income of a person for a period when that person was

(a) employees of a country other than Canada — an officer or servant of the government of a country other than Canada whose duties require that person to reside in Canada

(i) if, immediately before assuming those duties, the person resided outside Canada,

(ii) if that country grants a similar privilege to an officer or servant of Canada of the same class,

(iii) if the person was not, at any time in the period, engaged in a business or performing the duties of an office or employment in Canada other than the person's position with that government, and

(iv) if the person was not during the period a Canadian citizen;

Related Provisions: 94.1(1)"exempt taxpayer"(a) — Exclusion from foreign investment entity accrual rules; 149(1)(b) — Family members and servants; 212(14)(c)(i) — Certificate of exemption; Art. XIX — Government service; Art. XXVIII — Diplomatic agents and consular officers; Art. 25 — Diplomatic and consular officials.

(b) members of the family and servants of employees of a country other than Canada — a member of the family of a person described in paragraph (a) who resides with that person, or a servant employed by a person described in that paragraph,

(i) if the country of which the person described in paragraph (a) is an officer or servant grants a similar privilege to members of the family residing with and servants employed by an officer or servant of Canada of the same class,

(ii) in the case of a member of the family, if that member was not at any time lawfully admitted to Canada for permanent residence, or at any time in the period engaged in a business or performing the duties of an office or employment in Canada,

(iii) in the case of a servant, if, immediately before assuming his or her duties as a servant of a person described in paragraph (a), the servant resided outside Canada and, since first assuming those duties in Canada, has not at any time engaged in a business in Canada or been employed in Canada other than by a person described in that paragraph, and

(iv) if the member of the family or servant was not during the period a Canadian citizen;

Related Provisions: 94.1(1)"exempt taxpayer"(a) — Exclusion from foreign investment entity accrual rules.

(c) municipal authorities [and First Nation bands] — a municipality in Canada, or a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada;

Para. 149(1)(d.4) added by 1998, c. 19, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(d.5) municipal corporations — subject to subsections (1.2) and (1.3), a corporation, commission or association not less than 90% of the capital of which was owned by one or more municipalities in Canada, if the income for the period of the corporation, commission or association from activities carried on outside the geographical boundaries of the municipalities does not exceed 10% of its income for the period;

Proposed Amendment — 149(1)(d.5)

(d.5) income within boundaries of entities — subject to subsections (1.2) and (1.3), a corporation, commission or association not less than 90% of the capital of which was owned by one or more entities each of which is a municipality in Canada, or a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, if the income for the period of the corporation, commission or association from activities carried on outside the geographical boundaries of the entities does not exceed 10% of its income for the period;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 148(1), will amend para. 149(1)(d.5) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 149(1)(d.5) exempts from tax, subject to an income test, the taxable income of any corporation, commission or association at least 90% of the capital of which is owned by one or more municipalities in Canada.

In accordance with the Tax Court of Canada decision in Otineka Development Corporation Limited and 72902 Manitoba Limited v. The Queen, 94 D.T.C. 1234, [1994] 1 C.T.C. 2424, an entity could be considered a municipality for the purpose of this paragraph on the basis of the functions it exercised. More recently, however, the decision in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec, [1997] 2 C.N.L.R. 187 (Que. Civil Chamber); aff'd 2001 D.T.C. 5144 (Que. C.A.), a decision under the Taxation Act (Quebec), held that an entity could not attain the status of a municipality by exercising municipal functions but only by statute, letters patent or order. From a tax policy perspective, it is desired that the entities previously entitled to the exemption on the basis of the Otineka decision continue to have access to the exemption. This amendment resolves the uncertainty resulting from the two conflicting cases. The exemption in paragraph 149(1)(d.5) is therefore extended to include any corporation, commission or association at least 90% of the capital of which was owned by one or more entities each of which is a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, which is consistent with the bodies described in paragraph 149(1)(c).

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 10, 2002:

[Letter sent to 13 provincial and territorial officials — ed.]

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing to inform you of my intention to recommend to the Minister of Finance that, as a result of the recent decision of the Quebec Court of Appeal in Tawich Development Corporation v. Deputy Minister of Revenue of Quebec ([2000] 3 C.N.L.R. 383), the federal Income Tax Act (ITA) be amended to provide that certain exemptions and deductions currently applicable in respect of municipalities also be applied in respect of municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada. Prior to discussing this matter with my Minister, though, I want to set out the relevant background information for you and solicit your views.

Under paragraph 149(1)(d.5) of the ITA, no tax is payable under Part I on the taxable income of a corporation, commission or association owned by a municipality. Until recently, Indian Act bands were often considered municipalities for income tax purposes on the basis of the functions they exercised and, on this basis, many corporations owned by Indian Act bands were exempted from Part I tax under paragraph 149(1)(d.5). However, as a result of the decision in Tawich, in which the court held that an entity can only attain the status of a municipality through constituting documents of a province, the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA) has advised us that it could no longer treat Indian Act bands as municipalities for income tax purposes. Therefore, without legislative changes, corporations owned by Indian Act bands would no longer be exempt from Part I tax under paragraph 149(1)(d.5).

In order to ensure the continued application of an exemption from Part I tax for Indian Act band corporations, I am prepared to recommend expanding the exemption under paragraph 149(1)(d.5) (and related provisions under section 149) to include corporations, commissions and associations owned by a municipal or public body performing a function of government. This will have the effect of ensuring that the taxable income of corporations owned by Indian Act bands continues to be exempt from Part I tax insofar as Indian bands are public bodies performing a function of government in Canada. The current geographic restriction found in paragraph 149(1)(d.5) will also apply to corporations, commissions and associations owned by a municipal or public body performing a function of government. Therefore, the exemption from Part I income tax will only be available to Indian Act band corporations, commissions and associations that earn substantially all of their taxable income on reserve.

In addition, under current subsections 110.1(1) and 118.1(1) of the ITA, corporations may deduct amounts from taxable income that constitute a charitable or ecological gift to, inter alia, a municipality. I am also prepared to recommend expanding the scope of these provisions to also allow deductions for charitable or ecological gifts to a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada. It is my understanding that this proposal is consistent with what is currently the administrative practice of the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency (CCRA).

My officials have informed me that these proposed amendments should have little, if any, impact on either federal or provincial revenues insofar as what is proposed is to legislate what has been a long-standing administrative practice. If you would like further information on this proposal, please contact Mr. Paul Rochon ((613) 996-9447), Director of Intergovernmental Tax Policy, Research and Evaluation Division or we can discuss this matter at the meeting of the Federal-Provincial Committee on Taxation on October 4, 2002.

Sincerely,

Stephen R. Richardson [Senior Assistant Deputy Minister]

Proposed Amendment — 149(1)(d.5)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, May 5, 2004:

Dear [xxx]:

I am responding to your letter to me of March 17, 2004 and discussions with Stephanie Smith concerning the tax-exempt status of an amalgamated corporation ("[xxx]"). Once amalgamated, [xxx] will be approximately 59% owned by Municipality A and 41% owned by Municipality B. However, while Municipality A will directly own 59% of [xxx] Municipality B will indirectly own 41% of [xxx] due to the interposition of a [xxx] which is wholly owned by Municipality B.

In general, paragraphs 149(1)(c) through (d.6) of the Act exempt from tax under Part I of the Act municipalities in Canada, Crown corporations and municipal corporations, as well as certain other corporations jointly or indirectly owned by the Crown or municipalities in Canada. With respect to corporations owned by municipalities, the following combinations are provided for in the Act:

- paragraph 149(1)(d.3) — a corporation not less than 90% of the shares of which are owned by one or more municipalities in Canada in combination with one or more persons each of which is Canada, a province, a corporation all of the shares of which are owned by Canada or a province, or a wholly-owned subsidiary of such a corporation;
- paragraph 149(1)(d.5) — subject to an income and control test, a corporation not less than 90% of the capital of which is owned by one or more municipalities in Canada;
- paragraph 149(1)(d.6) — subject to an income and control test, a corporation all of the shares of which are owned by one or more persons each of which is a corporation to which paragraph 149(1)(d.5) or (d.6) itself applies.

[xxx] will not satisfy the requirements of any of the above-noted provisions.

You have asked us to recommend an amendment to the Act such that a corporation all of the shares of which are held by a combination of municipalities and corporations described in paragraph 149(1)(d.5) of the Act, will also qualify as a tax exempt corporation.

We consider the requested amendment to be consistent with the underlying policy objective of the provision; consequently, we are prepared to recommend that the Income Tax Act be amended to provide that a corporation will be exempt from tax under Part I of the Act provided that all of the shares of the corporation are owned by one or more municipalities in Canada in combination with one or more persons each of which is a corporation to which paragraph 149(1)(d.5) or 149(1)(d.6) applies for the period. Furthermore, our recommendation would be that the amendment be effective after April 30, 2004.

While I cannot offer any assurance that our recommendation in this matter will be accepted, I hope our statement of intent in this letter will be helpful in responding to your concern.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislative Division, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 94.1(1)"exempt taxpayer"(a) — Exclusion from foreign investment entity accrual rules; 149(1.1) — No exemption where other person has a right to acquire shares; 149(1.2) — Meaning of "outside the geographical boundaries"; 149(1.3) — No exemption if 10% ownership or de facto control by non-government; 149(11) — Geographical boundaries of body performing function of government; 181.1(3)(c) — Exemption from Part I.3 tax; 212(1)(b)(ii)(C)(IV) — No withholding tax on bond interest paid to non-residents; 227(14) — Exemption from tax under other Parts; 227(16) — Corporation deemed not private corporation for Part IV tax; Reg. 1216 — Exemption from Part XII tax.

History: Para. 149(1)(d.5) added by 1998, c. 19, applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(d.6) subsidiaries of municipal corporations — subject to subsections (1.2) and (1.3), a particular corporation all of the shares (except directors' qualifying shares) or of the capital of which was owned by one or more persons each of which is a corporation, commission or association to which paragraph (d.5) or this paragraph applies for the period if the income for the period of the particular corporation from activities carried on outside

(i) if paragraph (d.5) applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the

municipalities referred to in that paragraph in its application to that other corporation, commission or association, or

(ii) if this paragraph applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the municipalities referred to in subparagraph (i) in its application to that other corporation, commission or association,

Proposed Amendment — 149(1)(d.6)(i), (ii)

(i) if paragraph (d.5) applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the entities referred to in that paragraph in its application to that other corporation, commission or association, or

(ii) if this paragraph applies to the other corporation, commission or association, the geographical boundaries of the entities referred to in subparagraph (i) in its application to that other corporation, commission or association;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 148(2), will amend subparas. 149(1)(d.6)(i) and (ii) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Paragraph 149(1)(d.6) exempts from tax, subject to an income test, a wholly-owned subsidiary of a corporation, commission or association referred to in paragraph 149(1)(d.5). As a consequence of the amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d.5), the geographical boundaries of the entities referred to in subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of paragraph 149(1)(d.6) are expanded to include references to all of the entities in the amended 149(1)(d.5).

(A) Her Majesty in right of Canada,

(B) Her Majesty in right of a province, or

(C) a municipality (as defined in section 1 of that Act) that is exempt because of this subsection from tax under this Part on all of its taxable income; or Technical Notes: New paragraph 149(1)(z.1)) exempts from tax under Part I a trust created because of a requirement imposed by section 56 of the Environment Quality Act (Quebec). That provision requires certain residual materials elimination facilities to provide financial guarantees by way of establishment of a social trust to cover certain costs after the closure of the facility. This exemption applies only where no persons are beneficially interested in the trust other than Her Majesty in right of Canada, Her Majesty in right of a province and municipalities that are exempt from taxation under subsection 149(1) of the ITA.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 17, 2003:

Mr. Luc Monty
Assistant Deputy Minister, Tax Policy Branch, Ministère des Finances du Québec

Dear Sir:

This letter follows up on a letter of March 19, 2003 from your colleague, M. Réal Tremblay, and on our discussions with certain municipalities in Quebec with respect to income tax considerations relating to trusts established under the Environment Quality Act (EQA) for the management of funds used to manage waste disposal sites post-closure.

Given the requirement to establish trusts under the EQA, I am prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance a measure that would ensure that the income of a trust established and maintained solely to meet the obligations of the EQA would be exempt from taxation under the federal Income Tax Act (ITA). This exemption would apply only where no persons are beneficially interested in the trust other than Her Majesty in right of Canada, Her Majesty in right of a province and municipalities that are exempt from taxation under subsection 149(1) of the ITA. I am also prepared to recommend to the Minister that this measure have effect from the date a trust is established under the EQA.

If the Minister accepts the recommendation for the legislative change described above, I would expect that this measure would be included in a future package of income tax technical amendments to be proposed to Parliament.

We also recognize that waste disposal sites subject to obligations imposed under the EQA could be owned by some combination of tax-exempt public entities and private sector entities. In such circumstances, the measure outlined above would not apply. We will, however, continue to consider circumstances involving other ownership structures. One approach that we are considering in this regard is a modified qualifying environmental trust (QET) approach in situations where a mix of public and private ownership exists. Assuming that trusts established under the EQA would normally meet the definition of a QET as outlined in the ITA, such an approach would seek to ensure that an entity that is beneficially interested in such a trust and that is exempt under subsection 149(1) of the ITA would not be subject to an economic cost as a result of the payment of tax under the QET rules. As part of the analysis of the modified QET approach, we will continue to examine and discuss with interested parties the type of detailed modifications that this approach would require to the existing QET rules.

I trust you will find this letter helpful. I also plan to send a copy of this letter to our colleagues on the Federal-Provincial Tax Committee.

Yours sincerely,

Stephen R. Richardson [Senior Assistant Deputy Minister]

Related Provisions: 211.6(1) — Exemption from Part XII.4 tax.

(z.2) [Nuclear Fuel Waste Act trust] — a trust

(i) that was created because of a requirement imposed by subsection 9(1) of the Nuclear Fuel Waste Act, S.C. 2002, c. 23,

(ii) that is resident in Canada, and

(iii) in which the only persons that are beneficially interested are

(A) Her Majesty in right of Canada,

(B) Her Majesty in right of a province,

(C) a nuclear energy corporation (as defined in section 2 of that Act) all of the shares of the capital stock of which are owned by one or more persons described in clause (A) or (B),

(D) the waste management organization established under section 6 of that Act if all of the shares of its capital stock are owned by one or more nuclear energy corporations described in clause (C), or

(E) Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, being the company incorporated or acquired pursuant to subsection 10(2) of the Atomic Energy Control Act, R.S.C. 1970, c. A-19.

Technical Notes: Similarly, new paragraph 149(1)(z.2) exempts from tax under Part I a trust created because of a requirement imposed by subsection 9(1) of the Nuclear Fuel Waste Act (NFWA). That provision requires specified entities to contribute moneys to a trust fund for the management of nuclear fuel waste. In this case, the exemption only applies where no persons are beneficially interested in the trust other than Her Majesty in right of Canada, Her Majesty in right of a province, a Crown-owned nuclear energy corporation that is exempt from taxation under subsection 149(1) of the ITA or the waste management organization that is required to be set up under the provisions of the NWFA (provided that all the shares of the waste management organization are owned by nuclear energy corporations).

These provisions ensure that the tax consequences to a municipality or Crown-owned nuclear energy corporation that is required by federal or provincial legislation to set up a trust to fund an environmental obligation are the same as if the municipality or the Crown-owned nuclear energy corporation accumulated the funds internally rather than in a trust.

Dear Sirs/Madam:

This letter follows up on our discussions, with provinces and nuclear utilities, on the income tax considerations relating to trusts established under the Nuclear Fuel Waste Act (NFWA) for nuclear waste management.

Our overall intent in this regard is to ensure that the legislative obligations under the NFWA do not cause an income tax result that would make a Crown-owned, tax-exempt nuclear energy corporation (NEC) worse off than prior to the implementation of the NFWA obligations. In recognition of the requirement to establish trust funds once the NFWA comes into force, I am prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance a measure that would ensure that the income of a trust established and maintained solely to meet the obligations of the NFWA would be exempt from taxation under the federal Income Tax Act (ITA). This exemption would apply only where no persons are beneficially interested in the trust other than Her Majesty in right of Canada, Her Majesty in right of a province or Crown-owned NECs that are exempt from taxation under subsection 149(1) of the ITA. I am also prepared to recommend to the Minister that this measure have effect from the date of the coming into force of the NFWA.

If the Minister accepts the recommendation for the legislative change described above, I would expect that this measure would be included in a future package of income tax technical amendments to be proposed to Parliament.

We also recognise that, while NECs are currently owned by Crown entities, a variety of ownership structures may exist in the future. That is, certain NECs in Canada may eventually be owned by a private sector entity or by some combination of public and private sector entities. As a result, it will also be important to ensure that a suitable taxation framework exists that is applicable under a variety of ownership structures. In this regard, we will explore changes to the existing qualifying environment trust (QET) rules in the ITA such that a trust required under the NFWA could be treated as a QET. In this circumstance, it would be important to ensure that an entity that is a beneficiary of such a trust and that is exempt under subsection 149(1) of the ITA would not be subject to an economic cost as a result of the payment of tax, under the QET rules, at the trust or beneficiary level.

As part of the analysis of the QET approach, we will continue to examine and discuss with interested parties the type of detailed modifications that this approach would require to the existing QET rules. This would include changes to the QET refundable tax credit provisions as they relate to beneficiaries that are exempt from taxation. We will also examine the treatment of any income tax obligations of the NFWA trust. In addition, we are interested in continuing discussions related to the investment restrictions applicable to a QET established under the NFWA.

I trust you will find this letter helpful in connection with your considerations relating to the establishment of trusts as required by NFWA.

Yours sincerely,

Stephen R. Richardson [Senior Assistant Deputy Minister]

Proposed Addition — HIV Trust exempt from Ontario tax

Ontario Ministry of Finance news release, May 7, 2007: McGuinty Government Provides Tax Relief for HIV Trust: Ontario Personal Income Tax Remission Will Return About $1 Million

Finance Minister Greg Sorbara announced today that Ontario is remitting to the Canadian Red Cross Society (CRCS) HIV Trust Fund about $1 million in provincial personal income taxes paid by the trust since 2001.

"We recognize that beneficiaries of the trust have endured hardship due to circumstances beyond their control and that taxing this trust does nothing to ease their suffering," Sorbara said. "Within these circumstances, we think this is the fair and right thing to do."

The HIV Trust Fund, which contains about $14 million, was established after the CRCS bankruptcy in 1998. Allotments were set aside for victims who could establish a link between their illness and the blood supply system.

Last summer, Minister Sorbara wrote to Federal Finance Minister Jim Flaherty and asked that the federal government exempt the trust of income tax liabilities. By doing so, Ontario would have paralleled the federal measure.

To date, the federal government has yet to act. The province decided not to wait and has acted on its own.

"Granting this remission will mean more relief for those victims," Sorbara said. "Also, it provides certainty to the beneficiaries of the Trust that future income received by the trust will not be taxed by the province."

The remission will remain in effect until the funds in the trust have been distributed to the intended beneficiaries.

(b) paragraph (1)(d.2), (d.3) or (d.4) would, but for this subsection, have applied in respect of the person's taxable income for the person's first taxation year that began after 1998;

(c) there has been no change in the direct or indirect control of the person during the period that

(i) began at the beginning of the person's first taxation year that began after 1998, and

(ii) ends at the end of the particular year;

(d) the person elects in writing before 2002 that this subsection apply; and

(e) the person has not notified the Minister in writing before the particular year that the election has been revoked.

Proposed Amendment — Application of 149(1.11) on amalgamation

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 6, 2004:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter of October 4, 2004 to Mr. Denis Normand of the Business Income Tax Division and further to subsequent discussions with Stephanie Smith of the Tax Legislation Division concerning the election in subsection 149(1.11) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). You have asked us to amend the Act such that a new corporate entity formed as a result of an amalgamation, particularly in the case of a vertical amalgamation, is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, a predecessor parent corporation with respect to any election made by that predecessor parent corporation pursuant to subsection 149(1.11) of the Act.

Subsection 149(1.11) was added to the Act following an amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d) and the addition of paragraphs 149(1)(d.2) to (d.4). Those amendments caused some entities that were previously taxable to become exempt. The result was appropriate from a tax policy standpoint, however, it may not have been beneficial for a limited number of entities since it would trigger the application of subsection 149(10). As result, subsection 149(1.11) was added to allow an entity, that became exempt because of any of paragraphs 149(1)(d.2) to (d.4), to elect in writing to retain its taxable status. Two conditions apply for the entity to retain its taxable status: (i) the election had to be made before 2002 and (ii) there can be no change in the direct or indirect control of the entity.

You have brought to our attention the situation of [xxx]. [xxx] holds a [xxx] provincial insurers' licence and is licensed to conduct business in [xxx]. [xxx] was affected by the addition of paragraphs 149(1)(d.2) to (d.4). [xxx] wanted to remain a taxable entity in order to obtain insurance licences in other provinces and therefore made an election in accordance with subsection 149(1.11). We assume that there has been no change in the direct or indirect control of [xxx] since the election was made. [xxx] wholly owns [xxx] which holds an [xxx] provincial insurers' licence. [xxx] is a taxable entity.

[xxx] would like to amalgamate with [xxx] pursuant to subsection 87(1) of the Act, to improve the capitalization of [xxx] for regulatory purposes, to reduce administrative costs and to utilize losses carried forward in the corporate group. Although a windup would achieve the same objectives, and allow the election made by [xxx] under subsection 149(1.11) to remain intact, it is not feasible from a commercial standpoint because of the volume of contracts, licences, leases and other agreements that would have to be assigned.

In general, the Act treats an amalgamated corporation as a new corporation for tax purposes. There are some exceptions to this rule where, for specific purposes, the amalgamated corporation is deemed to be the same corporation as, and a continuation of, each predecessor corporation. Section 149 is not one of the exceptions.

[xxx] is of the view that the amalgamated company needs to remain a taxable entity. [xxx] is currently selling insurance in [xxx] and [xxx] and is looking to expand into other provinces. I understand that [xxx] believes that being a tax-exempt entity would likely impair the current operations, and also hamper future expansion. Tax-exempt status may be considered by provincial regulators to be an unfair advantage over existing insurers currently operating in those jurisdictions.

As I trust you can appreciate, an important concern in respect of the application of section 149 is the maintenance of competitive equity in the commercial marketplace. We have carefully considered your situation and have concluded that, by allowing amalgamated [xxx] and [xxx] to remain taxable, our concern for competitive equity does not arise. As such we prepared to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Act be amended to provide that where one corporation (the "Parent") vertically amalgamates with a wholly-owned subsidiary under section 87 of the Act, any election made by the Parent under subsection 149(1.11) is deemed to have been made by the amalgamated corporation.

While we cannot offer any assurance that our recommendation in this matter will be accepted, we hope our statement of intent in this letter will be helpful in responding to your concern.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 16, 2005:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter of December 22, 2004 to Ms. Stephanie Smith of this Division. In that letter you refer to my letter to you dated December 6, 2004 regarding our intention to recommend to the Minister of Finance that the Income Tax Act (the "Act") be amended to provide that where one corporation (the "Parent") vertically amalgamates with a wholly-owned subsidiary under section 87 of the Act, any election made by the Parent under subsection 149(1.11) is deemed to have been made by the amalgamated corporation. You have asked for clarification in two respects: (i) the definition of "wholly-owned subsidiary" and (ii) the effective date for the proposed amendment.

The Act contains two definitions of the term "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation". You have requested that the proposed amendment (discussed above) refer to the definition contained in subsection 248(1) of the Act and not the more restrictive definition contained in subsection 87(1.4) of the Act. We understand that if the more restrictive definition in subsection 87(1.4) was used, [xxx] would not benefit from the amendment as [xxx] has issued directors' qualifying shares to meet a regulatory requirement in Ontario. It is our understanding that other than the directors' qualifying shares [xxx] wholly owns [xxx]. Given the additional information that you have provided we will recommend that the amendment either refer to the definition of "subsidiary wholly-owned corporation" in subsection 248(1) or otherwise accommodate the situation where directors' qualifying shares have been issued.

We will further recommend that the amendment have application to amalgamations that occur after October 4, 2004, the date of your first letter to us on this matter. While we cannot offer any assurance that our recommendations in this matter will be accepted, we hope our statement of intent in this letter will be helpful in responding to your concern.

Yours sincerely,

Brian Ernewein, Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

History: Subsec. 149(1.11) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 145(6), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998 except that an election referred to in the subsec., as amended, filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before December 31, 2001 (six months after the end of the month of Royal Assent), is deemed to have been filed in accordance with the subsection.

(1.2) Income test [for municipal corporation] — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(d.5) and (d.6), income of a corporation, a commission or an association from activities carried on outside the geographical boundaries of a municipality or of a municipal or public body does not include income from activities carried on

(a) under an agreement in writing between

(i) the corporation, commission or association, and

(ii) a person who is Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, a municipal or public body or a corporation to which any of paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) applies and that is controlled by Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, by a municipality in Canada or by a municipal or public body in Canada within the geographical boundaries of,

(iii) if the person is Her Majesty in right of Canada or a corporation controlled by Her Majesty in right of Canada, Canada,

(iv) if the person is Her Majesty in right of a province or a corporation controlled by Her Majesty in right of a province, the province,

(v) if the person is a municipality in Canada or a corporation controlled by a municipality in Canada, the municipality, and

(vi) if the person is a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada or a corporation controlled by such a body, the area described in subsection (11) in respect of the person; or

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 148(4), will amend the portion of subsec. 149(1.2) before para. (b) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(1.2) excludes, for the purposes of paragraphs 149(1)(d.5) and (d.6), certain income from the determination of where an entity to which either of those paragraphs applies derives its income. As a consequence of the amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d.5), a written agreement in subsection 149(1.2) is expanded to include reference to a municipal or public body.

In addition, subparagraph 149(1.2)(a)(vi) is added to clarify that the geographical boundary of a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada is defined to be the area described in new subsection (11).

(b) in a province as

(i) a producer of electrical energy or natural gas, or

(ii) a distributor of electrical energy, heat, natural gas or water, where the activities are regulated under the laws of the province.

Related Provisions: 149(1.3) — Determination of capital ownership; 149(11) — Geographical boundaries of body performing function of government; 256(6), (6.1) — Meaning of "controlled".

History: Subsec. 149(1.2) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 145(7), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998. The subsec. formerly read:

(1.2) For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(d.5) and (d.6), income of a corporation, commission or association from activities carried on outside the geographical boundaries of a municipality does not include income from activities carried on under an agreement in writing between

(a) the corporation, commission or association, and

(b) a person who is Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province or a municipality or corporation to which any of paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) applies and that is controlled by Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province or by a municipality in Canada

within the geographical boundaries of,

(c) where the person is Her Majesty in right of Canada or a corporation controlled by Her Majesty in right of Canada, Canada,

(d) where the person is Her Majesty in right of a province or a corporation controlled by Her Majesty in right of a province, the province, and

(e) where the person is a municipality in Canada or a corporation controlled by a municipality in Canada, the municipality.

Subsec. 149(1.2) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 178(4), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(1.3) Capital ownership [by municipality] — For the purposes of paragraph (1)(d.5) and subsection (1.2), 90% of the capital of a corporation that has issued share capital is owned by one or more municipalities only when the municipalities own shares of the capital stock of the corporation that give the municipalities 90% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation.

Proposed Amendment — 149(1.3)

(1.3) Votes or de facto control [by municipality or government] — Paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) do not apply in respect of a person's taxable income for a period in a taxation year if at any time during the period

(a) the person is a corporation shares of the capital stock of which are owned by one or more other persons that, in total, give them more than 10% of the votes that could be cast at a meeting of shareholders of the corporation, other than shares that are owned by one or more persons each of which is

(i) Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,

(ii) a municipality in Canada,

(iii) a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or

(iv) a corporation, a commission or an association, to which any of paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) apply; or

(b) the person is, or would be if the person were a corporation, controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by a person, or by a group of persons that includes a person, who is not

(i) Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,

(ii) a municipality in Canada,

(iii) a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or

(iv) a corporation, a commission or an association, to which any of paragraphs (1)(d) to (d.6) apply.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 148(5), will amend subsec. 149(1.3) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000 except that for those taxation years that began before December 21, 2002, it is to be read as follows:

(1.3) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(d.5) and subsection (1.2), 90% of the capital of a corporation that has issued share capital is owned by one or more entities, each of which is a municipality or a municipal or public body, only if the entities own shares of the capital stock of the corporation that give the entities 90% or more of the votes that could be cast under all circumstances at an annual meeting of shareholders of the corporation.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(1.3) provides that, for the purposes of applying paragraph 149(1)(d.5) and subsection 149(1.2) to a corporation, 90% of the capital of the corporation is considered to be owned by one or more municipalities only if the municipalities are entitled to at least 90% of the votes associated with the shares of the corporation.

As a consequence of the amendment to paragraph 149(1)(d.5), subsection 149(1.3) is amended applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000, to include reference to municipal or public bodies performing a function of government in Canada.

In addition, subsection 149(1.3) is replaced, applicable to taxation years that begin after December 20, 2002, to provide that paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) do not apply to exempt a person's taxable income for a period in a taxation year in two cases.

First, under new paragraph 149(1.3)(a), a corporation is not exempt from tax on its taxable income for a period in a taxation year if at any time during the period the corporation has issued shares that are owned by one or more persons (other than certain tax-exempts) that, in total, give them more than 10% of the votes that could be cast at a meeting of shareholders. For this purpose, it is necessary to determine whether more than 10% of the votes could be cast at a meeting of the shareholders by a person or persons other than:

- Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,
- a municipality in Canada,
- a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or
- a commission, an association or a corporation, to which any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) apply.

Second, under new paragraph 149(1.3)(b), a person is not exempt because of any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) from tax on taxable income for a period in a taxation year if at any time in the period the person is, or would be if the person were a corporation, controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by a person (or by a group of persons that includes a person) other than:

- Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province,
- a municipality in Canada,
- a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada, or
- a commission, an association or a corporation, to which any of paragraphs 149(1)(d) to (d.6) apply.

For further details about the expression "controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever", reference should be made to subsections 256(5.1) and (6). In general, the expression refers to a controller, who has any direct or indirect influence that, if exercised, would result in control in fact of the person.

Related Provisions: 256(5.1), (6) — Meaning of "controlled, directly or indirectly".

History: Subsec. 149(1.3) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 178(4), applicable to taxation years and fiscal periods that begin after 1998.

(2) Determination of income — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(e), (i), (j) and (l), in computing the part, if any, of any income that was payable to or otherwise available for the personal benefit of any person or the total of any amounts that is not less than a percentage specified in any of those paragraphs of any income for a period, the amount of such income shall be deemed to be the amount thereof determined on the assumption that the amount of any taxable capital gain or allowable capital loss is nil.

History: Subsec. 149(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 88(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Income not to include taxable capital gains — For the purposes of paragraphs (1)(e), (i), (j) and (l), in computing the part, if any, of any income that was payable to or otherwise available for the personal benefit of any person or the total of any amounts that is not less than a percentage specified in any of those paragraphs of any income for a period, the amount of that income shall be deemed to be the amount thereof otherwise determined less the amount of any taxable capital gains included therein.

(3) Application of subsec. (1) — Subsection (1) does not apply in respect of the taxable income of a benevolent or fraternal society or order from carrying on a life insurance business or, for greater certainty, from the sale of property used by it in the year in, or held by it in the year in the course of, carrying on a life insurance business.

(4) Idem — For the purposes of subsection (3), the taxable income of a benevolent or fraternal benefit society or order from carrying on a life insurance business shall be computed on the assumption that it had no income or loss from any other sources.

(4.1) Income exempt under 149(1)(t) — Subject to subsection (4.2), subsection (1) applies to an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) only in respect of the part of its taxable income for a taxation year determined by the formula

$$\frac{(A \times B \times C)}{D}$$

where

A is its taxable income for the year;

B is

(a) ½, where less than 25% of the total of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by it and, where it is not a prescribed insurer for the purpose of paragraph (1)(t), by all other insurers that

(i) are specified shareholders of the insurer,

(ii) are related to the insurer, or

(iii) where the insurer is a mutual corporation, are part of a group that controls, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, or are controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever by, the insurer, is in respect of insurance of property used in farming or fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen; and

(b) 1 in any other case;

C is the part of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned by it in the year that, in the opinion of the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or of the superintendent of insurance of the province under the laws of which it is incorporated, is in respect of insurance of property used in farming or fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen; and

D is the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned by it in the year.

Related Provisions: 149(4.2) — Application of subsection (1): computation of taxable income of insurer; 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly.

History: Subsec. 149(4.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 47(2), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (4.1) formerly read:

(4.1) Idem — Subject to subsection (4.2), subsection (1) applies in respect of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) only in respect of that proportion of the insurer's taxable income for a taxation year that

(a) the part of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by the insurer that, in the opinion of the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or of the superintendent of insurance of the province under the laws of which the insurer is incorporated, was in respect of insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen

is of

(b) the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by the insurer.

Subsec. 149(4.1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 122(2), applicable to 1989 et seq. Subsec. (4.1) formerly read:

(4.1) Subject to subsection (4.2), subsection (1) shall apply in respect of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) only in respect of that proportion of the insurer's taxable income for a taxation year that

(a) the insurer's gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) for the year that in the opinion of the Minister, on the advice of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions or of the superintendent of insurance of the province under the laws of which the insurer is incorporated, was in respect of the insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen

(b) its gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) for the year and, in computing the taxable income of the insurer for the taxation year, the insurer shall be deemed to have claimed or deducted in each of the taxation years preceding the year the greater of such amount as it claimed or deducted or such amount as it may have been entitled to claim or deduct under paragraphs 20(1)(a), 20(7)(c) and 138(3)(a) and section 140 to the extent that that amount does not exceed its taxable income otherwise determined for the preceding taxation year.

(4.2) Idem — Subsection (4.1) does not apply to an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) in respect of the taxable income of the insurer for a taxation year where more than 90% of the total of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) earned in the year by the insurer and, where the insurer is not a prescribed insurer, all other insurers that

(a) are specified shareholders of the insurer,

(b) are related to the insurer, or

(c) where the insurer is a mutual corporation, are part of a group that controls, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, or are controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by the insurer, is in respect of insurance of property used in farming or fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen.

Related Provisions: 256(5.1), (6.2) — Controlled directly or indirectly.

History: The closing words of subsec. 149(4.2) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 47(3), applicable to 1996 et seq. The closing words formerly read:

is in respect of insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen.

Subsec. 149(4.2) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 122(2), applicable to 1989 et seq. Subsec. (4.2) formerly read:

(4.2) Subsection (4.1) shall not apply in respect of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) in respect of the taxable income of the insurer for a taxation year where more than 90% of the gross premium income (net of reinsurance ceded) of the insurer and all other insurers that were specified shareholders of the insurer or were related to the insurer or, where the insurer is a mutual corporation, all other insurers that were part of a group that controlled or were controlled by the insurer for the year was in respect of the insurance of farm property, property used in fishing or residences of farmers or fishermen.

(4.3) Computation of taxable income of insurer — For the purposes of this Part, in computing the taxable income of an insurer for a particular taxation year, the insurer shall be deemed to have deducted under paragraphs 20(1)(a), 20(7)(c) and 138(3)(a) and section 140 in each taxation year preceding the particular year and in respect of which paragraph (1)(t) applied to the insurer, the greater of

(a) the amount it claimed or deducted under those provisions for that preceding year, and

(b) the greatest amount that could have been claimed or deducted under those provisions to the extent that the total thereof does not exceed the amount that would be its taxable income for that preceding year if no amount had been claimed or deducted under those provisions.

History: Subsec. 149(4.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 122(2), applicable to 1989 et seq., except that in its application to the 1989 and 1990 taxation years the subsec. shall be read as follows:

(4.3) In computing the taxable income of an insurer described in paragraph (1)(t) for a taxation year in respect of which subsection (1) applies to the insurer, the insurer shall be deemed to have claimed or deducted in each of its taxation years preceding the year the greater of such amount as it claimed or deducted and such amount as it was entitled to claim or deduct under paragraphs 20(1)(a), 20(7)(c) and 138(3)(a) and section 140 to the extent that that amount does not exceed its taxable income otherwise determined for the preceding taxation year.

(5) Exception re investment income of certain clubs — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), where a club, society or association was for any period, a club, society or association described in paragraph (1)(l) the main purpose of which was to provide dining, recreational or sporting facilities for its members (in this subsection referred to as the "club"), an inter vivos trust shall be deemed to have been created on the later of the commencement of the period and the end of 1971 and to have continued in existence throughout the period, and, throughout that period, the following rules apply:

(a) the property of the club shall be deemed to be the property of the trust;

(b) where the club is a corporation, the corporation shall be deemed to be the trustee having control of the trust property;

(c) where the club is not a corporation, the officers of the club shall be deemed to be the trustees having control of the trust property;

(d) tax under this Part is payable by the trust on its taxable income for each taxation year;

(e) the income and taxable income of the trust for each taxation year shall be computed on the assumption that it had no incomes or losses other than

(i) incomes and losses from property, and

(ii) taxable capital gains and allowable capital losses from dispositions of property, other than property used exclusively for and directly in the course of providing the dining, recreational or sporting facilities provided by it for its members;

(f) in computing the taxable income of the trust for each taxation year

(i) there may be deducted, in addition to any other deductions permitted by this Part, $2,000, and

(ii) no deduction shall be made under section 112 or 113; and

(g) the provisions of subdivision k of Division B (except subsections 104(1) and (2)) do not apply in respect of the trust.

(7) [Prescribed form for R&D corporation —] Time for filing — A corporation the taxable income of which for a taxation year is exempt from tax under this Part because of paragraph (1)(j) shall file with the Minister a prescribed form containing prescribed information on or before its filing-due date for the year.

Related Provisions: 149(7.1) — Penalty for late filing.

History: Subsec. 149(7) added by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 37(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995, except that a form referred to in subsec. 149(7) that is filed with the Minister of National Revenue on or before September 18, 1996 is deemed to have been filed on a timely basis.

(7.1) Penalty for failure to file on time — Where a corporation fails to file the prescribed form as required by subsection (7) for a taxation year, it is liable to a penalty equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A \times B$$

where

A is the greater of

(a) $500, and

(b) 2% of its taxable income for the year; and

B is the lesser of

(a) 12, and

(b) the number of months in whole or in part that are in the period that begins on the day on or before which the prescribed form is required to be filed and ends on the day it is filed.

History: Subsec. 149(7.1) added by 1996, c 21, subsec. 37(4), applicable to taxation years that end after February 27, 1995.

(8) Interpretation of para. (1)(j) — For the purpose of paragraph (1)(j),

(a) a corporation is controlled by another corporation if more than 50% of its issued share capital (having full voting rights under all circumstances) belongs to

(i) the other corporation, or

(ii) the other corporation and persons with whom the other corporation does not deal at arm's length, but a corporation shall be deemed not to have acquired control of a corporation if it has not purchased (or otherwise acquired for a consideration) any of the shares in the capital stock of that corporation; and

(b) there shall be included in computing a corporation's income and in determining its gross revenue the amount of all gifts received by the corporation and all amounts contributed to the corporation to be used for scientific research and experimental development.

Related Provisions: 212(14)(c)(i) — Certificate of exemption; 256(6), (6.1) — Extended meaning of "control".

History: Para. 149(8)(b) amended by 1996, c 21, subsec. 37(5), applicable to taxation years that begin after June 1995. Para. (b) formerly read:

(b) there shall be included in computing a corporation's income all gifts received by the corporation and all amounts contributed to the corporation to be used for scientific research and experimental development.

(9) Rules for determining gross revenue — In determining the gross revenue of a corporation for the purpose of determining whether it is described by paragraph (1)(j) for a taxation year,

(a) there may be deducted an amount not exceeding its gross revenue for the year computed without including or deducting any amount under this subsection; and

(b) there shall be included any amount that has been deducted under this subsection for the preceding taxation year.

Related Provisions: 212(14)(c)(i) — Certificate of exemption; 248(1) — Definition of "gross revenue".

History: Subsec. 149(9) amended by 1996, c 21, subsec. 37(6), applicable to taxation years that begin after June 1995. Subsec. (9) formerly read:

(9) Rules — In computing the income of a corporation for the purpose of determining whether it is described by paragraph (1)(j) for a taxation year,

(a) there may be deducted an amount not exceeding its income for the year computed without including or deducting any amount under this subsection; and

(b) there shall be included any amount that has been deducted under this subsection for the immediately preceding taxation year.

(10) Exempt corporations [becoming or ceasing to be exempt] — Where, at any time (in this subsection referred to as "that time"), a corporation becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income otherwise than by reason of paragraph (1)(t), the following rules apply:

(a) the taxation year of the corporation that would otherwise have included that time is deemed to have ended immediately before that time, a new taxation year of the corporation is deemed to have begun at that time and, for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's fiscal period after that time, the taxpayer is deemed not to have established a fiscal period before that time;

(a.1) for the purpose of computing the corporation's income for its first taxation year ending after that time, the corporation shall be deemed to have deducted under sections 20, 138 and 140 in computing its income for its taxation year ending immediately before that time, the greatest amount that could have been claimed or deducted for that year as a reserve under those sections;

(b) the corporation is deemed to have disposed, at the time (in this subsection referred to as the "disposition time") that is immediately before the time that is immediately before that time, of each property that was owned by it immediately before that time for an amount equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired the property at that time at a cost equal to that fair market value;

(c) for the purposes of applying sections 37, 65 to 66.4, 66.7, 111 and 126, subsections 127(5) to (26) and section 127.3 to the corporation, the corporation is deemed to be a new corporation the first taxation year of which began at that time; and

(c) for the purposes of applying sections 37, 65 to 66.4, 66.7, 94.1 to 94.4, 111 and 126, subsections 127(5) to (35) and section 127.3 to the corporation, the corporation is deemed to be a new corporation the first taxation year of which began at that time; and

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 33, will amend para. 149(10)(c) to read as above, applicable to each corporation that, after 2006 (or, if ss. 94.1 to 94.4 apply to a taxation year of the corporation that begins before 2007, on or after the first day of the first such taxation year), becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax on its taxable income under Part I of the Act.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(10) applies where, at a particular time, a corporation becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax under Part I on its taxable income (otherwise than by reason of the exemption for certain insurers in paragraph 149(1)(t)). A new taxation year is considered to start at the particular time and the corporation's properties are deemed to have been disposed of at fair market value and reacquired at the particular time for the same amount.

Paragraph 149(10)(c) provides that the corporation is, for specified purposes in the Act, treated as a new corporation. One of the specified purposes is with regard to the investment tax credit regime set out in subsections 127(5) to (26).

Paragraph 149(10)(c) is amended so that it is also relevant in applying

- additional rules for the investment tax credit that are set out in subsections 127(27) to (35) (this amendment is consequential on the earlier enactment of those subsections), and
- sections 94.1 to 94.4. (For example, a corporation's "deferral amount" (as defined in subsection 94.2(1)) in respect of any interest it holds in a foreign investment entity is determined without reference to taxation years that occurred before the corporation's change of status. This will typically result in a nil deferral amount for the corporation.)

(d) where, immediately before the disposition time, the corporation's cumulative eligible capital in respect of a business exceeds the total of

(i) ¾ of the fair market value of the eligible capital property in respect of the business, and

(ii) the amount otherwise deducted under paragraph 20(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income from the business for the taxation year that ended immediately before that time, the excess shall be deducted under paragraph 20(1)(b) in computing the corporation's income from the business for the taxation year that ended immediately before that time.

Related Provisions: 16(2), (3) — Obligation issued at discount; 54"superficial loss"(c), (g) — Superficial loss rule does not apply; 87(2.1)(b) — Losses of predecessor corporation; 89(1.2) — Capital dividend account of corporation ceasing to be tax-exempt; 100 — Disposition of an interest in a partnership; 124(3) — Crown agents; 149(6) — Apportionment rule; 212(14) — Certificate of exemption; 216(1) — Alternative re rents and timber royalties; 219(2) — Exempt corporations; 227(14) — Application of Parts III, IV and VI to certain public corporations.

History: Paras. 149(10)(a), (b) to (d) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 178(5), (6), applicable to a corporation that becomes or ceases to be exempt from tax on its taxable income under Part I of the Act after April 26, 1995. Those paras. formerly read:

(a) the taxation year of the corporation that would otherwise have included that time shall be deemed to have ended immediately before that time and a new taxation year of the corporation shall be deemed to have commenced at that time;

. . . . .

(b) the corporation shall be deemed to have disposed, immediately before the time that is immediately before that time, of each property (other than, where, at that time, the corporation ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part on its taxable income, a Canadian resource property or a foreign resource property) that was owned by it immediately before that time for an amount equal to its fair market value at that time and to have reacquired the property at that time at a cost equal to that fair market value;

(c) where paragraph (b) applies in respect of depreciable property of the corporation and the capital cost thereof to the corporation immediately before the disposition exceeds the fair market value thereof at that time, for the purposes of sections 13 and 20 and any regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a),

(i) the capital cost of the property to the corporation at that time shall be deemed to be the amount that was its capital cost thereof immediately before the disposition, and

(ii) the excess shall be deemed to have been allowed to the corporation in respect of the property under regulations made under paragraph 20(1)(a) in computing its income for taxation years ending before that time; and

(d) notwithstanding section 111, no amount is deductible in computing the corporation's taxable income for a taxation year ending after that time in respect of a non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year ending before that time to the extent that the loss could have been applied to reduce the corporation's taxable income for taxation years ending before that time.

(11) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 149(11) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 178(7), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 149(11) formerly read:

(11) Exception — Subsection (10) does not apply to a corporation that ceases to be exempt from tax under this Part after November 12, 1981 by reason of control of the corporation being acquired by a person or persons pursuant to an agreement in writing entered into on or before that date.

Proposed Addition — 149(11)

(11) Geographical boundaries — body performing government functions — For the purpose of this section, the geographical boundaries of a municipal or public body performing a function of government are

(a) the geographical boundaries that encompass the area in respect of which an Act of Parliament or an agreement given effect by an Act of Parliament recognizes or grants to the body a power to impose taxes; or

(b) if paragraph (a) does not apply, the geographical boundaries within which that body has been authorized by the laws of Canada or of a province to exercise that function.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 148(6), will add subsec. 149(11), applicable to taxation years that begin after May 8, 2000.

Notwithstanding subsec. 152(4) to (5), any assessment of a taxpayer's tax payable under the Act for any taxation year that began before February 27, 2004 shall be made that is necessary to give effect to the amendment.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149(11) is added to define, for the purposes of section 149, the geographical boundaries of a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada. Those boundaries are defined as encompassing the area in respect of which an Act of Parliament or an agreement given effect by an Act of Parliament recognizes or grants to the body a power to impose taxes; or if there has been no such recognition or grant, the area within which the body has been authorized by the laws of Canada or of a province to exercise that function.

For example, if a particular self-governing First Nation meets the definition of "a public body performing a function of government in Canada," it is intended that the relevant geographic boundary would delineate the area where the self-government agreement, or the statute enacting self-government powers, provides the First Nation authority to impose direct taxes. As a second example, if a particular Indian Band meets the definition of "a public body performing a function of government in Canada," it is intended that the geographic boundary of the Indian Band be the band's reserves as defined in the Indian Act. Similarly, if a particular school board meets the definition of "a municipal or public body performing a function of government in Canada" it is intended that the geographic boundary of the school board be the area of jurisdiction of the board as defined by provincial legislation or regulation.

(12) Information returns — Every person who, because of paragraph (1)(e) or (l), is exempt from tax under this Part on all or part of the person's taxable income shall, within 6 months after the end of each fiscal period of the person and without notice or demand therefor, file with the Minister an information return for the period in prescribed form and containing prescribed information, if

(a) the total of all amounts each of which is a taxable dividend or an amount received or receivable by the person as, on account of, in lieu of or in satisfaction of, interest, rentals or royalties in the period exceeds $10,000;

(b) at the end of the person's preceding fiscal period the total assets of the person (determined in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles) exceeded $200,000; or

(c) an information return was required to be filed under this subsection by the person for a preceding fiscal period.

Related Provisions: 149.1(14) — Charity information return; 162(7)(a) — Penalty for failure to file; 233 — Demand for information return.

History: Subsec. 149(12) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 88(4), applicable to fiscal periods ending after 1992.

149.1 (1) Definitions — In this section and section 149.2,

Related Provisions: 172(6), 187.7 — Application of subsec. 149.1(1).

History: The opening words of subsec. 149.1(1) amended to add "and section 149.2" by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 46(1), applicable after March 18, 2007.

"capital gains pool", of a registered charity for a taxation year, means the amount by which

(a) the total of all amounts, each of which is the amount of a capital gain of the charity from the disposition of an enduring property after March 22, 2004 and before the end of the taxation year (other than a capital gain from a disposition of a bequest or an inheritance received by the charity in a taxation year that included any time before 1994) that is declared by the charity in an information return under subsection (14) for the taxation year during which the disposition occurred,

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts, each of which is the amount, determined for a preceding taxation year of the charity that began after March 22, 2004, that is the lesser of the amount determined under paragraph (a) of the description of A.1 in the definition "disbursement quota" and the amount claimed by the charity under paragraph (b) of that description;

Related Provisions: 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"A.1(b)(ii) — Capital gains pool reduces disbursement quota.

History: The definition "capital gains pool" in subsec. 149.1(1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 35(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

"charitable organization" means an organization, whether or not incorporated,

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1)"charitable organization" opening words

"charitable organization", at any particular time, means an organization, whether or not incorporated,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(2), will amend the opening words of the definition "charitable organization" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable after 1999.

Technical Notes: See under 149.1(1)"charitable organization"(c), (d) below.

(a) all the resources of which are devoted to charitable activities carried on by the organization itself,

(b) no part of the income of which is payable to, or is otherwise available for, the personal benefit of any proprietor, member, shareholder, trustee or settlor thereof,

(c) more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or like officials of which deal with each other and with each of the other directors, trustees, officers or officials at arm's length, and

(d) where it has been designated as a private foundation or public foundation pursuant to subsection (6.3) of this section or subsection 110(8.1) or (8.2) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, or has applied after February 15, 1984 for registration under paragraph 110(8)(c) of that Act or under the definition "registered charity" in subsection 248(1), not more than 50% of the capital of which has been contributed or otherwise paid into the organization by one person or members of a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length and, for the purpose of this paragraph, a reference to any person or to members of a group does not include a reference to Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, or any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l);

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1)"charitable organization"(c), (d)

(c) more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or like officials of which deal at arm's length with each other and with

(i) each of the other directors, trustees, officers and like officials of the organization,

(ii) each person described by subparagraph (d)(i) or (ii), and

(iii) each member of a group of persons (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)) who do not deal with each other at arm's length, if the group would, if it were a person, be a person described by subparagraph (d)(i), and

(d) that is not, at the particular time, and would not at the particular time be, if the organization were a corporation, controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever

(i) by a person (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)),

(A) who immediately after the particular time, has contributed to the organization amounts that are, in total, greater than 50% of the capital of the organization immediately after the particular time, and

(B) who immediately after the person's last contribution at or before the particular time, had contributed to the organization amounts that were, in total, greater than 50% of the capital of the organization immediately after the making of that last contribution, or

(ii) by a person, or by a group of persons that do not deal at arm's length with each other, if the person or any member of the group does not deal at arm's length with a person described in subparagraph (i);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(3), will amend paras. (c) and (d) of the definition "charitable organization" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable after 1999 except that, in respect of a charitable organization that was not designated before 2000 as a private foundation or a public foundation under subsec. 149.1(6.3) or under subsec. 110(8.1) or (8.2), as enacted by R.S.C. 1952, c. 148 [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8.1), (8.2) on TaxPartner or taxnet.pro], and that has not applied after February 15, 1984 for registration under para. 110(8)(c) of that Act [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8)] or under 248(1)"registered charity", sub-paras. (c)(ii) and (iii) of the definition "charitable organization", as amended, are applicable after the earlier of the day, if any, on which the organization is designated after 1999 as a private foundation or a public foundation under subsec. 149.1(6.3), and December 31, 2004.

Technical Notes: The definition "charitable organization" provides that more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or similar officials of a charitable organization must deal with each other and with each of the other directors, trustees, officers or similar officials at arm's length.

For a charity that has applied for registration after February 15, 1984 and which has been designated as a private or public foundation, the definition "charitable organization" also requires that not more than 50% of the charity's capital be contributed by a person or group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length. This definition is amended to replace the "contribution" test with a "control" test. As a result, a charity will not be disqualified from being treated as a charitable organization solely because a person, or a group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length, has contributed more than 50% of the charity's capital. However, such a person or group is not permitted to control the charity in any way, nor may the person or the members of the group represent more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers and similar officials of the charity.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Sept. 11, 2001:

Dear [xxx]:

I am responding to your recent inquiry concerning the capital restriction in the definition of charitable organization of not more than 50% of the capital contributed to the organization by one person or a group of persons not dealing at arm's length.

This matter has been brought to our attention recently in the context that it could have unintentional implications prohibiting large one-time donations.

From a tax policy perspective, we agree that the income tax provisions should not have the effect of prohibiting or limiting charitable giving. Under the current definition of "charitable organization", the capital restriction of not more than 50% could unintentionally have that effect.

Consequently, and in light of the other restrictions in the income tax provisions including disbursements requirements, we are recommending to the Minister of Finance that the definition "charitable organization" in subsection 149.1(1) of the Act be amended to ensure that in certain circumstances large donations are not prohibited. In particular, we are recommending the replacement of the current contribution test with a post-donation test. This test will require that, at all times after the donation, any person (or group of persons not dealing at arm's length) contributing more than 50% of the capital of the organization must deal at arm's length with more than half of the directors, trustees and officers of the organization, and must not have any direct or indirect influence over the organization such that, if exercised, it would be reasonable to conclude that the person (or group) controls the organization or one or more activities of the organization.

We are recommending that such an amendment apply for the purpose of determining an organization's status after 1999. If the recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendment would be included in a future income tax technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division

CRA news release, July 11, 2007: Charities Directorate begins administering proposed changes relating to new tests for designation of charities

The Charities Directorate is now administering the proposed changes to the definitions of "charitable organization" and "public foundation", which also affects the concept of "private foundation" as defined in the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). The new definitions are included in Bill C-33 [now C-10 — ed.], Income Tax Amendments Act, 2006.

Bill C-33 replaces the "contribution test" with a new "control test". The former definitions used a "contribution test" whereby if a person, or group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length, contributed more than 50% of the charity's capital, that charity could only be designated as a private foundation.

Under the new "control test", a charity will not be disqualified from being treated as a charitable organization or public foundation based solely on the source of its funding. Instead, the "control test" allows a person, or group of related persons, to contribute more than 50% of the charity's capital provided they do not control the charity in any way. In addition, this person, or members of the related group, may not represent more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers and similar officials of the charity. Failure to satisfy the "control test" will result in a charity being designated as a private foundation.

The Charities Directorate is now applying the "control test" in its review of applications for registration and re-designation. Applications for re-designation can be made retroactively for taxation years that begin after 1999. However, the proposed legislation contains a limited 90-day timeframe within which a registered charity can apply for re-designation for a prior taxation year. As such, registered charities have until 90 days after Bill C-33 [C-10 — ed.] receives Royal Assent to apply for retroactive re-designation. Applications received after that date will still fall under these new rules, but the re-designation will only become effective for future taxation years.

A "What's New" will be posted on the Directorate's Web site advising charities of the date on which Bill C-33 [C-10 — ed.] receives Royal Assent and the date on which the 90-day period expires.

The Charities Directorate is currently developing guidelines for applying the new "control test" with respect to registered charities. The guidelines will be available in the near future on the Directorate's Web site at: www.cra.gc.ca/charities.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(15), will amend the opening words of the description of A in the former version of the definition "disbursement quota" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002 but in a taxation year that begins before March 23, 2004.

Technical Notes: The "disbursement quota" for a taxation year of a charitable foundation or organization is defined in subsection 149.1(1) for the purpose of determining the amount that the charity is required to spend on charitable activities or gifts to other charities. One factor in calculating the disbursement quota is a specified proportion of donations for which tax receipts are issued.

Consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), the definition "disbursement quota" is to be read in respect of gifts made after December 20, 2002 and in a taxation year that begins before March 23, 2004, to provide that the amount of a gift for which a tax receipt is issued refers to the "eligible amount" of the gift. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsection 248(31).

C is the total of all percentages, each of which is the portion of a net decrease in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class for the particular taxation year or for a preceding taxation year that is allocated to the particular taxation year in accordance with subsection 149.2(7);

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1)"divestment obligation percentage"

"divestment obligation percentage" of a private foundation for a particular taxation year, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, is the percentage, if any, that is the lesser of

(a) the excess, if any, at the end of the taxation year, of the percentage of issued and outstanding shares of that class that are held by the private foundation over the exempt shares percentage of the private foundation, and

(b) the percentage determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the percentage determined under this paragraph in respect of the private foundation in respect of the class for the preceding taxation year,

B is the total of all percentages, each of which is the portion of a net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class for the particular taxation year or for a preceding taxation year that is allocated to the particular taxation year in accordance with subsection 149.2(5), and

C is the total of all percentages, each of which is the portion of a net decrease in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class for the particular taxation year or for a preceding taxation year that is allocated to the particular taxation year in accordance with subsection 149.2(7);

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(2), will amend the definition "divestment obligation percentage" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable after March 18, 2007.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Section 149.1 provides the rules that must be met for charities to obtain and keep registered charity status. Budget 2007 introduced an excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations that requires a private foundation to divest itself of excessive shareholdings in corporations.

The definitions in subsection 149.1(1) apply for the purposes of sections 149.1 and 149.2 and Part V. Certain definitions in subsection 149.1(1) are amended or replaced concurrently with amendments to section 149.2, generally to provide an exception in respect of certain shares, not listed on a designated stock exchange, acquired by a private foundation before March 19, 2007.

These amendments to subsection 149.1(1) apply after March 18, 2007.

The "divestment obligation percentage" of a private foundation for a taxation year generally represents the percentage of outstanding shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation that must be divested by the private foundation before the end of the year in order to avoid the application of a penalty under subsection 188.1(3.1). The definition is amended to provide that the percentage otherwise determined cannot be greater than the amount by which the percentage of shares of a class that are held by the foundation exceeds the "exempt shares percentage" of the foundation. As such, a foundation is not required in a taxation year to divest of corporate shares if, at the end of the year, the foundation holds no shares other than exempt shares.

Department of Finance news release 2007-087, Nov. 13, 2007: [Announcement of tabling of Notice of Ways and Means Motion which later became Bill C-28 (S.C. 2007, c. 35), enacting this provision — ed.]

As a result of consultations with private foundations, the Government intends to further review the excess corporate holdings rules in order to provide relief in respect of unlisted securities held on March 19, 2007, and to consider the treatment of corporations wholly-owned by such foundations. Minister Flaherty indicated that the Government is moving ahead with the legislation [Bill C-28 — ed.] at this time, in advance of the conclusion of this review, in order to ensure that the new rules providing a capital gains tax exemption on the donation of listed securities to private foundations are enacted as soon as possible, providing the certainty that will encourage donors to support this important part of the charitable sector.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Feb. 26, 2008: Excess Corporate Holdings by Private Foundations

(4) That the provisions of the Act relating to the ownership of shares of corporations by private foundations be modified in accordance with proposals described in the budget documents tabled by the Minister of Finance in the House of Commons on February 26, 2008.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Feb. 26, 2008: Private Foundations: Excess Corporate Holdings

Budget 2007 introduced a capital gains exemption for donations of publicly-listed securities to private charitable foundations. To limit potential opportunities for persons connected with a foundation to use their own and the foundation's shareholdings for their own benefit, Budget 2007 introduced an excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations. All private foundations are subject to the excess corporate holdings regime in respect of both publicly-listed and unlisted shares. The regime places limits on foundations' share ownership that take into account the holdings of relevant persons, that is, generally those not dealing at arm's length with the foundation.

A foundation is not subject to the rules in respect of a class of shares if it owns 2% or less of the class. Where a foundation and relevant persons together own more than 20% of a class, the foundation is required to divest itself of enough shares such that it meets the 2% limit or it and relevant persons together do not exceed the 20% limit. Transitional rules allow foundations to divest themselves, over a period of from five to 20 years, of excess corporate shares held on March 18, 2007.

No obligation to divest is imposed in respect of shares, known as "entrusted shares", that were donated before March 19, 2007 and that are subject to a condition that they be retained by the foundation. The same provisions apply to any donation made on or after March 19, 2007 and before March 19, 2012 pursuant to the terms of a will signed, or an inter vivos trust settled, before March 19, 2007 that included such a condition and was not amended after that date. However, entrusted shares are taken into account in determining the application of the excess corporate holdings regime to other shares of the same class.

Budget 2008 proposes to exempt from this regime certain holdings of shares that are not listed on a designated stock exchange ("unlisted shares") and that were held on March 18, 2007. Other unlisted shares, and all listed shares, held on March 18, 2007 will continue to be subject to the transitional excess corporate holdings rules. Budget 2008 also introduces technical amendments dealing with entrusted shares and the substitution of shareholdings with new shareholdings, and proposes to extend an existing anti-avoidance rule in respect of the holding of an interest in a corporation via a trust.

Except as indicated below, these amendments will apply to taxation years that begin on or after March 19, 2007.

Relief in Respect of Unlisted Shares Held on March 18, 2007

Unlisted shares can be difficult to sell: they often represent unique assets with no ready market. To provide foundations with relief in respect of unlisted shares held on March 18, 2007, it is proposed that foundations generally not be required to divest these "exempt" shares, as is already the case for entrusted shares. In particular, for the purpose of calculating a private foundation's divestment obligation at the end of a taxation year, unlisted shares in a corporation held on March 18, 2007 by the foundation will be considered exempt shares unless, at that time,

- the foundation owns, indirectly as a result of that shareholding in that corporation, an interest in listed shares of a class of another corporation;
- that indirect interest is held through a "controlled corporation", being a corporation controlled by the foundation, by a relevant person, by a group of relevant persons, or by a foundation together with a relevant person or such a group;
- if the foundation had instead owned those listed shares itself, it would, together with relevant persons, hold more than 20 per cent of those listed shares; and
- the foundation, together with all controlled corporations, holds more than two per cent of those listed shares.

If a share becomes or ceases to be exempt under these conditions at the end of any taxation year, that change in status will not affect the foundation's divestment obligation for any previous taxation year. Shares that cease to be exempt will generally be treated as if they had not been exempt as of March 18, 2007, and therefore subject to the existing transitional rules, for taxation years of a foundation that end after the time that the shares cease to be exempt. However, such shares could once again become exempt if, after that time, the shares again meet the conditions for exempt shares.

Under these rules, a controlled corporation will never be required to divest itself of shares. However, as explained above, a controlled corporation's holdings of non-exempt shares could result in a divestment obligation on a foundation in respect of unlisted shares owned by the foundation. Alternatively, the controlled corporation could opt to divest itself of non-exempt shares in order to eliminate the divestment obligation of the foundation.

As with entrusted shares, all exempt shares will be taken into account in applying the excess corporate holdings regime to other shareholdings. Where a foundation divests itself of exempt shares, its exemption is reduced accordingly: a foundation cannot consider that its original level of shareholdings on March 18, 2007 will allow it to reacquire shares by using the forgone portion of its exemption (subject to the substituted share rules described below). If a foundation holds both exempt and non-exempt shares of the same class, the non-exempt shares will be presumed to be divested first.

Shares Held Through a Trust on March 18, 2007

A trust may be a relevant person in respect of a private foundation. In such a case, shares in a corporation held by the trust are taken into account in applying the excess corporate holdings regime and its transitional provisions.

In addition, Budget 2008 proposes new rules to attribute to a foundation, in certain circumstances, shares held by a trust on March 18, 2007.

In applying the transitional rules for the excess corporate holdings regime (including the exemption for unlisted shares) a foundation will be deemed to own shares held by a trust on March 18, 2007, in proportion to the value of the foundation's interest in the trust, where the foundation is the sole trustee of the trust or the following conditions are met:

- the foundation is a "majority interest beneficiary", as that term is currently defined in the Income Tax Act, of the trust, and
- a majority of the trustees of the trust consist of the foundation and relevant persons.

Where such a trust holds entrusted shares or exempt shares, the excess corporate holdings rules will respect the terms under which the trust holds the actual shares. For example, shares held by the trust that are subject to a condition that they may not be disposed of will not, by themselves, result in a divestment obligation to the foundation.

This measure will apply in respect of private foundations' divestment obligations for taxation years that begin on or after February 26, 2008.

Substituted Shares

It is proposed that the concept of "substituted shares" be introduced. Substituted shares will generally be shares acquired by a person in the context of a corporate reorganization, in exchange for other shares. In particular, this would apply to shares acquired in the course of a transaction to which section 51, subparagraph 85.1(1)(a)(i) or section 86 or 87 of the Income Tax Act applies. Substituted shares will be treated the same as the shares for which they were exchanged for the purposes of

- applying the exemption from the excess corporate holdings regime, where the exchanged shares were exempt shares or entrusted shares, and
- the timing of any applicable divestment obligations, including those associated with transitional relief.

Entrusted Shares

The excess corporate holdings rules require a divestment if a foundation holds more than two per cent of the non-exempt outstanding shares of a given class, and the foundation and all relevant persons together hold more than 20 per cent of that class. The divestment obligation is an obligation upon the foundation. However, in certain circumstances where a foundation holds entrusted shares, the existing rules could impose a divestment obligation that a foundation cannot itself meet, implying that a relevant person is required to divest. Budget 2008 proposes an amendment to correct this ambiguity and make clear that entrusted shares need not be divested in these circumstances.

Avoidance Transactions Involving Trusts

The excess corporate holdings regime includes anti-avoidance rules that address attempts by private foundations to circumvent the regime's reporting or divestment obligations.

Budget 2008 proposes to extend these anti-avoidance provisions to certain inappropriate uses of trusts. In particular, the provisions will apply to circumstances in which it may reasonably be considered that one of the purposes of the establishment of a trust is to hold or acquire shares or other interests or rights in one or more corporations that would, if they were held by a beneficiary of the trust that is a private foundation or a relevant person, result in a divestment obligation to the foundation. In such a case, the foundation or relevant person will be deemed to hold shares in the corporation that reflect the value of their indirect interest in the corporation.

This anti-avoidance provision will apply in respect of private foundations' divestment obligations for taxation years that begin on or after February 26, 2008.

"enduring property" means property of a registered charity that is

(a) a gift received by the charity by way of bequest or inheritance, including a gift deemed by subsection 118.1(5.2) or (5.3),

(b) if the registered charity is a charitable organization, a gift from another registered charity (other than a gift described by paragraph (d) or received from another charity in respect of which more than 50% of the members of the board of directors or trustees do not deal at arm's length with each member of the board of directors or trustees of the charitable organization) that is subject to a trust or direction to the effect that the property given, or property substituted for the gift,

(i) is to be held by the charitable organization for a period of not more than five years from the date that the gift was received by the charitable organization, and

(ii) is to be expended in its entirety over the period referred to in the trust or direction

(A) to acquire a tangible capital property of the charitable organization to be used directly in charitable activities or administration,

(B) in the course of a program of charitable activities of the charitable organization that could not reasonably be completed before the end of the first taxation year of the charitable organization ending after the taxation year in which the gift was received, or

(C) any combination of the uses described in clauses (A) and (B),

(c) a gift received by the registered charity (referred to in this definition as the "original recipient charity"), other than a gift received from another registered charity, that is subject to a trust or direction to the effect that the property given, or property substituted for the gift, is to be held by the original recipient charity or by another registered charity (referred to in this definition as a "transferee") for a period of not less than 10 years from the date that the gift was received by the original recipient charity, except that the trust or direction may allow the original recipient charity or the transferee to expend the property before the end of that period to the extent of the amount determined for a taxation year (for the charity or the transferee, as the case may be) by B.1 in the formula in the definition "disbursement quota", or

(d) a gift received by the registered charity as a transferee from an original recipient charity or another transferee of a property that was, before that gift was so received, an enduring property of the original recipient charity or of the other transferee because of paragraph (a) or (b) or this paragraph, or property substituted for the gift, if, in the case of a property that was an enduring property of an original recipient charity because of paragraph (b), the gift is subject to the same terms and conditions under the trust or direction as applied to the gift to the original recipient charity;

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1)"enduring property"(d)

(d) a gift received by the registered charity as a transferee from an original recipient charity or another transferee of a property that was, before that gift was so received, an enduring property of the original recipient charity or of the other transferee because of paragraph (a) or (c) or this paragraph, or property substituted for the gift, if, in the case of a property that was an enduring property of an original recipient charity because of paragraph (c), the gift is subject to the same terms and conditions under the trust or direction as applied to the original recipient charity;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(4), will amend para. (d) of the definition "enduring property" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

Technical Notes: The English version of the definition "enduring property", which applies for the purpose of the definition "disbursement quota" to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004, is amended to correct a cross-reference in its paragraph (d).

Related Provisions: 149.1(1)"capital gains pool" — Gain on enduring property; 149.1(1)"disbursement quota"A.1(a) — Enduring property included in calculation for disbursement quota.

History: The definition "enduring property" in subsec. 149.1(1) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 35(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004.

"entrusted shares percentage" of a private foundation, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, at any particular time means the percentage of the issued and outstanding shares of that class that are held at the particular time by the private foundation that are shares that were acquired by the private foundation by way of a gift that was subject to a trust or direction that the shares are to be held by the private foundation for a period ending not earlier than the particular time, if the gift was made

(a) before March 19, 2007,

(b) on or after March 19, 2007 and before March 19, 2012

(i) under the terms of a will that was executed by a taxpayer before March 19, 2007 and not amended, by codicil or otherwise, on or after March 19, 2007, and

(ii) in circumstances where no other will of the taxpayer was executed or amended on or after March 19, 2007, or

(c) on or after March 19, 2007, under the terms of a testamentary or inter vivos trust created before March 19, 2007, and not amended on or after March 19, 2007;

Proposed Repeal — 149.1(1)"entrusted shares percentage"

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(1), will repeal the definition "entrusted shares percentage" in subsec. 149.1(1), applicable after March 18, 2007.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Where a private foundation has an entrusted shares percentage greater than 20 per cent, the excess corporate holdings percentage is calculated by using the entrusted shares percentage instead of the 20 per cent threshold. Entrusted shares are shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation, held by a foundation at a particular time, that were acquired (generally before March 19, 2007) by way of a gift that is subject to a trust or direction that the foundation may not dispose of them before that time.

The definition "entrusted shares percentage" is repealed and replaced with paragraph (a) of the new definition "exempt shares", which applies for the purpose of the new definition of the "exempt shares percentage" of a private foundation. For more information, readers may refer to the commentary for those definitions.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Feb. 26, 2008: See Proposed Amendment under 149.1(1)"divestment obligation percentage".

History: The definition "entrusted shares percentage" in subsec. 149.1(1) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 46(2), applicable after March 18, 2007.

Forms: T2081: Excess corporate holdings worksheet for private foundations; T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

Proposed Addition — 149.1(1)"equity percentage"

"equity percentage" of a person in a corporation has, subject to subsection 149.2(2.1), the same meaning as defined in subsection 95(4);

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(4), will add the definition "equity percentage" to subsec. 149.1(1), applicable after March 18, 2007.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "equity percentage" applies for the purpose of the new definition of "exempt shares". Generally, the excess corporate holdings regime does not require a private foundation to divest of exempt shares that it held on March 19, 2007. Such exempt shares may include corporate shares that are not listed on a designated stock exchange: however, an exception is unlisted shares of a corporation that holds an equity percentage in a public corporation.

In this regard, "equity percentage" has, subject to subsection 149.2(2.1), the same meaning as defined in subsection 95(4) of the Act. However, for the purpose of identifying exempt shares under the excess corporate holdings regime, it is not necessary to calculate the amount of the percentage: rather, it is only necessary to determine that the percentage would be greater than zero.

It is thus sufficient to know that a particular corporation (some unlisted shares of which are held by the private foundation) holds either directly or indirectly through its shareholdings in another corporation an interest in the shares of a public corporation. If this is the case, then the particular corporation will have an equity percentage in the public corporation.

For this purpose, new subsection 149.2(2.1) generally treats a right to acquire shares, or to control voting rights in respect of shares, as an interest in the shares.

For more information, readers may refer to the commentary for subsection 149.2(2) and to the example under the commentary for the definition "exempt shares".

Related Provisions: 149.2(2.1) — Deemed ownership.

"excess corporate holdings percentage" of a private foundation, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, at any time means

(a) if the private foundation is not, at that time, a registered charity, 0%,

(b) if the private foundation holds, at that time, an insignificant interest in respect of the class, 0%, and

(c) in any other case, the number of percentage points, if any, by which the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class, at that time, exceeds the greater of 20% and the entrusted shares percentage, at that time, of the private foundation in respect of the class;

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1)"excess corporate holdings percentage"(c)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(3), will amend para. (c) of the definition "excess corporate holdings percentage" in subsec. 149.1(1) to substitute "exempt shares" for "entrusted shares", applicable after March 18, 2007.

Related Provisions: 149.1(8) — Transitional rule.

Proposed Addition — 149.1(1)"exempt shares", "exempt shares percentage"

"exempt shares" held by a private foundation at any particular time means shares, of a class of the capital stock of a corporation,

(a) that were acquired by the private foundation by way of a gift that was subject to a trust or direction that the shares are to be held by the private foundation for a period ending not earlier than the particular time, if the gift was made

(i) before March 19, 2007,

(ii) on or after March 19, 2007 and before March 19, 2012

(A) under the terms of a will that was executed by a taxpayer before March 19, 2007 and not amended, by codicil or otherwise, on or after March 19, 2007, and

(B) in circumstances where no other will of the taxpayer was executed or amended on or after March 19, 2007, or

(iii) on or after March 19, 2007, under the terms of a testamentary or inter vivos trust created before March 19, 2007, and not amended on or after March 19, 2007,

(b) that were last acquired by the private foundation before March 19, 2007, other than shares that, at the particular time,

(i) are described in paragraph (a),

(ii) are listed on a designated stock exchange, or

(iii) are shares of the capital stock of a particular corporation, which particular corporation has an equity percentage greater than 0% in a public corporation, a class of the shares of the capital stock of which is listed on a designated stock exchange, if

(A) a corporation (in this subparagraph referred to as a "controlled corporation" and which may, for greater certainty, be the particular corporation)

(I) owns one or more shares of a class of the capital stock of the public corporation, and

(II) is controlled, directly or indirectly in any manner whatever, by one or more relevant persons in respect of the private foundation, or by the private foundation alone or together with one or more such relevant persons,

(B) the private foundation, if it held directly the shares described in subclause (A)(I), would have an excess corporate holdings percentage (determined without reference to subsection 149.2(8)) in respect of that class of shares that is greater than 0%, and

(C) the private foundation, alone or together with all controlled corporations, holds more than an insignificant interest in respect of the class of shares described in subclause (A)(I), or

(c) that are substituted shares held by the private foundation;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "exempt shares" applies for the purpose of the new definition of "exempt shares percentage" of a private foundation. In general, under the excess corporate holdings regime, no obligation is imposed on a private foundation to divest of shares, previously described as "entrusted shares", that were

- donated to the foundation before March 19, 2007 and that are subject to a condition that they be retained by the foundation; or
- donated on or after March 19, 2007 and before March 19, 2012, pursuant to the terms of a will signed, or an inter vivos trust settled, before March 19, 2007 that included such a condition and that was not amended after that date.

The new definition of exempt shares also includes shares acquired by a private foundation in exchange for other shares that were exempt shares. For more information, readers may refer to the commentary for the definition of "substituted shares".

Further, exempt shares include certain shares held by a private foundation as of March 18, 2007 that are not listed on a designated stock exchange. ("unlisted shares"). This exemption does not, however, extend to unlisted shares in a particular corporation through which the foundation has, directly or indirectly, an interest in shares of a public corporation. More specifically, unlisted shares in a particular corporation held by the foundation will not be exempt if

1. the particular corporation has an "equity percentage" in the shares of a public corporation (discussed further below); and

2. the particular corporation, or a third corporation through which the particular corporation indirectly holds its equity percentage in the public corporation, is controlled by relevant persons in respect of the foundation or by the foundation alone or together with relevant persons;

unless

3. the foundation, even if it held directly the shares of the public corporation that give rise to the equity interest, would not have an excess corporation holdings percentage in respect of the class of those public corporation shares; or

4. the foundation, alone or together with any controlled corporation referred to in no.2 above, holds no more than 2% of all the issued and outstanding shares of that class of the public corporation.

Unlisted shares that are not exempt shares, and all listed shares, held on March 18, 2007 are subject to the transitional excess corporate holdings rules in subsection 149.2(8).

An "equity percentage" of a particular corporation in the shares of a public corporation is, in general, an interest held directly or indirectly through its shareholdings in another corporation. For further detail, readers may refer to the commentary on the definitions "equity percentage". A "relevant person" in respect of a private foundation is defined in subsection 149.1(1) and is generally a person that does not deal at arm's length with the private foundation.

Example 1 — direct interest of corporation

Mr. X is the sole trustee of the X Family Foundation. On March 18, 2007, the X Family Foundation held 48% of the voting shares of X Corporation, a private corporation of which Mr. X owned the other 52% of the voting shares.

On November 1, 2008, X Corporation acquired 16% of the Class A shares of PubCo, a public corporation, and the X Family Foundation purchased 5% of the same class of shares. None of these shareholdings had changed as of December 31, 2008.

The X Family Foundation must determine whether, on December 31, 2008, its unlisted shares in X Corporation are exempt from the excess corporate holdings regime or, in the alternative, are subject to the transitional rules that apply to corporate shares held by a private foundation on March 18, 2007.

- X Corporation has an equity percentage in PubCo, because it holds shares in PubCo. It is not necessary to calculate the amount of the equity percentage.
- The X Family Foundation does not control X Corporation (the owner of the PubCo shares), but X Corporation is controlled by Mr. X, who is a relevant person in respect of the X Family Foundation because he controls the foundation.
- The X Family Foundation, if it held the PubCo Class A shares itself, would hold 21% of that class of shares, and therefore would have an "excess holdings percentage" in respect of those shares of 1% (calculated without reference to the transitional rules).
- The X Family Foundation, together with X Corporation (the "controlled corporation"), holds more than 2% of the PubCo Class A shares.

Even though the X Family Foundation's shares of X Corporation were acquired before March 19, 2007, they are not "exempt shares" as of December 31, 2008 because on that date X Corporation (being a corporation controlled by a relevant person, Mr. X) has an interest in a public corporation.

Example 2 — indirect interest of corporation

As with Example 1, Mr. X is the sole trustee of the X Family Foundation. On March 18, 2007, the X Family Foundation held 48% of the voting shares of Y Corporation, a private corporation of which Mr. X owned the other 52% of the voting shares.

On July 1, 2008, Y Corporation purchased 25% of the voting shares of AA Corporation, a private corporation of which Mrs. X (spouse of Mr. X) held the other 75%.

On November 1, 2008, AA Corporation acquired 16% of the Class A shares of PubCo, a public corporation, and the X Family Foundation purchased 5% of the same class of shares. None of these shareholdings had changed as of December 31, 2008.

The X Family Foundation must determine whether, on December 31, 2008, its unlisted shares in Y Corporation are exempt from the excess corporate holdings regime or, in the alternative, are subject to the transitional rules that apply to corporate shares held by a private foundation on March 18, 2007.

- Y Corporation has an equity percentage in PubCo, because it holds shares of AA Corporation, which in turn holds shares in PubCo. It is not necessary to calculate the amount of the equity percentage.
- The X Family Foundation does not control A Corporation (the owner of the PubCo shares). But AA Corporation is controlled by Mrs. X, who is a relevant person in respect of the X Family Foundation because she is related to Mr. X, who controls the foundation.
- The X Family Foundation, if it held the PubCo Class A shares itself, would hold 21% of that class of shares, and therefore have an "excess holdings percentage" in respect of those shares of 1% (calculated without reference to the transitional rules).
- The X Family Foundation, together with AA Corporation (the "controlled corporation"), holds more than 2% of the PubCo Class A shares.

Even though the X Family Foundation shares of Y Corporation were acquired before March 19, 2007, they are not "exempt shares" as of December 31, 2008 because on that date Y Corporation has an indirect interest in a public corporation, via its interest in AA Corporation (being a corporation controlled by a relevant person).

Example 3 — no excess holdings percentage

Assume that, in Example 2, AA Corporation had acquired only a 12% interest in Pubco. The Y Corporation shares held by the foundation would remain exempt shares, because the combined shareholdings in PubCo of the foundation, relevant persons and AA Corporation would be only 17%. That is, the foundation would not, even if it owned all those shares directly, have an excess (over 20%) holdings percentage.

Related Provisions: 149.2(2.1) — Deemed ownership; 149.2(10) — Shares held through a trust on March 18/07.

"exempt shares percentage" of a private foundation at any time, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, is the total of all amounts, each of which is the percentage of the issued and outstanding shares of that class that are exempt shares held by the private foundation at that time;

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "exempt shares percentage" of a private foundation applies for the purpose of calculating the "divestment obligation percentage" of a private foundation, as defined in subsection 149.1(1) of the Act. The exempt shares percentage of a private foundation is the percentage of issued and outstanding shares of a corporation that are exempt shares held by the foundation. A private foundation may cease to have an exempt shares percentage if shares that it holds cease to be exempt shares. Similarly, a private foundation may commence to have an exempt shares percentage if unlisted shares that it held on March 18, 2007 have ceased to be exempt shares as defined in subsection 149.1(1).

If a private foundation holds identical shares of a class of capital stock of a corporation, some of which were held on March 18, 2007, and others of which were acquired after that day, the disposition of some shares is considered not to reduce the exempt shares percentage except to the extent that the number disposed of exceeds the number of shares acquired after March 18, 2007. However, where exempt shares are disposed of, a later acquisition of identical shares will not restore the foundation's exempt shares percentage.

For more information, readers may refer to the commentary for the definitions "divestment obligation percentage" and "exempt shares".

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(4), will add the definitions "exempt shares" and "exempt shares percentage" to subsec. 149.1(1), applicable after March 18, 2007.

"material transaction" of a private foundation, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, means a transaction or a series of transactions or events in shares of the class, in respect of which the total fair market value of the shares of the class that are acquired or disposed of by the private foundation or any relevant person in respect of the private foundation as part of the transaction or series (determined at the time of the transaction, or at the end of the series, as the case may be) exceeds the lesser of

(a) $100,000, and

(b) 0.5% of the total fair market value of all of the issued and outstanding shares of the class;

Related Provisions: 149.2(2) — Avoidance transaction deemed to be material transaction.

History: The definition "material transaction" in subsec. 149.1(1) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 46(2), applicable after March 18, 2007.

"non-qualified investment" of a private foundation means

(a) a debt (other than a pledge or undertaking to make a gift) owing to the foundation by

(i) a person (other than an excluded corporation)

(A) who is a member, shareholder, trustee, settlor, officer, official or director of the foundation,

(B) who has, or is a member of a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length who have, contributed more than 50% of the capital of the foundation, or

(C) who does not deal at arm's length with any person described in clause (A) or (B), or

(ii) a corporation (other than an excluded corporation) controlled by the foundation, by any person or group of persons referred to in subparagraph (i), by the foundation and any other private foundation with which it does not deal at arm's length or by any combination thereof,

(b) a share of a class of the capital stock of a corporation (other than an excluded corporation) referred to in paragraph (a) held by the foundation (other than a share listed on a designated stock exchange or a share that would be a qualifying share within the meaning assigned by subsection 192(6) if that subsection were read without reference to the expression "issued after May 22, 1985 and before 1987"), and

(c) a right held by the foundation to acquire a share referred to in paragraph (b), and, for the purpose of this definition, an "excluded corporation" is

(d) a limited-dividend housing company to which paragraph 149(1)(n) applies,

(e) a corporation all of the property of which is used by a registered charity in its administration or in carrying on its charitable activities, or

(f) a corporation all of the issued shares of which are held by the foundation;

(ii) not more than 50% of the capital contributed or otherwise paid in to the foundation has been so contributed or otherwise paid in by one person or members of a group of such persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length, or

(b) in any other case,

(i) more than 50% of the directors or trustees deal with each other and with each of the other directors or trustees at arm's length, and

(ii) not more than 75% of the capital contributed or otherwise paid in to the foundation has been so contributed or otherwise paid in by one person or by a group of persons who do not deal with each other at arm's length and, for the purpose of subparagraph (a)(ii), a reference to any person or to members of a group does not include a reference to Her Majesty in right of Canada or a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, or any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l);

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(1)"public foundation"

"public foundation", at a particular time, means a charitable foundation

(a) more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or like officials of which deal at arm's length with each other and with

(i) each of the other directors, trustees, officers and like officials of the foundation,

(ii) each person described by subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii), and

(iii) each member of a group of persons (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)) who do not deal with each other at arm's length, if the group would, if it were a person, be a person described by subparagraph (b)(i), and

(b) that is not, at the particular time, and would not at the particular time be, if the foundation were a corporation, controlled directly or indirectly in any manner whatever

(i) by a person (other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l)),

(A) who immediately after the particular time, has contributed to the foundation amounts that are, in total, greater than 50% of the capital of the foundation immediately after the particular time, and

(B) who immediately after the person's last contribution at or before the particular time, had contributed to the foundation amounts that were, in total, greater than 50% of the capital of the foundation immediately after the making of that last contribution, or

(ii) by a person, or by a group of persons that do not deal at arm's length with each other, if the person or any member of the group does not deal at arm's length with a person described in subparagraph (i);

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(1), will amend the definition "public foundation" in subsec. 149.1(1) to read as above, applicable after 1999 except that, in respect of a foundation that has not been designated before 2000 as a private foundation or a charitable organization under subsec. 149.1(6.3) or under subsec. 110(8.1) or (8.2), as enacted by R.S.C. 1952, c. 148 [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8.1), (8.2) on TaxPartner or taxnet.pro], and that has not applied after February 15, 1984 for registration under para. 110(8)(c) of that Act [repealed; see Pre-RSC History to 110(8)] or under 248(1)"registered charity", subpara. (a)(iii) and para. (b) of the definition "public foundation", as amended, are in their application before the earlier of the day, if any, on which the foundation is designated after 1999 as a private foundation or a charitable organization under subsec. 149.1(6.3) and January 1, 2005 to be read

(a) without reference to "(other than Her Majesty in right of Canada or of a province, a municipality, another registered charity that is not a private foundation, and any club, society or association described in paragraph 149(1)(l))"; and

(b) as if the references to "50%" in para. (b) of the definition were read as "75%".

Technical Notes: The definition "public foundation" provides that more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers or similar officials of a public foundation must deal with each other and with each of the other directors, trustees, officers or similar officials at arm's length.

This definition requires that not more than 50% (75% in some cases) of the foundation's capital can be contributed by a person or group of persons not dealing with each together at arm's length. The "contribution" test in the definition is replaced by a "control" test. As a result, a foundation will not be disqualified from being treated as a public foundation solely because a person, or a group of persons not dealing with each other at arm's length, has contributed more than 50% of the foundation's capital. However, such a person or group is not permitted to control the foundation in any way, nor may the person or the members of the group represent more than 50% of the directors, trustees, officers and similar officials of the foundation.

Letter from Dept. of Finance, Dec. 13, 2002:

Dear [xxx]:

I am writing in response to your letter dated November 14, 2002, in which you requested that the definition of a "public foundation" in the Income Tax Act be amended in a manner similar to the change that has been proposed in respect of charitable organizations.

In particular, we have agreed to recommend an amendment that will replace the current contribution test for charitable organizations with a test applying after a donation is made. Under this test, any person (or group of persons not dealing at arm's length) contributing more than 50% of the capital of the organization must deal at arm's length with more than half of the directors, trustees and officers of the organization, and must not have any direct or indirect influence over the organization such that, if exercised, it would be reasonable to conclude that the person (or group) controls the organization or one or more activities of the organization.

As the policy objectives for rules regarding the control of charitable organizations are similar to those for public foundations, we agree that it would be appropriate to recommend that the definitions of each remain similar in this respect. We will also recommend that such an amendment apply for the purpose of determining a foundation's status after 1999. If the recommendation is acted upon, we anticipate that the amendment would be included in a future technical bill.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

"relevant person" in respect of a private foundation means a person who, at any time in respect of which the expression is relevant, deals not at arm's length with the private foundation (determined as if subsection 251(2) were applied as if the private foundation were a corporation), but does not include

(a) a person who at that time is considered to deal not at arm's length with the private foundation solely because of a right referred to in paragraph 251(5)(b), or

(b) an individual

(i) who at that time has attained the age of 18 years and lives separate and apart from any other individual (referred to in this definition as a "controlling individual") who would, if the private foundation were a corporation, control, or be a member of a related group that controls, the private foundation, and

(ii) in respect of whom the Minister is satisfied, upon review of an application by the private foundation, that the individual would, if subsection 251(1) were read without reference to its paragraphs (a) and (b), at that time, deal at arm's length with all controlling individuals;

Proposed Addition — 149.1(1)"substituted shares"

"substituted shares" held by a private foundation means shares acquired by the private foundation, in exchange for exempt shares held by the private foundation, in the course of a transaction to which section 51, subsection 85.1(1), or section 86 or 87 applies;

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(4), will add the definition "substituted shares" to subsec. 149.1(1), applicable after March 18, 2007.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): The new definition "substituted shares" applies for the purpose of the definition of "exempt shares". In general, certain shares acquired by a private foundation in exchange for exempt shares will themselves be exempt. The new shares must be acquired in the course of a transaction to which section 51, subsection 85.1(1), or section 86 or 87 applies.

(1.1) Exclusions [deemed non-charitable] — For the purposes of paragraphs (2)(b), (3)(b), (4)(b) and (21)(a), the following shall be deemed to be neither an amount expended in a taxation year on charitable activities nor a gift made to a qualified donee:

(a) a specified gift;

(b) an expenditure on political activities made by a charitable organization or a charitable foundation; and

(c) a transfer that has, because of paragraph (c) of the description of B in subsection 188(1.1), paragraph 189(6.2)(b) or subsection 189(6.3), reduced the amount of a liability under Part V.

Related Provisions: 149.1(6.1), (6.2) — Political activities that are ancillary and incidental to charitable activities.

History: Para. 149.1(1.1)(c) added by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 35(3), applicable in respect of notices issued by the Minister of National Revenue after June 12, 2005.

(1.2) Authority of Minister — For the purposes of the determination of D in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1), the Minister may

(a) authorize a change in the number of periods chosen by a charitable foundation in determining the prescribed amount; and

(b) accept any method for the determination of the fair market value of property or a portion thereof that may be required in determining the prescribed amount.

(2) Revocation of registration of charitable organization — The Minister may, in the manner described in section 168, revoke the registration of a charitable organization for any reason described in subsection 168(1) or where the organization

(a) carries on a business that is not a related business of that charity; or

(b) fails to expend in any taxation year, on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, amounts the total of which is at least equal to the organization's disbursement quota for that year.

Proposed Addition — 149.1(2)(c)

(c) makes a disbursement by way of a gift, other than a gift made

(i) in the course of charitable activities carried on by it, or

(ii) to a donee that is a qualified donee at the time of the gift.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(5), will add para. 149.1(2)(c), applicable to gifts made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsections 149.1(2), (3) and (4) set out the reasons for which the Minister of National Revenue may revoke the registration of a charitable organization, a public foundation and a private foundation, respectively. These subsections are amended to permit the revocation of the registration of such entities if they make gifts (other than gifts made in the course of their charitable activities) to persons or entities that are not qualified donees. A "qualified donee" is essentially a person or entity to which a tax deductible or tax creditable donation may be made.

History: Para. 149.1(2)(b) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 35(4), applicable to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004, except that, in its application to a taxation year that begins before 2009 of a charitable organization registered by the Minister of National Revenue before March 23, 2004, the para., as amended, is to be read as follows:

(b) fails to expend in any taxation year, on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, amounts the total of which is at least equal to the total of the amounts determined for A, A.1, and B in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) for the year in respect of the charity.

The para. formerly read:

(b) fails to expend in any taxation year, on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, amounts the total of which is at least equal to the total of

(i) the amount that would be the value of A for the year, and

(ii) the amount that would be the value of A.1 for the year, in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) in respect of the organization if it were a charitable foundation.

Subparas. 149.1(2)(b)(i) and (ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 179(3), applicable to taxation years that end after November 1991. Subparas. 149.1(2)(b)(i) and (ii) formerly read:

(i) 80% of the amount that would be determined for the year for A, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined for the year for A.1,

Para. 149.1(2)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 74(4), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1992. That para. formerly read:

(b) fails to expend in any taxation year, on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, amounts the total of which is at least equal to 80% of the amount that would be determined for the year for A in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) in respect of the organization if it were a charitable foundation.

(6.21) Marriage for civil purposes — For greater certainty, subject to subsections (6.1) and (6.2), a registered charity with stated purposes that include the advancement of religion shall not have its registration revoked or be subject to any other penalty under Part V solely because it or any of its members, officials, supporters or adherents exercises, in relation to marriage between persons of the same sex, the freedom of conscience and religion guaranteed under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

History: Subsec. 149.1(6.21) added by 2005, c. 33, s. 11.1, in force on July 20, 2005 (Royal Assent).

(6.3) Designation as public foundation, etc. — The Minister may, by notice sent by registered mail to a registered charity, on the Minister's own initiative or on application made to the Minister in prescribed form, designate the charity to be a charitable organization, private foundation or public foundation and the charity shall be deemed to be registered as a charitable organization, private foundation or public foundation, as the case may be, for taxation years commencing after the day of mailing of the notice unless and until it is otherwise designated under this subsection or its registration is revoked under subsection (2), (3), (4), (4.1) or 168(2).

Proposed Amendment — Deadline for application under 149.1(6.3)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(17), will enact the following provision re an application under subsec. 149.1(6.3), effective on Royal Assent.

(17) An application referred to in subsection 149.1(6.3) of the Act, in respect of one or more taxation years after 1999, may be made after 1999 and before the 90th day after this Act [Bill C-10] is assented to. If a designation referred to in that subsection for any of those taxation years is made in response to the application, the charity is deemed to be registered as a charitable organization, a public foundation or a private foundation, as the case may be, for the taxation years that the Minister of National Revenue specifies.

Related Provisions: 149.1(13) — Designation of private foundation as public; 172(3) — Appeal from refusal to designate; 168(4) — Objection to designation; 241(3.2)(h) — Designation notice may be disclosed to the public; 244(5) — Proof of service by mail; 244(14) — Notice presumed mailed on date of notice; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(6.4) National arts service organizations — Where an organization that

(a) has, on written application to the Minister of Communications describing all of its objects and activities, been designated by that Minister on approval of those objects and activities to be a national arts service organization,

(b) has, as its exclusive purpose and its exclusive function, the promotion of arts in Canada on a nation-wide basis,

(c) is resident in Canada and was formed or created in Canada, and

(d) complies with prescribed conditions

applies in prescribed form to the Minister of National Revenue for registration, that Minister may register the organization for the purposes of this Act and, where the organization so applies or is so registered, this section, paragraph 38(a.1), sections 110.1, 118.1, 168, 172, 180 and 230, subsection 241(3.2) and Part V apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to the organization as if it were an applicant for registration as a charitable organization or as if it were a registered charity that is designated as a charitable organization, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 149.1(6.2) — Charitable activities; 149.1(6.5) — Revocation of designation.

History: The closing words of subsec. 149.1(6.4) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 146 to add reference to subsection 241(3.2), in force June 14, 2001.

The closing words of subsec. 149.1(6.4) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 41.1, applicable after February 18, 1997. The portion formerly read:

applies in prescribed form to the Minister of National Revenue for registration, that Minister may register the organization for the purposes of this Act and, where the organization so applies or is so registered, this section and sections 110.1, 118.1, 168, 172, 180 and 230 and Part V apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to the organization as if it were an applicant for registration as a charitable organization or a registered charity that is designated as a charitable organization, as the case may be.

Subsec. 149.1(6.4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 123(4), applicable after July 13, 1990 except that, where an organization has applied to the Minister of National Revenue for registration under the subsec. before December 17, 1991 and the Minister of National Revenue has accepted the application as meeting the requirements of that subsec., the organization shall be deemed to have become registered under the subsec.:

(a) where in the application a day later than the day the application is made is specified as the day on which the organization is to become registered, on that later day; and

(b) in any other case, on the day the application was made.

(8) Accumulation of property — A registered charity may, with the approval in writing of the Minister, accumulate property for a particular purpose, on terms and conditions, and over such period of time, as the Minister specifies in the approval, and any property accumulated after receipt of such an approval and in accordance therewith, including any income earned in respect of the property so accumulated, shall be deemed

(a) to have been expended on charitable activities carried on by the charity in the taxation year in which it was so accumulated; and

(b) not to have been expended in any other year.

Related Provisions: 149.1(9) — If property not used for indicated purpose; 241(3.2)(h) — Decision notice may be disclosed to the public.

History: Subsec. 149.1(8) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 74(5), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(8) A registered charity may, with the approval in writing of the Minister, accumulate property for a particular purpose on such terms and conditions and over such period of time, if any, as is specified by the Minister in the approval, and any property accumulated after receipt of such an approval and in accordance therewith, including any income earned in respect of the property so accumulated, shall be deemed to have been expended on charitable activities carried on by the charity in the taxation year in which it was so accumulated.

(9) Idem [— if property not used for indicated purpose] — Property accumulated by a registered charity as provided in subsection (8), including any income earned in respect of that property, that is not used for the particular purpose for which it was accumulated either

(a) before the expiration of any period of time specified by the Minister in the Minister's approval of the accumulation, or

(b) at an earlier time at which the registered charity decides not to use the property for that purpose shall, notwithstanding subsection (8), be deemed to be income of the charity for, and the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2) in, its taxation year in which the period referred to in paragraph (a) expires or the time referred to in paragraph (b) occurs, as the case may be.

Proposed Amendment — 149.1(9) closing words is, notwithstanding subsection (8), deemed to be income of the charity for, and the eligible amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in subsection 110.1(2) or 118.1(2) in, its taxation year in which the period referred to in paragraph (a) expires or the time referred to in paragraph (b) occurs, as the case may be.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(8), will amend the closing words of subsec. 149.1(9) to read as above, applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 149.1(8) permits a registered charity, with the approval of the Minister of National Revenue, to accumulate property over a specified period for a particular purpose. The amount of such property accumulated is deemed to have been expended in the taxation year of the charity in which it was accumulated. If in fact the charity defaults on this responsibility by not using the property for the approved purpose within the specified period, subsection 149.1(9) treats that property as income of the charity and the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt. This affects the calculation of the disbursement quota of the charity, with the result that the amount of the property must be actually disbursed in the year following default.

Subsection 149.1(9) is amended consequential to the addition of new subsection 248(31), in respect of gifts made after December 20, 2002, to provide that the amount of a gift for which a tax receipt is issued refers to the "eligible amount" of a gift. For additional information, see the commentary to new subsection 248(31).

Related Provisions: 248(30)–(33) — Determination of eligible amount of gift.

History: That portion of subsec. 149.1(9) following para. (b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 123(5), applicable to 1988 et seq. That portion formerly read:

shall, notwithstanding subsection (8), be deemed to be income of the charity and the amount of a gift for which it issued a receipt described in paragraph 110.1(1)(a) or subsection 118.1(2) in its taxation year in which the period referred to in paragraph (a) expires if that paragraph is applicable or in which the earlier time referred to in paragraph (b) occurs if that paragraph is applicable.

Registered Charities Newsletters: 22 (permission to accumulate property).

(10) Deemed charitable activity — An amount paid by a charitable organization to a qualified donee that is not paid out of the income of the charitable organization shall be deemed to be a devotion of a resource of the charitable organization to a charitable activity carried on by it.

Related Provisions: 149.1(12)(b) — Rules — income.

(11) [Repealed under former Act]

(12) Rules — For the purposes of this section,

(a) a corporation is controlled by a charitable foundation if more than 50% of the corporation's issued share capital, having full voting rights under all circumstances, belongs to

(i) the foundation, or

(ii) the foundation and persons with whom the foundation does not deal at arm's length,

but, for the purpose of paragraph (3)(c), a charitable foundation is deemed not to have acquired control of a corporation if it has not purchased or otherwise acquired for consideration more than 5% of the issued shares of any class of the capital stock of that corporation;

(b) there shall be included in computing the income of a charity for a taxation year all gifts received by it in the year including gifts from any other charity but not including

(i) a specified gift or a gift referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of the description of A in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1),

(ii) any gift or portion of a gift in respect of which it is established that the donor is not a charity and

(A) has not been allowed a deduction under paragraph 110.1(1)(a) in computing the donor's taxable income or under subsection 118.1(3) in computing the donor's tax payable under this Part, or

(B) was not taxable under section 2 for the taxation year in which the gift was made, or

(iii) any gift or portion of a gift in respect of which it is established that the donor is a charity and that the gift was not made out of the income of the donor; and

(c) subsections 104(6) and (12) are not applicable in computing the income of a charitable foundation that is a trust.

Related Provisions: 256(6), (6.1) — Control.

History: Closing words of para. 149.1(12)(a) amended to substitute "(3)(c), a charitable foundation is" for "(3)(c) or (4)(c), as the case may be, a charitable foundation shall be" by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 46(4), applicable to taxation years, of foundations, that begin after March 18, 2007, except that the amendment does not apply to a taxation year of a private foundation if subsec. 149.2(8) applies to the private foundation in respect of any class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation.

(b) the Minister may make available to the public in such manner as the Minister deems appropriate an annual listing of all registered or previously registered charities indicating for each the name, location, registration number, date of registration and, in the case of a charity the registration of which has been revoked, annulled or terminated, the effective date of the revocation, annulment or termination; and

(b) the Minister may make available to the public in any manner that the Minister considers appropriate a listing of all registered, or previously registered, charities and Canadian amateur athletic associations that indicates for each of them

(i) its name and address,

(ii) its registration number and date of registration, and

(iii) the effective date of any revocation, annulment or termination of its registration.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 149(9), will amend para. 149.1(15)(b) to read as above, in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: Section 241 prohibits the use or communication by an official of information obtained under the Act unless specifically authorized by one of the exceptions found in that section. Paragraph 149.1(15)(b), which deals with charities, provides that, notwithstanding section 241, the Minister of National Revenue may publish a listing of all registered or previously registered charities indicating the name, location, registration number and, where the charity is no longer registered, the effective date of the revocation, annulment or termination of the charity's registration. This provision does not currently allow for the release of similar information in respect of registered Canadian amateur athletic associations. Since taxpayers who make donations to such associations obtain the same tax relief that is available in respect of donations to registered charities and, since subsection 149.1(15) is intended to provide transparency for the benefit of potential donors, paragraph 149.1(15)(b) is amended, effective after Royal Assent to this measure, to allow for the release of such information in respect of Canadian amateur athletic associations.

(c) if, at any time during a taxation year of a private foundation that is a registered charity, the private foundation holds more than an insignificant interest in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, the Minister shall make available to the public in such manner as the Minister deems appropriate,

(i) the name of the corporation, and

(ii) in respect of each class of shares of the corporation, that portion of the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class that is attributable to

(A) holdings of shares of that class by the private foundation, and

(B) the total of all holdings of shares of that class by relevant persons in respect of the private foundation.

Proposed Addition — 149.1(15)(d)

(d) the Minister, or a Minister referred to in paragraph 110.1(8)(e), may make available to the public in any manner a listing of the registered charities in respect of which an opinion has been formed for the purpose of paragraph 110.1(8)(e) or revoked under subsection 110.1(9).

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 55(5), will add para. 149.1(15)(d), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 149.1(15) authorizes the Minister of National Revenue to communicate certain information in respect of charities, such as the prescribed information that is required to be contained in the information return for a taxation year that is mandated under subsection 149.1(14).

New paragraph 149.1(15)(d) is added concurrently with the introduction of prescribed conditions, referred to in paragraph 110.1(8)(e), in respect of a registered charity that receives gifts of medicines for which a deduction is available to a corporation under paragraph 110.1(1)(a.1). Upon Royal Assent, new paragraph 149.1(15)(d) provides authority to the Minister of National Revenue or the Minister for International Cooperation to make available to the public a list of registered charities in respect of which an opinion has been formed under paragraph 110.1(8)(e) or revoked under subsection 110.1(9). (16)–(19) [Repealed under former Act]

(20) Rule regarding disbursement excess — Where a registered charity has expended a disbursement excess for a taxation year, the charity may, for the purpose of determining whether it complies with the requirements of paragraph (2)(b), (3)(b) or (4)(b), as the case may be, for the immediately preceding taxation year of the charity and 5 or less of its immediately subsequent taxation years, include in the computation of the amounts expended on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees, such portion of that disbursement excess as was not so included under this subsection for any preceding taxation year.

(21) Definition of "disbursement excess" — [effective 2009 for most charitable organizations; see History below — ed.] For the purpose of subsection (20), "disbursement excess", for a taxation year of a charity, means the amount, if any, by which the total of amounts expended in the year by the charity on charitable activities carried on by it and by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees exceeds its disbursement quota for the year.

Related Provisions: 149.1(1.1) — Exclusions; 149.1(20) — Carrying disbursement excess back or forward to another year.

History: Subsec. 149.1(21) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 35(6), applicable to taxation years that begin after March 22, 2004, except that, in its application to a taxation year that begins before 2009 of a charitable organization registered by the Minister of National Revenue before March 23, 2004, the subsec. is to be read as follows:

(21) For the purpose of subsection (20), "disbursement excess" for a taxation year of a charity means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of amounts expended in the year by the charity on charitable activities carried on by it or by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees

exceeds

(b) in the case of a charitable foundation, its disbursement quota for the year, and

(c) in the case of a charitable organization, the total of the amounts determined for A, A.1 and B in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) for the year in respect of the charity.

The subsec. formerly read:

(21) For the purpose of subsection (20), "disbursement excess" for a taxation year of a charity means the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total of amounts expended in the year by the charity on charitable activities carried on by it or by way of gifts made by it to qualified donees

exceeds

(b) in the case of a charitable foundation, its disbursement quota for the year, and

(c) in the case of a charitable organization, the total of

(i) the amount that would be the value of A for the year, and

(ii) the amount that would be the value of A.1 for the year, in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) in respect of the organization if it were a charitable foundation.

Subparas. 149.1(21)(c)(i) and (ii) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 179(4), applicable to taxation years that end after November 1991. Subparas. 149.1(21)(c)(i) and (ii) formerly read:

(i) 80% of the amount that would be determined for the year for A, and

(ii) the amount that would be determined for the year for A.1,

Para. 149.1(21)(c) amended by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 74(6), applicable to taxation years that begin after 1992. Para. (c) formerly read:

(c) in the case of a charitable organization, 80% of the amount that would be determined for the year for A in the definition "disbursement quota" in subsection (1) in respect of the organization if it were a charitable foundation.

149.2 (1) Material and insignificant interests — In this section and section 149.1,

(a) a person has, at any time, a material interest in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation if, at that time,

(i) the percentage of the shares of that class held by the person exceeds 0.5% of all the issued and outstanding shares of that class, or

(ii) the fair market value of the shares so held exceeds $100,000; and

(b) a private foundation has, at any time, an insignificant interest in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation if, at that time, the percentage of shares of that class held by the private foundation does not exceed 2% of all the issued and outstanding shares of that class.

Forms: T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

(2) Material transaction — anti-avoidance — If a private foundation or a relevant person in respect of the private foundation has engaged in one or more transactions or series of transactions or events, a purpose of which may reasonably be considered to be to avoid the application of the definition "material transaction", each of those transactions or series of transactions or events is deemed to be a material transaction.

Proposed Addition — 149.2(2.1)

(2.1) Ownership — For the purposes of the definition "equity percentage", and subparagraph (b)(iii) of the definition "exempt shares", in subsection 149.1(1), a person who, if paragraph 251(5)(b) applied would be deemed by that paragraph to have the same position in relation to the control of a corporation as if the person owned a share, is deemed to own the share.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 56(1), will add subsec. 149.2(2.1), applicable after March 18, 2007.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 149.2(2.1) applies for the purposes of the definition "equity percentage" in subsection 149.1(1), applicable after March 18, 2007. That definition applies for the purpose of determining whether certain shares, held by a private foundation on March 18, 2007, are exempt from divestment under the excess corporate holdings regime.

In general, a particular corporation has an equity percentage in another corporation if the particular corporation has an interest in the shares of the other corporation (held either directly or indirectly through the particular corporation's shareholdings in a third, intermediary corporation). For example, if the particular corporation owns shares in a second corporation, which in turn owns shares in a public corporation, then the particular corporation has an equity interest in the public corporation.

Subsection 149.2(2.1) extends this definition such that a "right under a contract" described in paragraph 251(5)(b) of the Act will be considered to represent ownership of shares. Such a right under a contract could include, for instance, a right to acquire shares or to control the voting rights of shares, a right to cause a corporation to redeem, acquire or cancel the shares of another shareholder, or a right to cause a reduction to the voting rights of another shareholder.

As such, in the example described above, if the second corporation held a right to control the voting rights of shares in the public corporation, rather than the shares themselves, the particular corporation would still have an equity interest in the public corporation.

(3) Net increase in excess corporate holdings percentage — The net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of a private foundation for a taxation year, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, is the number of percentage points, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation at the end of the taxation year, in respect of the class, and

B is

(a) 0%, if

(i) at the beginning of the taxation year the private foundation was not both a private foundation and a registered charity, or

(ii) the private foundation was both a registered charity and a private foundation on March 18, 2007 and the taxation year is the first taxation year of the private foundation that begins after that date; and

(b) in any other case, the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class at the end of its preceding taxation year.

Forms: T2081: Excess corporate holdings worksheet for private foundations; T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

(4) Net decrease in excess corporate holdings percentage — The net decrease in the excess corporate holdings percentage of a private foundation for a taxation year, in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, is the number of percentage points, if any, by which the percentage determined for B in the formula in subsection (3) for the taxation year exceeds the percentage determined for A in that formula for the taxation year.

Forms: T2081: Excess corporate holdings worksheet for private foundations; T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

(5) Allocation of net increase in excess corporate holdings percentage — For the purpose of the description of B in the definition "divestment obligation percentage" in subsection 149.1(1), the net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of a private foundation in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation, for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "current year") is to be allocated in the following order:

(a) first to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the current year, to the extent that the private foundation has in the current year acquired for consideration shares of that class;

(b) then to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for its fifth subsequent taxation year, to the extent of the lesser of

(i) that portion of the net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the current year that is not allocated under paragraph (a), and

(ii) the percentage of the issued and outstanding shares of that class that were acquired by the private foundation in the current year by way of bequest;

(c) then to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for its second subsequent taxation year, to the extent of the lesser of

(i) that portion of the net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the current year that is not allocated under paragraph (a) or (b), and

(ii) the total of

(A) the percentage of the issued and outstanding shares of that class that were acquired by the private foundation in the current year by way of gift, other than from a relevant person or by way of bequest, and

(B) the portion of the net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation that is attributable to the redemption, acquisition or cancellation of any of the issued and outstanding shares of that class in the current year by the corporation; and

Proposed Amendment — 149.2(5)(b), (c)

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 56(5), states that if a registered charity was on March 19, 2007 a private foundation, in applying paras. 149.2(5)(b) and (c) to the first taxation year of the registered charity that begins after that date, the phrase "in the current year" in those paras. shall be read as "in the period that begins on March 18, 2007 and ends at the end of the current year".

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 149.2(5) allocates the increase, in a taxation year, in a private foundation's "excess corporation holdings percentage" in respect of corporate shares. The increase is allocated to the divestment obligation percentage for a taxation year in accordance with the manner in which the foundation acquired shares of that class.

The divestment obligation percentage is effectively a "pool" of excess acquisitions of the current year or prior years.

Subsection 149.2(5) is amended to provide a relieving technical amendment that applies to registered charities that were private foundations on March 19, 2007. In applying paragraphs 149.2(5)(b) and (c) to the first taxation year of the foundation that begins after that date, the phrase "in the current year" in those paragraphs is to be read as the phrase "in the period that begins on March 18, 2007 and ends at the end of the current year".

This amendment ensures that longer divestment periods for bequests and arm's length gifts of shares are retained for shares acquired by the foundation in the "stub period" from March 18, 2007 to the end of the taxation year of the foundation that includes that date.

(d) then to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for its subsequent taxation year, to the extent of that portion of the net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the current year that is not allocated under paragraph (a), (b) or (c).

Related Provisions: 149.2(6) — Foundation can apply to CRA to vary allocation.

Forms: T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

(6) Minister's discretion — Notwithstanding subsection (5), on application by a private foundation, the Minister may, if the Minister believes it would be just and equitable to do so, reallocate any portion of the net increase in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation for a taxation year, that would otherwise be allocated under subsection (5) to the private foundation's divestment obligation percentage in respect of that class for a particular taxation year, to the private foundation's divestment obligation percentage in respect of that class for any of the ten taxation years subsequent to the particular taxation year.

Forms: T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

(7) Allocation of net decrease in excess corporate holdings percentage — For the purpose of the description of C in the definition "divestment obligation percentage" in subsection 149.1(1), the net decrease in the excess corporate holdings percentage of a private foundation in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation for a taxation year (in this subsection referred to as the "current year") is to be allocated in the following order:

(a) first, to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the current year, to the extent of that divestment obligation percentage; and

(b) then to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for a subsequent taxation year of the private foundation (referred to in this paragraph as the "subject year"), to the extent of the lesser of

(i) that portion of the net decrease in the excess corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the current year that is not allocated under paragraph (a), or under this paragraph, to the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for a taxation year of the private foundation that precedes the subject year, and

(ii) the amount of the divestment obligation percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class for the subject year, calculated as at the end of the current year and without reference to this subsection.

Forms: T2081: Excess corporate holdings worksheet for private foundations; T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

(8) Transitional rule — If the original corporate holdings percentage of a private foundation in respect of a class of shares of the capital stock of a corporation exceeds 20%, for the purpose of applying the definition "excess corporate holdings percentage" in subsection 149.1(1) to

(a) the first taxation year of the private foundation that begins after March 18, 2007, the reference to 20% in that definition in respect of that class is to be read as the original corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of that class;

(b) taxation years of the private foundation that are after the taxation year referred to in paragraph (a) and that begin before March 19, 2012, the reference to 20% in that definition in respect of that class is to be read as the greater of

(i) 20%, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class at the end of the immediately preceding taxation year, and

(B) the original corporate holdings percentage in respect of that class;

(c) taxation years of the private foundation that begin after March 18, 2012 and before March 19, 2017, the reference to 20% in that definition in respect of that class is to be read as the greater of

(i) 20%, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class at the end of the preceding taxation year, and

(B) the number of percentage points, if any, by which the private foundation's original corporate holdings percentage in respect of that class exceeds 20%;

(d) taxation years of the private foundation that begin after March 18, 2017 and before March 19, 2022, the reference to 20% in that definition in respect of that class is to be read as the greater of

(i) 20%, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class at the end of the preceding taxation year, and

(B) the number of percentage points, if any, by which the private foundation's original corporate holdings percentage in respect of that class exceeds 40%; and

(e) taxation years of the private foundation that begin after March 18, 2022 and before March 19, 2027, the reference to 20% in that definition in respect of that class is to be read as the greater of

(i) 20%, and

(ii) the lesser of

(A) the total corporate holdings percentage of the private foundation in respect of the class at the end of the preceding taxation year, and

(B) the number of percentage points, if any, by which the private foundation's original corporate holdings percentage in respect of that class exceeds 60%.

Related Provisions: 149.2(10) — Shares held through a trust on March 18/07.

Forms: T2081: Excess corporate holdings worksheet for private foundations; T2082: Excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations [guide].

Proposed Addition — 149.2(9)–(11)

(9) Where subsec. (10) applies — Subsection (10) applies for the purposes of applying section 149.1 and subsections (8) and 188.1(3.1) to a private foundation at a particular time if, both on March 18, 2007 and at the particular time,

(a) the private foundation was the sole trustee of a trust, or was a majority interest beneficiary (within the meaning assigned by section 251.1) of a trust more than 50% of the trustees of which were the private foundation and one or more relevant persons in respect of the private foundation; and

(b) the trust held one or more shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsections 149.2(9) to (11) apply for the purpose of the excess corporate holdings regime for private foundations. These provisions attribute to a foundation, in certain circumstances, shares held by a trust on March 18, 2007.

(10) Shares held through a trust on March 18, 2007 — If this subsection applies at a particular time to a private foundation in respect of shares of a class of the capital stock of a corporation held by a trust, the private foundation is deemed to hold at the particular time that number of those shares as is determined by the formula

where

A is the lesser of the number of those shares held by the trust on March 18, 2007 and the number so held at the particular time,

B is the total fair market value of all interests held by the private foundation in the trust at the particular time, and

C is the total fair market value of all property held by the trust at the particular time.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 149.2(10) deems a foundation to own shares held by a trust on March 18, 2007, in proportion to the value of the foundation's proportionate interest in the trust, where the following conditions in subsection 149.2(9) are met:

- the foundation is the sole trustee of the trust; or
- the foundation is a "majority interest beneficiary" (as that term is defined in subsection 251.1(3)) of the trust, and a majority of the trustees of the trust consist of the foundation and relevant persons in respect of the foundation.

Where the foundation is deemed to hold shares that meet the conditions of the definition "exempt shares" in subsection 149.1(1), the foundation may not, as a consequence, have a divestment obligation in respect of those shares.

Related Provisions: 149.2(9) — Conditions for 149.2(10) to apply; 149.2(11) — Discretionary trusts.

(11) Discretionary trusts — For the purpose of subsection (10), if the amount of income or capital of a trust that a person may receive as a beneficiary under the trust depends on the exercise by any person of, or the failure by any person to exercise, a discretionary power, that person is deemed to have fully exercised, or to have failed to exercise, the power, as the case may be.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): For the purpose of simplifying the valuation of a foundation's interest in a discretionary trust, subsection 149.2(11) removes the significance of a person exercising, or failing to exercise, a discretionary power in respect of the allocation of income or capital of the trust.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 56(2), will add subsecs. 149.2(9) to (11), applicable to taxation years, of private foundations, that begin after February 25, 2008.

History [s. 149.2]: S. 149.2 added by 2007, c. 35, s. 47, applicable to taxation years, of private foundations, that begin after March 18, 2007.

(4) Death of partner or proprietor — Where

(a) subsection 34.1(9) or 34.2(8) applies in computing an individual's income for a taxation year from a business, or

(b) an individual who carries on a business in a taxation year dies in the year and after the end of a fiscal period of the business that ends in the year, another fiscal period of the business (in this subsection referred to as the "short period") ends in the year because of the individual's death, and the individual's legal representative elects that this subsection apply, the individual's income from businesses for short periods, if any, shall not be included in computing the individual's income for the year and the individual's legal representative shall file an additional return of income for the year in respect of the individual as if the return were filed in respect of another person and shall pay the tax payable under this Part by that other person for the year computed as if

(c) the other person's only income for the year were the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C$$

where

A is the total of all amounts each of which is the individual's income from a business for a short fiscal period,

B is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deducted under subsection 34.2(8) in computing the individual's income for the taxation year in which the individual dies, and

C is the total of all amounts each of which is an amount included under subsection 34.1(9) in computing the individual's income for the taxation year in which the individual dies, and

(d) subject to sections 114.2 and 118.93, that other person were entitled to the deductions to which the individual is entitled under sections 110, 118 to 118.7 and 118.9 for the year in computing the individual's taxable income or tax payable under this Part, as the case may be, for the year.

History: Subsec. 150(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 180(2), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. 150(4) formerly read:

(4) Where a taxpayer who is a partner or an individual who is a proprietor of a business died after the end of a fiscal period but before the end of the calendar year in which the fiscal period ended, the taxpayer's income as such partner or proprietor for the period commencing immediately after the end of the fiscal period and ending at the time of death shall be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer died unless the taxpayer's legal representative has elected otherwise, in which case the legal representative shall file a separate return of income for the period under this Part and pay the tax for the period under this Part as if

(a) the taxpayer were another person;

(b) the period were a taxation year;

(c) that other person's only income for the period were that person's income as such partner or proprietor for that period; and

(d) subject to sections 114.2 and 118.93, that other person were entitled to the deductions to which the taxpayer was entitled under sections 110, 118 to 118.7 and 118.9 for the period in computing the taxpayer's taxable income or tax payable under this Part, as the case may be, for the period.

(5) Excluded disposition — For the purposes of this section, a disposition of a property by a taxpayer at any time in a taxation year is an excluded disposition if

(a) the taxpayer is non-resident at that time;

(b) no tax is payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the taxation year;

(c) the taxpayer is, at that time, not liable to pay any amount under this Act in respect of any previous taxation year (other than an amount for which the Minister has accepted, and holds, adequate security under section 116 or 220); and

(d) each taxable Canadian property disposed of by the taxpayer in the taxation year is

(i) excluded property within the meaning assigned by subsection 116(6), or

(ii) a property in respect of the disposition of which the Minister has issued to the taxpayer a certificate under subsection 116(2), (4) or (5.2).

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion, Jan. 27, 2009: Mandatory filing of return by electronic transmission

(19) That, for taxation years that end after 2009, corporations that meet conditions prescribed by the Minister of National Revenue be required to file the return of income required to be filed under section 150 of the Act by way of electronic filing.

(20) That, for taxation years that end after 2010, the Act be amended to provide that every person who fails to file a return of income for a taxation year by way of electronic filing as required by paragraph (19) be liable to a penalty of

(a) where the taxation year ends in 2011, $250;

(b) where the taxation year ends in 2012, $500; and

(c) where the taxation year ends after 2012, $1,000.

Federal Budget, Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: Mandatory Electronic Filing

Taxpayers are currently allowed to file their income tax information with the CRA in electronic format if they meet certain criteria acceptable to the CRA. The CRA will increase efficiencies in the implementation of its programs by requiring such electronic filing in certain circumstances.

First, corporations that have annual gross revenues in excess of $1 million for a taxation year will generally be required to file their income tax returns for the year in electronic format. The CRA may provide exceptions for corporations of a type in respect of which the CRA would not generate efficiencies through electronic filing. These could include, for example, non-resident corporations [see 150(1)(a)(i)(B)-(D) — ed.], insurance corporations [see 138 — ed.], and corporations filing in a functional currency [see 261 — ed.].

This measure will apply in respect of corporate income tax returns for taxation years that end after 2009.

[Second measure, re electronic filing of information slips, reproduced at Reg. 205.1 — ed.]

Penalties

In addition to the new electronic filing requirements described above, Budget 2009 proposes to introduce a penalty for filing a corporate income tax return in an incorrect format. . .

Penalty for Filing a Corporate Income Tax Return in an Incorrect Format

In order to ensure compliance with the new corporate electronic income tax return filing requirement, a new penalty for filing a corporate income tax return in an incorrect format will be introduced. While the requirement to file certain corporate income tax returns in electronic format applies to returns required to be filed after 2009, no penalties will be introduced for failure to do so for returns required to be filed before 2011. The penalty for taxation years that end in 2011 will be set at $250, then increased to $500 for taxation years that end in 2012 and to $1,000 for taxation years that end after 2012.

(3) Deemed date of filing — For the purposes of section 150, where a return of income of a taxpayer for a taxation year is filed by way of electronic filing, it shall be deemed to be a return of income filed with the Minister in prescribed form on the day the Minister acknowledges acceptance of it.

(4) Declaration — Where a return of income of a taxpayer for a taxation year is filed by way of electronic filing by a particular person (in this subsection referred to as the "filer") other than the person who is required to file the return, the person who is required to file the return shall make an information return in prescribed form containing prescribed information, sign it, retain a copy of it and provide the filer with the information return, and that return and the copy shall be deemed to be a record referred to in section 230 in respect of the filer and the other person.

History: Subsec. 150.1(4) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 75, applicable after 1991. That subsec. formerly read:

(4) Where a return of income of a taxpayer for a taxation year is filed by way of electronic filing by a particular person (in this subsection referred to as the "filer") other than the person who is required to file the return, the filer shall, if required by regulation, obtain from the other person a signed statement in prescribed form, retain one copy of the statement and provide the other person with a copy, and the statement shall be deemed to be a record referred to in section 230 in respect of the filer and the other person.

Forms: RC4018: Electronic filers manual [guide]; T183: Information return for electronic filing of an individual's income tax and benefit return; T183 CORP: Information return for corporations filing electronically.

(5) Application to other Parts — This section also applies to Parts I.2 to XIII, with such modifications as the circumstances require.

History: Subsec. 150.1(5) amended to replace "Part I.1" with "Parts I.2" by 2001, c. 17, s. 148, applicable to 2001 et seq.

History [s 150.1]: S. 150.1 added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 89, applicable to 1992 et seq., and subsec. 150.1(5), in its application to Parts X, X.1, X.2, X.4, XI, XI.1 and XI.2, applies after 1991 as if subsecs. (1) to (4) applied after 1991.

(1.11) Determination pursuant to subsec. 245(2) — Where at any time the Minister ascertains the tax consequences to a taxpayer by reason of subsection 245(2) with respect to a transaction, the Minister

(a) shall, in the case of a determination pursuant to subsection 245(8), or

(b) may, in any other case, determine any amount that is relevant for the purposes of computing the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or amount refundable to, the taxpayer under this Act and, where such a determination is made, the Minister shall send to the taxpayer, with all due dispatch, a notice of determination stating the amount so determined.

Related Provisions: 152(1.111) — Definitions in 245(1) apply; 152(1.12) — Limitation; 152(1.3) — Determination binding; 244(14) — Presumption re date of mailing of notice of determination; 244(15) — Determination deemed made on date mailed; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

(1.111) Application of subsec. 245(1) — The definitions in subsection 245(1) apply to subsection (1.11).

Origin of subsec. 152(1.111): R.S.C. 1985, c. 1 (5th Supp.) (formerly contained in the opening words of subsec. 245(1)).

(1.12) When determination not to be made — A determination of an amount shall not be made with respect to a taxpayer under subsection (1.11) at a time where that amount is relevant only for the purposes of computing the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or amount refundable to, the taxpayer under this Act for a taxation year ending before that time.

(1.2) Provisions applicable — Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to a determination or redetermination of an amount under this Division or an amount deemed under section 122.61 or 126.1 to be an overpayment on account of a taxpayer's liability under this Part, except that

(1.2) Provisions applicable — Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to a determination or a redetermination of an amount under this Division or an amount deemed under section 122.61 to be an overpayment on account of a taxpayer's liability under this Part, except that

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 150(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 152(1.2) to read as above, applicable in respect of forms filed after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 152(1.2) is amended to delete the reference to section 126.1, consequential to the repeal of that section. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

(a) subsections (1) and (2) do not apply to determinations made under subsections (1.1) and (1.11);

(b) an original determination of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year may be made by the Minister only at the request of the taxpayer; and

(c) subsection 164(4.1) does not apply to a determination made under subsection (1.4).

Related Provisions: 96(2.1) — Limited partnership losses; 111 — Losses deductible; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF.

History: Subsec. 152(1.2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(1), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998. Subsec. 152(1.2) formerly read:

(1.2) Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to a determination or redetermination of an amount under this Division or an amount deemed under section 122.61 or 126.1 to be an overpayment on account of a taxpayer's liability under this Part, except that subsections (1) and (2) do not apply to determinations made under subsections (1.1) and (1.11) and, for greater certainty, an original determination of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year may be made by the Minister only at the request of the taxpayer.

Subsec. 152(1.2) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(1), applicable after 1992. Subsec. (1.2) formerly read:

(1.2) Paragraphs 56(1)(l) and 60(o), this Division and Division J, as they relate to an assessment or a reassessment and to assessing or reassessing tax, are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to a determination or a redetermination and to determining or redetermining amounts under this Division, except that subsections (1) and (2) are not applicable to determinations made under subsections (1.1) and (1.11) and, for greater certainty, an original determination of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year may be made by the Minister only at the request of the taxpayer.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(1.2)]: Inco Ltd. v. R., [2005] 1 C.T.C. 367 (FCA); aff'g [2004] 4 C.T.C. 2114 (TCC) (Minister's letter was not "determination" of losses).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-488R2: Winding-up of 90%-owned taxable Canadian corporations (archived); IT-512: Determination and redetermination of losses.

(1.3) Determination binding — For greater certainty, where the Minister makes a determination of the amount of a taxpayer's non-capital loss, net capital loss, restricted farm loss, farm loss or limited partnership loss for a taxation year or makes a determination under subsection (1.11) with respect to a taxpayer, the determination is (subject to the taxpayer's rights of objection and appeal in respect of the determination and to any redetermination by the Minister) binding on both the Minister and the taxpayer for the purpose of calculating the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or amount refundable to, the taxpayer, as the case may be, for any taxation year.

Related Provisions: 96(2.1) — Limited partnership loss; 111 — Losses deductible; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-488R2: Winding-up of 90%-owned taxable Canadian corporations (archived); IT-512: Determination and redetermination of losses.

(1.4) Determination in respect of a partnership — The Minister may, within 3 years after the day that is the later of

(a) the day on or before which a member of a partnership is, or but for subsection 220(2.1) would be, required under section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations to make an information return for a fiscal period of the partnership, and

(b) the day the return is filed, determine any income or loss of the partnership for the fiscal period and any deduction or other amount, or any other matter, in respect of the partnership for the fiscal period that is relevant in determining the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or any amount refundable to or deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment by, any member of the partnership for any taxation year under this Part.

Related Provisions: 152(1.2)(c) — Subsec. 164(4.1) does not apply to determination under 152(1.4); 152(1.5), (1.6) — Notice of determination; 152(1.7) — Determination binding; 152(1.8) — Assessment where partnership found not to exist; 163(2.9) — Partnership can be assessed certain penalties as though it were a corporation; 165(1.15) — Objection to determination; 197(6)(b) — Assessment can be made at any time for Part IX.1 distributions tax or tax payable by partner; 244(15) — Determination deemed made on date mailed.

History: Subsec. 152(1.4) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.5) Notice of determination — Where a determination is made under subsection (1.4) in respect of a partnership for a fiscal period, the Minister shall send a notice of the determination to the partnership and to each person who was a member of the partnership during the fiscal period.

Related Provisions: 152(1.6) — Determination valid even if notice not received by partners; 244(14) — Presumption re date of mailing of determination; 244(20) — Notice mailed to partnership deemed provided to all partners; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 152(1.5) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.6) Absence of notification — No determination made under subsection (1.4) in respect of a partnership for a fiscal period is invalid solely because one or more persons who were members of the partnership during the period did not receive a notice of the determination.

Related Provisions: 244(20) — Notice mailed to partnership deemed provided to all partners.

History: Subsec. 152(1.6) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.7) Binding effect of determination — Where the Minister makes a determination under subsection (1.4) or a redetermination in respect of a partnership,

(a) subject to the rights of objection and appeal of the member of the partnership referred to in subsection 165(1.15) in respect of the determination or redetermination, the determination or redetermination is binding on the Minister and each member of the partnership for the purposes of calculating the income, taxable income or taxable income earned in Canada of, tax or other amount payable by, or any amount refundable to or deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment by, the members for any taxation year under this Part; and

(b) notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.01), (4.1) and (5), the Minister may, before the end of the day that is one year after the day on which all rights of objection and appeal expire or are determined in respect of the determination or redetermination, assess the tax, interest, penalties or other amounts payable and determine an amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment under this Part in respect of any member of the partnership and any other taxpayer for any taxation year as may be necessary to give effect to the determination or redetermination or a decision of the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada.

History: Para. 152(1.7)(b) amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 184(a) to substitute "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court of Canada", in force July 2, 2003.

Subsec. 152(1.7) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.8) Time to assess — Where, as a result of representations made to the Minister that a person was a member of a partnership in respect of a fiscal period, a determination is made under subsection (1.4) for the period and the Minister, the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada concludes at a subsequent time that the partnership did not exist for the period or that, throughout the period, the person was not a member of the partnership, the Minister may, notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), within one year after that subsequent time, assess the tax, interest, penalties or other amounts payable, or determine an amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment under this Part, by any taxpayer for any taxation year, but only to the extent that the assessment or determination can reasonably be regarded

(a) as relating to any matter that was relevant in the making of the determination made under subsection (1.4);

(b) as resulting from the conclusion that the partnership did not exist for the period; or

(c) as resulting from the conclusion that the person was, throughout the period, not a member of the partnership.

Related Provisions [subsec. 152(1.8)]: 165(1.1)(a), (d) — Limitation of right to object; 169(2)(a), (d) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: The opening words of subsec. 152(1.8) amended by 2002, c. 8, para. 184(b) to substitute "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court of Canada", in force July 2, 2003.

Subsec. 152(1.8) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(2) Notice of assessment — After examination of a return, the Minister shall send a notice of assessment to the person by whom the return was filed.

Related Provisions: 158 — Remainder payable forthwith after assessment mailed; 197(6)(a) — Notice of assessment can be sent to partnership for Part IX.1 distributions tax; 244(14), (15) — Mailing date of assessment.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(2)]: Sinnott v. R., [2000] 4 C.T.C. 2438 (TCC) (Sending of notice of assessment to trustee in bankruptcy instead of taxpayer did not give rise to extension of delays to object).

Forms: T67A, T67AC, T67AN, T453, T456, T457, T492: Notices of assessment; T1132: Alternative address authorization.

(3) Liability not dependent on assessment — Liability for the tax under this Part is not affected by an incorrect or incomplete assessment or by the fact that no assessment has been made.

Related Provisions: 152(4), (6), (8) — Assessment and reassessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient; 165 — Objections to assessments; 166 — Assessment not to be vacated by reason of improper procedures; 169 — Appeal.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(3)]: Guaranty Properties Ltd. v. Canada, [1990] 2 C.T.C. 94 (FCA); leave to appeal to SCC refused (1991), 49 B.L.R. 320 (note) (Amalgamating company not relieved of taxes prior to amalgamation; notice of reassessment valid).

(3.1) Definition of "normal reassessment period" — For the purposes of subsections (4), (4.01), (4.2), (4.3), (5) and (9), the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer in respect of a taxation year is

(a) where at the end of the year the taxpayer is a mutual fund trust or a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, the period that ends 4 years after the earlier of the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year and the day of mailing of an original notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year; and

(b) in any other case, the period that ends 3 years after the earlier of the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year and the day of mailing of an original notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year.

Related Provisions: 136(1) — Cooperative corporation may be private corporation for purposes of s. 152; 137(7) — Credit union may be private corporation; 152(4), (6), (8) — Assessment and reassessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient; 165 — Objections to assessments; 166 — Irregularities; 169, 172 — Appeal; 244(14) — Notice presumed mailed on date of notice; 244(15) — Date when assessment made.

History: 2001, c. 17, subsec. 150(2) (see below) is applicable in respect of an individual if, at any particular time after October 1, 1996 and before June 14, 1999 (two years before Royal Assent),

(a) the individual ceased to be resident in Canada; or

(b) where the individual is a trust, the trust made a distribution of property to which subsec. 107(2) does not apply solely because of the application of subsection 107(5), as amended.

Subsec. 150(2) reads as follows:

(2) Where this subsection applies in respect of an individual, for the purposes of any reassessment of the individual's tax, interest or penalties, for any year, that is necessary to take into account the application of this Act in respect of the cessation of residence or the distribution referred to in subsection (1), the individual's normal reassessment period under subsection 152(3.1) of the Act for any taxation year that ends at or after the particular time described in subsection (1) is, notwithstanding subsection 152(3.1) of the Act, deemed to end on the later of

(a) the day on which the normal reassessment period for the year would, but for this section, end; and

(b) the day [June 14, 2002] that is one year after the day on which this Act [2001, c. 17] receives royal assent.

The opening words of subsec. 152(3.1) amended by 1999, c. 22, subsec. 63.1(1), applicable to appeals disposed of after June 17, 1999. The opening words formerly read:

(3.1) For the purposes of subsections (4), (4.01), (4.2), (4.3) and (5), the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer in respect of a taxation year is

Subsec. 152(3.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(3), applicable after April 27, 1989. The subsec. formerly read:

(3.1) For the purposes of subsections (4), (4.2), (4.3) and (5), the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer in respect of a taxation year is

(a) where at the end of the year the taxpayer is a mutual fund trust or a corporation other than a Canadian-controlled private corporation, the period that ends 4 years after the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year or the day of mailing of a notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year, and

(b) in any other case, the period that ends 3 years after the day of mailing of a notice of an original assessment under this Part in respect of the taxpayer for the year or the day of mailing of a notification that no tax is payable by the taxpayer for the year.

That portion of subsec. 152(3.1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 90(1), to add reference to subsection (4.3), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991.

That portion of subsec. 152(3.1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 125(1), to add reference to subsec. (4.2), applicable to assessments and redeterminations made in respect of 1985 et seq.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(3.1)]: Biros v. R., [2007] 4 C.T.C. 2323 (TCC) (Minister's onus satisfied where fraudulent income not declared); Anchor Pointe Energy Ltd. v. R., [2007] 4 C.T.C. 5 (FCA) (Taxpayer has onus regarding assumptions made at any stage of assessment process: assessment, reassessment, confirmation); Brunette v. R., [2001] 1 C.T.C. 2008 (TCC) (Delay starts the day after assessment issued); Continental Bank of Canada v. Canada, [1996] 3 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC) (Minister could not repudiate valid assessment because of a correctable error).

(3.2) Determination of deemed overpayment [Child Tax Benefit] — A taxpayer may, during any month, request in writing that the Minister determine the amount deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for a taxation year that arose during the month or any of the 11 preceding months.

Related Provisions: 152(3.3) — Notice of determination.

History: Subsec. 152(3.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 15(2), applicable to months that are after 1992.

(3.3) Notice of determination [Child Tax Benefit] — On receipt of the request referred to in subsection (3.2), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, determine the amounts deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be overpayments on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part that arose during the months in respect of which the request was made or determine that there is no such amount, and shall send a notice of the determination to the taxpayer.

History: Subsec. 152(3.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 15(2), applicable to months that are after 1992.

(3.4) Determination of UI premium tax credit — A taxpayer may request in writing that the Minister determine the amount deemed by subsection 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for a taxation year.

Related Provisions: 152(3.5) — Notice of determination.

History: Subsec. 152(3.4) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(2), applicable after 1992.

(3.5) Notice of determination [UI premium tax credit] — On receipt of the request referred to in subsection (3.4), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, determine the amount deemed by subsection 126.1(6) or (7), as the case may be, to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for a taxation year, or determine that there is no such amount, and shall send a notice of the determination to the taxpayer.

Proposed Repeal — 152(3.4), (3.5)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 150(2), will repeal subsecs. 152(3.4) and (3.5), applicable in respect of forms filed after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: This subsection [152(3.4)] enables a taxpayer to request the Minister of National Revenue to determine the amount deemed by subsection 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under Part I of the Act.

This subsection is repealed consequential to the repeal of section 126.1. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

Subsection 152(3.5) requires the Minister of National Revenue to respond to a request for a determination of the UI premium tax credit. This subsection is repealed consequential to the repeal of section 126.1. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

History: Subsec. 152(3.5) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(2), applicable after 1992.

(4) Assessment and reassessment [limitation period] — The Minister may at any time make an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment of tax for a taxation year, interest or penalties, if any, payable under this Part by a taxpayer or notify in writing any person by whom a return of income for a taxation year has been filed that no tax is payable for the year, except that an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment may be made after the taxpayer's normal reassessment period in respect of the year only if

(a) the taxpayer or person filing the return

(i) has made any misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default or has committed any fraud in filing the return or in supplying any information under this Act, or

(ii) has filed with the Minister a waiver in prescribed form within the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year; or

(b) the assessment, reassessment or additional assessment is made before the day that is 3 years after the end of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year and

(i) is required pursuant to subsection (6) or would be so required if the taxpayer had claimed an amount by filing the prescribed form referred to in that subsection on or before the day referred to therein,

(ii) is made as a consequence of the assessment or reassessment pursuant to this paragraph or subsection (6) of tax payable by another taxpayer,

(iii) is made as a consequence of a transaction involving the taxpayer and a non-resident person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length,

(iii.1) is made, if the taxpayer is non-resident and carries on a business in Canada, as a consequence of

(A) an allocation by the taxpayer of revenues or expenses as amounts in respect of the Canadian business (other than revenues and expenses that relate solely to the Canadian business, that are recorded in the books of account of the Canadian business, and the documentation in support of which is kept in Canada), or

(B) a notional transaction between the taxpayer and its Canadian business, where the transaction is recognized for the purposes of the computation of an amount under this Act or an applicable tax treaty,

(iv) is made as a consequence of a payment or reimbursement of any income or profits tax to or by the government of a country other than Canada or a government of a state, province or other political subdivision of any such country,

(v) is made as a consequence of a reduction under subsection 66(12.73) of an amount purported to be renounced under section 66, or

(vi) is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 118.1(15) or (16).

Proposed Amendment — 152(4)(b)(vi)

(vi) is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 94(9) or (10) or 118.1(15) or (16).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), s. 34, will amend subpara. 152(4)(b)(vi) to read as above, applicable after 2006, except that, if s. 94 applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007, the amendment applies on or after the first day of the first such taxation year of the taxpayer to which s. 94 applies.

Technical Notes: In general terms, subsection 152(4) provides that the Minister of National Revenue may not reassess tax payable by a taxpayer for a taxation year after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year unless certain conditions described in paragraph 152(4)(a) or (b) have been met.

Subparagraph 152(4)(b)(vi) allows the Minister to reassess a taxpayer within 3 years after the end of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year where the reassessment is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 118.1(15) or (16).

Subparagraph 152(4)(b)(vi) is amended to also allow the Minister to reassess a taxpayer within three years after the end of the normal reassessment period where the reassessment is made in order to give effect to the application of subsection 94(9) or (10). For more information on subsections 94(9) and (10), see the commentary on those subsections.

Proposed Addition — 152(4)(c), (d)

(c) the taxpayer or person filing the return has filed with the Minister a waiver in prescribed form within the additional 3-year period referred to in paragraph (b); or

(d) as a consequence of a change in the allocation of the taxpayer's taxable income earned in a province as determined under the law of a province that provides rules similar to those prescribed for the purposes of section 124, an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment of tax for a taxation year payable by a corporation under a law of a province that imposes on the corporation a tax similar to the tax imposed under this Part (in this paragraph referred to as a "provincial reassessment") is made, and as a consequence of the provincial reassessment, an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment is made on or before the day that is one year after the later of

(i) the day on which the Minister is advised of the provincial reassessment, and

(ii) the day that is 90 days after the day of mailing of a notice of the provincial reassessment.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 58(1), will add paras. 152(4)(c) and (d), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): Subsection 152(4) generally provides that the Minister of National Revenue may not reassess tax payable by a taxpayer for a taxation year after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year unless certain conditions described in paragraph 152(4)(a) or (b) have been met.

Subsection 152(4) is amended by adding new paragraph (c), consequential on the Canada-Ontario Memorandum of Agreement Concerning a Single Administration of Ontario Corporate Tax. New paragraph (c) provides for an extension of the normal reassessment period to one year after the later of two dates. These two dates are the day on which the Minister is advised of a provincial reassessment and the day that is 90 days after the mailing of a provincial reassessment notice.

"Provincial reassessment" is used in new paragraph 152(4)(c) to refer to a specific type of assessment or reassessment. Generally, a provincial reassessment is an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment of tax payable by a corporation for a taxation year under the law of a province that imposes a corporate income tax, where that assessment or reassessment is made because of a change in the allocation of the corporation's taxable income earned in a province.

Canada-Ontario Memorandum of Agreement Concerning a Single Administration of Ontario Corporate Tax, Oct. 2006: 4.1. Canada undertakes to . . . (a) work with the provinces and territories to establish a timetable to implement, no later than the beginning of the first taxation year of TCA [Tax Collection Agreement] administration [April 2009 — ed.], the following provisions: . . .

iv. consequential assessments — it is proposed that the Federal [Income Tax] Act be amended to provide for an extension of time for assessments that are consequential to assessment actions carried out by another taxing authority. It is acknowledged that the proposed amendments relating to consequential assessments may also require amendments to provincial and territorial legislation.

Related Provisions: 12(2.2) — Late assessment where amount elected re 12(1)(x) inclusion; 13(6) — Misclassified property; 21(5) — Late assessment to permit capitalization of interest; 67.5(2) — Late assessment re illegal payments; 69(12) — Late assessment on disposition of property below market value; 80.04(9) — Late assessment re transfer of forgiven amount of debt to related person; 104(5.31) — Revocation beyond the deadline of trust's election to defer 21-year deemed disposition; 118.1(11) — Late assessment on determination of value of cultural property; 127(17) — Assessment re ITC SR&ED pool beyond the deadline; 128.1(6)(d) — Late assessment to eliminate departure tax paid by taxpayer who returns to Canada; 143.2(15) — Limitation period inapplicable to reassessment of tax shelter investment; 146(8.01) — Home Buyer's Plan & LLP — late assessment of tax on withdrawal; 152(1.7) — Limitation period re determination of partnership income or loss; 152(3.1) — Normal reassessment period; 152(4.01) — Limitation on extended assessments; 152(4.1) — Where waiver revoked; 152(4.2) — Reassessment with taxpayer's consent; 152(4.3) — Consequential assessment; 152(5) — Limitation on assessments; 158 — Payment of balance on assessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 161.1(7) — Late assessment to allow interest offset allocation; 164(1)(b) — Refunds; 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object; 165(5) — Effect of filing of notice of objection; 169(2) — Limitation of right to appeal; 173(2) — Time during consideration not to count; 174(5) — Time during consideration of question not counted; 184(4) — Late assessment after election re excess capital dividend; 231.6 — Foreign-based information; 237.1(6.2) — Late assessment denying tax shelter deduction while penalty unpaid; 244(15) — Date when assessment made; Reg. 1106(1)"application for a certificate of completion"(b) — Waiver required to extend film tax credit application date; Interpretation Act 26 — Deadline on Sunday or holiday extended to next business day.

History: Subpara. 152(4)(b)(iii.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 149(1), applicable to 2000 et seq.

Subsec. 152(4) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(4), applicable after April 27, 1989, except that in applying the subsec.

(a) before August 1997, it shall be read without reference to subpara. (b)(vi); and

(b) to a taxation year before the 1996 taxation year, it shall be read without reference to subpara. (b)(v).

Subsec. 152(4) formerly read:

(4) Subject to subsection (5), the Minister may at any time assess tax for a taxation year, interest or penalties, if any, payable under this Part by a taxpayer or notify in writing any person by whom a return of income for a taxation year has been filed that no tax is payable for the year, and may

(a) at any time, if the taxpayer or person filing the return

(i) has made any misrepresentation that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default or has committed any fraud in filing the return or in supplying any information under this Act, or

(ii) has filed with the Minister a waiver in prescribed form within the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year,

(b) before the day that is 3 years after the expiration of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year, if

(i) an assessment or reassessment of the tax of the taxpayer was required pursuant to subsection (6) or would have been required if the taxpayer had claimed an amount by filing the prescribed form referred to in that subsection on or before the day referred to therein,

(ii) there is reason, as a consequence of the assessment or reassessment of another taxpayer's tax pursuant to this paragraph or subsection (6), to assess or reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year,

(iii) there is reason, as a consequence of a transaction involving the taxpayer and a non-resident person with whom the taxpayer was not dealing at arm's length, to assess or reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year, or

(iv) there is reason, as a consequence of an additional payment or reimbursement of any income or profits tax to or by the government of a country other than Canada, to assess or reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year, and

(c) within the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year, in any other case, reassess or make additional assessments, or assess tax, interest or penalties under this Part, as the circumstances require, except that a reassessment, an additional assessment or an assessment may be made under paragraph (b) after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year only to the extent that it may reasonably be regarded as relating to

(d) the assessment or reassessment referred to in subparagraph (b)(i) or (ii),

(e) the transaction referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii), or

(f) the additional payment or reimbursement referred to in subparagraph (b)(iv).

(4.01) Assessment to which para. 152(4)(a) or (b) applies — Notwithstanding subsections (4) and (5), an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment to which paragraph (4)(a) or (4)(b) applies in respect of a taxpayer for a taxation year may be made after the taxpayer's normal reassessment period in respect of the year to the extent that, but only to the extent that, it can reasonably be regarded as relating to,

Proposed Amendment — 152(4.01) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 58(2), will amend the opening words in subsec. 152(4.01) to substitute "(4)(a), (b) or (c)" for "(4)(a) or (4)(b)", in force on Royal Assent.

(a) where paragraph (4)(a) applies to the assessment, reassessment or additional assessment,

(i) any misrepresentation made by the taxpayer or a person who filed the taxpayer's return of income for the year that is attributable to neglect, carelessness or wilful default or any fraud committed by the taxpayer or that person in filing the return or supplying any information under this Act, or

(ii) a matter specified in a waiver filed with the Minister in respect of the year; and

(b) where paragraph (4)(b) applies to the assessment, reassessment or additional assessment,

Proposed Amendment — 152(4.01)(b) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 58(3), will amend the opening words in subsec. 152(4.01)(b) to substitute "(4)(b) or (c)" for "(4)(b)", in force on Royal Assent.

(i) the assessment, reassessment or additional assessment to which subparagraph (4)(b)(i) applies,

(ii) the assessment or reassessment referred to in subparagraph (4)(b)(ii),

(iii) the transaction referred to in subparagraph (4)(b)(iii),

(iv) the payment or reimbursement referred to in subparagraph (4)(b)(iv),

(4.1) Where waiver revoked — Where the Minister would, but for this subsection, be entitled to reassess, make an additional assessment or assess tax, interest or penalties by virtue only of the filing of a waiver under subparagraph (4)(a)(ii), the Minister may not make such reassessment, additional assessment or assessment after the day that is six months after the date on which a notice of revocation of the waiver in prescribed form is filed.

Related Provisions: 152(1.7) — Limitation period re determination of partnership income or loss; 152(4.2) — Reassessment with taxpayer's consent; 165(1.2) — No objection permitted where right to object waived; 169(2.2) — No appeal where right to object or appeal waived.

Forms: T652: Notice of revocation of waiver.

(4.2) Reassessment with taxpayer's consent — Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), for the purpose of determining, at any time after the end of the normal reassessment period of a taxpayer who is an individual (other than a trust) or a testamentary trust in respect of a taxation year, the amount of any refund to which the taxpayer is entitled at that time for the year, or a reduction of an amount payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year, the Minister may, if the taxpayer makes an application for that determination on or before the day that is ten calendar years after the end of that taxation year,

(a) reassess tax, interest or penalties payable under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of that year; and

(b) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2) or (2.2), 122.5(3), 122.51(2), 122.7(2) or (3), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

(4.2) Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), for the purpose of determining, at any time after the expiration of the normal reassessment period for a taxpayer who is an individual (other than a trust) or a testamentary trust in respect of a taxation year,

(a) the amount of any refund to which the taxpayer is entitled at that time for that year, or

(b) a reduction of an amount payable under this Part by the taxpayer for that year, the Minister may, if application therefor has been made by the taxpayer,

(c) reassess tax, interest or penalties payable under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of that year, and

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2) or (2.2), 122.5(3), 122.51(2), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 44(2), applicable to 1999 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 122.5(3), 122.51(2), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 42(2), applicable to 1997 et seq., except that for the 1997 taxation year the reference to "subsection 120(2)," shall be read as a reference to "subsection 120(2), 120.1(4),". Para. 152(4.2)(d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 127.41(3) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2), 122.61(1) or 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 1995, c. 3, subsec. 46(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2), 122.61(1) or 126.1(6) or (7) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year,

Para. 152(4.2)(d) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 20(3), applicable after 1992, except that in its application to redeterminations made in respect of the 1991 and 1992 taxation years, the para. shall be read as follows:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.2(1), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2) or 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2) or 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. 152(4.2)(d) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 15(3), applicable to redeterminations made in respect of 1991 et seq. except that, in its application to redeterminations made in respect of the 1991 and 1992 taxation years, the para. shall be read as follows:

(d) redetermine the amount of tax, if any, deemed by subsection 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.2(1), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) to be paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year or deemed by subsection 119(2) or 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year.

Para. (4.2)(d) formerly read:

(d) redetermine the amount of tax, if any, deemed by subsection 119(2), 120(2), 120.1(4), 122.2(1), 122.5(3), 127.1(1), 144(9) or 210.2(3) or (4) of this Act or subsection 122.4(3) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, as it applied to taxation years ending before 1991, to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that year.

Subsec. 152(4.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 125(2), applicable to assessments and redeterminations made in respect of 1985 et seq.

(4.3) Consequential assessment — Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), where the result of an assessment or a decision on an appeal is to change a particular balance of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year, the Minister may, or where the taxpayer so requests in writing, shall, before the later of the expiration of the normal reassessment period in respect of a subsequent taxation year and the end of the day that is one year after the day on which all rights of objection and appeal expire or are determined in respect of the particular year, reassess the tax, interest or penalties payable, or redetermine an amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment, under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of the subsequent taxation year, but only to the extent that the reassessment or redetermination can reasonably be considered to relate to the change in the particular balance of the taxpayer for the particular year.

Related Provisions: 152(3.1) — Normal reassessment period; 152(4.4) — Definition of "balance"; 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessments or determinations; 169(2) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: Subsec. 152(4.3) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 76(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991 except that, where the day referred to as "the day on which all rights of objection and appeal expire or are determined in respect of the particular year" occurred before June 10, 1993, the subsec. shall be read as if that reference were a reference to June 10, 1993. That subsec. formerly read:

(4.3) Notwithstanding subsections (4), (4.1) and (5), where the result of an assessment or a decision on an appeal is to change a particular balance of a taxpayer for a particular taxation year, the Minister may or, where the taxpayer so requests in writing, shall, before the later of the expiration of the normal reassessment period in respect of another taxation year and the end of the day that is one year after the day on which all rights of objection and appeal have expired or been determined in respect of the particular year, reassess the tax, interest or penalties payable, or redetermine an amount deemed to have been paid, under this Part by the taxpayer in respect of the other taxation year, but only for the purpose of giving effect to any provision of this Act requiring the inclusion, or allowing the deduction, of an amount in computing a balance of the taxpayer for the other year, to the extent that the inclusion or deduction can reasonably be considered to relate to the change in the particular balance of the taxpayer for the particular year.

Subsec. 152(4.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 90(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991 except that where the day referred to in subsec. (4.3) as "the day on which all rights of objection and appeal have expired or been determined in respect of the particular year" occurs before June 10, 1993, subsec. (4.3) shall be read as if that reference were to June 10, 1993.

R.*, [2003] 1 C.T.C. 123 (FCA) (Provision cannot be circumvented by reassessment under 165(1.1)).

(4.4) Definition of "balance" — For the purpose of subsection (4.3), a "balance" of a taxpayer for a taxation year is the income, taxable income, taxable income earned in Canada or any loss of the taxpayer for the year, or the tax or other amount payable by, any amount refundable to, or any amount deemed to have been paid or to have been an overpayment by, the taxpayer for the year.

Related Provisions: 152(4.3) — Consequential assessment; 165(1.11)(b) — Balance adjustment to be requested specifically on large corporation's notice of objection.

History: Subsec. 152(4.4) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 76(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991. That subsec. formerly read:

(4.4) For the purposes of subsection (4.3), a "balance" of a taxpayer for a taxation year is the income, taxable income earned in Canada or any loss of the taxpayer for the year, or the tax or other amount payable by, any amount refundable to, or any amount deemed to have been paid by, the taxpayer for the year.

Subsec. 152(4.4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 90(2), applicable to reassessments and redeterminations in respect of taxation years made after June 10, 1993 that relate to changes in balances for other taxation years made as a result of assessments made, or decisions on appeals rendered, after December 20, 1991.

(5) Limitation on assessments — There shall not be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, for the purpose of an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment made under this Part after the taxpayer's normal reassessment period in respect of the year, any amount that was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for the purpose of an assessment, reassessment or additional assessment made under this Part before the end of the period.

Related Provisions: 12(2.2) — Deemed outlay or expense; 67.5(2) — Reassessments; 127(17) — Assessment re ITC SR&ED pool beyond the deadline; 152(1.7) — Limitation period re determination of partnership income or loss; 152(3.1) — Normal reassessment period; 152(4.01) — Limitation on extended assessments; 152(4.2) — Assessment; 152(4.3) — Consequential assessment; 152(9) — Minister allowed to raise alternative ground of assessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 161.1(7) — Late assessment to allow interest offset allocation.

History: Subsec. 152(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(5), applicable after April 27, 1989. Subsec. 152(5) formerly read:

> (5) There shall not be included in computing the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, for the purposes of any reassessment, additional assessment or assessment of tax, interest or penalties under this Part that is made after the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer in respect of the year, any amount
> (a) that was not included in computing the taxpayer's income for the purposes of an assessment of tax under this Part made before the end of the normal reassessment period for the taxpayer;
> (b) in respect of which the taxpayer establishes that the failure so to include it did not result from any misrepresentation that is attributable to negligence, carelessness or wilful default or from any fraud in filing a return of the taxpayer's income or supplying any information under this Act; and
> (c) where any waiver has been filed by the taxpayer with the Minister, in the form and within the time referred to in subsection (4), with respect to a taxation year to which the reassessment, additional assessment or assessment of tax, interest or penalties, as the case may be, relates, that the taxpayer establishes cannot reasonably be regarded as relating to a matter specified in the waiver.

Selected Cases [subsec. 152(5)]: Merswolke v. Canada, [1995] 1 C.T.C. 2524 (TCC) (Subsec. 152(5) does not authorize reassessment without authority of subsecs. 152(4), (4.2) or (4.3)).

(6) Reassessment where certain deductions claimed [carrybacks] — Where a taxpayer has filed for a particular taxation year the return of income required by section 150 and an amount is subsequently claimed by the taxpayer or on the taxpayer's behalf for the year as

(a) a deduction under paragraph 3(e) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, by virtue of the taxpayer's death in a subsequent taxation year and the consequent application of section 71 of that Act in respect of an allowable capital loss for the year,

(b) a deduction under section 41 in respect of the taxpayer's listed-personal-property loss for a subsequent taxation year,

(b.1) a deduction under paragraph 60(i) in respect of a premium (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) paid in a subsequent taxation year under a registered retirement savings plan where the premium is deductible by reason of subsection 146(6.1),

(c) a deduction under section 118.1 in respect of a gift made in a subsequent taxation year or under section 111 in respect of a loss for a subsequent taxation year,

(c.1) a deduction under section 119 in respect of a disposition in a subsequent taxation year,

(d) a deduction under subsection 127(5) in respect of property acquired or an expenditure made in a subsequent taxation year,

(e) a deduction under subsection 125.2 in respect of an unused Part VI tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.2(3)) for a subsequent taxation year,

(f) a deduction under section 125.3 in respect of an unused Part I.3 tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.3(3)) for a subsequent taxation year,

(f.1) a deduction under subsection 126(2) in respect of an unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7)), or under subsection 126(2.21) or (2.22) in respect of foreign taxes paid, for a subsequent taxation year,

(f.2) a deduction under subsection 128.1(8) as a result of a disposition in a subsequent taxation year,

Proposed Addition — 152(6)(f.3)

(f.3) a deduction (including for the purposes of this subsection a reduction of an amount otherwise required to be included in computing a taxpayer's income) under subsection 146(8.9) or (8.92) or 146.3(6.2) or (6.3),

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 58(4), will add para. 152(6)(f.3), applicable in respect of a registered retirement income fund or a registered retirement savings plan in respect of which the last payment out of the fund or plan is made after 2008.

(g) a deduction under subsection 147.2(4) because of the application of subsection 147.2(6) as a result of the taxpayer's death in the subsequent taxation year, or

(h) a deduction by virtue of an election for a subsequent taxation year under paragraph 164(6)(c) or (d) by the taxpayer's legal representative, by filing with the Minister, on or before the day on or before which the taxpayer is, or would be if a tax under this Part were payable by the taxpayer for that subsequent taxation year, required by section 150 to file a return of income for that subsequent taxation year, a prescribed form amending the return, the Minister shall reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year (other than a taxation year preceding the particular taxation year) in order to take into account the deduction claimed.

Related Provisions: 111 — Losses deductible; 150 — Returns; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 161(7)(b)(iii) — Effect of carryback of loss, etc.; 164(5), (5.1) — No back interest on refund where past year reassessed; 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessments or determinations; 169(2)(a) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: Former para. 152(6)(c.1) amended and renumbered as (f.1), new para. (c.1) and para. (f.2) added, by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 149(2) and (3) applicable to taxation years that end after October 1, 1996. In respect of > (a) a deduction under s. 119, or an adjustment under subsec. 128.1(8), in respect of a disposition by a taxpayer, or

> (b) a deduction under subsec. 126(2.21) or (2.22) in respect of foreign taxes paid by a taxpayer, the taxpayer is deemed to have filed the prescribed form described in subsec. 152(6) in a timely manner if the taxpayer files the form with the Minister on or before the later of the day on or before which the taxpayer would, but for this application, be required to file the form and the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxation year that includes June 14, 2001.

Former para. (c.1) (now (f.1)) formerly read:

> (c.1) a deduction under subsection 126(2) in respect of an unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7)) for a subsequent taxation year,

Para. 152(6)(g) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 181(6), applicable to taxpayers who die after 1992.

(6.1) Reassessment where amount included in income under subsec. 91(1) is reduced — Where

(a) a taxpayer has filed for a particular taxation year the return of income required by section 150,

(b) the amount included in computing the taxpayer's income for the particular year under subsection 91(1) is subsequently reduced because of a reduction in the foreign accrual property income of a foreign affiliate of the taxpayer for a taxation year of the affiliate that ends in the particular year and is

(i) attributable to the amount prescribed to be the deductible loss of the affiliate for the year that arose in a subsequent year of the affiliate that ends in a subsequent taxation year of the taxpayer, and

(ii) included in the description of F of the definition "foreign accrual property income" in subsection 95(1) in respect of the affiliate for the year, and

(c) the taxpayer has filed with the Minister, on or before the filing-due-date for the taxpayer's subsequent taxation year, a prescribed form amending the return, the Minister shall reassess the taxpayer's tax for any relevant taxation year (other than a taxation year preceding the particular taxation year) in order to take into account the reduction in the amount included under subsection 91(1) in computing the income of the taxpayer for the year.

Related Provisions: Reg. 5903(1) — Loss carryback.

History: Subsec. 152(6.1) added by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 149(4), applicable to taxation years of foreign affiliates that begin after November 1999.

Proposed Addition — 152(6.2)

(6.2) Extended reassessment period — The Minister shall reassess a taxpayer's tax for a particular taxation year, in order to take into account the application of paragraph (d) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1), or the application of subsection 142.6(1.6), in respect of property held by the taxpayer, if

(a) the taxpayer has filed for the particular taxation year the return of income required by section 150; and

(b) the taxpayer files with the Minister a prescribed form amending the return, on or before the filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that

(i) if the filing is in respect of paragraph (d) of that definition "excluded property", includes the acquisition of control time referred to in that paragraph, and

(ii) if the filing is in respect of subsection 142.6(1.6), immediately follows the particular taxation year.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 58(5), will add subsec. 152(6.2), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2001, except that

(a) for taxation years that begin before October 1, 2006, each reference in subsec. 152(6.2) to "paragraph (d) of the definition "excluded property"" shall be read as a reference to "paragraph (d.3) of the definition "mark-to-market property""; and

(b) a prescribed form referred to in para. 152(6.2)(b) is deemed to have been filed by a taxpayer on a timely basis if it is filed by the taxpayer on or before the taxpayer's filing-due date for the taxpayer's taxation year that includes the day the amending legislation is assented to.

Technical Notes (Dec. 2008): New subsection 152(6.2) requires that the Minister of National Revenue reassess a taxpayer's tax for a particular taxation year, in order to take into account the application of paragraph (d) of the definition "excluded property" in subsection 142.2(1), or the application of subsection 142.6(1.6), in respect of shares held by the taxpayer in the particular taxation year, if

- the taxpayer has filed for the particular taxation year the return of income required by section 150, and
- the taxpayer has filed with the Minister, on or before the filing-due date of the taxpayer's relevant taxation year, a prescribed form amending the return.

For this purpose, the taxpayer's relevant taxation year is, if the filing is in respect of paragraph (d) of the definition "excluded property", the year that includes the acquisition of control time referred to in that paragraph, and if the filing is in respect of the subsection 142.6(1.6), the year that immediately follows the particular taxation year.

This change applies for taxation years that begin after 2001. However, for taxation years that began before October 1, 2006, the reference to "paragraph (d) of the definition of excluded property" is to be read as a reference to "paragraph (d.3) of the definition of mark-to-market property".

(7) Assessment not dependent on return or information — The Minister is not bound by a return or information supplied by or on behalf of a taxpayer and, in making an assessment, may, notwithstanding a return or information so supplied or if no return has been filed, assess the tax payable under this Part.

Related Provisions: 152(4) — Reassessment; 160.2(3) — Minister may assess recipient under RRSP or RRIF; 165 — Objections to assessments; 169 — Appeal to Tax Court of Canada.

(9) Alternative basis for assessment — The Minister may advance an alternative argument in support of an assessment at any time after the normal reassessment period unless, on an appeal under this Act

(a) there is relevant evidence that the taxpayer is no longer able to adduce without the leave of the court; and

(b) it is not appropriate in the circumstances for the court to order that the evidence be adduced.

Related Provisions: 152(5) — Limitation on income inclusion after normal reassessment period.

Payment of Tax

153. (1) Withholding [source deductions] — Every person paying at any time in a taxation year

(a) salary, wages or other remuneration, other than amounts described in subsection 115(2.3) or 212(5.1),

(b) a superannuation or pension benefit,

(c) a retiring allowance,

(d) a death benefit,

(d.1) an amount described in subparagraph 56(1)(a)(iv),

Proposed Amendment — 153(1)(d.1)

(d.1) an amount described in subparagraph 56(1)(a)(iv) or (vii),

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 151, will amend para. 153(1)(d.1) to read as above, applicable to 2006 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 153 requires the withholding of tax from certain payments, described in paragarphs (a) to (t). The person making such a payment is required to remit the amount withheld to the Receiver General on behalf of the payee. Paragraph (d.1) is amended consequential to the introduction of the new Quebec Parental Insurance Plan introduced on January 1, 2006. This amendment applies to the 2006 and subsequent taxation years.

(e) an amount as a benefit under a supplementary unemployment benefit plan,

(f) an annuity payment or a payment in full or partial commutation of an annuity,

(g) fees, commissions or other amounts for services, other than amounts described in subsection 115(2.3) or 212(5.1),

(h) a payment under a deferred profit sharing plan or a plan referred to in section 147 as a revoked plan,

(i) a payment from a registered disability savings plan,

(j) a payment out of or under a registered retirement savings plan or a plan referred to in subsection 146(12) as an "amended plan",

(k) an amount as, on account or in lieu of payment of, or in satisfaction of, proceeds of the surrender, cancellation or redemption of an income-averaging annuity contract,

(l) a payment out of or under a registered retirement income fund or a fund referred to in subsection 146.3(11) as an "amended fund",

(m) a prescribed benefit under a government assistance program;

(m.1) [Repealed]

(n) one or more amounts to an individual who has elected for the year in prescribed form in respect of all such amounts,

(o) an amount described in paragraph 115(2)(c.1),

(p) a contribution under a retirement compensation arrangement,

(q) an amount as a distribution to one or more persons out of or under a retirement compensation arrangement,

(r) an amount on account of the purchase price of an interest in a retirement compensation arrangement,

(s) an amount described in paragraph 56(1)(r), or

(t) a payment made under a plan that was a registered education savings plan shall deduct or withhold from the payment the amount determined in accordance with prescribed rules and shall, at the prescribed time, remit that amount to the Receiver General on account of the payee's tax for the year under this Part or Part XI.3, as the case may be, and, where at that prescribed time the person is a prescribed person, the remittance shall be made to the account of the Receiver General at a designated financial institution.

Related Provisions: 7(15) — No withholding required on inclusion of deferred stock option benefit; 78(1)(b) — Withholding of tax on unpaid amounts; 153(1.1) — Undue hardship — reduction in withholding; 153(1.2) — Election to increase withholding; 153(1.3) — Pension income splitting cannot reduce source deductions; 153(1.4) — Large remittance through financial institution not required if made one day early; 153(3) — Amount withheld deemed received by payee; 153(6) — Meaning of "designated financial institution"; 154 — Tax transfer payments to provinces; 212(5.1), (5.2) — Withholding on payments to non-resident for acting services; 221.2 — Transfers of balances from one account to other; 227(8), (9) — 10% penalty for failure to withhold or remit; 227 — Withholding taxes — administration and enforcement; 227.1 — Corporation's directors liable for unremitted source deductions; 238(1) — Offences; 248(7)(b)(i) — Remittance deemed made when received; 252.1(d) — Where union is employer.

History: Para. 153(1)(a) amended to add "115(2.3) or" by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 49(1), in force on December 14, 2007.

Para. 153(1)(g) amended to add "115(2.3) or" by the said c. 35, subsec. 49(2), in force on December 14, 2007.

Para. 153(1)(i) added by the said c. 35, s. 117, applicable to 2008 et seq.

Para. 153(1)(a) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 151(1), applicable in respect of amounts paid, credited or provided after 2000. The para. formerly read:

(a) salary or wages or other remuneration,

Para. 153(1)(g) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 151(2), applicable in respect of amounts paid, credited or provided after 2000. The para. formerly read:

(g) fees, commissions or other amounts for services,

The closing words of subsec. 153(1) amended by the said c. 17, subsec. 151(3), applicable after June 27, 1999. The closing words formerly read:

shall deduct or withhold therefrom such amount as is determined in accordance with prescribed rules and shall, at such time as is prescribed, remit that amount to the Receiver General on account of the payee's tax for the year under this Part or Part XI.3, as the case may be, and, where at that prescribed time the person is a prescribed person, the remittance shall be made to the account of the Receiver General at a financial institution (within the meaning that would be assigned by the definition "financial institution" in subsection 190(1) if that definition were read without reference to paragraphs (d) and (e) thereof).

Para. 153(1)(d.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 182, deemed to have come into force on June 30, 1996. Para. 153(1)(d.1) formerly read:

(d.1) an amount as a benefit under the Employment Insurance Act,

Paras. 153(1)(s) and (t) added by the said c. 19, s. 43, para. (s) applicable to payments made after 1992, and para. (t) applicable to payments made after 1997.

Para. 153(1)(d.1) amended by 1996, c. 23, para. 187(d), to substitute "Employment Insurance Act" for "Unemployment Insurance Act", in force June 30, 1996.

Para. 153(1)(i) repealed by 1996, c. 23, s. 175, in force January 1, 1998. Para. (i) formerly read:

(i) a training allowance under the National Training Act,

Para. 153(1)(m) substituted for paras. (m), (m.1) by 1994, c. 21, s. 77, applicable to payments made after October 1991. Those paras. formerly read:

(m) an amount as a benefit under the Labour Adjustment Benefits Act,

(m.1) an income assistance payment made pursuant to an agreement under section 5 of the Department of Labour Act,

That portion of subsec. 153(1) following para. (r) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 91, applicable after 1992. That portion formerly read:

shall deduct or withhold therefrom such amount as may be determined in accordance with prescribed rules and shall, at such time as may be prescribed, remit that amount to the Receiver General on account of the payee's tax for the year under this Part or Part XI.3, as the case may be.

1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 82(10), provides that the amended definition of "minimum amount" in subsec. 146.3(1) does not apply, for the purposes of prescribed rules made under subsec. 153(1), with respect to payments made before 1993.

Paras. 153(1)(f), (l) substituted, (m.1) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsecs. 126(1)–(3), applicable to payments made after July 13, 1990. Paras. (f), (l) formerly read:

(f) an annuity payment,

. . . . .

(l) a payment out of or under a registered retirement income fund,

(1.2) Election to increase withholding — Where a taxpayer so elects in prescribed manner and prescribed form, the amount required to be deducted or withheld under subsection (1) from any payment to the taxpayer shall be deemed to be the total of

(a) the amount, if any, otherwise required to be deducted or withheld under that subsection from that payment, and

(b) the amount specified by the taxpayer in that election with respect to that payment or with respect to a class of payments that includes that payment.

(1.3) Split-pension amount — A joint election made or expected to be made under section 60.03 is not to be considered a basis on which the Minister may determine a lesser amount under subsection (1.1).

History: Subsec. 153(1.3) added by 2007, c. 29, s. 22, applicable to 2007 et seq.

Former subsec. 153(1.3) repealed by 1996, c 21, s. 40, applicable June 20, 1996. Subsec. (1.3) formerly read:

(1.3) Payments by trustee, etc. — For the purposes of subsection (1), where a trustee who is administering, managing, distributing, winding up, controlling or otherwise dealing with the property, business, estate or income of another person authorizes or otherwise causes a payment referred to in that subsection to be made on behalf of that other person, the trustee shall be deemed to be a person making the payment and the trustee and that other person shall be jointly and severally liable in respect of the amount required under that subsection to be deducted or withheld and to be remitted on account of the payment.

Selected Cases [subsec. 153(1.3)]: Coopers & Lybrand Ltd. v. Canada, [1994] 2 C.T.C. 2244 (TCC) (Agent held liable for source deductions not withheld).

(1.4) Exception — remittance to designated financial institution — For the purpose of subsection (1), a prescribed person referred to in that subsection is deemed to have remitted an amount to the account of the Receiver General at a designated financial institution if the prescribed person has remitted the amount to the Receiver General at least one day before the day upon which the amount is due.

History: Subsec. 153(1.4) added by 2008, c. 28, s. 29, applicable in respect of remittances by a prescribed person that are first due after February 25, 2008.

Former subsec. 153(1.4) repealed by 1996, c 21, s. 40, applicable June 20, 1996. Subsec. (1.4) formerly read:

(1.4) Definition of "trustee" — In subsection (1.3), "trustee" includes a liquidator, receiver, receiver-manager, trustee in bankruptcy, assignee, executor, administrator, sequestrator or any other person performing a function similar to that performed by any such person.

Regulations: 110 (prescribed person).

(2) Deemed withholding — If a pensioner and a pension transferee (as those terms are defined in section 60.03) make a joint election under section 60.03 in respect of a split-pension amount (as defined in that section) for a taxation year, the portion of the amount deducted or withheld under subsection (1) that may be reasonably considered to be in respect of the split-pension amount is deemed to have been deducted or withheld on account of the pension transferee's tax for the taxation year under this Part and not on account of the pensioner's tax for the taxation year under this Part.

History: Subsec. 153(2) added by 2007, c. 29, s. 22, applicable to 2007 et seq.

Former subsec. 153(2) repealed by 1994, c. 8, s. 21, applicable to 1995 et seq.; for the 1994 taxation year, former subsec. 153(2) read as follows:

(2) Subject to sections 155, 156 and 156.1, where amounts have been deducted or withheld under this section from the remuneration or other payments received by an individual in a taxation year, if the total of the remuneration and other payments from which such amounts have been deducted or withheld and which the individual had received in the year is equal to or greater than ¾ of the individual's income for the year, the individual shall, on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year, pay to the Receiver General the remainder of the individual's tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Payment of remainder — Where amounts were deducted or withheld under this section from the remuneration or other payments received by an individual in a taxation year, if the total of the remuneration and other payments from which the amounts were deducted or withheld and which the individual received in the year is equal to or greater than ¾ of the individual's income for the year, the individual shall, on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year, pay to the Receiver General the remainder of the individual's tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

Former subsec. 153(2) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 126(4), applicable to 1990 et seq. Subsec. 153(2) formerly read:

(2) Where amounts have been deducted or withheld under this section from the remuneration or other payments received by an individual in a taxation year, if the total of the remuneration and other payments from which such amounts have been deducted or withheld and which the individual had received in the year is equal to or greater than ¾ of the individual's income for the year, the individual shall, on or before April 30 in the next year, pay to the Receiver General the remainder of the individual's tax for the year as estimated under section 151.

(3) Deemed effect of deduction — When an amount has been deducted or withheld under subsection (1), it shall, for all the purposes of this Act, be deemed to have been received at that time by the person to whom the remuneration, benefit, payment, fees, commissions or other amounts were paid.

Related Provisions: 78(1)(b) — Unpaid amounts; 227 — Withholding taxes — rules; 227.1 — Liability of directors.

Selected Cases [subsec. 153(3)]: Fraser v. R., [1997] 3 C.T.C. 3 (FCA) (Source deductions belonged to employee, not to employer).

(4) Unclaimed dividends, interest and proceeds — Where at the end of a taxpayer's taxation year the person beneficially entitled to an amount received by the taxpayer after 1984 and before the year as or in respect of dividends, interest or proceeds of disposition of property is unknown to the taxpayer, the taxpayer shall remit to the Receiver General on or before the day that is 60 days after the end of the year on account of the tax payable under this Act by that person an amount equal to

(a) in the case of dividends, 33⅓% of the total amount of the dividends,

(b) in the case of interest, 50% of the total amount of the interest, and

(c) in the case of proceeds of disposition of property, 50% of the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which the proceeds of disposition of a property exceed the total of any outlays and expenses made or incurred by the taxpayer for the purpose of disposing of the property (to the extent that those outlays and expenses were not deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for any taxation year or attributable to any other property), except that no remittance under this subsection shall be required in respect of an amount that was included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year or a preceding taxation year or in respect of an amount on which the tax under this subsection was previously remitted.

Related Provisions: 153(5) — Effect of deduction; 227.1 — Liability of directors.

Regulations: 108(4) (remittance deadline).

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-67R3: Taxable dividends from corporations resident in Canada.

Information Circulars: 71-9R: Unclaimed dividends.

(5) Deemed effect of remittance — An amount remitted by a taxpayer under subsection (4) in respect of dividends, interest or proceeds of disposition of property shall be deemed

(a) to have been received by the person beneficially entitled thereto; and

(b) to have been deducted or withheld from the amount otherwise payable by the taxpayer to the person entitled thereto.

Related Provisions: 227(6), (9) — Withholding taxes; 227(10) — Assessment; 227(13) — Withholding tax; 227.1 — Liability of directors.

(6) Meaning of "designated financial institution" — In this section, "designated financial institution" means a corporation that

(a) is a bank, other than an authorized foreign bank that is subject to the restrictions and requirements referred to in subsection 524(2) of the Bank Act;

(b) is authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to carry on the business of offering its services as a trustee to the public; or

(c) is authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to accept deposits from the public and carries on the business of lending money on the security of real estate or investing in mortgages or hypothecs on real estate.

Proposed Amendment — 153(6)(c)

(c) is authorized under the laws of Canada or a province to accept deposits from the public and carries on the business of lending money on the security of real property or immovables or investing in indebtedness on the security of mortgages on real property or of hypothecs on immovables.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 250, will amend para. 153(6)(c) to read as above, to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Related Provisions: 153(1) closing words — Large remittances to be made through designated financial institution.

154. (1) Agreements providing for tax transfer payments — The Minister may, with the approval of the Governor in Council, enter into an agreement with the government of a province to provide for tax transfer payments and the terms and conditions relating to such payments.

(2) Tax transfer payment — Where, on account of the tax for a taxation year payable by an individual under this Part, an amount has been deducted or withheld under subsection 153(1) on the assumption that the individual was resident in a place other than the province in which the individual resided on the last day of the year, and the individual

(a) has filed a return of income for the year with the Minister,

(b) is liable to pay tax under this Part for the year, and

(c) is resident on the last day of the year in a province with which an agreement described in subsection (1) has been entered into, the Minister may make a tax transfer payment to the government of the province not exceeding an amount equal to the product obtained by multiplying the amount or the total of the amounts so deducted or withheld by a prescribed rate.

History: Para. 154(2)(a) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 183, applicable to 1996 et seq. Para. 154(2)(a) formerly read:

156.1 (1) [Instalments exemption —] Definitions — For the purposes of this section,

"instalment threshold" of an individual for a taxation year means

(a) in the case of an individual resident in the Province of Quebec at the end of the year, $1,800, and

(b) in any other case, $3,000;

History: Paras. (a) and (b) of the definition "instalment threshold" in subsec. 156.1(1) amended to substitute "$1,800" for "$1,200" and "$3,000" for "$2,000" respectively, by 2007, c. 35, s. 50, applicable to 2008 et seq. and, for the purpose of applying subsec. 156.1(2) in respect of the 2008 and 2009 taxation years, to the 2006 and 2007 taxation years.

"net tax owing" by an individual for a taxation year means

(a) in the case of an individual resident in the Province of Quebec at the end of the year, the amount determined by the formula

$$A - C - D - F$$

and

(b) in any other case, the amount determined by the formula

$$A + B - C - E - F$$

where

A is the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts I.2 and X.5 by the individual for the year,

B is the total of all income taxes payable by the individual for the year under any law of a province or of an Aboriginal government with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of income taxes payable by individuals to the province or Aboriginal government under that law,

C is the total of the taxes deducted or withheld under section 153 and Part I.2 on behalf of the individual for the year,

D is the amount determined under subsection 120(2) in respect of the individual for the year,

E is the total of all amounts deducted or withheld on behalf of the individual for the year under a law of a province or of an Aboriginal government with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of income taxes payable by individuals to the province or Aboriginal government under that law, and

F is the amount determined under subsection 120(2.2) in respect of the individual for the year.

Related Provisions: 156.1(1) — Rules for calculating formula elements A and B: 156.1(1.2) — Rule for calculating D; 156.1(1.3) — Rule for calculating F, First Nations Tax; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: The description of A in para. (b) of the definition "net tax owing" in subsec. 156.1(1) amended by 2001, c. 17, s. 152 to delete the reference to Part I.1, applicable to 2001 et seq.

The formulas in paras. (a) and (b), the descriptions of B and E of the definition "net tax owing" in subsec. 156.1(1) amended, and the description of F added, by 2000, c. 19, subsecs. 45(1)–(4), applicable to 1999 et seq. The formulas and the descriptions formerly read:

. . . . .

$$A + B - C - E$$

. . . . .

B is the total of all income taxes payable by the individual for the year under any Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of income taxes payable by individuals to the province under that Act,

. . . . .

E is the total of all income taxes deducted or withheld on behalf of the individual for the year under any Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of income taxes payable by individuals to the province under that Act.

The description of A in para. (b) of the definition "net tax owing" in subsec. 156.1(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 44, applicable to 1998 et seq. The description formerly read:

A is the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts I.1 and I.2 by the individual for the year,

The portion of the definition "net tax owing" in subsec. 156.1(1) after the description of E repealed by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 48(1), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995. That portion formerly read:

and for the purposes of this definition, income taxes payable for a taxation year by an individual are determined after deducting all tax credits to which the individual is entitled for the year relating to those taxes (other than tax credits that become payable to the individual after the individual's balance-due day for the year and prescribed tax credits) and before taking into consideration amounts referred to in subparagraphs 161(7)(a)(ii) to (v).

The descriptions of A and C in para. (b) of the definition of "net tax owing" in subsec. 156.1(1) amended by 1996, c. 21, subsec. 40.1(1), applicable to 1996 et seq., except that for the 1996 taxation year, A shall be read as follows:

A is the total of

(i) the taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 by the individual for the year, and

(ii) half the tax payable under Part I.2 by the individual for the year,

The descriptions of A and C formerly read:

A is the total of the income taxes payable by the individual for the year under this Part and Part I.1,

. . . . .

(1.1) Values of A and B in "net tax owing" — For the purposes of determining the values of A and B in the definition "net tax owing" in subsection (1), income taxes payable by an individual for a taxation year are determined

(a) before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year; and

(b) after deducting all tax credits to which the individual is entitled for the year relating to those taxes (other than tax credits that become payable to the individual after the individual's balance-due day for the year, prescribed tax credits and amounts deemed to have been paid because of the application of either subsection 120(2) or (2.2)).

History: Para. 156.1(1.1)(b) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 45(5), applicable to 1999 et seq. The para. formerly read:

(b) after deducting all tax credits to which the individual is entitled for the year relating to those taxes (other than tax credits that become payable to the individual after the individual's balance-due day for the year, prescribed tax credits and the amount deemed to have been paid because of the application of subsection 120(2)).

Subsec. 156.1(1.1) added by 1997 c. 25, subsec. 48(2), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995.

(1.2) Value of D in "net tax owing" — For the purpose of determining the value of D in the definition "net tax owing" in subsection (1), the amount deemed by subsection 120(2) to have been paid on account of an individual's tax under this Part for a taxation year is determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year.

History: Subsec. 156.1(1.2) added by 1997 c. 25, subsec. 48(2), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995.

(1.3) Value of F in "net tax owing" — For the purpose of determining the value of F in the definition "net tax owing" in subsection

(1), the amount deemed by subsection 120(2.2) to have been paid on account of an individual's tax under this Part for a taxation year is determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year.

History: Subsec. 156.1(1.3) added by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 45(6), applicable to 1999 et seq.

(2) No instalment required — Sections 155 and 156 do not apply to an individual for a particular taxation year where

(a) the individual's chief source of income for the particular year is farming or fishing and the individual's net tax owing for the particular year, or either of the 2 preceding taxation years, does not exceed the individual's instalment threshold for that year; or

(b) the individual's net tax owing for the particular year, or for each of the 2 preceding taxation years, does not exceed the individual's instalment threshold for that year.

Related Provisions: 107(5.1) — Trust's gain on distribution to non-resident beneficiary does not increase instalment requirements; 128.1(5) — Deemed disposition on emigration does not increase instalment requirements; 157(2.1) — Threshold of $1,000 for corporations; 161(2) — Interest on late or insufficient instalments.

Forms: T1033-WS: Worksheet for calculating instalment payments.

(3) Idem — Sections 155 and 156 do not require the payment of any amount in respect of an individual that would otherwise become due under either of those sections on or after the day on which the individual dies.

(4) Payment of remainder — Every individual shall, on or before the individual's balance-due day for each taxation year, pay to the Receiver General in respect of the year the amount, if any, by which the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year exceeds the total of

(a) all amounts deducted or withheld under section 153 from remuneration or other payments received by the individual in the year, and

(b) all other amounts paid to the Receiver General on or before that day on account of the individual's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Related Provisions: 104(23)(e) — Alternative rule for testamentary trust; 161(1) — Interest payable if balance not paid on time.

History [s. 156.1]: S. 156.1 amended by 1994, c. 8, s. 24, subsecs. 156.1(1) to (3) applicable to amounts that become payable after June 1994 and subsec. 156.1(4) applicable to 1994, et seq. S. 156.1 formerly read:

156.1 (1) No instalment required — Where the total of the taxes payable (before taking into consideration any amount referred to in any of subparagraphs 161(7)(a)(ii) to (v) or (viii) that was excluded or deducted, as the case may be) under this Part and Part I.1 by an individual for a particular taxation year or for the taxation year preceding that year is not more than the total of $1,000 and the amount, if any, determined in respect of the individual for that year under subsection 120(2),

(a) sections 155 and 156 do not apply to that individual for the particular year; and

(b) the individual shall pay to the Receiver General, on or before the individual's balance-due day for the particular year, the individual's tax as estimated under section 151 for the particular year.

(2) Idem — Paragraphs 155(1)(a) and 156(1)(a) and (b) do not require the payment of any amount in respect of an individual that would otherwise become due under any of those paragraphs on or after the day on which the individual died.

Subsec. 156.1(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 93, applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Idem — Paragraphs 155(1)(a) and 156(1)(a) do not require the payment of any amount in respect of an individual that would otherwise become due under either of those paragraphs on or after the day on which the individual dies.

That portion of subsec. 156.1(1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VI (1992, c. 29), s. 6, applicable to 1992 et seq. That portion formerly read:

156.1 (1) Where the total of the taxes payable (before taking into consideration any amount referred to in any of subparagraphs 161(7)(a)(ii) to (v) that was excluded or deducted, as the case may be) under this Part and Part I.1 by an individual for a particular taxation year or for the taxation year immediately preceding that year is not more than the total of $1,000 and the amount, if any, determined in respect of the individual for the particular year under subsection 120(2),

S. 156.1 substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 129, applicable to 1990 et seq. Subsec. 156.1(1) is applicable, in addition, with respect to amounts referred to in para. 161(7)(a) in respect of subsequent taxation years referred to in that para. ending after 1989, except that, in its application to a taxation year ending before 1990, the reference in para. 156.1(1)(b) to "the individual's balance-due day for" shall be read as a reference to "April 30 in the year immediately following". S. 156.1 formerly read:

156.1 No instalment required — Where the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Part I.1 by an individual for a particular taxation year or for the taxation year immediately preceding that year is not more than the total of $1,000 and the amount, if any, determined in respect of the individual for that year under subsection 120(2),

(a) section 155 or 156, as the case may be, is not applicable in respect of that individual for the particular taxation year,

(b) the taxpayer shall pay to the Receiver General, on or before April 30 in the year immediately following the particular taxation year, the taxpayer's tax as estimated under section 151 for the particular taxation year.

History: The portion of subsec. 157(1) before subpara. (a)(ii) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 51(1), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007. The portion formerly read:

157. (1) Payment by corporations — Every corporation shall, in respect of each of its taxation years, pay to the Receiver General

(a) either

(i) on or before the last day of each month in the year, an amount equal to 1/12 of the total of the amounts estimated by it to be the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 for the year,

Para. 157(1)(b) amended to substitute "Parts VI" for "Parts I.3, VI" by the said c. 35, subsec. 51(2), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007.

Para. 157(1)(b) amended by 2002, c. 9, s. 41, applicable to taxation years that end after 2001. The para. formerly read:

(b) the remainder of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 for the year

(i) on or before the end of the third month following the end of the year, where

(A) an amount was deducted by virtue of section 125 in computing the tax payable under this Part by the corporation for the year or its immediately preceding taxation year,

(B) the corporation is, throughout the year, a Canadian-controlled private corporation,

(C) a particular calendar year immediately preceded the calendar year in which the year ends, and

(D) either

(I) the corporation is not associated with another corporation in the taxation year and its taxable income for its immediately preceding taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding year) does not exceed its business limit for that preceding year, or

(II) where the corporation is associated with another corporation in the taxation year, the total of all amounts each of which is the taxable income of the corporation or such an associated corporation for its last taxation year that ended in the particular calendar year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that last year) does not exceed the total of all amounts each of which is the business limit of the corporation or such an associated corporation for that last year, or

(ii) on or before the end of the second month following the end of the year, in any other case.

Subpara. 157(1)(a)(i) and the opening words of para. 157(1)(b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsecs. 153(1), (2) to add the reference to Part XIII.1, applicable to 2001 et seq.

Cls. 157(1)(b)(i)(B)–(D) substituted for cl. (B) by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 49(1), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995, except that, for taxation years that end before 1998, subcl. (D)(II) shall be read as follows:

(II) where the corporation is associated with another corporation in the year,

1. the total of the taxable income of the corporation for its immediately preceding taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for that preceding year) and the total of the taxable incomes of all such associated corporations for their taxation years that ended in the particular calendar year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for those years)

does not exceed

(b) for which the amount determined under subsection (1.4) for the taxation year, or for the preceding taxation year, does not exceed $10 million;

(c) in respect of which an amount is deducted under section 125 of the Act in computing the corporation's tax payable for the taxation year or for the preceding taxation year; and

(d) that has throughout the 12-month period that ends at the time its last remittance under this section is due,

(i) remitted, on or before the day on or before which the amounts were required to be remitted, all amounts that were required to be remitted under subsection 153(1), under Part IX of the Excise Tax Act, under subsection 82(1) of the Employment Insurance Act or under subsection 21(1) of the Canada Pension Plan; and

(ii) filed, on or before the day on or before which the returns were required to be filed, all returns that were required to be filed under this Act or under Part IX of the Excise Tax Act.

History: Subsec. 157(1.2) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 51(3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007.

(1.3) Taxable income — small-CCPC — The amount determined under this subsection in respect of a corporation for a particular taxation year is

(a) if the corporation is not associated with another corporation in the particular taxation year, the amount that is the corporation's taxable income for the particular taxation year; or

(b) if the corporation is associated with another corporation in the particular taxation year, the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is the taxable income of the corporation for the particular taxation year or the taxable income of a corporation with which it is associated in the particular taxation year for a taxation year of that other corporation that ends in the particular taxation year.

History: Subsec. 157(1.3) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 51(3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007.

(1.4) Taxable capital — small-CCPC — The amount determined under this subsection in respect of a corporation for a particular taxation year is

(a) if the corporation is not associated with another corporation in the particular taxation year, the amount that is the corporation's taxable capital employed in Canada (within the meaning assigned by section 181.2) for the particular taxation year; or

(b) if the corporation is associated with another corporation in the particular taxation year, the amount that is the total of all amounts each of which is the taxable capital employed in Canada (within the meaning assigned by section 181.2) of the corporation for the particular taxation year or the taxable capital employed in Canada (within the meaning assigned by section 181.2) of a corporation with which it is associated in the particular taxation year for a taxation year of that other corporation that ends in the particular taxation year.

History: Subsec. 157(1.4) added by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 51(3), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007.

(1.5) No longer a small-CCPC — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where a corporation, that has remitted amounts in accordance with subsection (1.1), ceases at any particular time in a taxation year to be eligible to remit in accordance with subsection (1.1), the corporation shall pay to the Receiver General, the following amounts for the taxation year,

(a) on or before the last day of each month, in the taxation year, that ends after the particular time, either

(i) the amount determined by the formula

$$(A–B)/C$$

where

A is the total of the amounts estimated by the corporation to be the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 for the taxation year,

B is the total of all payments payable by the corporation in the taxation year in accordance with subsection (1.1), and

C is the number of months that end in the taxation year and after the particular time, or

(ii) the total of

(A) the amount determined by the formula

$$(A–B)/C$$

where

A is the corporation's first instalment base for the taxation year,

B is the total of all payments payable by the corporation in the taxation year in accordance with subsection (1.1), and

C is the number of months that end in the taxation year and after the particular time; and

(B) the amount obtained when the estimated tax payable by the corporation, if any, under Part[s] VI and XIII.1 for the taxation year is divided by the number of months that end in the taxation year and after the particular time; and

(b) the remainder of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 for the taxation year on or before its balance-due date for the taxation year.

Related Provisions: 161(4.1) — Minimum instalment payment to avoid interest charges; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

(2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 157(2) repealed by 2003, c. 15, s. 115, applicable to taxation years that begin after June 2003. It formerly read:

(2) Special case [co-op or credit union] — Where in a taxation year a corporation

(a) has held out the prospect that it will make allocations in proportion to patronage as described in section 135, or

(b) is a credit union,

and for the year or the preceding taxation year

(c) its taxable income (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year or that preceding year, as the case may be) was not more than $10,000, and

(d) no tax was payable by it under any of Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year or that preceding year, as the case may be),

it may, instead of paying the instalments required by subsection (1), pay to the Receiver General at the end of the third month following the end of the year the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 for the year.

The portion of subsec. 157(2) before para. (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 184(1), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994. The portion formerly read:

(2) Where a corporation

(a) has held out the prospect that it will make allocations in proportion to patronage to its customers of a taxation year as described by section 135, or

(b) is a credit union,

and for the year or the immediately preceding taxation year

Paras. 157(2)(c) and (d) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 49(2), applicable to amounts that become payable after 1995. Paras. (c) and (d) formerly read:

(c) its taxable income was not more than $10,000, and

(d) no tax was payable by it under any of Parts I.3, VI and VI.1,

All that portion of subsec. 157(2) following para. (c) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 94(3), applicable to 1992 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(d) no tax was payable by it under Part VI.1,

it may, instead of paying the instalments required by subsection (1), pay to the Receiver General at the end of the third month following the end of the year the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Part VI.1 for the year.

(2.1) $3,000 threshold — A corporation may, instead of paying the instalments required for a taxation year by paragraph (1)(a) or by subsection (1.1), pay to the Receiver General, under paragraph (1)(b), the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 for the taxation year, if

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 by the corporation for the taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year) is equal to or less than $3,000; or

(b) the corporation's first instalment base for the year is equal to or less than $3,000.

Related Provisions: 156.1(1) — No instalment required.

History: Subsec. 157(2.1) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 51(4), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007. The subsec. formerly read:

(2.1) $1,000 threshold — Where

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 by a corporation for a taxation year (determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year), or

(b) the corporation's first instalment base for the year,

is not more than $1,000, the corporation may, instead of paying the instalments required for the year by paragraph (1)(a), pay to the Receiver General, under paragraph (1)(b), the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Parts I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 for the year.

(a) the total of the taxes payable (before taking into consideration any amount referred to in any of subparagraphs 161(7)(a)(ii) to (x) that was excluded or deducted, as the case may be) under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 by a corporation for a taxation year, or

Subsec. 157(2.1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 94(4), applicable to 1992 et seq. Subsec. (2.1) formerly read:

(2.1) Where

(a) the total of the taxes payable (before taking into consideration any amount referred to in any of subparagraphs 161(7)(a)(ii) to (viii) that was excluded or deducted, as the case may be) under this Part and Part VI.1 by a corporation for a taxation year, or

(b) the corporation's first instalment base for the year

is not more than $1,000, the corporation may, instead of paying the instalments required by paragraph (1)(a) for the year, pay to the Receiver General, pursuant to paragraph (1)(b), the total of the taxes payable by it under this Part and Part VI.1 for the year.

Para. 157(2.1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VI (1992, c. 29), s. 7, to substitute "161(7)(a)(ii) to (viii)" for "161(7)(a)(ii) to (vii)", applicable to 1992 et seq.

Para. 157(2.1)(a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 130, applicable

(a) to 1990 et seq.; and

(b) with respect to amounts referred to in para. 161(7)(a), in respect of subsequent taxation years referred to in that para. ending after 1989.

Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part, Part I.3 and Part VI.1 by a corporation for a taxation year, or

(3) Reduced instalments — Notwithstanding subsection[s] (1) and (1.5), the amount payable under subsection (1) or (1.5) for a taxation year by a corporation to the Receiver General on or before the last day of any month in the year is deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

(a) the amount so payable as determined under that subsection for the month

exceeds

(b) where the corporation is neither a mutual fund corporation nor a non-resident-owned investment corporation, 1/12 of the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by subsection 129(1)) for the year,

(c) where the corporation is a mutual fund corporation, 1/12 of the total of

(i) the corporation's capital gains refund (within the meaning assigned by section 131) for the year, and

(ii) the amount that, by virtue of subsection 131(5), is the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by section 129) for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 157(3)(c)

(c) if the corporation is a mutual fund corporation, 1/12 of the total of

(i) the corporation's capital gains refund (within the meaning assigned by section 131) for the year, and

(ii) the amount that, because of subsection 131(5) or, where the corporation is a prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporation, because of subsection 131(11), is the corporation's dividend refund (within the meaning assigned by section 129) for the year,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 152, will amend para. 157(3)(c) to read as above, applicable to 1999 et seq.

Technical Notes: Section 157 requires a corporation to pay monthly instalments of its total tax payable under Parts I, I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 of the Act. Subsection 157(3) allows corporations to reduce each monthly instalment by 1/12 of the amount of certain tax refunds, including the "dividend refund" under section 129. For most mutual fund corporations, the dividend refund amount is computed according to rules set out in subsection 131(5). Paragraph 157(3)(c), which allows a mutual fund corporation to apply its dividend refund to reduce its instalments, therefore refers to subsection 131(5). However, prescribed labour-sponsored venture capital corporations (LSVCCs), which are by definition mutual fund corporations, do not use subsection 131(5) to compute their dividend refunds — instead, they use special rules in subsection 131(11). To ensure that subsection 157(3) applies appropriately to LSVCCs, this amendment adds to paragraph 157(3)(c) a reference to subsection 131(11).

(d) where the corporation is a non-resident-owned investment corporation, 1/12 of the corporation's allowable refund (within the meaning assigned by section 133) for the year, and

(e) 1/12 of the total of the amounts each of which is deemed by subsection 125.4(3), 125.5(3), 127.1(1) or 127.41(3) to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Related Provisions: 131(5) — Dividend refund to mutual fund corporation; 136 — Cooperative not private corporation — exception.

History: Opening words of subsec. 157(3) amended by 2007, c. 35, subsec. 51(5), applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007. The opening words formerly read:

(3) Private, mutual fund and non-resident-owned investment corporations — Notwithstanding subsection (1), the amount payable for a taxation year by a corporation to the Receiver General on or before the last day of any month in the year shall be deemed to be the amount, if any, by which

Para. 157(3)(e) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 184(2), applicable to taxation years that end after February 22, 1994 except that,

(a) for taxation years that ended before 1995, the para. shall be read without reference to "125.4(3)"; and

(b) for taxation years that ended before November 1997, the para. shall be read without reference to "125.5(3)".

Para. 157(3)(e) formerly read:

(e) 1/12 of the total of all amounts each of which is an amount deemed by subsection 125.4(3) or 127.41(3) to have been paid on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the year.

Para. 157(3)(e) amended by 1996, c 21, s. 41, applicable to 1995 et seq. Para. (e) formerly read:

157.1 (1) Instalment deferral for January, February and March 2002 — Definitions — The following definitions apply in this section.

"eligible corporation", for a particular taxation year, means a corporation

(a) that is resident in Canada throughout the particular taxation year; and

(b) of which the taxable capital employed in Canada, within the meaning assigned by Part I.3, for its preceding taxation year did not exceed,

(i) if the corporation is not associated with any other corporation in the particular taxation year, $15 million, and

(ii) if the corporation is associated with one or more other corporations in the particular taxation year, the amount by which $15 million exceeds the total of the taxable capital employed in Canada, within the meaning assigned by Part I.3, of those other corporations for their last taxation years that ended in the last calendar year that ended before the end of the particular taxation year.

Related Provisions: 87(2)(j.92) — Amalgamation — continuing corporation; 88(1)(e.2) — Winding-up; 181.2(1), 181.3(1) — Taxable capital employed in Canada.

"eligible instalment day" of an eligible corporation means a day in January, February or March, 2002, on which an instalment on account of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year that includes that day would become payable

(a) if this Act were read without reference to this section; and

(b) if, in the case of a corporation that is not required by section 157 to make instalment payments on account of its tax payable under this Part for the taxation year, it were so required.

(2) Deferred balance-due day — An eligible corporation's balance-due day for a taxation year that ends after 2001 is deemed to be the later of

(a) the day that would otherwise be the corporation's balance-due day for the taxation year, and

(b) the day that is six months after the corporation's last eligible instalment day in the taxation year.

(3) Deferred instalment day — An amount that would, because of paragraph 157(1)(a), otherwise become payable in respect of a taxation year by an eligible corporation on an eligible instalment day of the corporation does not become payable on that day but becomes payable

(a) if the particular day that is six months after the eligible instalment day is in the taxation year, on the particular day; and

(b) in any other case, on the day that is deemed by subsection (2) to be the corporation's balance-due day for the taxation year.

(i) to pay each amount payable under this Act by the taxpayer at or before that time and that remains unpaid, to the extent that the legal representative is at that time in possession or control, in the capacity of legal representative, of property that belongs or belonged to, or that is or was held for the benefit of, the taxpayer or the taxpayer's estate, and

(ii) to perform any obligation or duty imposed under this Act on the taxpayer at or before that time and that remains outstanding, to the extent that the obligation or duty can reasonably be considered to relate to the responsibilities of the legal representative acting in that capacity; and

(b) any action or proceeding in respect of the taxpayer taken under this Act at or after that time by the Minister may be so taken in the name of the legal representative acting in that capacity and, when so taken, has the same effect as if it had been taken directly against the taxpayer and, if the taxpayer no longer exists, as if the taxpayer continued to exist.

Related Provisions: 150(3) — Obligation to file taxpayer's return; 227.1 — Liability of corporate directors; 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 159(1) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 159(1) formerly read:

(1) Payment on behalf of others — Where the Minister mails to a person required by section 150 to file a return of the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year a notice of assessment of any amount payable for the year by or in respect of the taxpayer, that part of the amount assessed then remaining unpaid is payable forthwith by the person to the Receiver General to the extent that the person has or had, at any time after the end of the taxation year, in his or her possession or control property belonging to the taxpayer or the taxpayer's estate and on payment thereof the person shall be deemed to have made the payment on behalf of the taxpayer.

(2) Certificate before distribution — Every legal representative (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) of a taxpayer shall, before distributing to one or more persons any property in the possession or control of the legal representative acting in that capacity, obtain a certificate from the Minister, by applying for one in prescribed form, certifying that all amounts

(a) for which the taxpayer is or can reasonably be expected to become liable under this Act at or before the time the distribution is made, and

(b) for the payment of which the legal representative is or can reasonably be expected to become liable in that capacity

have been paid or that security for the payment thereof has been accepted by the Minister.

Related Provisions: 159(3) — Liability where property distributed with no certificate; 159(3.1) — Appropriation of property; 220(4) — Security for taxes; 227.1 — Liability of directors for withholding taxes.

History: Subsec. 159(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 159(2) formerly read:

(2) Every person (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) who is an assignee, liquidator, receiver, receiver-manager, administrator, executor or any other like person (in this section referred to as the "responsible representative") administering,

winding up, controlling or otherwise dealing with a property, business or estate of another person shall, before distributing to one or more persons any property over which the responsible representative has control in the capacity of the responsible representative, obtain a certificate from the Minister, by applying therefor in prescribed form, certifying that all amounts

(a) for which any taxpayer is liable under this Act in respect of the taxation year in which the distribution is made, or any preceding taxation year, and

(b) for the payment of which the responsible representative is or can reasonably be expected to become liable in that capacity

have been paid or that security for the payment thereof has been accepted by the Minister.

That portion of subsec. 159(2) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 131, applicable to applications made after December 17, 1991. That portion formerly read:

(2) Every person (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) who is an assignee, liquidator, receiver, receiver-manager, administrator, executor, or any other like person, (in this section referred to as the "responsible representative") administering, winding up, controlling or otherwise dealing with a property, business or estate of another person, before distributing to one or more persons any property over which the responsible representative has control in that capacity, shall obtain a certificate from the Minister certifying that all amounts

(3) Personal liability — Where a legal representative (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) of a taxpayer distributes to one or more persons property in the possession or control of the legal representative, acting in that capacity, without obtaining a certificate under subsection (2) in respect of the amounts referred to in that subsection, the legal representative is personally liable for the payment of those amounts to the extent of the value of the property distributed, and the Minister may at any time assess the legal representative in respect of any amount payable because of this subsection, and the provisions of this Division apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this subsection as though it had been made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 159(3)

(3) Personal liability — If a legal representative (other than a trustee in bankruptcy) of a taxpayer distributes to one or more persons property in the possession or control of the legal representative, acting in that capacity, without obtaining a certificate under subsection (2) in respect of the amounts referred to in that subsection,

(a) the legal representative is personally liable for the payment of those amounts to the extent of the value of the property distributed;

(b) the Minister may at any time assess the legal representative in respect of any amount payable because of this subsection; and

(c) the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this subsection as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 153, will amend subsec. 159(3) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 159(1) provides, in part, that a legal representative acting for another person is jointly and severally liable for each amount payable by the other person under the Act, to the extent that the representative has possession and control of the other person's assets. If the representative distributes assets of the other person before obtaining a certificate from the Minister of National Revenue that the other person's tax debts have been paid, the Minister may, under subsection 159(3), assess the representative for the amount of the debt.

Subsection 159(3) is amended to clarify that a legal representative so assessed after December 20, 2002 is subject to interest on the assessment without any limit on the amount of interest for which the representative may be liable.

Related Provisions: 159(3.1) — Appropriation of property; 222(5)(c) — Restart of 10-year collection limitation period.

History: Subsec. 159(3) amended by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 159(3) formerly read:

(3) Where a responsible representative distributes to one or more persons property over which the responsible representative has control in that capacity without obtaining a certificate under subsection (2) in respect of the amounts referred to in that subsection, the responsible representative is personally liable for the payment of those amounts to the extent of the value of the property distributed and the Minister may assess the responsible representative therefor in the same manner and with the same effect as an assessment made under section 152.

(3.1) Appropriation of property — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (3), an appropriation by a legal representative of a taxpayer of property in the possession or control of the legal representative acting in that capacity is deemed to be a distribution of the property to a person.

History: Subsec. 159(3.1) added by 1998, c. 19, s. 185, in force on June 18, 1998.

(4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 159(4) repealed by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 154(1), applicable to individuals who cease to be resident in Canada after October 1, 1996. The subsec. formerly read:

(4) Election on emigration — Where an individual to whom subsection 128.1(4) applies

(a) so elects in prescribed manner on or before the individual's balance-due day for the taxation year in which the individual ceased to be resident in Canada, and

(b) furnishes to the Minister security acceptable to the Minister for payment of any tax under this Act the payment of which is deferred by the election, all or any portion of such part of that tax as is equal to the amount, if any, by which that tax exceeds the amount that would be that tax if this Act were read without reference to subsection 128.1(4) may, subject to subsection (4.1), be paid in such number of equal annual instalments as is specified in the election by the individual.

Subsec. 159(4) substituted by 1994, c. 21, s. 78, applicable to changes in residence occurring after 1992. That subsec. formerly read:

(4) Election where subsec. 48(1) applicable — Where subsection 48(1) is applicable in respect of a taxpayer who has ceased to be resident in Canada in a taxation year, and the taxpayer so elects and furnishes the Minister with security acceptable to the Minister for payment of any tax the payment of which is deferred by the election, notwithstanding any provision of this Part respecting the time within which payment shall be made of the tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year, all or any portion of such part of that tax as is equal to the amount, if any, by which that tax exceeds the amount that that tax would be, if this Act were read without reference to subsection 48(1), may be paid in such number (not exceeding 6) of equal consecutive annual instalments as is specified by the taxpayer in the election, the first instalment of which shall be paid on or before the day on or before which payment of that tax would, but for the election, have been required to be made and each subsequent instalment of which shall be paid on or before the next following anniversary of that day.

(4.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 159(4.1) repealed by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 154(1), applicable to individuals who cease to be resident in Canada after October 1, 1996. The subsec. formerly read:

(4.1) Idem — Where an individual to whom subsection 128.1(4) applies elects under subsection (4),

(a) the number of equal annual instalments provided in the election shall be deemed to be the lesser of 6 and such other number as is specified in the election by the individual;

(b) the first instalment shall be paid on or before the individual's balance-due day for the taxation year; and

(c) each subsequent instalment shall be paid on or before the next following anniversary of the day described in paragraph (b).

Subsec. 159(4.1) added by 1994, c. 21, s. 78, applicable to changes in residence occurring after 1992.

(5) Election where certain provisions applicable [on death] — Where subsection 70(2), (5) or (5.2) of this Act or subsection 70(9.4) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, is applicable in respect of a taxpayer who has died, and the taxpayer's legal representative so elects and furnishes the Minister with security acceptable to the Minister for payment of any tax the payment of which is deferred by the election, notwithstanding any provision of this Part or the Income Tax Application Rules respecting the time within which payment shall be made of the tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the taxpayer died, all or any portion of such part of that tax as is equal to the amount, if any, by which that tax exceeds the amount that that tax would be, if this Act were read without reference to subsections 70(2), (5) and (5.2) and the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, were read without reference to subsections 70(2), (5), (5.2) and (9.4) of that Act, may be paid in such number (not exceeding 10) of equal consecutive annual instalments as is specified by the legal representative in the election, the first instalment of which shall be paid on or before the day on or before which payment of that tax would, but for the election, have been required to be made and each subsequent instalment of which shall be paid on or before the next following anniversary of that day.

(i) the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the time it was transferred exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration given for the property, and

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that the transferor is liable to pay under this Act in or in respect of the taxation year in which the property was transferred or any preceding taxation year, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of the transferor under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160(1)(e) after (i)

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that the transferor is liable to pay under this Act (including, for greater certainty, an amount that the transferor is liable to pay under this section, regardless of whether the Minister has made an assessment under subsection (2) for that amount) in or in respect of the taxation year in which the property was transferred or any preceding taxation year, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the transferor under any other provision of this Act or of the transferee for the interest that the transferee is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the transferee is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 154(1), will amend the portion of subsec. 160(1) after subpara. (e)(i) to read as above, applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: The amount that a taxpayer is liable to pay in respect of the transfer of property from a non-arm's length tax debtor is determined under subsection 160(1). The Minister may assess the taxpayer for such a liability under subsection 160(2). Paragraph 160(1)(e) is amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment of the taxpayer is subject to interest, without any limit on the amount of interest for which the taxpayer may be liable. I.T. Technical News: 4 (section 160 — the Davis case).

(1.1) Joint liability where subsec. 69(11) applies — Where a particular person or partnership is deemed by subsection 69(11) to have disposed of a property at any time, the person referred to in that subsection to whom a benefit described in that subsection was available in respect of a subsequent disposition of the property or property substituted for the property is jointly and severally liable with each other taxpayer to pay a part of the other taxpayer's liabilities under this Act in respect of each taxation year equal to the amount determined by the formula

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.1) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 252(3), will amend the portion of subsec. 160(1.1) before the formula by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

$$A - B$$

where

A is the total of amounts payable under this Act by the other taxpayer in respect of the year, and

B is the amount that would, if the particular person or partnership were not deemed by subsection 69(11) to have disposed of the property, be determined for A in respect of the other taxpayer in respect of the year, but nothing under this subsection is deemed to limit the liability of the other taxpayer under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.1) closing words

but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the other taxpayer under any other provision of this Act or of any person for the interest that the person is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the person is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 154(2), will amend the closing words of subsec. 160(1.1) to read as above, applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160(1.1) provides that where subsection 69(11) applies to deem a disposition of property to have occurred at fair market value, both the person disposing of the property and the person acquiring the property are jointly and severally liable for the payment of each other's liabilities arising under the Act as a result of that disposition. The Minister of National Revenue may assess the person for such a liability under subsection 160(2). Subsection 160(1.1) is amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment of the taxpayer is subject to interest. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC), and Currie, 2008 TCC 338 (TCC) — ed.]

Related Provisions: 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 160(1.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 186(1), applicable in respect of dispositions that are deemed by subsec. 69(11) to occur after April 26, 1995.

(1.2) Joint liability — tax on split income — A parent of a specified individual is jointly and severally liable with the individual for the amount required to be added because of subsection 120.4(2) in computing the specified individual's tax payable under this Part for a taxation year if, during the year, the parent

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.2) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 252(4), will amend the opening words of subsec. 160(1.2) by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(a) carried on a business that purchased goods or services from a business the income of which is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year;

(b) was a specified shareholder of a corporation that purchased goods or services from a business the income of which is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year;

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.2)(a), (b)

(a) carried on a business that was provided property or services by a partnership or trust all or a portion of the income of which partnership or trust is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year,

(b) was a specified shareholder of a corporation that was provided property or services by a partnership or trust all or a portion of the income of which partnership or trust is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 154(3), will amend paras. 160(1.2)(a) and (b) to read as above, applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160(1.2), which applies in respect of tax owing on split income, is amended in two respects.

First, paragraphs 160(1.2)(a), (b) and (d) are amended to replace the phrase "goods or services" with the phrase "property or services" as a consequence of the same changes made to paragraphs (b) and (c) of the definition "split income" in subsection 120.4(1).

(c) was a specified shareholder of a corporation, dividends on the shares of the capital stock of which were directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year;

(d) was a shareholder of a professional corporation that purchased goods or services from a business the income of which is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year; or

Proposed Amendment — 160(1.2)(d)

(d) was a shareholder of a professional corporation that was provided property or services by a partnership or trust all or a portion of the income of which partnership or trust is directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year, or

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 154(4), will amend para. 160(1.2)(d) to read as above, applicable after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: See under 160(1.2)(a), (b).

(e) was a shareholder of a professional corporation, dividends on the shares of the capital stock of which were directly or indirectly included in computing the individual's split income for the year.

Proposed Addition — 160(1.2) closing words

but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the specified individual under any other provision of this Act or of the parent for the interest that the parent is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the parent is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 154(5), will add the above closing words to subsec. 160(1.2), applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Second, a "postamble" is added to subsection 160(1.2) to clarify that, in respect of assessments made under subsection 160(2) after December 20, 2002, the assessment is subject to interest.

History: Subsec. 160(1.2) added by 2000, c. 19, s. 46, applicable to 2000 et seq.

(1.3) Joint liability — tax on split-pension income — Where a pensioner and a pension transferee (as those terms are defined in section 60.03) make a joint election under section 60.03 in respect of a split-pension amount (as defined in that section) for a taxation year, they are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable for the tax payable by the pension transferee under this Part for the taxation year to the extent that that tax payable is greater than it would have been if no amount were required to be added because of paragraph 56(1)(a.2) in computing the income of the pension transferee under this Part for the taxation year.

History: Subsec. 160(1.3) added by 2007, c. 29, s. 23, applicable to 2007 et seq.

(2) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of this section and the provisions of this Division apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 160(2)

(2) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of this section, and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 154(6), will amend subsec. 160(2) to read as above, applicable in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160(2) allows the Minister of National Revenue to assess a taxpayer at any time in respect of liabilities arising under section 160, with such assessment having the same effect as if it had been made under section 152. Subsection 160(2) is amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment is subject to interest.

Related Provisions: 152 — Assessment; 222(5)(c) — Restart of 10-year collection limitation period.

History: Subsec. 160(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 186(2), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 160(2) formerly read:

> (2) Minister may assess transferee — The Minister may at any time assess a transferee in respect of any amount payable by virtue of this section and the provisions of this Division are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Selected Cases [subsec. 160(2)]: Phillips (E.) v. Canada, [1993] 2 C.T.C. 2110 (TCC) (Assessment under provision cannot include amounts in respect of transferor's provincial tax liability).

Proposed Addition — 160(2.1)

(2.1) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of paragraph 94(3)(d) or (e) and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 35(1), will add subsec. 160(2.1), applicable to assessments made after 2006, except that, if s. 94 applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007, the amendment applies to assessments made on or after the first day of the first such taxation year of the taxpayer to which that s. 94 applies.

Technical Notes: New subsection 160(2.1) allows the Minister of National Revenue to assess a taxpayer at any time in respect of any amount payable because of paragraph 94(3)(d) or (e). Such an assessment has the same effect as if it had been made under section 152 and is subject to interest. For more information on paragraphs 94(3)(d) and (e), see the commentary on those provisions.

Related Provisions: 160(3) — Discharge of liability.

(3) Discharge of liability — Where a particular taxpayer has become jointly and severally liable with another taxpayer under this section in respect of part or all of a liability under this Act of the other taxpayer,

Proposed Amendment — 160(3) opening words

(3) Discharge of liability — Where a particular taxpayer has become jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with another taxpayer under this section or because of paragraph 94(3)(d) or (e) in respect of part or all of a liability under this Act of the other taxpayer,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 35(2), will amend the opening words of subsec. 160(3) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after 2006, except that, if s. 94 applies to a taxation year of a taxpayer that begins before 2007, the amendment applies to assessments made on or after the first day of the first such taxation year of the taxpayer to which that s. 94 applies.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160(3) provides that, where a taxpayer becomes jointly and severally liable with another taxpayer under subsection 160(1) or (1.1) with respect to a tax liability of the other person, a payment by the particular taxpayer on account of the particular taxpayer's tax liability will discharge the joint liability to the extent of the payment.

Subsection 160(3) is amended so that it also applies where the particular taxpayer has become jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with another taxpayer under because of paragraph 94(3)(d) or (e) in respect of Part or all of a liability under this Act of the other taxpayer. (The expression "solidarily" is added to ensure that the Act appropriately reflects both the civil law of the province of Quebec and the law of other provinces.) For more information on paragraphs 94(3)(d) and (e), see the commentary on those provisions.

(a) a payment by the particular taxpayer on account of that taxpayer's liability shall to the extent of the payment discharge the joint liability; but

Proposed Amendment — 160(3)(a)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 252(5), will amend para. 160(3)(a) by substituting "their liability" for "the joint liability", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) a payment by the other taxpayer on account of that taxpayer's liability discharges the particular taxpayer's liability only to the extent that the payment operates to reduce that other taxpayer's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the particular taxpayer is, by this section, made jointly and severally liable.

Proposed Amendment — 160(3)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 252(6), will amend para. 160(3)(b) by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

History: Subsec. 160(3) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 186(2), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 160(3) formerly read:

> (3) Rules applicable — Where a transferor and transferee have, by virtue of subsection (1), become jointly and severally liable in respect of part or all of a liability of the transferor under this Act, the following rules apply:
> (a) a payment by the transferee on account of the transferee's liability shall to the extent thereof discharge the joint liability; but
> (b) a payment by the transferor on account of the transferor's liability only discharges the transferee's liability to the extent that the payment operates to reduce the transferor's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the transferee was, by subsection (1), made jointly and severally liable.

(3.1) Fair market value of undivided interest — For the purposes of this section and section 160.4, the fair market value at any time of an undivided interest in a property, expressed as a proportionate interest in that property, is, subject to subsection (4), deemed to be equal to the same proportion of the fair market value of that property at that time.

Proposed Amendment — 160(3.1)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 252(7), will amend subsec. 160(3.1) by substituting "undivided interest, or for civil law an undivided right," for "undivided interest" and "proportionate interest or right" for "proportionate interest", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

History: Subsec. 160(3.1) added by 2000, c. 30, s. 170, applicable to transfers of property made after June 4, 1999.

(4) Special rules re transfer of property to spouse [or common-law partner] — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where at any time a taxpayer has transferred property to the taxpayer's spouse or common-law partner pursuant to a decree, order or judgment of a competent tribunal or pursuant to a written separation agreement and, at that time, the taxpayer and the spouse or common-law partner were separated and living apart as a result of the breakdown of their marriage or common-law partnership, the following rules apply:

(a) in respect of property so transferred after February 15, 1984,

(i) the spouse or common-law partner shall not be liable under subsection (1) to pay any amount with respect to any income from, or gain from the disposition of, the property so transferred or property substituted therefor, and

(ii) for the purposes of paragraph (1)(e), the fair market value of the property at the time it was transferred shall be deemed to be nil, and

(b) in respect of property so transferred before February 16, 1984, where the spouse or common-law partner would, but for this paragraph, be liable to pay an amount under this Act by virtue of subsection (1), the spouse's or common-law partner's liability in respect of that amount shall be deemed to have been discharged on February 16, 1984, but nothing in this subsection shall operate to reduce the taxpayer's liability under any other provision of this Act.

Related Provisions: 248(5) — Substituted property.

History: Subsec. 160(4) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner"; by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 7, to replace "spouse's"with "spouse's or common-law partner's"; and by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 9, to replace "marriage" with "marriage or common-law partnership", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. (1.1) Liability for refund by reason of s. 122.5 [GST credit] — If a person is a qualified relation of an individual (within the meaning assigned by subsection 122.5(1)), in relation to one or more months specified for a taxation year, the person and the individual are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay the lesser of

(a) any excess described in subsection (1) that was refunded in respect of the taxation year to, or applied to a liability of, the individual as a consequence of the operation of section 122.5, and

(b) the total of the amounts deemed by subsection 122.5(3) to have been paid by the individual during those specified months.

Related Provisions: 160.1(2) — Liability still exists under other provisions; 160.1(3) — Assessment.

(2) Liability under other provisions — Subsection (1.1) does not limit a person's liability under any other provision of this Act.

(2.1) Liability for refunds by reason of s. 122.61 [Child Tax Benefit] — Where a person was a cohabiting spouse or common-law partner (within the meaning assigned by section 122.6) of an individual at the end of a taxation year, the person and the individual are jointly and severally liable to pay any excess described in subsection (1) that was refunded in respect of the year to, or applied to a liability of, the individual as a consequence of the operation of section 122.61 if the person was the individual's cohabiting spouse or common-law partner at the time the excess was refunded, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of any person under any other provision of this Act.

Related Provisions: 160.1(3) — Assessment.

(2.2) Liability for excess refunds under s. 126.1 to partners [UI premium tax credit] — Every taxpayer who, on the day on which an amount has been refunded to, or applied to the liability of, a member of a partnership as a consequence of the operation of subsection 126.1(7) or (13) in excess of the amount to which the member was so entitled, is a member of that partnership is jointly and severally liable with each other taxpayer who on that day is a member of the partnership to pay the excess and to pay interest on the excess, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of any person under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160.1(2.1), (2.2)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), s. 253, will amend subsecs. 160.1(2.1) and (2.2) by substituting, in each, "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(3) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable by the taxpayer because of subsection (1) or (1.1) or for which the taxpayer is liable because of subsection (2.1) or (2.2), and this Division applies, with such modifications as the circumstance require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it were made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 160.1(3)

(3) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable by the taxpayer because of subsection (1) or (1.1) or for which the taxpayer is liable because of subsection (2.1) or (2.2), and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section, as though it were made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part, except that no interest is payable on an amount assessed in respect of an excess referred to in subsection (1) that can reasonably be considered to arise as a consequence of the operation of section 122.5 or 122.61.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 155, will amend subsec. 160.1(3) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160.1(3) allows the Minister of National Revenue to assess a taxpayer in respect of excess refunds and overpayments for which the taxpayer is jointly and severally liable under subsection 160.1(1), (1.1), (2.1) or (2.2). Subsection 160.1(3) is amended, in respect of such assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that such an assessment is subject to interest, except that no interest is payable to the extent that the excess refund is attributable to the overpayment of a GST tax credit or a child tax benefit. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC), and Currie, 2008 TCC 338 (TCC), decided under 160(1) — ed.]

Selected Cases [subsec. 160.1(3)]: Matte v. R., [2004] 1 C.T.C. 2823 (TCC) (Interest applicable to excess refunds, even if such refunds applied against other tax debts).

(4) Where amount applied to liability — Where an amount is applied to a liability of a taxpayer to Her Majesty in right of Canada in excess of the amount to which the taxpayer is entitled as a refund under this Act, this section applies as though that amount had been refunded to the taxpayer on the day on which it was so applied.

History [s. 160.1]: Subsec. 160.1(1.1) amended and subsec. (1.2) added by 2002, c. 9, s. 43, applicable to amounts deemed to be paid during months specified for 2001 et seq. Subsec. (1.1) formerly read:

(1.1) Where a person is a qualified relation of an individual for a taxation year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 122.5(1)), the person and the individual are jointly and severally liable to pay any excess described in subsection (1) that was refunded in respect of the year to, or applied to a liability of, the individual as a consequence of the operation of section 122.5, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of any person under any other provision of this Act.

Subsec. 160.1(2.1) amended by 2000, c. 12, Sch. 2, s. 1, to replace "spouse" with "spouse or common-law partner", applicable to 2001 et seq., in force July 31, 2000. See also the transitional rules reproduced in the History to 248(1)"common-law partner".

Subsec. 160.1(2.2) added, subsec. (3) amended, by 1994, c. 8, s. 25, applicable to 1993 et seq. Subsec. (3) formerly read:

(3) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable by the taxpayer because of subsection (1) or (1.1) or for which the taxpayer is liable because of subsection (2.1), and this Division applies, with such modifications as the circumstances require, to an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Para. 160.1(1)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 16(1), to add reference to s. 122.61, applicable after 1992.

Subsec. 160.1(2) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 16(2), applicable to 1993 et seq. Subsec. (2) formerly read:

(2) Joint and several liability — Where an individual resided at the end of a taxation year with a person who was a supporting person (within the meaning assigned by subsection 122.2(2)) of an eligible child of the individual for that year, the individual and that person are jointly and severally liable to pay any excess described in subsection (1) that was refunded to the individual in respect of the year as a consequence of the operation of section 122.2 or 164.1 and interest on such excess, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of any person under any other provision of this Act.

Subsec. 160.1(2.1) added, and subsec. (3) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 16(3), applicable to 1991 et seq. except that in its application to the 1991 and 1992 taxation years subsec. (3) shall be read as follows:

(3) The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable by the taxpayer because of subsection (1) or (1.1) or for which the taxpayer is liable because of subsection (2) or (2.1), and the provisions of this Division apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Subsec. 160.1(3) formerly read:

(3) The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable by the taxpayer by virtue of subsection (1) or (1.1) or for which the taxpayer is liable by virtue of subsection (2) of this section or subsection 160.1(2.1) of the Income Tax Act, chapter 148 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1952, and the provisions of this Division are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Para. 160.1(1)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 132(1), to add "(other than any portion thereof that can reasonably be considered to arise as a consequence of the operation of section 122.5)", applicable to 1989 et seq.

Subsec. 160.1(4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 132(2), applicable to 1990 et seq.

Definitions [s. 160.1]: "amount", "assessment" — 248(1); "child" — 252(1); "cohabiting spouse or common-law partner" — 122.6; "common-law partner", "common-law partnership" — 248(1); "Her Majesty" — Interpretation Act 35(1); "individual", "Minister" — 248(1); "months specified" — 122.5(4); "person" — 248(1); "prescribed rate" — Reg. 4301; "qualified relation" — 122.5(1); "taxation year" — 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

160.2 (1) Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRSP — Where

(a) an amount is received out of or under a registered retirement savings plan by a taxpayer other than an annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146(1)) under the plan, and

(b) that amount or part thereof would, but for paragraph (a) of the definition "benefit" in subsection 146(1), be received by the taxpayer as a benefit (within the meaning assigned by that definition), the taxpayer and the last annuitant under the plan are jointly and severally liable to pay a part of the annuitant's tax under this Part for the year of the annuitant's death equal to that proportion of the amount by which the annuitant's tax for the year is greater than it would have been if it were not for the operation of subsection 146(8.8) that the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined under paragraph (b) in respect of the taxpayer is of the amount included in computing the annuitant's income by virtue of that subsection, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of the annuitant under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160.2(1) closing words

the taxpayer and the last annuitant under the plan are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay a part of the annuitant's tax under this Part for the year of the annuitant's death equal to that proportion of the amount by which the annuitant's tax for the year is greater than it would have been if it were not for the operation of subsection 146(8.8) that the total of all amounts each of which is an amount determined under paragraph (b) in respect of the taxpayer is of the amount included in computing the annuitant's income because of that subsection, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the annuitant under any other provision of this Act or of the taxpayer for the interest that the taxpayer is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the taxpayer is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 156(1), will amend the closing words of subsec. 160.2(1) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160.2(1) provides that a taxpayer who receives benefits out of another person's registered retirement savings plan is jointly and severally liable for the portion of that other person's tax that is attributable to those benefits. Subsection 160.2(2) provides a similar result with respect to benefits received out of another person's registered retirement income fund. The Minister may assess the taxpayer for such a liability under subsection 160.2(3).

Subsections 160.2(1), (2) and (3) are amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that the assessment is subject to interest, without any limit on the amount of interest for which the taxpayer may be liable. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC), and Currie, 2008 TCC 338 (TCC), decided under 160(1) — ed.]

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-500R: RRSPs — death of an annuitant.

(2) Joint and several liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RRIF — Where

(a) an amount is received out of or under a registered retirement income fund by a taxpayer other than an annuitant (within the meaning assigned by subsection 146.3(1)) under the fund, and

(b) that amount or part thereof would, but for paragraph 146.3(5)(a), be included in computing the taxpayer's income for the year of receipt pursuant to subsection 146.3(5), the taxpayer and the annuitant are jointly and severally liable to pay a part of the annuitant's tax under this Part for the year of the annuitant's death equal to that proportion of the amount by which the annuitant's tax for the year is greater than it would have been if it were not for the operation of subsection 146.3(6) that the amount determined under paragraph (b) is of the amount included in computing the annuitant's income by virtue of that subsection, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of the annuitant under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160.2(2) closing words

the taxpayer and the annuitant are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay a part of the annuitant's tax under this Part for the year of the annuitant's death equal to that proportion of the amount by which the annuitant's tax for the year is greater than it would have been if it were not for the operation of subsection 146.3(6) that the amount determined under paragraph (b) is of the amount included in computing the annuitant's income because of that subsection, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the annuitant under any other provision of this Act or of the taxpayer for the interest that the taxpayer is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the taxpayer is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 156(2), will amend the closing words of subsec. 160.2(2) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: See under 160.2(1) closing words.

Proposed Addition — 160.2(2.1), (2.2)

(2.1) Joint and several liability in respect of a qualifying trust annuity — Where a taxpayer is deemed by section 75.2 to have received at any time an amount out of or under an annuity that is a qualifying trust annuity with respect to the taxpayer, the taxpayer, the annuitant under the annuity and the policyholder are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay the part of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the taxation year of the taxpayer that includes that time that is equal to the amount, if any, determined by the formula

where

A is the amount of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that taxation year, and

B is the amount that would be the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that taxation year if no amount were deemed by section 75.2 to have been received by the taxpayer out of or under the annuity in that taxation year.

Related Provisions: 160.2(2.2) — No limitation on liability; 160.2(5) — Rules applicable when (2.1) applies.

(2.2) No limitation on liability — Subsection (2.1) limits neither

(a) the liability of the taxpayer referred to in that subsection under any other provision of this Act; nor

(b) the liability of an annuitant or policyholder referred to in that subsection for the interest that the annuitant or policyholder is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the annuitant or policyholder is liable to pay because of that subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 156(3), will add subsecs. 160.2(2.1) and (2.2), applicable to assessments made after 2005.

Technical Notes: New subsection 160.2(2.1) applies to annuities that are "qualifying trust annuities" with respect to a taxpayer (as defined in new subsection 60.011(2)).

A distinguishing feature of a qualifying trust annuity with respect to a taxpayer is that the annuitant thereunder is a trust under which the taxpayer is a beneficiary. Such an annuity will typically be acquired and held either by the trust that is the annuitant under the annuity, or by the estate of a deceased spouse, common-law partner, parent or grandparent of the taxpayer which acquired the annuity with proceeds received from a registered retirement savings plan or registered retirement income fund of the deceased individual or from a registered pension plan in which the deceased individual participated.

Where the cost of a qualifying trust annuity with respect to a taxpayer is deductible by the taxpayer under paragraph 60(l) and the taxpayer has not died before 2006, new section 75.2 deems amounts payable out of or under the annuity after 2005 and before the taxpayer's death to have been received by the taxpayer. Section 75.2 also deems the taxpayer to have received, immediately before death, an amount out of or under the annuity equal to the fair market value of the annuity. By virtue of paragraph 56(1)(d.2), the taxpayer is required to include these amounts in computing income under Part I.

New subsection 160.2(2.1) provides that, where a taxpayer is deemed by section 75.2 to have received an amount from a qualifying trust annuity, the annuitant and the policyholder (which may be one and the same) are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable for the portion of the taxpayer's tax that is attributable to the amounts that the taxpayer is deemed to have received from the annuity. The Minister of National Revenue may reassess the annuitant and the policyholder for such a liability under subsection 160.2(3).

New subsection 160.2(2.2) provides that the provisions of new subsection 160.2(2.1), which make the annuitant and policyholder of a "qualifying trust annuity" with respect to a taxpayer (as defined in new subsection 60.011(2)) jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable for a portion of the taxpayer's tax, do not limit the liability of the taxpayer under any provision of the Act. It also provides that there is no limitation on the liability of the annuitant or policyholder for the interest for which the annuitant or policyholder is liable under the Act on an assessment in respect of an amount that the annuitant or policyholder is liable to pay because of subsection 160.2(2.1).

(3) Minister may assess recipient — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable by virtue of this section and the provisions of this Division are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 160.2(3)

(3) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of this section, and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 156(4), will amend subsec. 160.2(3) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: See under 160.2(1) closing words.

(4) Rules applicable — Where a taxpayer and an annuitant have, by virtue of subsection (1) or (2), become jointly and severally liable in respect of part or all of a liability of the annuitant under this Act, the following rules apply:

Proposed Amendment — 160.2(4) opening words

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 254(1), will amend the opening words of subsec. 160.2(4) by substituting "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(a) a payment by the taxpayer on account of the taxpayer's liability shall to the extent thereof discharge the joint liability; but

Proposed Amendment — 160.2(4)(a)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 254(2), will amend para. 160.2(4)(a) by substituting "their liability" for "the joint liability", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) a payment by the annuitant on account of the annuitant's liability only discharges the taxpayer's liability to the extent that the payment operates to reduce the annuitant's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the taxpayer was, by subsection (1) or (2), as the case may be, made jointly and severally liable.

Proposed Amendment — 160.2(4)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 254(3), will amend para. 160.2(4)(b) by substituting "discharges the taxpayer's liability only" for "only discharges the taxpayer's liability" and "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Proposed Addition — 160.2(5)

(5) Rules applicable — qualifying trust annuity — Where an annuitant or policyholder has, because of subsection (2.1), become jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with a taxpayer in respect of part or all of a liability of the taxpayer under this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) a payment by the annuitant on account of the annuitant's liability, or by the policyholder on account of the policyholder's liability, shall to the extent of the payment discharge their liability, but

(b) a payment by the taxpayer on account of the taxpayer's liability only discharges the annuitant's and the policyholder's liability to the extent that the payment operates to reduce the taxpayer's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the annuitant and the policyholder were, by subsection (2.1), made liable.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 156(5), will add subsec. 160.2(5), applicable to assessments made after 2005.

Technical Notes: New subsection 160.2(5) provides that a payment by the annuitant or policyholder of a "qualifying trust annuity" with respect to a taxpayer (as defined in new subsection 60.011(2)), on account of the annuitant's or policyholder's joint liability for a portion of the taxpayer's tax, directly reduces the joint liability to the extent of the payment. However, a payment by the taxpayer on account of the taxpayer's tax liability reduces the joint liability of the annuitant and the policyholder only to the extent that the payment reduces the total liability of the taxpayer to an amount that is less than the amount in respect of which the annuitant and policyholder were made jointly liable under subsection 160.2(2.1).

Definitions [s. 160.2]: "amount", "annuity", "assessment" — 248(1); "Minister" — 248(1); "qualifying trust annuity" — 60.011(2), 248(1); "registered retirement income fund" — 146.3(1), 248(1); "registered retirement savings plan" — 146(1), 248(1); "taxation year" — 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

Interpretation Bulletins [s. 160.2]: IT-500R: RRSPs — death of an annuitant.

160.21 (1) Joint and several liability — registered disability savings plan — Where, in computing income for a taxation year, a taxpayer is required to include an amount in respect of a disability assistance payment (as defined in subsection 146.4(1)) that is deemed by subsection 146.4(10) to have been made at any particular time from a registered disability savings plan, the taxpayer and each holder (as defined in subsection 146.4(1)) of the plan immediately after the particular time are jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable to pay the part of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that taxation year that is equal to the amount, if any, determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is the amount of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that taxation year; and

B is the amount that would be the taxpayer's tax under this Part for that taxation year if no disability assistance payment were deemed by subsection 146.4(10) to have been paid from the plan at the particular time.

Related Provisions: 160.21(2) — No limitation on liability; 160.21(3) — Discharge of holder's liability; 160.21(4) — Assessment.

(2) No limitation on liability — Subsection (1) limits neither

(a) the liability of the taxpayer referred to in that subsection under any other provision of this Act, nor

(b) the liability of any holder referred to in that subsection for the interest that the holder is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the holder is liable to pay because of that subsection.

(3) Rules applicable — registered disability savings plans — Where a holder (as defined in subsection 146.4(1)) of a registered disability savings plan has, because of subsection (1), become jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with a taxpayer in respect of part or all of a liability of the taxpayer under this Act, the following rules apply:

(a) a payment by the holder on account of the holder's liability shall to the extent of the payment discharge the holder's liability, but

(b) a payment by the taxpayer on account of the taxpayer's liability only discharges the holder's liability to the extent that the payment operates to reduce the taxpayer's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the holder was, by subsection (1), made liable.

(4) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a taxpayer in respect of any amount payable because of this section, and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

History [s. 160.21]: S. 160.21 added by 2007, c. 35, s. 118, applicable to 2008 et seq.

Definitions [s. 160.21]: "amount", "assessment", "Minister" — 248(1); "registered disability savings plan" — 146.4(1), 248(1); "taxation year" — 249; "taxpayer" — 248(1).

160.3 (1) Liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RCA trust — Where an amount required to be included in the income of a taxpayer by virtue of paragraph 56(1)(x) is received by a person with whom the taxpayer is not dealing at arm's length, that person is jointly and severally liable with the taxpayer to pay a part of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount is received equal to the amount by which the taxpayer's tax for the year exceeds the amount that would be the taxpayer's tax for the year if the amount had not been received, but nothing in this subsection shall be deemed to limit the liability of the taxpayer under any other provision of this Act.

(2) Minister may assess recipient — The Minister may at any time assess a person in respect of any amount payable by the person by virtue of this section and the provisions of this Division are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152.

160.3 (1) Liability in respect of amounts received out of or under RCA trust — If an amount required to be included in the income of a taxpayer because of paragraph 56(1)(x) is received by a person with whom the taxpayer is not dealing at arm's length, that person is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with the taxpayer to pay a part of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the taxation year in which the amount is received equal to the amount by which the taxpayer's tax for the year exceeds the amount that would be the taxpayer's tax for the year if the amount had not been received, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the taxpayer under any other provision of this Act or of the person for the interest that the person is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the person is liable to pay because of this subsection.

(2) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a person in respect of any amount payable because of this section, and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 157, will amend subsecs. 160.3(1) and (2) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160.3(1) provides that a person who receives benefits from a retirement compensation arrangement that relate to another taxpayer's employment is jointly and severally liable for the portion of that other taxpayer's tax that is attributable to such benefits. The Minister of National Revenue may assess the person for such a liability under subsection 160.3(2). Subsections 160.3(1) and (2) are amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that such an assessment is subject to interest, without any limit on the amount of interest for which the person may be liable. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC), and Currie, 2008 TCC 338 (TCC), decided under 160(1) — ed.]

(3) Rules applicable — Where a taxpayer and another person have, by virtue of subsection (1), become jointly and severally liable in respect of part or all of a liability of the taxpayer under this Act, the following rules apply:

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 255(2), will amend para. 160.3(3)(a) by substituting "their liability" for "the joint liability", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) a payment by the taxpayer on account of the taxpayer's liability only discharges the other person's liability to the extent that the payment operates to reduce the taxpayer's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the other person was, by subsection (1), made jointly and severally liable.

Proposed Amendment — 160.3(3)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 255(3), will amend para. 160.3(3)(b) by substituting "discharges the taxpayer's liability only" for "only discharges the taxpayer's liability" and "jointly and severally, or solidarily," for "jointly and severally", to come into force on Royal Assent.

160.4 (1) Liability in respect of transfers by insolvent corporations — Where property is transferred at any time by a corporation to a taxpayer with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length at that time and the corporation is not entitled because of subsection 61.3(3) to deduct an amount under section 61.3 in computing its income for a taxation year because of the transfer or because of the transfer and one or more other transactions, the taxpayer is jointly and severally liable with the corporation to pay an amount of the corporation's tax under this Part for the year equal to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration given for the property, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the corporation under any other provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160.4(1)

160.4 (1) Liability in respect of transfers by insolvent corporations — If property is transferred at any time by a corporation to a taxpayer with whom the corporation does not deal at arm's length at that time and the corporation is not entitled because of subsection 61.3(3) to deduct an amount under section 61.3 in computing its income for a taxation year because of the transfer or because of the transfer and one or more other transactions, the taxpayer is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with the corporation to pay the lesser of the corporation's tax payable under this Part for the year and the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration given for the property, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the corporation under any other provision of this Act or of the taxpayer for the interest that the taxpayer is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the taxpayer is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 158(1), will amend subsec. 160.4(1) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: Subsection 160.4(1) applies where a transfer of property has been made by a corporation and, as a consequence of the transfer (or the transfer combined with other transactions), the corporation is precluded under subsection 61.3(3) from deducting an amount under section 61.3. Where this is the case, the transferee is jointly and severally liable with the transferor under subsection 160.4(1) for the transferor's tax under Part I of the Act for the first taxation year of the transferor that ends after the time of the transfer and for preceding taxation years. The liability of the transferee applies up to the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at the time of the transfer exceeds the fair market value of the consideration given for the property transferred.

In addition, subsection 160.4(2) provides for joint and several liability of subsequent non-arm's length transferees for the corporation's Part I tax if the original transferee makes a further non-arm's length transfer and one of the reasons that the transfer was made was to prevent the enforcement of section 160.4.

Under subsection 160.4(3), the Minister of National Revenue may assess a transferee for a liability arising under subsections 160.4(1) or (2).

Subsections 160.4(1), (2) and (3) are amended, in respect of assessments made after December 20, 2002, to clarify that such an assessment is subject to interest, without any limit on the amount of interest for which the transferee may be liable. [This overrules Algoa Trust, [1998] 4 C.T.C. 2001 (TCC), and Currie, 2008 TCC 338 (TCC), decided under 160(1) — ed.]

Related Provisions: 160(3.1) — Fair market value of undivided interest in property.

(2) Indirect transfers — Where

(a) property is transferred at any time from a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "transferor") to another taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as the "transferee") with whom the transferor does not deal at arm's length,

(b) the transferor is liable because of subsection (1) or this subsection to pay an amount of the tax of another person (in this subsection referred to as the "debtor") under this Part, and

(c) it can reasonably be considered that one of the reasons of the transfer would, but for this subsection, be to prevent the enforcement of this section, the transferee is jointly and severally liable with the transferor and the debtor to pay an amount of the debtor's tax under this Part equal to the lesser of the amount of such tax that the transferor was liable to pay at that time and the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration given for the property, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the debtor or the transferor under any provision of this Act.

Proposed Amendment — 160.4(2) closing words

the transferee is jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable with the transferor and the debtor to pay an amount of the debtor's tax under this Part equal to the lesser of the amount of that tax that the transferor was liable to pay at that time and the amount, if any, by which the fair market value of the property at that time exceeds the fair market value at that time of the consideration given for the property, but nothing in this subsection limits the liability of the debtor or the transferor under any provision of this Act or of the transferee for the interest that the transferee is liable to pay under this Act on an assessment in respect of the amount that the transferee is liable to pay because of this subsection.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 158(2), will amend the closing words of subsec. 160.4(2) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Technical Notes: See under 160.4(1).

(3) Minister may assess recipient — The Minister may at any time assess a person in respect of any amount payable by the person because of this section and the provisions of this Division apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section, as though it had been made under section 152.

Proposed Amendment — 160.4(3)

(3) Assessment — The Minister may at any time assess a person in respect of any amount payable by the person because of this section, and the provisions of this Division (including, for greater certainty, the provisions in respect of interest payable) apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, in respect of an assessment made under this section, as though it had been made under section 152 in respect of taxes payable under this Part.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 158(3), will amend subsec. 160.4(3) to read as above, applicable to assessments made after December 20, 2002.

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 256(2), will amend para. 160.4(4)(a) by substituting "their liability" for "the joint liability", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

(b) a payment by the corporation on account of the corporation's liability discharges the other person's liability only to the extent that the payment operates to reduce the corporation's liability to an amount less than the amount in respect of which the other person was, by subsection (1) or (2), as the case may be, made liable.

Proposed Amendment — 160.4(4)(b)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 3 — bijuralism), subsec. 256(3), will amend para. 160.4(4)(b) by substituting "made jointly and severally, or solidarily, liable" for "made liable", to come into force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: See under 12(4).

Interest

161. (1) General [interest on late balances] — Where at any time after a taxpayer's balance-due day for a taxation year

(a) the total of the taxpayer's taxes payable under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 for the year

exceeds

(b) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount paid at or before that time on account of the taxpayer's tax payable and applied as at that time by the Minister against the taxpayer's liability for an amount payable under this Part or Part I.3, VI or VI.1 for the year, the taxpayer shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the excess, computed for the period during which that excess is outstanding.

(2.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 161(2.1) repealed by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 116(1), applicable to taxation years that end after June 2003. It formerly read:

(2.1) Exception — Where the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of interest payable under subsection (2) by a taxpayer, including any interest payable under subsection (2) because of its application under section 36 of the Canada Pension Plan to any amount paid or payable under that Act, or under any provision of an Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of the taxes payable to the province under that Act that is similar to subsection (2) does not exceed $25 for a taxation year, the Minister shall not assess the interest.

Subsec. 161(2.1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 133(1). Subsec. 161(2.1) formerly read:

(2.1) Where the total of all amounts each of which is an amount of interest payable by a taxpayer under subsection (2) or under any similar provision of an Act of a province with which the Minister of Finance has entered into an agreement for the collection of the taxes payable to the province under that Act does not exceed $25 for a taxation year, the Minister shall not assess that interest.

(2.2) Contra interest [offset interest] — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), the total amount of interest payable by a taxpayer (other than a testamentary trust) under those subsections, for the period that begins on the first day of the taxation year for which a part or instalment of tax is payable and ends on the taxpayer's balance-due day for the year, in respect of the taxpayer's tax or instalments of tax payable for the year shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(a) the total amount of interest that would be payable for the period by the taxpayer under subsections (1) and (2) in respect of the taxpayer's tax and instalments of tax payable for the year if no amount were paid on account of the tax or instalments

exceeds

(b) the amount of interest that would be payable under subsection 164(3) to the taxpayer in respect of the period on the amount that would be refunded to the taxpayer in respect of the year or applied to another liability if

(i) no tax were payable by the taxpayer for the year,

(ii) no amount had been remitted under section 153 to the Receiver General on account of the taxpayer's tax for the year,

(iii) the rate of interest prescribed for the purpose of subsection (1) were prescribed for the purpose of subsection 164(3), and

(iv) the latest of the days described in paragraphs 164(3)(a), (b) and (c) were the first day of the year.

Related Provisions: 161.1 — Offset of refund interest and arrears interest of different years.

History: Subsec. 161(2.2) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 50(2), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (2.2) formerly read:

(2.2) Interest on instalments [offset interest] — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), the total amount of interest payable by a taxpayer (other than a testamentary trust) under those subsections for the period commencing on the first day of the taxation year for which a part or instalment of tax is payable and ending

(a) where the taxpayer is a corporation, on the day on or before which the corporation is, pursuant to paragraph 157(1)(b), required to pay the remainder of its tax payable under this Part for the year or would be so required if a remainder of the tax were payable, and

(b) in the case of an individual, on the individual's balance-due day for the year, in respect of the tax or instalments thereof payable for the year shall not exceed the amount, if any, by which

(c) the total amount of interest that would be payable for the period by the taxpayer under subsections (1) and (2) in respect of the taxpayer's tax and instalments thereof payable for the year if no amount were paid on account of the tax or instalments

exceeds

(d) the amount of interest that would be payable under subsection 164(3) to the taxpayer in respect of the period on the amount that would be refunded to the taxpayer in respect of the year or applied to another liability if

(i) no tax were payable by the taxpayer for the year,

(ii) no amount had been remitted under section 153 to the Receiver General on account of the taxpayer's tax for the year,

(iii) the rate of interest prescribed for the purpose of subsection (1) were prescribed for the purpose of subsection 164(3), and

(iv) the latest of the days described in paragraphs 164(3)(a), (b) and (c) were the first day of the year.

Para. 161(2.2)(d) amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 42, applicable to interest that is calculated in respect of periods after June 1995. Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) the amount of interest that would be payable under subsection 164(3) to the taxpayer in respect of the period on the amount that would be refunded to the taxpayer in respect of the year or applied to another liability if no tax were payable by the taxpayer for the year, no amount had been remitted to the Receiver General on account of the taxpayer's tax for the year under section 153 and the latest of the days described in paragraphs 164(3)(a), (b) and (c) were the first day of the year.

Para. 161(2.2)(b) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 133(2), applicable to 1990 et seq. Para. (b) formerly read:

Subsecs. 161(4) and (4.01) substituted for subsec. (4) by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 96(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. except that in its application with respect to instalments of tax that became payable on or before June 10, 1993, the subsec. shall be read without reference to the words "and section 163.1". Subsec. (4) formerly read:

(4) Limitation respecting individuals — For the purposes of subsection (2), where an individual is required to pay a part or instalment of tax for a taxation year computed by reference to

(a) the amount estimated by the individual to be the tax payable under this Part by the individual for the year computed without reference to sections 127.2 and 127.3, or

(b) the individual's instalment base for the immediately preceding taxation year, the individual shall be deemed to have been liable to pay a part or instalment computed by reference to the lesser of

(c) the amount, if any, by which the tax payable under this Part by the individual for the year computed without reference to sections 127.2 and 127.3 exceeds the amount deemed by subsection 120(2) to have been paid on account of the individual's tax under this Part for the year, and

(d) the individual's instalment base for the immediately preceding taxation year.

(4.1) Limitation — corporations — For the purposes of subsection (2) and section 163.1, where a corporation is required to pay a part or instalment of tax for a taxation year computed by reference to a method described in subsection 157(1), (1.1) or (1.5), as the case may be, the corporation is deemed to have been liable to pay on or before each day on or before which subparagraph 157(1)(a)(i), (ii) or (iii), subparagraph 157(1.1)(a)(i), (ii) or (iii), or subparagraph 157(1.5)(a)(i) or (ii), as the case may be, requires a part or instalment to be made equal to the amount, if any, by which

(a) the part or instalment due on that day computed in accordance with whichever allowable method in the circumstances gives rise to the least total amount of such parts or instalments of tax for the year, computed by reference to

(i) the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts VI, VI.1 and XIII.1 by the corporation for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year,

(ii) its first instalment base for the year, or

(iii) its second instalment base and its first instalment base for the year,

exceeds

(b) the amount, if any, determined under any of paragraphs 157(3)(b) to (e) or under paragraph 157(3.1)(b) or (c), as the case may be, in respect of that instalment.

History: Subsec. 161(4.1) amended by 2007, c. 35, s. 52, applicable to taxation years that begin after 2007. It formerly read:

(4.1) For the purposes of subsection (2) and section 163.1, where a corporation is required to pay a part or instalment of tax for a taxation year computed by reference to a method described in subsection 157(1), the corporation shall be deemed to have been liable to pay on or before each day referred to in subparagraphs 157(1)(a)(i) to (iii) a part or instalment computed by reference to

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 by the corporation for the year, determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year,

(b) its first instalment base for the year, or

(c) its second instalment base and its first instalment base for the year, reduced by the amount, if any, determined under any of paragraphs 157(3)(b) to (d) in respect of the corporation for the year, whichever method gives rise to the least total amount of such parts or instalments of tax for the year.

Para. 161(4.1)(a) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 50(5), applicable to 1996 et seq. Para. (a) formerly read:

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 by the corporation for the year,

The closing words of subsec. 161(4.1) substituted by 1994, c. 21, subsec. 79(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. The closing words formerly read:

reduced by the amount, if any, determined under any of paragraphs 157(3)(b) to (d) in respect of the corporation for the year, whichever method gives rise to the least amount required to be paid by the corporation on or before that day.

Clause 117 of 1994, c. 21 provides: "Notwithstanding any other provision of the Act [i.e., the Income Tax Act] or of this Act, nothing in this Act shall affect the amount of any interest payable under the Income Tax Act by a life insurance corporation in respect of any period, or part of a period, that is before March 15, 1993."

Subsec. 161(4.1) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 96(2), applicable to 1992 et seq. except that in its application with respect to instalments of tax that became payable on or before June 10, 1993, the subsec. shall be read without reference to the words "and section 163.1". Subsec. (4.1) formerly read:

(4.1) Limitation respecting corporations — For the purposes of subsection (2), where a corporation is required to pay a part or instalment of tax for a taxation year computed by reference to a method described in subsection 157(1), the corporation shall be deemed to have been liable to pay a part or instalment computed by reference to

(a) the total of the taxes payable under this Part and Part VI.1 by it for the year,

(b) its first instalment base for the year, or

(c) its second instalment base and its first instalment base for the year, whichever method gives rise to the least amount required to be paid by the corporation on or before the days referred to in subparagraphs 157(1)(a)(i) to (iii).

Selected Cases [subsec. 161(4.1)]: Premay Equipment Ltd. v. R., [2004] 2 C.T.C. 2726 (TCC) (Interest due regardless of good faith if wrong method used).

Regulations: 5301(7), (9) (instalment obligations of parent after windup of subsidiary).

(5) Participation certificates — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, no interest is payable in respect of the amount by which the tax payable by a person is increased by a payment made by The Canadian Wheat Board on a participation certificate previously issued to the person until 30 days after the payment is made.

(6) Income of resident from a foreign country in blocked currency — Where the income of a taxpayer for a taxation year, or part thereof, is from sources in another country and the taxpayer by reason of monetary or exchange restrictions imposed by the law of that country is unable to transfer it to Canada, the Minister may, if the Minister is satisfied that payment as required by this Part of the whole of the additional tax under this Part for the year reasonably attributable to income from sources in that country would impose extreme hardship on the taxpayer, postpone the time for payment of the whole or a part of that additional tax for a period to be determined by the Minister, but no such postponement may be granted if any of the income for the year from sources in that country has been

(a) transferred to Canada,

(b) used by the taxpayer for any purpose whatever, other than payment of income tax to the government of that other country on income from sources in that country, or

(c) disposed of by the taxpayer, and no interest is payable under this section in respect of that additional tax, or part thereof, during the period of postponement.

Related Provisions: 91(2) — FAPI reserve for blocked currency.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-351: Income from a foreign source — blocked currency (archived).

(6.1) Foreign tax credit adjustment — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, where the tax payable under this Part by a taxpayer for a particular taxation year is increased because of

(a) an adjustment of an income or profits tax payable by the taxpayer to the government of a country other than Canada or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of such a country, or

(b) a reduction in the amount of foreign tax deductible under subsection 126(1) or (2) in computing the taxpayer's tax otherwise payable under this Part for the particular year, as a result of the application of subsection 126(4.2) in respect of a share or debt obligation disposed of by the taxpayer in the taxation year following the particular year, no interest is payable, in respect of the increase in the taxpayer's tax payable, for the period

(c) that ends 90 days after the day on which the taxpayer is first notified of the amount of the adjustment, if paragraph (a) applies, and

(d) before the date of the disposition, if paragraph (b) applies.

Related Provisions: 248(1)"specified future tax consequence"(c) — Adjustment under 161(6.1) is a specified future tax consequence.

History: Subsec. 161(6.1) amended by 1999, c. 22, s. 64, applicable to 1998 et seq. It formerly read:

> (6.1) Adjustment of foreign tax payable — Notwithstanding any other provision in this section, where the tax payable under this Part by a taxpayer for a taxation year is increased by virtue of an adjustment of an income or profits tax payable by the taxpayer to the government of a country other than Canada or to the government of a state, province or other political subdivision of any such country, no interest is payable, in respect of the increase in the taxpayer's tax payable, for the period ending 90 days after the day on which the taxpayer is first notified of the amount of the adjustment.

(6.2) Flow-through share renunciations — Where the tax payable under this Part by a taxpayer for a taxation year is more than it otherwise would be because of a consequence for the year described in paragraph (b) of the definition "specified future tax consequence" in subsection 248(1) in respect of an amount purported to be renounced in a calendar year, for the purposes of the provisions of this Act (other than this subsection) relating to interest payable under this Act, an amount equal to the additional tax payable is deemed

(a) to have been paid on the taxpayer's balance-due day for the taxation year on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year; and

(b) to have been refunded on April 30 of the following calendar year to the taxpayer on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the taxation year.

History: Subsec. 161(6.2) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 50(6), applicable to 1996 et seq.

(7) Effect of carryback of loss, etc. — For the purpose of computing interest under subsection (1) or (2) on tax or a part of an instalment of tax for a taxation year, and for the purpose of section 163.1,

(a) the tax payable under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 by the taxpayer for the year is deemed to be the amount that it would be if the consequences of the deduction or exclusion of the following amounts were not taken into consideration:

(i) any amount deducted under section 119 in respect of a disposition in a subsequent taxation year,

(ii) any amount deducted under section 41 in respect of the taxpayer's listed-personal-property loss for a subsequent taxation year,

(iii) any amount excluded from the taxpayer's income for the year by virtue of section 49 in respect of the exercise of an option in a subsequent taxation year,

(iv) any amount deducted under section 118.1 in respect of a gift made in a subsequent taxation year or under section 111 in respect of a loss for a subsequent taxation year,

(iv.1) any amount deducted under subsection 126(2) in respect of an unused foreign tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 126(7)), or under subsection 126(2.21) or (2.22) in respect of foreign taxes paid, for a subsequent taxation year,

(iv.2) any amount deducted in computing the taxpayer's income for the year by virtue of an election in a subsequent taxation year under paragraph 164(6)(c) or (d) by the taxpayer's legal representative,

(v) any amount deducted under subsection 127(5) in respect of property acquired or an expenditure made in a subsequent taxation year,

(vi) any amount deducted under section 125.2 in respect of an unused Part VI tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.2(3)) for a subsequent taxation year,

(vi.1) [Repealed under former Act]

(vii) any amount deducted under section 125.3 in respect of an unused Part I.3 tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 125.3(3)) for a subsequent taxation year,

(viii) any amount deducted, in respect of a repayment under subsection 68.4(7) of the Excise Tax Act made in a subsequent taxation year, in computing the amount determined under subparagraph 12(1)(x.1)(ii),

(viii.1) any amount deducted under subsection 147.2(4) in computing the taxpayer's income for the year because of the application of subsection 147.2(6) as a result of the taxpayer's death in the subsequent taxation year,

(ix) any amount deducted under subsection 181.1(4) in respect of any unused surtax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 181.1(6)) of the taxpayer for a subsequent taxation year,

(x) any amount deducted under subsection 190.1(3) in respect of any unused Part I tax credit (within the meaning assigned by subsection 190.1(5)) of the taxpayer for a subsequent taxation year; and

(xi) any amount deducted under any of subsections 128.1(6) to (8) from the taxpayer's proceeds of disposition of a property because of an election made in a return of income for a subsequent taxation year; and

(b) the amount by which the tax payable under this Part and Parts I.3, VI and VI.1 by the taxpayer for the year is reduced as a consequence of the deduction or exclusion of amounts described in paragraph (a) is deemed to have been paid on account of the taxpayer's tax payable under this Part for the year on the day that is 30 days after the latest of

(i) the first day immediately following that subsequent taxation year,

(ii) the day on which the taxpayer's or the taxpayer's legal representative's return of income for that subsequent taxation year was filed,

(iii) where an amended return of the taxpayer's income for the year or a prescribed form amending the taxpayer's return of income for the year was filed in accordance with subsection 49(4) or 152(6) or paragraph 164(6)(e), the day on which the amended return or prescribed form was filed, and

(iv) where, as a consequence of a request in writing, the Minister reassessed the taxpayer's tax for the year to take into account the deduction or exclusion, the day on which the request was made.

Related Provisions: 162(11) — Effect of carryback of losses etc.; 248(1)"specified future tax consequence"(a) — Deduction or exclusion of amount referred to in 161(7)(a) is a specified future tax consequence.

(8) Certain amounts deemed to be paid as instalments — For the purposes of subsection (2), where in a taxation year an amount has been paid by a non-resident person pursuant to subsection 116(2) or (4) or an amount has been paid on that person's behalf by another person in accordance with subsection 116(5), the amount shall be deemed to have been paid by that non-resident person in the year as an instalment of tax on the first day on which the non-resident person was required under this Act to pay an instalment of tax for that year.

(9) Definitions of "instalment base", etc. — In this section,

(a) "instalment base" of an individual for a taxation year means the amount determined in prescribed manner to be the individual's instalment base for the year; and

(b) "first instalment base" and "second instalment base" of a corporation for a taxation year have the meanings prescribed by regulation.

Regulations: 5300 ("instalment base"); 5301 ("first instalment base", "second instalment base").

(10) When amount deemed paid — For the purposes of subsection (2), where an amount has been deducted by virtue of paragraph 127.2(1)(a) or 127.3(1)(a) in computing the tax payable under this Part by a taxpayer for a taxation year, the amount so deducted shall be deemed to have been paid by the taxpayer

(a) in the case of a taxpayer who has filed a return of income under this Part for the year as required by section 150, on the last day of the year; and

(b) in any other case, on the day on which the taxpayer filed the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year.

(11) Interest on penalties — Where a taxpayer is required to pay a penalty, the taxpayer shall pay the penalty to the Receiver

General together with interest thereon at the prescribed rate computed,

(a) in the case of a penalty payable under section 162, 163 or 235, from the day on or before which

(i) the taxpayer's return of income for a taxation year in respect of which the penalty is payable was required to be filed, or would have been required to be filed if tax under this Part were payable by the taxpayer for the year, or

(ii) the information return, return, ownership certificate or other document in respect of which the penalty is payable was required to be made,

as the case may be, to the day of payment;

(b) in the case of a penalty payable for a taxation year because of section 163.1, from the taxpayer's balance-due day for the year to the day of payment of the penalty;

(b.1) in the case of a penalty under subsection 237.1(7.4), from the day on which the taxpayer became liable to the penalty to the day of payment; and

(c) in the case of a penalty payable by reason of any other provision of this Act, from the day of mailing of the notice of original assessment of the penalty to the day of payment.

Offset of Refund Interest and Arrears Interest

161.1 (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"accumulated overpayment amount", of a corporation for a period, means the overpayment amount of the corporation for the period together with refund interest (including, for greater certainty, compound interest) that accrued with respect to the overpayment amount before the date specified under paragraph (3)(b) by the corporation in its application for the period.

"accumulated underpayment amount", of a corporation for a period, means the underpayment amount of the corporation for the period together with arrears interest (including, for greater certainty, compound interest) that accrued with respect to the underpayment amount before the date specified under paragraph (3)(b) by the corporation in its application for the period.

"arrears interest" means interest computed under paragraph (5)(b), 129(2.2)(b), 131(3.2)(b), 132(2.2)(b), 133(7.02)(b) or 160.1(1)(b), subsection 161(1) or (11), paragraph 164(3.1)(b) or (4)(b) or subsection 187(2).

"overpayment amount", of a corporation for a period, means the amount referred to in subparagraph (2)(a)(i) that is refunded to the corporation, or the amount referred to in subparagraph (2)(a)(ii) to which the corporation is entitled.

"refund interest" means interest computed under subsection 129(2.1), 131(3.1), 132(2.1), 133(7.01) or 164(3) or (3.2).

"underpayment amount", of a corporation for a period, means the amount referred to in paragraph (2)(b) payable by the corporation on which arrears interest is computed.

(2) Concurrent refund interest and arrears interest — A corporation may apply in writing to the Minister for the reallocation of an accumulated overpayment amount for a period that begins after 1999 on account of an accumulated underpayment amount for the period if, in respect of tax paid or payable by the corporation under this Part or Part I.3, II, IV, IV.1, VI, VI.1 or XIV,

(a) refund interest for the period

(i) is computed on an amount refunded to the corporation, or

(ii) would be computed on an amount to which the corporation is entitled, if that amount were refunded to the corporation; and

(b) arrears interest for the period is computed on an amount payable by the corporation.

Related Provisions: 161.1(3) — Contents of and deadline for application; 161.1(5) — Where refund previously paid.

(3) Contents of application — A corporation's application referred to in subsection (2) for a period is deemed not to have been made unless

(a) it specifies the amount to be reallocated, which shall not exceed the lesser of the corporation's accumulated overpayment amount for the period and its accumulated underpayment amount for the period;

(b) it specifies the effective date for the reallocation, which shall not be earlier than the latest of

(i) the date from which refund interest is computed on the corporation's overpayment amount for the period, or would be so computed if the overpayment amount were refunded to the corporation,

(ii) the date from which arrears interest is computed on the corporation's underpayment amount for the period, and

(iii) January 1, 2000; and

(c) it is made on or before the day that is 90 days after the latest of

(i) the day of mailing of the first notice of assessment giving rise to any portion of the corporation's overpayment amount to which the application relates,

(ii) the day of mailing of the first notice of assessment giving rise to any portion of the corporation's underpayment amount to which the application relates,

(iii) if the corporation has served a notice of objection to an assessment referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii), the day of mailing of the notification under subsection 165(3) by the Minister in respect of the notice of objection,

(iv) if the corporation has appealed, or applied for leave to appeal, from an assessment referred to in subparagraph (i) or (ii) to a court of competent jurisdiction, the day on which the court dismisses the application, the application or appeal is discontinued or final judgment is pronounced in the appeal, and

(v) the day of mailing of the first notice to the corporation indicating that the Minister has determined any portion of the corporation's overpayment amount to which the application relates, if the overpayment amount has not been determined as a result of a notice of assessment mailed before that day.

Related Provisions: 161.1(4) — Amount reallocated is deemed to have been refunded.

(4) Reallocation — The amount to be reallocated that is specified under paragraph (3)(a) by a corporation is deemed to have been refunded to the corporation and paid on account of the accumulated underpayment amount on the date specified under paragraph (3)(b) by the corporation.

Related Provisions: 161.1(6) — Consequential reallocations.

(5) Repayment of refund — If an application in respect of a period is made under subsection (2) by a corporation and a portion of the amount to be reallocated has been refunded to the corporation, the following rules apply:

(a) a particular amount equal to the total of

(i) the portion of the amount to be reallocated that was refunded to the corporation, and

(ii) refund interest paid or credited to the corporation in respect of that portion is deemed to have become payable by the corporation on the day on which the portion was refunded; and

(b) the corporation shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the particular amount from the day referred to in paragraph (a) to the date of payment.

Related Provisions: 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

(6) Consequential reallocations — If a particular reallocation of an accumulated overpayment amount under subsection (4) results in a new accumulated overpayment amount of the corporation for a period, the new accumulated overpayment amount shall not be reallocated under this section unless the corporation so applies in its application for the particular reallocation.

(7) Assessments — Notwithstanding subsections 152(4), (4.01) and (5), the Minister shall assess or reassess interest and penalties payable by a corporation in respect of any taxation year as necessary in order to take into account a reallocation of amounts under this section.

Related Provisions: 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessment.

Proposed Amendment — Extension of s. 161.1 to individuals

Notice of Ways and Means Motion, federal budget, Feb. 28, 2000: Offsetting of Interest on Personal Tax Overpayments and Underpayments

(23) That, for individuals other than trusts, the taxable amount of refund interest accruing over any period after 1999 on overpayments of income tax be reduced by the amount of any arrears interest accruing over the same period on unpaid income tax.

Federal budget, supplementary information, Feb. 28, 2000: Offsetting of Interest on Personal Tax Overpayments and Underpayments

An individual who has made an overpayment of income tax may be entitled to receive refund interest from the government on the overpayment. Refund interest is included in income for tax purposes, in the same manner as interest from other sources.

If, on the other hand, an individual has failed to pay an amount of income tax when due, the individual is required to pay arrears interest to the government. Arrears interest is not deductible in computing a taxpayer's income for tax purposes.

The taxation of refund interest and non-deductibility of arrears interest can produce inappropriate results in situations where an individual who owes interest on unpaid tax from one taxation year is concurrently owed interest on a tax overpayment from a different taxation year. In this circumstance, the cost of the non-deductible interest payable by the individual exceeds the after-tax value of the taxable interest receivable by the individual. In many instances, this difference results from the non-deductibility of interest paid and the inclusion in income of interest received.

This budget proposes a relieving mechanism for these individuals. Refund interest accruing over a period will be taxable only to the extent that it exceeds any arrears interest that accrued over the same period to which the refund interest relates. As under current practice, the individual's notice of assessment will indicate the full amount of refund interest. In addition, the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency will issue an information slip indicating the amount, if any, of the refund interest that must be included in the individual's income for tax purposes.

This measure will apply to individuals other than trusts in respect of arrears and refund interest amounts that accrue concurrently after 1999, regardless of the taxation year to which the amounts relate.

Dept. of Finance news release 2000-101 Backgrounder, Dec. 21, 2000: Offset Interest

The 2000 budget proposed an interest offset mechanism in respect of overpayments and underpayments of tax by individuals. The Department of Finance and the Canada Customs and Revenue Agency are working to develop a mechanism under which this proposal can be given effect, for implementation at the earliest opportunity.

Proposed Addition — 162(7.01), (7.02)

(7.01) Late filing penalty — prescribed information returns — Every person (other than a registered charity) or partnership who fails to file, when required by this Act or the regulations, one or more information returns of a type prescribed for the purpose of this subsection is liable to a penalty equal to the greater of $100 and

(a) where the number of those information returns is less than 51, $10 multiplied by the number of days, not exceeding 100, during which the failure continues;

(b) where the number of those information returns is greater than 50 and less than 501, $15 multiplied by the number of days, not exceeding 100, during which the failure continues;

(c) where the number of those information returns is greater than 500 and less than 2,501, $25 multiplied by the number of days, not exceeding 100, during which the failure continues;

(d) where the number of those information returns is greater than 2,500 and less than 10,001, $50 multiplied by the number of days, not exceeding 100, during which the failure continues; and

(e) where the number of those information returns is greater than 10,000, $75 multiplied by the number of days, not exceeding 100, during which the failure continues.

(7.02) Failure to file in appropriate manner — prescribed information returns — Every person (other than a registered charity) or partnership who fails to file, in the manner required by the regulations, one or more information returns of a type prescribed for the purpose of this subsection is liable to a penalty equal to

(a) where the number of those information returns is greater than 50 and less than 251, $250;

(b) where the number of those information returns is greater than 250 and less than 501, $500;

(c) where the number of those information returns is greater than 500 and less than 2,501, $1,500;

(d) where the number of those information returns is greater than 2,500, $2,500; and

(e) in any other case, nil.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 60(1), will add subsecs. 162(7.01) and (7.02), applicable to returns required to be filed after 2009.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: See under Reg. 205.1.

(7.1) Failure to make partnership information return — Where a member of a partnership fails to file an information return as a member of the partnership for a fiscal period of the partnership as and when required by this Act or the regulations and subsection (10) does not set out a penalty for the failure, the partnership is liable to a penalty equal to the greater of $100 and the product obtained when $25 is multiplied by the number of days, not exceeding 100, during which the failure continues.

Related Provisions: 96(1) — Taxation of partnership; 162(8.1) — Rules where partnership is liable to penalty; Reg. 205.1(3) — failure to file 500 returns electronically is a single failure. See also at end of s. 162.

Proposed Addition — 162(7.2)

(7.2) Failure to file in appropriate manner — return of income — Every person who fails to file a return of income for a taxation year as required by subsection 150.1(2.1) is liable to a penalty equal to $1,000.

Application: Bill C-10 (First Reading Feb. 6, 2009), subsec. 60(2), will add subsec. 162(7.2), applicable to taxation years that end after 2010 except that, in its application to the 2011 and 2012 taxation years, the reference to $1,000 in subsec. 162(7.2) is to be read as

(a) $250, for the 2011 taxation year; and

(b) $500, for the 2012 taxation year.

Federal Budget, Notice of Ways and Means Motion and Supplementary Information, Jan. 27, 2009: See under 150.1(2.1).

(8) Repeated failure to file — Where

(a) a penalty was payable under subsection (7.1) in respect of a failure by a member of a partnership to file an information return as a member of the partnership for a fiscal period of the partnership,

(b) a demand for the return or for information required to be contained in the return has been served under section 233 on the member, and

(c) a penalty was payable under subsection (7.1) in respect of the failure by a member of a partnership to file an information return as a member of the partnership for any of the 3 preceding fiscal periods, the partnership is liable, in addition to the penalty under subsection (7.1), to a penalty of $100 for each member of the partnership for each month or part of a month, not exceeding 24 months, during which the failure referred to in paragraph (a) continues.

Related Provisions: 162(8.1) — Rules where partnership is liable to penalty. See also at end of s. 162.

(8.1) Rules where partnership liable to a penalty — Where a partnership is liable to a penalty under subsection (5), (6), (7), (7.1), (8) or (10), sections 152, 158 to 160.1, 161 and 164 to 167 and Division J apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to the penalty as if the partnership were a corporation.

History: Subsec. 162(8.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 188(3), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 162(8.1) formerly read:

(8.1) Where partnership liable to penalty — Where a partnership is liable to a penalty under subsection (7), (7.1), (8), (10) or (10.1), sections 152, 158 to 160.1, 161 and 164 to 167 and Division J apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to the penalty as if the partnership were a corporation.

Subsec. 162(8.1) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 51(2), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after 1997 and to duties and obligations first imposed after 1997. Subsec. (8.1) formerly read:

(8.1) Where a partnership is liable to a penalty under subsection (7.1) or (8), sections 152, 158 to 160.1, 161 and 164 to 167 and Division J apply, with such modifications as the circumstances require, with respect to the penalty as if the partnership were a corporation.

(9) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 162(9) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 188(4), applicable after December 1, 1994. Subsec. 162(9) formerly read:

(9) Tax shelter identification number — Every person who

(a) files false or misleading information with the Minister in an application under subsection 237.1(2) for an identification number for a tax shelter, or

(b) whether as a principal or as an agent, sells, issues or accepts a contribution for the acquisition of an interest in a tax shelter before the Minister has issued an identification number therefor, is liable to a penalty equal to the greater of

(c) $500, and

(d) 3% of the total of all amounts each of which is the cost to each person who acquired an interest in the tax shelter before the correct information is filed with the Minister or the identification number is issued, as the case may be.

(10) Every corporation

(a) that fails to file an information return required by section 233.1,

(b) on which a demand under section 233 has been served for the return, and

(c) that does not comply with the demand within 90 days after the day the demand was served on it, is liable in respect of each such failure, in addition to the penalty under subsection (7), to a penalty of $1,000 for each month or part of a month, not exceeding 24 months, during which the failure continues.

(10.1) Additional penalty — Where

(a) a person or partnership is liable to a penalty under subsection (10) for the failure to file a return (other than an information return required to be filed under section 233.1),

(b) if paragraph (10)(a) applies, the number of months, beginning with the month in which the return was required to be filed, during any part of which the return has not been filed exceeds 24, and

(c) if paragraph (10)(b) applies, the number of months, beginning with the month in which the demand referred to in that paragraph was served, during any part of which the return has not been filed exceeds 24, the person or partnership is liable, in addition to the penalty determined under subsection (10), to a penalty equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$A - B$$

where

A is

(d) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.2, 5% of the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of property transferred or loaned (determined as of the time of the transfer or loan) because of which there would, if no other transfer or loan were taken into account, be an obligation to file the return,

Proposed Amendment — 162(10.1)A(d)

(d) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.2 in respect of a trust, 5% of the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the time it was made, of a contribution of the person or partnership made to the trust before the end of the last taxation year of the trust in respect of which the return is required,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 36(2), will amend para. (d) of the description of A in subsec. 162(10.1) to read as above, applicable to returns in respect of taxation years that begin after 2006, and to returns in respect of taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Subsection 162(10.1) imposes a penalty on any person or partnership that is more than 24 months late in filing an information return that the person or partnership was required to file under any of sections 233.1 to 233.4. (This penalty applies in addition to the penalties imposed under subsections 162(7) and (10).)

The penalty imposed under subsection 162(10.1) with respect to a particular information return is equal to a specified amount less the amount of the penalties imposed under subsections 162(7) and (10) with respect to the return. The specified amount with respect to an information return for a trust required to be filed by a person or partnership under section 233.2 is equal to 5% of the total fair market value of any property transferred or loaned to the trust that, if no other loan or transfer were taken into account, would have imposed an obligation on the person or partnership to file the return.

Subsection 162(10.1) is amended, as a consequence of amendments made to section 233.2, by changing the manner in which the specified amount is determined. The specified amount is now to be determined with reference to the fair market value of "contributions" made by the person or partnership to the trust.

(e) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.3 for a taxation year or fiscal period, 5% of the greatest of all amounts each of which is the total of the cost amounts to the person or partnership at any time in the year or period of a specified foreign property (as defined by subsection 233.3(1)) of the person or partnership, and

(f) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.4 for a taxation year or fiscal period in respect of a foreign affiliate of the person or partnership, 5% of the greatest of all amounts each of which is the total of the cost amounts to the person or partnership at any time in the year or period of a property of the person or partnership that is a share of the capital stock or indebtedness of the affiliate, and

B is the total of the penalties to which the person or partnership is liable under subsections (7) and (10) in respect of the return.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Initial calculation of penalty; 162(10.11) — Application to trust contribution; 162(10.2) — Shares or debt owned by controlled foreign affiliate; 162(10.3) — Application to partnership; 162(10.4) — Application to non-resident trust; 163(2.4)–(2.91) — Penalty for false statement or omission in return; 233.2(4.1) — Foreign arrangements similar to trusts; 233.5 — Due diligence defence to penalty; 257 — Formula cannot calculate to less than zero.

History: Subsec. 162(10.1) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 51(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

Proposed Addition — 162(10.11)

(10.11) Application to trust contributions — In paragraph (d) of the description of A in subsection (10.1), subsections 94(1), (2) and (9) apply, except that the references to the expression "(other than a restricted property)" in the definition "arm's length transfer" in subsection 94(1) are to be read as references to the expression "(other than property that is not described in any of subclauses (b)(i)(A)(I) to (III) but to which paragraph 94(2)(g) applies)".

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 36(3), will add subsec. 162(10.11), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 162(10.1)A(d).

Technical Notes: New subsection 162(10.11) provides that, for the purpose of the calculation in subsection 162(10.1), the definitions and rules in subsections 94(1), (2) and (9) generally apply. Subsection 162(10.11) is similar to amended subsection 233.2(2), described in greater detail in the commentary [to 233.2 — ed.].

(10.2) Shares or debt owned by controlled foreign affiliate — For the purpose of paragraph (f) of the description of A in subsection (10.1),

(a) shares or indebtedness owned by a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership are deemed to be owned by the person or partnership; and

(b) the cost amount at any time of such shares or indebtedness to the person or partnership is deemed to be equal to 20% of the cost amount at that time to the controlled foreign affiliate of the shares or indebtedness.

Related Provisions: 162(10.3) — Application to partnerships; 162(10.4) — Application to non-resident trusts.

History: Subsec. 162(10.2) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 51(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(10.3) Application to partnerships — For the purposes of paragraph (f) of the description of A in subsection (10.1) and subsection (10.2), in determining whether a non-resident corporation or trust is a foreign affiliate or a controlled foreign affiliate of a partnership,

Proposed Amendment — 162(10.3) opening words

(10.3) Application to partnerships — For the purposes of paragraph (f) of the description of A in subsection (10.1) and subsection (10.2), in determining whether a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate or a controlled foreign affiliate of a partnership,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 36(4), will amend the opening words of subsec. 162(10.3) to read as above, applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 162(10.1)A(d).

Technical Notes: Existing paragraph 94(1)(d) provides for non-resident trusts to be treated as foreign affiliates. It is being repealed as a consequence of the introduction of new rules for non-resident trusts in section 94. Subsections 162(10.3) and (10.4) are rules that affect the calculation of penalty tax in respect of a person's or partnership's failure to file a return in respect of a foreign affiliate.

Subsections 163(2.6) and (2.91) are similar provisions that affect the calculation of penalty tax in respect of false statements and omissions in such a return.

Subsections 162(10.3) and 163(2.6) are amended to reflect the changes to section 94 under which non-resident trusts are no longer treated as foreign affiliates. Subsections 162(10.4) and 163(2.91) are repealed for the same reason.

(a) the definitions "direct equity percentage" and "equity percentage" in subsection 95(4) shall be read as if a partnership were a person; and

(b) the definitions "controlled foreign affiliate" and "foreign affiliate" in subsection 95(1) shall be read as if a partnership were a taxpayer resident in Canada.

History: Subsec. 162(10.3) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 51(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(10.4) Application to non-resident trusts — For the purposes of this subsection, paragraph (f) of the description of A in subsection (10.1) and subsection (10.2),

(a) a non-resident trust is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of each beneficiary of which the trust is a controlled foreign affiliate for the purpose of section 233.4;

(b) the trust is deemed to be a non-resident corporation having a capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares;

(c) each beneficiary under the trust is deemed to own at any time the number of the issued shares of the corporation that is equal to the proportion of 100 that

(i) the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust

is of

(ii) the fair market value at that time of all beneficial interests in the trust; and

(d) the cost amount to a beneficiary at any time of a share of the corporation is deemed to be equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B}$$

where

A is the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust, and

B is the number of shares deemed under paragraph (c) to be owned at that time by the beneficiary in respect of the corporation.

Proposed Repeal — 162(10.4)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 36(5), will repeal subsec. 162(10.4), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 162(10.1)A(d).

Technical Notes: See under 162(10.3).

History: Subsec. 162(10.4) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 51(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(11) Effect of subsequent events — For the purpose of computing a penalty under subsection (1) or (2) in respect of a person's return of income for a taxation year, the person's tax payable under this Part for the year shall be determined before taking into consideration the specified future tax consequences for the year.

History: Subsec. 162(11) amended by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 51(4), applicable to 1996 et seq. Subsec. (11) formerly read:

(11) Effect of carryback of losses etc. — In determining a person's tax for a taxation year for the purpose of computing a penalty under subsection (1) or (2) in respect of the person's return of income for the year, paragraph 161(7)(a) applies with such modifications as the circumstances require.

Subsec. 162(11) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 134(3), applicable to amounts referred to in para. 161(7)(a) in respect of subsequent taxation years referred to in that para. ending after July 13, 1990.

Related Provisions [s. 162]: 18(1)(t) — Penalties are non-deductible; 161(11) — Interest on penalty; 180.2(6), 181.7, 183(3), 183.2(2), 185.2(2), 187(3), 187.6, 189(8), 190.21, 191.4(2), 193(8), 195(8),196(4), 197(6), 202(3), 204.3(2), 204.7(3), 204.87, 204.93, 204.94(4), 207(3), 207.07(3), 207.2(3), 207.4(2), 207.7(4), 208(4), 209(5), 210.2(7), 211.5, 211.6(5), 211.91(3), 218.2(5), 218.3(10), 219(3), 247(11) — Provisions of s. 162 apply for purposes of Parts I.1, I.2, I.3, II, II.1, III.1, IV, IV.1, V, VI, VI.1, VII, VIII, IX, IX.1, X, X.1, X.2, X.3, X.4, X.5, XI, XI.01, XI.1, XI.2, XI.3, XII, XII.1, XII.2, XII.3, XII.4, XII.6, XIII.1, XIII.2, XIV and XVI.1 respectively; 220(3.1) — Waiver or cancellation of penalty; 227(10.01), (10.1) — Provisions of s. 162 apply to withholding taxes under Parts XII.5 and XIII; 238(1), (3) — Offences; 239(3) — Penalty assessment cannot be issued after charge laid if person convicted.

163. (1) Repeated failures [to report income] — Every person who

(a) fails to report an amount required to be included in computing the person's income in a return filed under section 150 for a taxation year, and

(b) had failed to report an amount required to be so included in any return filed under section 150 for any of the three preceding taxation years is liable to a penalty equal to 10% of the amount described in paragraph (a), except where the person is liable to a penalty under subsection (2) in respect of that amount.

(2) False statements or omissions — Every person who, knowingly, or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence, has made or has participated in, assented to or acquiesced in the making of, a false statement or omission in a return, form, certificate, statement or answer (in this section referred to as a "return") filed or made in respect of a taxation year for the purposes of this Act, is liable to a penalty of the greater of $100 and 50% of the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the tax for the year that would be payable by the person under this Act

exceeds

(B) the amounts that would be deemed by subsections 120(2) and (2.2) to have been paid on account of the person's tax for the year

if the person's taxable income for the year were computed by adding to the taxable income reported by the person in the person's return for the year that portion of the person's understatement of income for the year that is reasonably attributable to the false statement or omission and if the person's tax payable for the year were computed by subtracting from the deductions from the tax otherwise payable by the person for the year such portion of any such deduction as may reasonably be attributable to the false statement or omission

exceeds

(ii) the amount, if any, by which

(A) the tax for the year that would have been payable by the person under this Act

exceeds

(B) the amounts that would be deemed by subsections 120(2) and (2.2) to have been paid on account of the person's tax for the year had the person's tax payable for the year been assessed on the basis of the information provided in the person's return for the year,

(b) [Repealed]

(c) the total of all amounts each of which is the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the person's liability under this Part for the year that arose during a particular month or, where that person is a cohabiting spouse or common-law partner (within the meaning assigned by section 122.6) of an individual at the end of the year and at the beginning of the particular month, of that individual's liability under this Part for the year that arose during the particular month, as the case may be, if that total were calculated by reference to the information provided

(ii) the amount that is deemed by subsection 122.61(1) to be an overpayment on account of the liability of that person or that individual, as the case may be, under this Part for the year that arose during the particular month,

(c.1) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would be deemed by section 122.5 to be paid by that person during a month specified for the year or, where that person is a qualified relation of an individual for the year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 122.5(1)), by that individual, as the case may be, if that total were calculated by reference to the information provided in the prescribed form filed for the year under section 122.5

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that is deemed under section 122.5 to be paid by that person or that qualified relation during a month specified for the year,

Proposed Amendment — 163(2)(c.1)

(c.1) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would be deemed by section 122.5 to be paid by that person during a month specified for the year or, where that person is the qualified relation of an individual in relation to that specified month (within the meaning assigned by subsection 122.5(1)), by that individual, if that total were calculated by reference to the information provided in the person's return of income (within the meaning assigned by subsection 122.5(1)) for the year

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that is deemed by section 122.5 to be paid by that person or by an individual of whom the person is the qualified relation in relation to a month specified for the year (within the meaning assigned to subsection 122.5(1)),

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), s. 160, will amend para. 163(2)(c.1) to read as above, applicable to amounts deemed to be paid during months specified for 2001 et seq.

Technical Notes: Subsection 163(2) imposes a penalty where a taxpayer knowingly, or in circumstances amounting to gross negligence, participates in or makes a false statement for the purposes of the Act. The penalty is determined with reference to the understatement of tax or the overstatement of amounts deemed to be paid on account of tax. Paragraph 163(2)(c.1) imposes a penalty where the false statement relates to the goods and services tax credit (GSTC).

The GSTC provisions were recently amended (S.C. 2002, chapter 9, formerly Bill C-49) to make the credit more responsive to changes in family circumstances by providing that the eligibility to the credit and the amount paid in each quarter reflect such changes that occurred before the end of the preceding quarter rather than in the preceding taxation year.

Paragraph 163(2)(c.1) is amended to reflect the new quarterly calculation of the GSTC.

(c.2) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be deemed under subsection 122.51(2) to be paid on account of the person's tax payable under this Part for the year if the amount were calculated by reference to the information provided in the return

exceeds

(ii) the amount that is deemed under subsection 122.51(2) to be paid on account of the person's tax payable under this Part for the year,

(c.3) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that would be deemed by subsection 122.7(2) or (3) to be a payment on account of the person's tax payable under this Part or another person's tax payable under this Part for the year if those amounts were calculated by reference to the information provided in the return

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts each of which is an amount that is deemed by subsection 122.7(2) or (3) to be a payment on account of the person's tax payable under this Part and, where applicable, the other person's tax payable under this Part for the year,

(d) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be deemed by subsection 127.1(1) to be paid for the year by the person if that amount were calculated by reference to the information provided in the return or form filed for the year pursuant to that subsection

exceeds

(ii) the amount that is deemed by that subsection to be paid for the year by the person,

(e) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be deemed by subsection 127.41(3) to have been paid for the year by the person if that amount were calculated by reference to the person's claim for the year under that subsection

exceeds

(ii) the maximum amount that the person is entitled to claim for the year under subsection 127.41(3),

(f) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be deemed by subsection 125.4(3) to have been paid for the year by the person if that amount were calculated by reference to the information provided in the return filed for the year pursuant to that subsection

exceeds

(ii) the amount that is deemed by that subsection to be paid for the year by the person, and

(g) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount that would be deemed by subsection 125.5(3) to have been paid for the year by the person if that amount were calculated by reference to the information provided in the return filed for the year pursuant to that subsection

(ii) the amount that is deemed by that subsection to be paid for the year by the person.

(2.1) Interpretation — For the purposes of subsection (2), the taxable income reported by a person in the person's return for a taxation year shall be deemed not to be less than nil and the "understatement of income" for a year of a person means the total of

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts that were not reported by the person in the person's return and that were required to be included in computing the person's income for the year

exceeds

(ii) the total of such of the amounts deductible by the person in computing the person's income for the year under the provisions of this Act as were wholly applicable to the amounts referred to in subparagraph (i) and were not deducted by the person in computing the person's income for the year reported by the person in the person's return,

(b) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts deducted by the person in computing the person's income for the year reported by the person in the person's return

exceeds

(ii) the total of such of the amounts referred to in subparagraph (i) as were deductible by the person in computing the person's income for the year in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and

(c) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the total of all amounts deducted by the person (otherwise than by virtue of section 111) from the person's income for the purpose of computing the person's taxable income for the year reported by the person in the person's return

exceeds

(ii) the total of all amounts deductible by the person (otherwise than by virtue of section 111) from the person's income for the purpose of computing the person's taxable income for the year in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(2.21) False statement or omissions with respect to look-back rule — A person is liable to the penalty determined under subsection (2.22) where the person,

(a) knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence has made or has participated in, assented to or acquiesced in the making of, a false statement or omission in a document required to be filed under subsection 66(12.73) in respect of a renunciation purported to have been made because of the application of subsection 66(12.66); or

(b) fails to file the document on or before the day that is 24 months after the day on or before which it was required to be filed.

History: Subsec. 163(2.21) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 52(2), applicable April 25, 1997.

(2.22) Penalty — For the purpose of subsection (2.21), the penalty to which a person is liable in respect of a document required to be filed under subsection 66(12.73) is equal to 25% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the portion of the excess referred to in subsection 66(12.73) in respect of the document that was known or that ought to have been known by the person

exceeds

(b) where paragraph (2.21)(b) does not apply, the portion of the excess identified in the document, and

(c) in any other case, nil.

Related Provisions: 162(7) — Additional penalty. See additional Related Provisions at end of s. 163.

History: Subsec. 163(2.22) added by 1997, c. 25, subsec. 52(2), applicable April 25, 1997.

(2.3) Idem — Every person who, knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence, makes or participates in, assents to or acquiesces in the making of, a false statement or omission in a prescribed form required to be filed under subsection 66(12.691) or (12.701) is liable to a penalty of 25% of the amount, if any, by which

(a) the assistance required to be reported in respect of a person or partnership in the prescribed form

exceeds

(b) the assistance reported in the prescribed form in respect of the person or partnership.

Related Provisions: See Related Provisions at end of s. 163.

History: Subsec. 163(2.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 135(1).

(2.4) False statement or omission [re foreign asset reporting] — Every person or partnership who, knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence, makes or participates in, assents to or acquiesces in, the making of a false statement or omission in a return is liable to a penalty of

(a) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.1, $24,000;

(b) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.2, the greater of

(i) $24,000, and

(ii) 5% of the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value of property transferred or loaned (determined as of the time of the transfer or loan) because of which there would, if no other transfer or loan were taken into account, be an obligation to file the return;

Proposed Amendment — 163(2.4)(b)

(b) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.2 in respect of a trust, the greater of

(i) $24,000, and

(ii) 5% of the total of all amounts each of which is the fair market value, at the time it was made, of a contribution of the person or partnership made to the trust before the end of the last taxation year of the trust in respect of which the return is required;

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 37(1), will amend para. 163(2.4)(b) to read as above, applicable to returns in respect of trust taxation years that begin after 2006, and to returns in respect of taxation years that begin

(a) after 2000, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(b) after 2001, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) or (b) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(c) after 2002, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (c) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(d) after 2003, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94;

(e) after 2004, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (e) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94; and

(f) after 2005, if the return relates to a trust that makes a valid election under para. (a) to (d) of the Application of the amendment to s. 94.

Technical Notes: Subsection 163(2.4) imposes a penalty on any person or partnership that, knowingly or under circumstances amounting to gross negligence, has made or has participated in, assented to, or acquiesced in, the making of a false statement or omission in a return required to be filed under any of sections 233.1 to 233.6. The penalty under paragraph 163(2.4)(b) relates to a return required to be filed under section 233.2. The existing penalty is the greater of $24,000 and 5% of the total fair market value of the property that the person or partnership loaned or transferred to the trust that gave rise to the obligation to file.

Paragraph 163(2.4)(b) is amended as a consequence of changes made to the non-resident trust rules in section 94 and the annual reporting requirement in respect of non-resident trusts under section 233.2. Under amended section 233.2, a person is subject to the annual reporting requirement where the person makes a "contribution" to the trust.

Accordingly, amended paragraph 163(2.4)(b) provides for a penalty for a person equal the greater of $24,000 and a specified amount in respect of the return. The specified amount for a person is essentially equal to 5% of the fair market value of "contributions" made by the person. The specified amount is calculated in the same way as the specified amount under amended subsection 162(10.1) in respect of late-filed returns. Under new subsection 163(2.41), the definitions and rules in subsections 94(1), (2) and (9) generally apply. Subsection 163(2.41) is similar to amended subsection 233.2(2), described in greater detail in the commentary below.

(c) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.3 for a taxation year or fiscal period, the greater of

(i) $24,000, and

(ii) 5% of the greatest of all amounts each of which is the total of the cost amounts to the person or partnership at any time in the year or period of a specified foreign property (as defined by subsection 233.3(1)(a)) of the person or partnership in respect of which the false statement or omission is made;

(d) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.4 for a taxation year or fiscal period, the greater of

(i) $24,000, and

(ii) 5% of the greatest of all amounts each of which is the total of the cost amounts to the person or partnership at any time in the year or period of a property of the person or partnership that is a share of the capital stock or indebtedness of the foreign affiliate in respect of which the return is being filed; and

(e) where the return is required to be filed under section 233.6 for a taxation year or fiscal period, the greater of

(i) $2,500, and

(ii) 5% of the total of

(A) all amounts each of which is the fair market value of a property that is distributed to the person or partnership in the year or period by the trust and in respect of which the false statement or omission is made, and

(B) all amounts each of which is the greatest unpaid principal amount of a debt that is owing to the trust by the person or partnership in the year or period and in respect of which the false statement or omission is made.

Related Provisions: 162(10), (10.1) — Penalty for failure to file return; 163(2.41) — Application to trust contributions; 163(2.5) — Shares or debt owned by controlled foreign affiliate; 163(2.6), (2.7) — Application to partnerships; 163(2.9) — Where partnership liable to penalty; 163(2.91) — Application to non-resident trusts; 233.2(4.1) — Foreign arrangements similar to trusts; 233.5 — Due diligence defence to penalty.

History: Subsec. 163(2.4) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

Information Circulars: 00-1R2: Voluntary disclosures program.

Proposed Addition — 163(2.41)

(2.41) Application to trust contributions — In subparagraph (2.4)(b)(ii), subsections 94(1), (2) and (9) apply, except that the references to the expression "(other than a restricted property)" in the definition "arm's length transfer" in subsection 94(1) are to be read as references to the expression "(other than property that is not described in any of subclauses (b)(i)(A)(I) to (III) but to which paragraph 94(2)(g) applies)".

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 37(2), will add subsec. 163(2.41), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 163(2.4)(b).

Technical Notes: See under 163(2.4)(b).

(2.5) Shares or debt owned by controlled foreign affiliate — For the purpose of paragraph (2.4)(d),

(a) shares or indebtedness owned by a controlled foreign affiliate of a person or partnership are deemed to be owned by the person or partnership; and

(b) the cost amount at any time of such shares or indebtedness to the person or partnership is deemed to be equal to 20% of the cost amount at that time to the controlled foreign affiliate of the shares or indebtedness.

Related Provisions: 163(2.6) — Application to partnerships; 163(2.91) — Application to non-resident trusts.

History: Subsec. 163(2.5) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(2.6) Application to partnerships — For the purposes of paragraph (2.4)(d) and subsection (2.5), in determining whether a non-resident corporation or trust is a foreign affiliate or a controlled foreign affiliate of a partnership

Proposed Amendment — 163(2.6) opening words

(2.6) Application to partnerships — For the purposes of paragraph (2.4)(d) and subsection (2.5), in determining whether a non-resident corporation is a foreign affiliate or a controlled foreign affiliate of a partnership,

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 37(3), will amend the opening words of para. 163(2.6) to read as above, applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 163(2.4)(b).

Technical Notes: See under 162(10.3).

(a) the definitions "direct equity percentage" and "equity percentage" in subsection 95(4) shall be read as if a partnership were a person; and

(b) the definitions "controlled foreign affiliate" and "foreign affiliate" in subsection 95(1) shall be read as if a partnership were a taxpayer resident in Canada.

History: Subsec. 163(2.6) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(2.7) Application to partnerships — For the purpose of subsection (2.4), each act or omission of a member of a partnership in respect of an information return required to be filed by the partnership under section 233.3, 233.4 or 233.6 is deemed to be an act or omission of the partnership in respect of the return.

Related Provisions: 163(2.8) — Tiers of partnerships.

History: Subsec. 163(2.7) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(2.8) Application to members of partnerships — For the purposes of this subsection and subsection (2.7), a person who is a member of a partnership that is a member of another partnership is deemed to be a member of the other partnership.

History: Subsec. 163(2.8) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(2.9) Where partnership liable to penalty — Where a partnership is liable to a penalty under subsection (2.4) or section 163.2 or 237.1, sections 152, 158 to 160.1, 161, and 164 to 167 and Division J apply, with any changes that the circumstances require, in respect of the penalty as if the partnership were a corporation.

History: Subsec. 163(2.9) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 49(3), in force June 29, 2000 (Royal Assent). The subsec. formerly read:

> (2.9) Where a partnership is liable to a penalty under subsection (2.4), sections 152, 158 to 160.1, 161 and 164 to 167 and Division J apply, with any modifications that the circumstances require, to the penalty as if the partnership were a corporation.

Subsec. 163(2.9) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(2.91) Application to non-resident trusts — For the purposes of this subsection, paragraph (2.4)(d) and subsection (2.5),

(a) a non-resident trust is deemed to be a controlled foreign affiliate of each beneficiary of which the trust is a controlled foreign affiliate for the purpose of section 233.4;

(b) the trust is deemed to be a non-resident corporation having a capital stock of a single class divided into 100 issued shares;

(c) each beneficiary under the trust is deemed to own at any time the number of the issued shares of the corporation that is equal to the proportion of 100 that

(i) the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust

is of

(ii) the fair market value at that time of all beneficial interests in the trust; and

(d) the cost amount to a beneficiary at any time of a share of the corporation is deemed to be equal to the amount determined by the formula

$$\frac{A}{B}$$

where

A is the fair market value at that time of the beneficiary's beneficial interest in the trust, and

B is the number of shares deemed under paragraph (c) to be owned at that time by the beneficiary in respect of the corporation.

Proposed Repeal — 163(2.91)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 1 — NRTs and FIEs), subsec. 37(4), will repeal subsec. 163(2.91), applicable on the same basis as the amendment to 163(2.4)(b).

Technical Notes: See under 162(10.3).

History: Subsec. 163(2.91) added by 1997, c. 25 subsec. 52(3), applicable to returns required to be filed on or before a day that is after April 29, 1998.

(3) Burden of proof in respect of penalties — Where, in an appeal under this Act, a penalty assessed by the Minister under this section or section 163.2 is in issue, the burden of establishing the facts justifying the assessment of the penalty is on the Minister.

Related Provisions: 15.1(5) — Small business development bond — penalties; 15.2(5) — Small business bond — penalties; 163.2(10) — Exception where valuation wrong by more than prescribed percentage.

History: Subsec. 163(3) amended by 2000, c. 19, subsec. 49(4), in force June 29, 2000 (Royal Assent). The subsec. formerly read:

(3) Where, in any appeal under this Act, any penalty assessed by the Minister under this section is in issue, the burden of establishing the facts justifying the assessment of the penalty is on the Minister.

Selected Cases [subsec. 163(3)]: Dick v. MNR, [1991] 2 C.T.C. 2034 (TCC) (Since Minister failed to show fraud or misrepresentation reassessments for two taxation years statute-barred); Levy v. MNR, [1989] 2 C.T.C. 151 (FCTD) (Penalties reduced in proportion to reduction of taxpayer's income under net worth assessments); R. v. Taylor, [1984] C.T.C. 436 (FCTD) (Burden of proof in appeal from assessment and in appeal of penalty remains with taxpayer and Crown respectively); Decore v. R., [1974] C.T.C. 791 (FCA) (Penalty denied when accountant of taxpayer not grossly negligent).

(4) Effect of carryback of losses etc. — In determining under subsection (2.1) the understatement of income for a taxation year of a person, the following amounts shall be deemed not to be deductible or excludable in computing the person's income for the year:

(a) any amount that may be deducted under section 41 in respect of the person's listed-personal-property loss for a subsequent taxation year;

(b) any amount that may be excluded from the person's income because of section 49 in respect of the exercise of any option in a subsequent taxation year;

(b.1) any amount that may be deducted under subsection 147.2(4) in computing the person's income for the year because of the application of subsection 147.2(6) as a result of the person's death in the subsequent taxation year; and

(c) any amount that may be deducted in computing the person's income for the year because of an election made under paragraph 164(6)(c) or (d) in a subsequent taxation year by the person's legal representative.

History: Para. 163(4)(b.1) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 189(3), applicable to taxpayers who die after 1992.

Subsec. 163(4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 135(2), applicable to amounts referred to in the subsec. in respect of subsequent taxation years ending after July 13, 1990.

Misrepresentation of a Tax Matter by a Third Party

163.2 [Third party civil penalties] — (1) Definitions — The definitions in this subsection apply in this section.

"culpable conduct" means conduct, whether an act or a failure to act, that

(a) is tantamount to intentional conduct;

(b) shows an indifference as to whether this Act is complied with; or

(c) shows a wilful, reckless or wanton disregard of the law.

Related Provisions: 149.1(4.1)(c) — Definition applies for revoking charity's registration; 188.1(9) — Definition applies to charity false-statement penalty.

"entity" includes an association, a corporation, a fund, a joint venture, an organization, a partnership, a syndicate and a trust.

"excluded activity", in respect of a false statement, means the activity of

(a) promoting or selling (whether as principal or agent or directly or indirectly) an arrangement, an entity, a plan, a property or a scheme (in this definition referred to as the "arrangement") where it can reasonably be considered that

(i) subsection 66(12.68) applies to the arrangement,

(ii) the definition "tax shelter" in subsection 237.1(1) applies to a person's interest in the arrangement, or

(iii) one of the main purposes for a person's participation in the arrangement is to obtain a tax benefit; or

(b) accepting (whether as principal or agent or directly or indirectly) consideration in respect of the promotion or sale of an arrangement.

"false statement" includes a statement that is misleading because of an omission from the statement.

Related Provisions: 149.1(4.1)(c) — Definition applies for revoking charity's registration; 188.1(9) — Definition applies to charity false-statement penalty.

"gross compensation" of a particular person at any time, in respect of a false statement that could be used by or on behalf of another person, means all amounts to which the particular person, or any person not dealing at arm's length with the particular person, is entitled, either before or after that time and either absolutely or contingently, to receive or obtain in respect of the statement.

Related Provisions: 163.2(12)(c) — Exclusion of penalty assessed to another person under subsec. (5).

"gross entitlements" of a person at any time, in respect of a planning activity or a valuation activity of the person, means all amounts to which the person, or another person not dealing at arm's length with the person, is entitled, either before or after that time and either absolutely or contingently, to receive or obtain in respect of the activity.

Related Provisions: 163.2(12) — Special rules re gross entitlements.

"participate" includes

(a) to cause a subordinate to act or to omit information; and

(b) to know of, and to not make a reasonable attempt to prevent, the participation by a subordinate in an act or an omission of information.

"person" includes a partnership.

"planning activity" includes

(a) organizing or creating, or assisting in the organization or creation of, an arrangement, an entity, a plan or a scheme; and

(b) participating, directly or indirectly, in the selling of an interest in, or the promotion of, an arrangement, an entity, a plan, a property or a scheme.

"subordinate", in respect of a particular person, includes any other person over whose activities the particular person has direction, supervision or control whether or not the other person is an employee of the particular person or of another person, except that, if the particular person is a member of a partnership, the other person is not a subordinate of the particular person solely because the particular person is a member of the partnership.

"tax benefit" means a reduction, avoidance or deferral of tax or other amount payable under this Act or an increase in a refund of tax or other amount under this Act.

"valuation activity" of a person means anything done by the person in determining the value of a property or a service.

(2) Penalty for misrepresentations in tax planning arrangements — Every person who makes or furnishes, participates in the making of or causes another person to make or furnish a statement that the person knows, or would reasonably be expected to know but for circumstances amounting to culpable conduct, is a false statement that could be used by another person (in subsections (6) and (15) referred to as the "other person") for a purpose of this Act is liable to a penalty in respect of the false statement.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Penalty is non-deductible; 161(11) — Interest on penalty; 163(2.9) — Where partnership is liable to penalty; 163(3) — Burden of proof of penalty is on CRA; 163.2(3) — Amount of penalty; 163.2(4) — Alternative penalty; 163.2(6) — Reliance in good faith on information provided; 163.2(8) — Multiple false statements in respect of one arrangement; 163.2(12) — Special rules re gross entitlements; 163.2(14) — Where penalty applies under both (2) and (4); 163.2(15) — Transfer of liability of certain employees to employer; 188.1(9), (10) — Alternative penalty relating to charity receipt; 220(3.1) — Waiver of penalty; 239(3) — Penalty cannot be assessed after charge laid if person convicted. (3) Amount of penalty — The penalty to which a person is liable under subsection (2) in respect of a false statement is

(a) where the statement is made in the course of a planning activity or a valuation activity, the greater of $1,000 and the total of the person's gross entitlements, at the time at which the notice of assessment of the penalty is sent to the person, in respect of the planning activity and the valuation activity; and

(b) in any other case, $1,000.

(4) Penalty for participating in a misrepresentation — Every person who makes, or participates in, assents to or acquiesces in the making of, a statement to, or by or on behalf of, another person (in this subsection and subsections (5) and (6), paragraph 12(c) and subsection (15) referred to as the "other person") that the person knows, or would reasonably be expected to know but for circumstances amounting to culpable conduct, is a false statement that could be used by or on behalf of the other person for a purpose of this Act is liable to a penalty in respect of the false statement.

Related Provisions: 18(1)(t) — Penalty is non-deductible; 161(11) — Interest on penalty; 163(2.9) — Where partnership is liable to penalty; 163(3) — Burden of proof of penalty is on CRA; 163.2(2) — Alternative penalty; 163.2(5) — Amount of penalty; 163.2(6) — Reliance in good faith on information provided; 163.2(14) — Where penalty applies under both (2) and (4); 163.2(15) — Transfer of liability of certain employees to employer; 188.1(9), (10) — Alternative penalty relating to charity receipt; 220(3.1) — Waiver of penalty; 239(3) — Penalty cannot be assessed after charge laid if person convicted. Registered Charities Newsletters: 18 (charitable donation tax shelter arrangements).

Registered Plans Compliance Bulletins: 4 (abusive schemes — RRSP stripping).

(5) Amount of penalty — The penalty to which a person is liable under subsection (4) in respect of a false statement is the greater of

(a) $1,000, and

(b) the lesser of

(i) the penalty to which the other person would be liable under subsection 163(2) if the other person made the statement in a return filed for the purposes of this Act and knew that the statement was false, and

(ii) the total of $100,000 and the person's gross compensation, at the time at which the notice of assessment of the penalty is sent to the person, in respect of the false statement that could be used by or on behalf of the other person.

Related Provisions: 163.2(4) — Meaning of "other person".

(6) Reliance in good faith — For the purposes of subsections (2) and (4), a person (in this subsection and in subsection (7) referred to as the "advisor") who acts on behalf of the other person is not considered to have acted in circumstances amounting to culpable conduct in respect of the false statement referred to in subsection (2) or (4) solely because the advisor relied, in good faith, on information provided to the advisor by or on behalf of the other person or, because of such reliance, failed to verify, investigate or correct the information.

Related Provisions: 163.2(2), (4) — Meaning of "other person"; 163.2(7) — No application to "excluded activity" such as selling tax shelters.

(7) Non-application of subsec. (6) — Subsection (6) does not apply in respect of a statement that an advisor makes (or participates in, assents to or acquiesces in the making of) in the course of an excluded activity.

(8) False statements in respect of a particular arrangement — For the purpose of applying this section (other than subsections (4) and (5)),

(a) where a person makes or furnishes, participates in the making of or causes another person to make or furnish, two or more false statements, the false statements are deemed to be one false statement if the statements are made or furnished in the course of

(i) one or more planning activities that are in respect of a particular arrangement, entity, plan, property or scheme, or

(ii) a valuation activity that is in respect of a particular property or service; and

(b) for greater certainty, a particular arrangement, entity, plan, property or scheme includes an arrangement, an entity, a plan, a property or a scheme in respect of which

(i) an interest is required to have, or has, an identification number issued under section 237.1 that is the same number as the number that applies to each other interest in the property,

(ii) a selling instrument in respect of flow-through shares is required to be filed with the Minister because of subsection 66(12.68), or

(iii) one of the main purposes for a person's participation in the arrangement, entity, plan or scheme, or a person's acquisition of the property, is to obtain a tax benefit.

(9) Clerical services — For the purposes of this section, a person is not considered to have made or furnished, or participated in, assented to or acquiesced in the making of, a false statement solely because the person provided clerical services (other than bookkeeping services) or secretarial services with respect to the statement.

(10) Valuations — Notwithstanding subsections (6) and 163(3), a statement as to the value of a property or a service (which value is in this subsection referred to as the "stated value"), made by the person who opined on the stated value or by a person in the course of an excluded activity is deemed to be a statement that the person would reasonably be expected to know, but for circumstances amounting to culpable conduct, is a false statement if the stated value is

(a) less than the product obtained when the prescribed percentage for the property or service is multiplied by the fair market value of the property or service; or

(b) greater than the product obtained when the prescribed percentage for the property or service is multiplied by the fair market value of the property or service.

Proposed Amendment — 163.2(10)

Letter from Dept. of Finance, July 11, 2000:

Dear [xxx]

Thank you for your letter of February 4, 2000 concerning our meeting of November 4, 1999 regarding the 1999 budget proposal to introduce a civil penalty in respect of misrepresentations of tax matters by third parties. As you may know, the legislation implementing this proposal received Royal Assent on June 29, 2000 (i.e., S.C. 2000, c. 19).

Your letter replies to our request for input from the [xxx] on the appropriate prescribed percentages for the purpose of establishing a deviation range under new subsection 163.2(10) of the Income Tax Act (the "Act"). In your letter, you have indicated that the Institute has concluded that, if a percentage threshold is to-be set by the government, it should be the 200% test adopted by the U.S. under section 6700 of the Internal Revenue Code (the "IRC"). The Institute is also of the view that providing separate prescribed percentages for different industries would be inappropriate because it would be unworkable from a practical perspective — diversifications and business combinations defeat industry classification.

We agree with your observation that it may be impractical to have prescribed percentages that differ for various industries. However, we remain of the view that the deviation range established by prescribed percentages should be narrower than that which would exist under a range that is based upon a 200% standard.

It is our understanding that the U.S. 200% test for gross overstatements results in an automatic application of the penalty under section 6700 of the IRC, subject only to an exception for valuations for which there is a reasonable basis, which were made in good faith and then only if the Secretary of the Treasury waives the penalty under the authority of subsection 6700(b)(2) of the IRC. In contrast, section 163.2 of the Act merely provides a reverse onus. That is to say, in the case of valuations outside of the range, the onus is on the valuator to establish to the Minister of National Revenue or the judiciary that the valuation was reasonable in the circumstances, was made in good faith and was not based on a misleading assumption. The Canadian approach favours Canadian valuators.

The objective of the reverse onus rule in the Canadian provisions is to ensure that valuators and tax shelter promoters justify a substantial deviation from actual value. We would expect that a bona fide professional valuator would be prepared to substantiate that a particular valuation is reasonable in the circumstances (regardless of whether it is, on an ex post facto basis, proven to be inaccurate), that the valuation was made in good faith and that it is not based upon misleading assumptions. In this regard, therefore, it would be inappropriate to permit valuators to refuse to justify valuations that are proven to be inaccurate by a wide margin.

We anticipate a deviation range for all valuations that is narrower than 200%. However, consideration will be given within this parameter as to whether the deviation range for valuations used in a non-tax shelter context should differ from valuations used in a tax-shelter context and, if so, the appropriate percentages. If you wish to make further presentations to the Department on this issue, please contact Mr. Kerry Harnish at (613) 992-4385.

Finally, you should be aware that we intend to recommend that the percentages, which are "prescribed" for the purpose of applying new subsection 163.2(10) of the Act, be effective only for statements made after the day on which they are announced.

Thank you again for bringing your concerns to our attention.

Yours sincerely,

Len Farber
General Director, Tax Legislation Division, Tax Policy Branch

Related Provisions: 163.2(11) — Exception where valuation was reasonable and made in good faith.

Registered Charities Newsletters: 18 (charitable donation tax shelter arrangements).

(11) Exception — Subsection (10) does not apply to a person in respect of a statement as to the value of a property or a service if the person establishes that the stated value was reasonable in the circumstances and that the statement was made in good faith and, where applicable, was not based on one or more assumptions that the person knew or would reasonably be expected to know, but for circumstances amounting to culpable conduct, were unreasonable or misleading in the circumstances.

(12) Special rules — For the purpose of applying this section,

(a) where a person is assessed a penalty that is referred to in subsection (2) the amount of which is based on the person's gross entitlements at any time in respect of a planning activity or a valuation activity and another assessment of the penalty is made at a later time,

(i) if the person's gross entitlements in respect of the activity are greater at that later time, the assessment of the penalty made at that later time is deemed to be an assessment of a separate penalty, and

(ii) in any other case, the notice of assessment of the penalty sent before that later time is deemed not to have been sent;

(b) a person's gross entitlements at any time in respect of a planning activity or a valuation activity, in the course of which the person makes or furnishes, participates in the making of or causes another person to make or furnish a false statement, shall exclude the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a penalty (other than a penalty the assessment of which is void because of subsection (13)) determined under paragraph (3)(a) in respect of the false statement for which notice of the assessment was sent to the person before that time; and

(c) where a person is assessed a penalty that is referred to in subsection (4), the person's gross compensation at any time in respect of the false statement that could be used by or on behalf of the other person shall exclude the total of all amounts each of which is the amount of a penalty (other than a penalty the assessment of which is void because of subsection (13)) determined under subsection (5) to the extent that the false statement was used by or on behalf of that other person and for which notice of the assessment was sent to the person before that time.

Related Provisions: 163.2(4) — Meaning of "other person".

(13) Assessment void — For the purposes of this Act, if an assessment of a penalty that is referred to in subsection (2) or (4) is vacated, the assessment is deemed to be void.

(14) Maximum penalty — A person who is liable at any time to a penalty under both subsections (2) and (4) in respect of the same false statement is liable to pay a penalty that is not more than the greater of

(a) the total amount of the penalties to which the person is liable at that time under subsection (2) in respect of the statement, and

(b) the total amount of the penalties to which the person is liable at that time under subsection (4) in respect of the statement.

(15) Employees — Where an employee (other than a specified employee or an employee engaged in an excluded activity) is employed by the other person referred to in subsections (2) and (4),

(a) subsections (2) to (5) do not apply to the employee to the extent that the false statement could be used by or on behalf of the other person for a purpose of this Act; and

(b) the conduct of the employee is deemed to be that of the other person for the purposes of applying subsection 163(2) to the other person.

Refunds

164. (1) Refunds — If the return of a taxpayer's income for a taxation year has been made within 3 years from the end of the year, the Minister

(a) may,

(i) before mailing the notice of assessment for the year, where the taxpayer is, for any purpose of the definition "refundable investment tax credit" (as defined in subsection 127.1(2)), a qualifying corporation (as defined in that subsection) and claims in its return of income for the year to have paid an amount on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year because of subsection 127.1(1) in respect of its refundable investment tax credit (as defined in subsection 127.1(2)), refund all or part of any amount claimed in the return as an overpayment for the year, not exceeding the amount by which the total determined under paragraph (f) of the definition "refundable investment tax credit" in subsection 127.1(2) in respect of the taxpayer for the year exceeds the total determined under paragraph (g) of that definition in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

(ii) before mailing the notice of assessment for the year, where the taxpayer is a qualified corporation (as defined in subsection 125.4(1)) or an eligible production corporation (as defined in subsection 125.5(1)) and an amount is deemed under subsection 125.4(3) or 125.5(3) to have been paid on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year, refund all or part of any amount claimed in the return as an overpayment for the year, not exceeding the total of those amounts so deemed to have been paid, and

(iii) on or after mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund any overpayment for the year, to the extent that the overpayment was not refunded pursuant to subparagraph (i) or (ii); and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make the refund referred to in subparagraph (a)(iii) after mailing the notice of assessment if application for it is made in writing by the taxpayer within the period within which the Minister would be allowed under subsection 152(4) to assess tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph 152(4)(a).

Related Provisions: 144(9) — Employees profit sharing plans — refunds; 160.1 — Where excess refunded; 161.4(2) — No refund of $2 or less; 164(1.5) — Late refund of overpayment; 164(1.52) — Refund of instalments on request; 164(1.8) — Request to pay refund to prescribed province; 164(2.01) — No refund paid until all income tax and GST returns filed; 164(2.2) — Child Tax Benefit form deemed to be a return of income; 164(3) — Interest on refunds; 220(6) — Assignment of corporation's tax refund; Tax Rebate Discounting Act — Assignment of personal income tax refund to tax return preparer.

History: Subpara. 164(1)(a)(i) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 37(1), applicable to taxation years that end after March 22, 2004. The subpara. formerly read:

(i) before mailing the notice of assessment for the year, where the taxpayer is a qualifying corporation (as defined in subsection 127.1(2)) and claims in its return of income for the year to have paid an amount on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year because of subsection 127.1(1) in respect of its refundable investment tax credit (as defined in subsection 127.1(2)), refund all or part of any amount claimed in the return as an overpayment for the year, not exceeding the amount by which the total determined under paragraph (f) of the definition "refundable investment tax credit" in subsection 127.1(2) in respect of the taxpayer for the year exceeds the total determined under paragraph (g) of that definition in respect of the taxpayer for the year,

Paras. 164(1)(a) and (b) amended by 2001, c. 17, subsec. 156(1), applicable to 1999 et seq. The paras. formerly read:

(a) may,

(i) before mailing the notice of assessment for the year, where the taxpayer is a qualifying corporation (as defined in subsection 127.1(2)) and claims in its return of income under this Part for the year to have paid an amount on account of its tax payable under this Part for the year by reason of subsection 127.1(1) in respect of its refundable investment tax credit (as defined in subsection 127.1(2)), refund without application therefor, all or any part of any amount claimed in the return as an overpayment for the year, not exceeding the amount by which the total determined under paragraph (f) of the definition "refundable investment tax credit" in subsection 127.1(2) in respect of the taxpayer for the year exceeds the total determined under paragraph (g) of that definition in respect of the taxpayer for the year, and

(ii) on or after mailing the notice of assessment for the year, refund without application therefor, any overpayment for the year, to the extent that the overpayment was not refunded pursuant to subparagraph (i); and

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make the refund referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) after mailing the notice of assessment if application for it is made in writing by the taxpayer within the period within which the Minister would be allowed under subsection 152(4) to assess tax payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year if that subsection were read without reference to paragraph 152(4)(a).

Subpara. 164(1)(a)(i) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 190(1), applicable to taxation years that end after December 2, 1992. Subpara. 164(1)(a)(i) formerly read:

(i) before mailing the notice of assessment for the year, where the taxpayer is a qualifying corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 127.1(2)) and claims in the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year to have paid an amount on account of the taxpayer's tax under this Part for the year by reason of subsection 127.1(1) in respect of the taxpayer's refundable investment tax credit for the year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 127.1(2)), refund without application therefor, all or any part of any amount claimed in the return as an overpayment for the year, not exceeding the amount by which the total determined under subparagraph (a)(vi) of the definition "refundable investment tax credit" in subsection 127.1(2) in respect of the taxpayer for the year exceeds the total determined under subparagraph (a)(vii) of that definition in respect of the taxpayer for the year, and

Para. 164(1)(b) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 190(2), applicable after April 27, 1989. Para. 164(1)(b) formerly read:

(b) shall, with all due dispatch, make the refund referred to in subparagraph (a)(ii) after mailing the notice of assessment if application therefor has been made in writing by the taxpayer within the period determined under paragraph 152(4)(b) or (c), as the case may be, within which the Minister may reassess tax payable by the taxpayer for the year.

(1.1) Repayment on objections and appeals — Subject to subsection (1.2), where a taxpayer

(a) has under section 165 served a notice of objection to an assessment and the Minister has not within 120 days after the day of service confirmed or varied the assessment or made a reassessment in respect thereof, or

(b) has appealed from an assessment to the Tax Court of Canada, and has applied in writing to the Minister for a payment or surrender of security, the Minister shall, where no authorization has been granted under subsection 225.2(2) in respect of the amount assessed, with all due dispatch repay all amounts paid on account of that amount or surrender security accepted therefor to the extent that

(c) the lesser of

(i) the total of the amounts so paid and the value of the security, and

(ii) the amount so assessed

exceeds

(d) the total of

(i) the amount, if any, so assessed that is not in controversy, and

(ii) where the taxpayer is a large corporation (within the meaning assigned by subsection 225.1(8)), ½ of the amount so assessed that is in controversy.

Related Provisions: 164(1.6) — 164(1.1) does not apply to security under s. 116; 225.1(7) — Limitation on collection restrictions — large corporations.

History: Para. 164(1.1)(d) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 97(1), applicable after June 10, 1993, except that, where a taxpayer has served a notice of objection under the Act with respect to a notice of assessment of tax, interest or penalties under the Act mailed before 1992, the reference in subpara. (ii) to "½" shall, in application before 1994 with respect to that notice of objection, be read as "¼". Para. (d) formerly read:

(d) the amount, if any, so assessed that is not in controversy,

(1.2) Collection in jeopardy — Notwithstanding subsection (1.1), where, on application by the Minister made within 45 days after the receipt by the Minister of a written request by a taxpayer for repayment of an amount or surrender of a security, a judge is satisfied that there are reasonable grounds to believe that the collection of all or any part of an amount assessed in respect of the taxpayer would be jeopardized by the repayment of the amount or the surrender of the security to the taxpayer under that subsection, the judge shall order that the repayment of the amount or a part thereof not be made or that the security or part thereof not be surrendered or make such other order as the judge considers reasonable in the circumstances.

Related Provisions: 225.2(2) — Lifting of collection restrictions where collection of tax in jeopardy.

(1.3) Notice of application — The Minister shall give 6 clear days notice of an application under subsection (1.2) to the taxpayer in respect of whom the application is made.

Related Provisions: Interpretation Act 27(1) — Calculation of "clear days".

(1.31) Application of subsecs. 225.2(4), (10), (12) and (13) — Where an application under subsection (1.2) is made by the Minister, subsections 225.2(4), (10), (12) and (13) are applicable in respect of the application with such modifications as the circumstances require.

(1.4) Provincial refund — Where, at any time, a taxpayer is entitled to a refund or repayment on account of taxes imposed by a province or as a result of a deduction in computing the taxes imposed by a province and the Government of Canada has agreed to make the refund or repayment on behalf of the province, the amount thereof shall be a liability of the Minister of National Revenue to the taxpayer.

(1.5) [Late refund of overpayment] — Notwithstanding subsection (1), the Minister may, on or after mailing a notice of assessment for a taxation year, refund all or any portion of any overpayment of a taxpayer for the year

(a) if the taxpayer is an individual (other than a trust) or is a testamentary trust and the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year was filed on or before the day that is ten calendar years after the end of the taxation year; or

(b) where an assessment or a redetermination was made under subsection 152(4.2) or 220(3.1) or (3.4) in respect of the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 152(4.2) — Reassessment with taxpayer's consent; 164(3.2) — Interest on refunds and repayments.

History: Para. 164(1.5)(a) amended by 2005, c. 19, subsec. 37(2), applicable in respect of returns filed after 2004. The para. formerly read:

(a) if the taxpayer is an individual (other than a trust) or a testamentary trust and the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year was filed later than 3 years after the end of the year; or

Para. 164(1.5)(b) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 97(2), to add reference to subsection 220(3.1), applicable to 1985 et seq.

Subsec. 164(1.5) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 136(1), applicable to refunds for 1985 et seq.

Proposed Addition — 164(1.51)–(1.53)

(1.51) Where subsection (1.52) applies — Subsection (1.52) applies to a taxpayer for a taxation year if, at any time after the beginning of the year

(a) the taxpayer has, in respect of the tax payable by the taxpayer under this Part (and, if the taxpayer is a corporation, Parts I.3, VI, VI.1 and XIII.1) for the year, paid under any of sections 155 to 157 one or more instalments of tax;

(b) it is reasonable to conclude that the total amount of those instalments exceeds the total amount of taxes that will be payable by the taxpayer under those Parts for the year; and

(c) the Minister is satisfied that the payment of the instalments has caused or will cause undue hardship to the taxpayer.

(1.52) Instalment refund — If this subsection applies to a taxpayer for a taxation year, the Minister may refund to the taxpayer all or any part of the excess referred to in paragraph (1.51)(b).

Related Provisions: 164(1.51) — Conditions for 164(1.52) to apply; 164(1.53) — Refunded instalment deemed not paid for penalty/interest purposes.

(1.53) Penalties, interest not affected — For the purpose of the calculation of any penalty or interest under this Act, an instalment is deemed not to have been paid to the extent that all or any part of the instalment can reasonably be considered to have been refunded under subsection (1.52).

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 161(1), will add subsecs. 164(1.51)–(1.53), in force on Royal Assent.

Technical Notes: New subsections 164(1.51) to (1.53), which apply on Royal Assent, allow the Minister of National Revenue to refund excessive instalment amounts paid on account of a taxpayer's tax liability. In order for such a refund to be made, four conditions must be met. Three of these are set out in new subsection 164(1.51). First, the taxpayer must have paid one or more instalments of tax under Part I or, where the taxpayer is a corporation, Part I.3, VI, VI.1 or XIII of the Act. Second, it must be reasonable to conclude that the total amount of the instalments the taxpayer has paid exceeds the total amount of taxes payable by the taxpayer under those Parts for the year. Third, the Minister must be satisfied that the payment of the instalments has caused or will cause the taxpayer undue hardship.

The last condition is implied in new subsection 164(1.52). The availability of an instalment refund in a particular case is a matter of the Minister's discretion. The final condition is therefore that the Minister agree to make the refund. Similarly, new subsection 164(1.52) makes it clear that the amount of any instalment refund is to be decided by the Minister: the Minister may refund all or any part of an excessive instalment.

New subsection 164(1.53) provides that, for the purposes of computing interest and penalties, a taxpayer that receives an instalment refund is treated as not having paid the instalment to that extent.

(1.6) Refund of UI premium tax credit — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where an overpayment on account of a taxpayer's liability under this Part is deemed to have arisen under subsection 126.1(6) or (7), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, refund the amount of the overpayment without application for it.

Proposed Repeal — 164(1.6)

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 161(2), will repeal subsec. 164(1.6), applicable after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 164(1.6) provides rules concerning refunds of the UI premium tax credit. This subsection is repealed consequential to the repeal of section 126.1. For additional information, see the commentary to section 126.1.

Related Provisions: 164(3) — No interest on refund.

History: Subsec. 164(1.6) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 27(1), applicable after 1992.

(1.7) Limitation of repayment on objections and appeals — Subsection (1.1) does not apply in respect of an amount paid or security furnished under section 116 by a non-resident person.

History: Subsec. 164(1.7) added by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 164(1.7), applicable from May 12, 1994.

(1.8) Request to pay refund to province — An individual (other than a trust) may, in the individual's return of income for a taxation year, request the Minister to pay to Her Majesty in right of a prescribed province all or any part of a refund for the year claimed by the individual in the return and, where the individual makes such a request,

(a) the Minister may make the payment to Her Majesty in right of the province in accordance with the request; and

(b) the amount of the payment is deemed to have been refunded under this section to the individual at the time a notice of an original assessment of tax payable under this Part by the individual for the year, or a notification that no tax is payable under this Part by the individual for the year, is sent to the individual.

Related Provisions: 241(4)(m) — Disclosure of information by CRA to prescribed province.

History: Subsec. 164(1.8) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 190(3), applicable to requests made in returns of income for 1997 et seq. taxation years filed after 1997.

Subsec. 190(12) of the said c. 19 provides that for the purpose of applying subsec. 164(1.8), Ontario is deemed to be a prescribed province until the Income Tax Regulations are amended to prescribe a province for the purpose of subsec. 164(1.8).

Regulations: None yet, but s. 190(12) of the 1995-97 technical bill (1998, c. 19) deems Ontario to be a prescribed province until Regulations are provided. Ontario is to be prescribed in the Regulations (Department of Finance Technical Notes, Dec. 1997).

(2) Application to other debts — Instead of making a refund or repayment that might otherwise be made under this section, the Minister may, where the taxpayer is, or is about to become, liable to make any payment to Her Majesty in right of Canada or in right of a province, apply the amount of the refund or repayment to that other liability and notify the taxpayer of that action.

Related Provisions: 164(2.1) — Application of GST credit; 164(2.2) — Application to refunds under s. 122.61; 164(3.2) — Interest on refunds and repayments; 164(7) — Overpayment defined; 165 — Objections to assessments; 169 — Appeals; 172 — Appeals; 203 — Set-off of Part X refund; 222(1)"action" — Ten-year limitation period applies to 164(2); 224.1 — Set-off of tax debt against other amount owing by the Crown to the taxpayer; 227 — Withholding taxes; 241(4)(d)(xiii)(B) — Disclosure of information by CRA to provincial officials for set-off purposes.

History: Subsec. 164(2) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 190(4), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 164(2) formerly read:

(2) Instead of making a refund or repayment that might otherwise be made under this section, the Minister may, where the taxpayer is liable or about to become liable to make any payment to Her Majesty in right of Canada, apply the amount of the refund or repayment to that other liability and notify the taxpayer of that action.

Subsec. 164(2) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 136(2), to substitute "to Her Majesty in right of Canada" for "under this Act", and "other debts" for "other taxes" in the heading.

(2.01) Withholding of refunds — The Minister shall not, in respect of a taxpayer, refund, repay, apply to other debts or set-off amounts under this Act at any time unless all returns of which the Minister has knowledge and that are required to be filed by the taxpayer at or before that time under this Act, the Air Travellers Security Charge Act, the Excise Act, 2001 and the Excise Tax Act have been filed with the Minister.

History: Subsec. 164(2.01) added by 2006, c. 4, s. 163, in force April 1, 2007.

(2.1) Application respecting refunds under s. 122.5 [GST/HST credit] — Where an amount deemed under section 122.5 to be paid by an individual during a month specified for a taxation year is applied under subsection (2) to a liability of the individual and the individual's return of income for the year is filed on or before the individual's balance-due day for the year, the amount is deemed to have been so applied on the day on which the amount would have been refunded if the individual were not liable to make a payment to Her Majesty in right of Canada.

History: Subsec. 164(2.1) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 190(5), in force on June 18, 1998. Subsec. 164(2.1) formerly read:

(2.1) Where an amount deemed under section 122.5 to be paid by an individual during a month specified for a taxation year is, in accordance with subsection (2), applied to a liability of the individual, for the purposes of that subsection, the amount shall, to the extent that it is so applied, be deemed to be paid on the latest of

(a) the last day of the month,

(b) where the month is the first month specified for a taxation year ending after 1989, the day that is the earlier of the day the amount is applied and the last day of the second month specified for the year, and

(c) where the individual's return of income for the year or the individual's prescribed form for the year referred to in subsection 122.5(3) is filed after the day on or before which the return is required to be filed, the day the amount is applied.

(2.2) Application respecting refunds re section 122.61 [Child Tax Benefit] — Subsection (2) does not apply to a refund to be made to a taxpayer and arising because of section 122.61 except to the extent that the taxpayer's liability referred to in that subsection arose from the operation of paragraph 160.1(1)(a) with respect to an amount refunded to the taxpayer in excess of the amount to which the taxpayer was entitled because of section 122.61.

(2.3) [Child Tax Benefit] Form deemed to be a return of income — For the purpose of subsection (1), where a taxpayer files the form referred to in paragraph (b) of the definition "return of income" in section 122.6 for a taxation year, the form shall be deemed to be a return of the taxpayer's income for that year and a notice of assessment thereof shall be deemed to have been mailed by the Minister.

History: Subsecs. 164(2.2), (2.3) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 18(1), applicable to overpayments arising after 1992.

(3) Interest on refunds and repayments — Where under this section an amount in respect of a taxation year (other than an amount or portion of it that can reasonably be considered to arise from the operation of section 122.5, 122.61 or 126.1) is refunded or repaid to a taxpayer or applied to another liability of the taxpayer, the Minister shall pay or apply interest on it at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is the latest of the days referred to in the following paragraphs and ending on the day on which the amount is refunded, repaid or applied:

Proposed Amendment — 164(3) opening words

(3) Interest on refunds and repayments — If, under this section, an amount in respect of a taxation year (other than an amount, or a portion of the amount, that can reasonably be considered to arise from the operation of section 122.5 or 122.61) is refunded or repaid to a taxpayer or applied to another liability of the taxpayer, the Minister shall pay or apply interest on it at the prescribed rate for the period that begins on the day that is the latest of the days referred to in the following paragraphs and that ends on the day on which the amount is refunded, repaid or applied:

Application: Bill C-10 (Second Senate Reading Dec. 4, 2007; requires re-introduction) (2007, Part 2 — technical), subsec. 161(3), will amend the opening words of subsec. 164(3) to read as above, applicable in respect of forms filed after March 20, 2003.

Technical Notes: Subsection 164(3) provides for the payment of interest on tax refunds. Two amendments are made to the subsection. First, the preamble of that subsection is being amended to adapt the wording to the new terminology now used elsewhere the Act. Second, the reference to section 126.1 is deleted consequential on the repeal of that section.

(a) if the taxpayer is an individual, the day that is 30 days after the individual's balance-due day for the year;

(b) if the taxpayer is a corporation, the day that is 120 days after the end of the year;

(c) if the taxpayer is

(i) a corporation, the day that is 30 days after the day on which its return of income for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the corporation's filing-due date for the year, and

(ii) an individual, the day that is 30 days after the day on which the individual's return of income for the year was filed under section 150;

(d) in the case of a refund of an overpayment, the day on which the overpayment arose; and

(e) in the case of a repayment of an amount in controversy, the day on which an overpayment equal to the amount of the repayment would have arisen if the total of all amounts payable on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year were the amount by which

(i) the lesser of the total of all amounts paid on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year and the total of all amounts assessed by the Minister as payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year

exceeds

(ii) the amount repaid.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(c) — Interest is taxable; 20(1)(ll) — Deduction for refund interest repaid; 129(2.1) — Interest on dividend refund; 131(3.1), 132(2.1) — Interest on capital gains refund; 133(7.01) — Interest on allowable refund; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

History: Subsec. 164(3) amended by 2003, c. 15, subsec. 118(1), applicable to taxation years that end after June 2003. It formerly read:

(3) Where under this section an amount in respect of a taxation year (other than an amount or portion thereof that can reasonably be considered to arise from the operation of section 122.5, 122.61 or 126.1) is refunded or repaid to a taxpayer or applied to another liability of the taxpayer, the Minister shall pay or apply interest on it at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is the latest of

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual, the day that is 45 days after the individual's balance-due day for the year,

(b) where the taxpayer is a corporation, the day that is 120 days after the end of the year,

(c) where the taxpayer is

(i) a corporation, the day on which its return of income for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the corporation's filing-due date for the year, and

(ii) an individual, the day that is 45 days after the day on which the individual's return of income for the year was filed under section 150,

(d) in the case of a refund of an overpayment, the day the overpayment arose, and

(e) in the case of a repayment of an amount in controversy, the day an overpayment equal to the amount of the repayment would have arisen if the total of all amounts payable on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year were the amount by which

(i) the lesser of the total of all amounts paid on account of the taxpayer's liability under this Part for the year and the total of all amounts assessed by the Minister as payable under this Part by the taxpayer for the year

(ii) the amount repaid,

and ending on the day the amount is refunded, repaid or applied, unless the amount of the interest so calculated is less than $1, in which event no interest shall be paid or applied under this subsection.

Paras. 164(3)(a), (c) amended by 1996, c 21, subsecs. 44(1), (2), applicable to 1995 et seq. Paras. (a) and (c) formerly read:

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual, the day that is 45 days after the day on or before which the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year was required to be filed under section 150 or would have been required to be so filed if tax under this Part were payable by the taxpayer for the year,

. . . . .

(c) the day or, where the taxpayer is an individual, the day that is 45 days after the day, on which the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed,

The opening words of 164(3) amended by 1994, c. 8, subsec. 27(2), applicable after 1992. They formerly read:

(3) Where under this section an amount in respect of a taxation year (other than an amount or portion thereof that can reasonably be considered to arise because of section 122.5 or 122.61) is refunded or repaid to a taxpayer or applied to another liability of the taxpayer, the Minister shall pay or apply interest thereon at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is the latest of

Paras. 164(3)(a), (c) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsecs. 97(3), (4), applicable to returns of income filed after 1992. Paras. (a) and (c) formerly read:

(a) where the taxpayer is an individual, the day on or before which the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year was required to be filed under section 150 or would have been required to be so filed if tax under this Part were payable by the taxpayer for the year,

. . . . .

(c) the day on which the taxpayer's return of income under this Part for the year was filed under section 150, unless the return was filed on or before the day on or before which it was required to be filed, or would have been required to be filed if tax under this Part were payable by the taxpayer for the year,

That portion of subsec. 164(3) preceding para. (a) amended to add reference to s. 122.61, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), subsec. 18(2), applicable to overpayments arising after 1992.

Regulations: 4301(b) (prescribed rate of interest).

I.T. Application Rules: 62(2) (subsec. 164(3) applies to interest payable in respect of any period after December 23, 1971).

(3.1) Idem — Where at a particular time interest has been paid to, or applied to a liability of, a taxpayer under subsection (3) or (3.2) in respect of an overpayment and it is determined at a subsequent time that the actual overpayment was less than the overpayment in respect of which interest was paid or applied,

(a) the amount by which the interest that has been paid or applied exceeds the interest, if any, computed in respect of the amount that is determined at the subsequent time to be the actual overpayment shall be deemed to be an amount (in this subsection referred to as "the amount payable") that became payable under this Part by the taxpayer at the particular time;

(b) the taxpayer shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the amount payable computed from that particular time to the day of payment; and

(c) the Minister may at any time assess the taxpayer in respect of the amount payable and, where the Minister makes such an assessment, the provisions of this Division are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of the assessment as though it had been made under section 152.

Related Provisions: 20(1)(ll) — Deduction on repayment of interest; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

History: That portion of subsec. 164(3.1) preceding para. (a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 136(3), to substitute "under subsection (3) or (3.2)" for "pursuant to subsection (3)", applicable to refunds for 1985 et seq.

Regulations: 4301(a) (prescribed rate of interest).

(3.2) Interest where amounts cancelled — Notwithstanding subsection (3), if an overpayment of a taxpayer for a taxation year is determined because of an assessment made under subsection 152(4.2) or 220(3.1) or (3.4) and an amount in respect of the overpayment is refunded to, or applied to another liability of, the taxpayer under subsection (1.5) or (2), the Minister shall pay or apply interest on the overpayment at the prescribed rate for the period beginning on the day that is 30 days after the day on which the Minister received a request in a manner satisfactory to the Minister to apply those subsections and ending on the day on which the amount is refunded or applied.

Regulations: 4301(b) (prescribed rate of interest).

(4) Interest on interest repaid — Where at any particular time interest has been paid to, or applied to a liability of, a taxpayer pursuant to subsection (3) in respect of the repayment of an amount in controversy made to, or applied to a liability of, the taxpayer and it is determined at a subsequent time that the repayment or a part thereof is payable by the taxpayer under this Part, the following rules apply:

(a) the interest so paid or applied on that part of the repayment that is determined at the subsequent time to be payable by the taxpayer under this Part shall be deemed to be an amount (in this subsection referred to as the "interest excess") that became payable under this Part by the taxpayer at the particular time;

(b) the taxpayer shall pay to the Receiver General interest at the prescribed rate on the interest excess computed from the particular time to the day of payment; and

(c) the Minister may at any time assess the taxpayer in respect of the interest excess and, where the Minister makes such an assessment, the provisions of this Division and Division J are applicable, with such modifications as the circumstances require, in respect of the assessment as though it had been made under section 152.

Related Provisions: 12(1)(c) — Interest is taxable; 20(1)(ll) — Deduction for interest repaid; 161.1 — Offset of refund interest against arrears interest; 221.1 — Application of interest where legislation retroactive; 248(11) — Interest compounded daily.

(4.1) Duty of Minister — Where the Tax Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal or the Supreme Court of Canada has, on the disposition of an appeal in respect of taxes, interest or a penalty payable under this Act by a taxpayer resident in Canada,

(a) referred an assessment back to the Minister for reconsideration and reassessment, or

(b) varied or vacated an assessment, the Minister shall with all due dispatch, whether or not an appeal from the decision of the Court has been or may be instituted,

(c) where the assessment has been referred back to the Minister, reconsider the assessment and make a reassessment in accordance with the decision of the Court, unless otherwise directed in writing by the taxpayer, and

(d) refund any overpayment resulting from the variation, vacation or reassessment, and the Minister may repay any tax, interest or penalties or surrender any security accepted therefor by the Minister to that taxpayer or any other taxpayer who has filed another objection or instituted another appeal if, having regard to the reasons given on the disposition of the appeal, the Minister is satisfied that it would be just and equitable to do so, but for greater certainty, the Minister may, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, the Tax Court of Canada Act, the Federal Courts Act or the Supreme Court Act as they relate to appeals from decisions of the Tax Court of Canada or the Federal Court of Appeal, appeal from the decision of the Court notwithstanding any variation or vacation of any assessment by the Court or any reassessment made by the Minister under paragraph (c).

(6) Where disposition of property by legal representative of deceased taxpayer — Where in the course of administering the estate of a deceased taxpayer, the taxpayer's legal representative has, within the first taxation year of the estate,

(a) disposed of capital property of the estate so that the total of all amounts each of which is a capital loss from the disposition of a property exceeds the total of all amounts each of which is a capital gain from the disposition of a property, or

(b) disposed of all of the depreciable property of a prescribed class of the estate so that the undepreciated capital cost to the estate of property of that class at the end of the first taxation year of the estate is, by virtue of subsection 20(16) or any regulation made under paragraph 20(1)(a), deductible in computing the income of the estate for that year, notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, the following rules apply:

(c) such parts of one or more capital losses of the estate from the disposition of properties in the year (the total of which is not to exceed the excess referred to in paragraph (a)) as the legal representative so elects, in prescribed manner and within a prescribed time, are deemed (except for the purpose of subsection 112(3) and this paragraph) to be capital losses of the deceased taxpayer from the disposition of the properties by the taxpayer in the taxpayer's last taxation year and not to be capital losses of the estate from the disposition of those properties,

(d) such part of the amount of any deduction described in paragraph (b) (not exceeding the amount that, but for this subsection, would be the total of the non-capital loss and the farm loss of the estate for its first taxation year) as the legal representative so elects, in prescribed manner and within a prescribed time, shall be deductible in computing the income of the taxpayer for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the taxpayer died and shall not be an amount deductible in computing any loss of the estate for its first taxation year,

(e) the legal representative shall, at or before the time prescribed for filing the election referred to in paragraphs (c) and (d), file an amended return of income for the deceased taxpayer for the taxpayer's taxation year in which the taxpayer died to give effect to the rules in those paragraphs, and

(f) in computing the taxable income of the deceased taxpayer for a taxation year preceding the year in which the taxpayer died, no amount may be deducted in respect of an amount referred to in paragraph (c) or (d).

(6.1) Realization of deceased employees' options — Notwithstanding any other provision of this Act, if a right to acquire securities (as defined in subsection 7(7)) under an agreement in respect of which a benefit was deemed by paragraph 7(1)(e) to have been received by a taxpayer (in this subsection referred to as "the right") is exercised or disposed of by the taxpayer's legal representative within the first taxation year of the estate of the taxpayer and the representative so elects in prescribed manner and on or before a prescribed day,

(a) the amount, if any, by which

(i) the amount of the benefit deemed by paragraph 7(1)(e) to have been received by the taxpayer in respect of the right

exceeds the total of

(ii) the amount, if any, by which the value of the right immediately before the time it was exercised or disposed of exceeds the amount, if any, paid by the taxpayer to acquire the right, and

(iii) where in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the taxation year in which the taxpayer died an amount was deducted under paragraph 110(1)(d) in respect of the benefit deemed by paragraph 7(1)(e) to have been received by the taxpayer in that year by reason of paragraph 7(1)(e) in respect of that right, ½ of the amount, if any, by which the amount determined under subparagraph (i) exceeds the amount determined under subparagraph (ii), shall be deemed to be a loss of the taxpayer from employment for the year in which the taxpayer died;

(b) there shall be deducted in computing the adjusted cost base to the estate of the right at any time the amount of the loss that would be determined under paragraph (a) if that paragraph were read without reference to subparagraph (a)(iii); and

(c) the legal representative shall, at or before the time prescribed for filing the election under this subsection, file an amended return of income for the taxpayer for the taxation year in which the taxpayer died to give effect to paragraph (a).

(ii) the individual's income, where the individual's spouse died after the end of that preceding year, did not exceed,

(iii) where the amount or amounts to be paid because of this subsection are in respect of 3 or more eligible children of the individual, $24,090, and

(iv) in any other case, ⅔ of $24,090.[18]

(2) Nature of payment — Each amount paid under subsection (1) to or applied under subsection (4) in respect of an individual for a taxation year shall be deemed to be on account of an amount deemed by subsection 122.2(1) to have been paid by the individual for the year.

(3) Idem — Where the total of all amounts paid under subsection (1) to or applied under subsection (4) in respect of an individual for a taxation year exceeds the amount deemed by subsection 122.2(1) to have been paid by the individual for the year, the excess shall be deemed to have been refunded to the individual on account of the individual's tax under this Part for the year on the day on or before which the individual's return of income under this Part for the year is required to be filed under section 150 or would be required to be so filed if tax under this Part were payable by him for the year.

(4) Applying amount on debt — Where an individual is liable or about to become liable to make any payment under this Act, the Minister may, instead of paying to the individual an amount that might otherwise be paid in a taxation year under subsection (1), apply the amount to the liability and notify the individual of that action.

All that portion of subsec. 164.1(1) following para. (b) substituted by subsec. 19(1) of the said c. 48, applicable to the 1992 taxation year. That portion formerly read:

if, for the preceding taxation year,

(c) an amount was deemed under subsection 122.2(1) to have been paid by the individual in respect of the child, and

(d) the total determined under subparagraph 122.2(1)(b)(i) in respect of the individual did not exceed,

(i) where the amount or amounts to be paid by reason of this subsection are in respect of 3 or more eligible children of the individual, $24,090, and

(ii) in any other case, ⅔ of $24,090.[18]

Para. 164.1(1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 137, to substitute "any child of the individual under 6 years of age at the end of that year" for "the child", applicable to 1989 et seq.

Objections to Assessments

165. (1) Objections to assessment — A taxpayer who objects to an assessment under this Part may serve on the Minister a notice of objection, in writing, setting out the reasons for the objection and all relevant facts,

(a) where the assessment is in respect of the taxpayer for a taxation year and the taxpayer is an individual (other than a trust) or a testamentary trust, on or before the later of

(i) the day that is one year after the taxpayer's filing-due date for the year, and

(ii) the day that is 90 days after the day of mailing of the notice of assessment; and

(b) in any other case, on or before the day that is 90 days after the day of mailing of the notice of assessment.

Related Provisions: 164(4) — Interest on overpayments; 165(1.1), (1.2) — Limitations on right to object; 165(1.11) — Large corporations — detail required on notice of objection; 165(2) — Service of notice of objection; 165(2.1) — Application of 165(1)(a); 165(3) — Duties of Minister on receipt of notice of objection; 166.1, 166.2 — Applications for extension of time to object; 167(1) — Application to Tax Court of Canada for time extension; 168(4) — Objection procedures apply to charity revocations, annulments, designations and refusals to register; 173(2), 174(5) — Time during consideration not to count; 189(8) — Objection to charity penalties and to receipting suspensions; 225.1(2) — Collection restrictions; 244(10) — Proof that no notice of objection filed; Interpretation Act 26 — Deadline on Sunday or holiday extended to next business day.

History: Subpara. 165(1)(a)(i) amended by 1996, c. 21, s. 45, applicable to 1995 et seq. Subpara. (a)(i) formerly read:

(i) the day that is one year after the balance-due day of the taxpayer for the year, and

Subsec. 165(1) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 138(1), applicable to objections made after December 17, 1991. Subsec. 165(1) formerly read:

165. (1) A taxpayer who objects to an assessment under this Part may, within 90 days from the day of mailing of the notice of assessment, serve on the Minister a notice of objection in duplicate in prescribed form setting out the reasons for the objection and all relevant facts.

(1.1) Limitation of right to object to assessments or determinations — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where at any time the Minister assesses tax, interest, penalties or other amounts payable under this Part by, or makes a determination in respect of, a taxpayer

(a) under subsection 67.5(2) or 152(1.8), subparagraph 152(4)(b)(i) or subsection 152(4.3) or (6), 161.1(7), 164(4.1), 220(3.4) or 245(8) or in accordance with an order of a court vacating, varying or restoring an assessment or referring the assessment back to the Minister for reconsideration and reassessment,

(b) under subsection (3) where the underlying objection relates to an assessment or a determination made under any of the provisions or circumstances referred to in paragraph (a), or

(c) under a provision of an Act of Parliament requiring an assessment to be made that, but for that provision, would not be made because of subsections 152(4) to (5),

the taxpayer may object to the assessment or determination within 90 days after the day of mailing of the notice of assessment or determination, but only to the extent that the reasons for the objection can reasonably be regarded

(d) where the assessment or determination was made under subsection 152(1.8), as relating to any matter or conclusion specified in paragraph 152(1.8)(a), (b) or (c), and

(e) in any other case, as relating to any matter that gave rise to the assessment or determination and that was not conclusively determined by the court, and this subsection shall not be read or construed as limiting the right of the taxpayer to object to an assessment or a determination issued or made before that time.

Related Provisions: 169(2) — Limitation of right to appeal.

History: Para. 165(1.1)(a) amended by 2000, c. 19, s. 51, applicable after 1999. The para. formerly read:

(a) under subsection 67.5(2) or 152(1.8), subparagraph 152(4)(b)(i) or subsection 152(4.3) or (6), 164(4.1), 220(3.4) or 245(8) or in accordance with an order of a court vacating, varying or restoring the assessment or referring the assessment back to the Minister for reconsideration and reassessment,

The portion of subsec. 165(1.1) before para. (b) and the portion after para. (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 192(1), (2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998. Those portions formerly read:

(1.1) Notwithstanding subsection (1), where at any time the Minister assesses tax, interest or penalties payable under this Part by, or makes a determination in respect of, a taxpayer

(a) under subsection 67.5(2), subparagraph 152(4)(b)(i) or subsection 152(4.3) or (6) or 164(4.1), 220(3.4) or 245(8) or in accordance with an order of a court vacating, varying or restoring the assessment or referring the assessment back to the Minister for reconsideration and reassessment,

the taxpayer may object to the assessment or determination within 90 days after the day of mailing of the notice of assessment or determination, but only to the extent that the reasons for the objection can reasonably be regarded as relating to a matter that gave rise to the assessment or determination and that was not conclusively determined by the court, and this subsection shall not be read or construed as limiting the right of the taxpayer to object to an assessment or a determination issued or made before that time.

Para. 165(1.1)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 98(1), to add reference to subsection 152(4.3).

Subsec. 165(1.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 138(1), applicable to objections made after December 17, 1991.

(1.11) Objections by large corporations — Where a corporation that was a large corporation in a taxation year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 225.1(8)) objects to an assessment under this Part for the year, the notice of objection shall

(a) reasonably describe each issue to be decided;

(b) specify in respect of each issue, the relief sought, expressed as the amount of a change in a balance (within the meaning assigned by subsection 152(4.4)) or a balance of undeducted outlays, expenses or other amounts of the corporation; and

(c) provide facts and reasons relied on by the corporation in respect of each issue.

Related Provisions: 165(1.12) — Late compliance with 165(1.11); 165(1.13) — Corporation may only object on grounds raised; 169(2.1)(a) — Appeal only on grounds raised in objection.

History: Subsec. 165(1.11) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 70, applicable after September 26, 1994 for notices of objection filed at any time except a notice of objection to an assessment for a taxation year where an appeal under Division J of the Act of the assessment has been instituted before June 23, 1995.

Subsec. 70(2) of 1995, c. 21 provides that where a taxpayer submits, to a Chief of Appeals referred to in subsec. 165(2), in writing before March 1995 the information required by subsec. 165(1.11) to be provided in a notice of objection served by the taxpayer before 1995, the taxpayer shall be deemed to have complied with subsec. 165(1.11) with respect to that notice.

I.T. Technical News: 32 (notice of objection of large corporation: impact of the Potash Corp. case).

(1.12) Late compliance — Notwithstanding subsection (1.11), where a notice of objection served by a corporation to which that subsection applies does not include the information required by paragraph (1.11)(b) or (c) in respect of an issue to be decided that is described in the notice, the Minister may in writing request the corporation to provide the information, and those paragraphs shall be deemed to be complied with in respect of the issue if, within 60 days after the request is made, the corporation submits the information in writing to a Chief of Appeals referred to in subsection (2).

History: Subsec. 165(1.12) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 70, applicable after September 26, 1994 to notices of objection filed at any time except a notice of objection to an assessment for a taxation year where an appeal under Division J of the Act of the assessment has been instituted before June 23, 1995.

(1.13) Limitation on objections by large corporations — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (1.1), where under subsection (3) a particular assessment was made for a taxation year pursuant to a notice of objection served by a corporation that was a large corporation in the year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 225.1(8)), except where the objection was made to an earlier assessment made under any of the provisions or circumstances referred to in paragraph (1.1)(a), the corporation may object to the particular assessment in respect of an issue

(a) only if the corporation complied with subsection (1.11) in the notice with respect to that issue; and

(b) only with respect to the relief sought in respect of that issue as specified by the corporation in the notice.

Related Provisions: 165(1.14) — Application.

History: Subsec. 165(1.13) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 70, applicable after September 26, 1994 to notices of objection filed at any time except a notice of objection to an assessment for a taxation year where an appeal under Division J of the Act of the assessment has been instituted before June 23, 1995.

(1.14) Application of subsec. (1.13) — Where a particular assessment is made under subsection (3) pursuant to an objection made by a taxpayer to an earlier assessment, subsection (1.13) does not limit the right of the taxpayer to object to the particular assessment in respect of an issue that was part of the particular assessment and not part of the earlier assessment.

History: Subsec. 165(1.14) added by 1995, c. 21, s. 70, applicable after September 26, 1994 to notices of objection filed at any time except a notice of objection to an assessment for a taxation year where an appeal under Division J of the Act of the assessment has been instituted before June 23 1995.

(1.15) Partnership — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where the Minister makes a determination under subsection 152(1.4) in respect of a fiscal period of a partnership, an objection in respect of the determination may be made only by one member of the partnership, and that member must be either

(a) designated for that purpose in the information return made under section 229 of the Income Tax Regulations for the fiscal period; or

(b) otherwise expressly authorized by the partnership to so act.

History: Subsec. 165(1.15) added by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 192(3), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998.

(1.2) Limitation on objections — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (1.1), no objection may be made by a taxpayer to an assessment made under subsection 118.1(11), 152(4.2), 169(3) or 220(3.1) nor, for greater certainty, in respect of an issue for which the right of objection has been waived in writing by the taxpayer.

Related Provisions: 169(2.2) — No appeal permitted where right to object or appeal waived.

History: Subsec. 165(1.2) amended by 1995, c. 38, s. 4, in force July 12, 1996. Subsec. 165(1.2) formerly read:

(1.2) Limitation on objections — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (1.1), no objection may be made by a taxpayer to an assessment made under subsection 152(4.2), 169(3) or 220(3.1) nor, for greater certainty, in respect of an issue for which the right of objection has been waived in writing by the taxpayer.

(3.1) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 165(3.1) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 192(4), applicable after August 27, 1995. Subsec. 165(3.1) formerly read:

> (3.1) Decision by Minister of Human Resources Development — Notwithstanding subsection (3), on receipt of a notice of objection to a determination that includes matters relating to whether, for the purposes of subdivision a.1 of Division E,
> (a) a taxpayer is an eligible individual in respect of a qualified dependant,
> (b) a person is a qualified dependant, or
> (c) a person is a taxpayer's cohabiting spouse,
> the Minister of National Revenue shall refer those matters to the Minister of Human Resources Development who shall, with all due dispatch, decide the matters and notify the Minister of National Revenue of the decision.

Subsec. 165(3.1) amended by 1996, c. 11, para. 95(h), to substitute "Minister of Human Resources Development" for "Minister of National Health and Welfare", in force July 12, 1996. This will effectively be superseded by the repeal of this provision as per draft legislation of April 26, 1995.

Subsec. 165(3.1) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), s. 20, deemed to have come into force January 1, 1993.

(3.2) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 165(3.2) repealed by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 192(4), applicable after August 27, 1995. Subsec. 165(3.2) formerly read:

> (3.2) Reconsideration of determination — On receipt of the notification of a decision of the Minister of Human Resources Development under subsection (3.1), the Minister of National Revenue shall, with all due dispatch, reconsider the determination to which the decision relates and vacate, confirm or vary the determination or redetermine in accordance with the decision, and shall thereupon notify the taxpayer in writing of that action.

Subsec. 165(3.2) amended by 1996, c. 11, para. 95(h), to substitute "Minister of Human Resources Development" for "Minister of National Health and Welfare", in force July 12, 1996. This will effectively be superseded by the repeal of this provision as per draft legislation of April 26, 1996.

Subsecs. 165(3.2) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VII (1992, c. 48), s. 20, deemed to have come into force January 1, 1993.

(4) [Repealed]

History: Subsec. 165(4) repealed by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 98(3). Subsec. (4) formerly read:

> (4) Effect of filing of notice of objection — Where the Minister files a copy of a notice of objection pursuant to paragraph (3)(b), the Minister shall be deemed, for the purpose of section 169, to have confirmed the assessment to which the notice relates and the taxpayer who served the notice shall be deemed to have thereupon instituted an appeal in accordance with that section.

(5) Validity of reassessment — The limitations imposed under subsections 152(4) and (4.01) do not apply to a reassessment made under subsection (3).

History: Subsec. 165(5) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsec. 192(5), applicable after April 27, 1989. Subsec. 165(5) formerly read:

> (5) A reassessment made by the Minister pursuant to subsection (3) is not invalid by reason only of not having been made within the period determined under paragraph 152(4)(b) or (c), as the case may be, within which the Minister may reassess tax payable.

Interpretation Bulletins: IT-241: Reassessments made after the four-year limit (archived).

(6) Validity of notice of objection — The Minister may accept a notice of objection served under this section that was not served in the manner required by subsection (2).

History: Subsec. 165(6) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 138(2), applicable to objections made after January 16, 1992. Subsec. (6) formerly read:

> (6) Waiver as to service of notice — The Minister may accept a notice of objection under this section notwithstanding that it was not served in duplicate or in the manner required by subsection (2).

(7) Notice of objection not required — Where a taxpayer has served in accordance with this section a notice of objection to an assessment and thereafter the Minister reassesses the tax, interest, penalties or other amount in respect of which the notice of objection was served or makes an additional assessment in respect thereof and sends to the taxpayer a notice of the reassessment or of the additional assessment, as the case may be, the taxpayer may, without serving a notice of objection to the reassessment or additional assessment,

(a) appeal therefrom to the Tax Court of Canada in accordance with section 169; or

(b) amend any appeal to the Tax Court of Canada that has been instituted with respect to the assessment by joining thereto an appeal in respect of the reassessment or the additional assessment in such manner and on such terms, if any, as the Tax Court of Canada directs.

Related Provisions: 169(2.1)(b) — Grounds for appeal by large corporation.

History: That portion of subsec. 165(7) preceding para. (a) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), subsec. 138(3), applicable to 1986 et seq. That portion formerly read:

(7) No notice of objection required in respect of reassessment or additional assessment — Where a taxpayer has served a notice of objection to an assessment in accordance with this section and thereafter the Minister reassesses the taxpayer's tax for the taxation year in respect of which the notice of objection was served or makes an additional assessment in respect thereof, and sends to the taxpayer a notice of the reassessment or of the additional assessment, as the case may be, the taxpayer may, without serving a notice of objection to the reassessment or additional assessment,

(2) Contents of application — An application made under subsection (1) shall set out the reasons why the notice of objection or the request was not served or made, as the case may be, within the time otherwise limited by this Act for doing so.

(3) How application made — An application under subsection (1) shall be made by being addressed to the Chief of Appeals in a District Office or a Taxation Centre of the Canada Revenue Agency and delivered or mailed to that Office or Centre, accompanied by a copy of the notice of objection or a copy of the request, as the case may be.

Related Provisions: 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: Subsec. 166.1(3) amended to substitute "Canada Revenue Agency" for "Canada Customs and Revenue Agency" by 2005, c. 38, subpara. 138(m)(ii), proclaimed in force December 12, 2005.

Subsec. 166.1(3) amended to substitute "Canada Customs and Revenue Agency" for "Department of National Revenue" by 1999, c. 17, para. 168(b), proclaimed in force November 1, 1999.

"Department of National Revenue" substituted for "Department of National Revenue, Taxation" in subsec. 166.1(3) by 1994, c. 13, subsec. 8(1), applicable May 12, 1994.

(4) Idem — The Minister may accept an application under this section that was not made in the manner required by subsection (3).

(5) Duties of Minister — On receipt of an application made under subsection (1), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, consider the application and grant or refuse it, and shall thereupon notify the taxpayer in writing of the Minister's decision.

Related Provisions: 166.2(1) — Extension of time by Tax Court; 244(14) — Date of mailing presumed to be date of notification; .

History: Subsec. 166.1(5) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), s. 99. Subsec. (5) formerly read:

(5) On receipt of an application made under subsection (1), the Minister shall, with all due dispatch, consider the application and grant or refuse it, and shall thereupon notify the taxpayer of the decision by registered mail.

(6) Date of objection or request if application granted — Where an application made under subsection (1) is granted, the notice of objection or the request, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have been served or made on the day the decision of the Minister is mailed to the taxpayer.

(7) When order to be made — No application shall be granted under this section unless

(a) the application is made within one year after the expiration of the time otherwise limited by this Act for serving a notice of objection or making a request, as the case may be; and

(b) the taxpayer demonstrates that

(i) within the time otherwise limited by this Act for serving such a notice or making such a request, as the case may be, the taxpayer

(A) was unable to act or to instruct another to act in the taxpayer's name, or

(B) had a bona fide intention to object to the assessment or make the request,

(ii) given the reasons set out in the application and the circumstances of the case, it would be just and equitable to grant the application, and

(iii) the application was made as soon as circumstances permitted.

Related Provisions: 248(7)(a) — Mail deemed received on day mailed.

History: S. 166.1 added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 139, applicable to applications filed after January 16, 1992.

(3) How application made — An application under subsection (1) shall be made by filing in the Registry of the Tax Court of Canada, or by sending by registered mail addressed to an office of the Registry, 3 copies of the application accompanied by 3 copies of the notice of appeal.

Subsec. 167(3) substituted by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 139, applicable to applications filed after January 16, 1992. Subsec. 167(3) formerly read:

(3) An application under subsection (1) shall be made by filing with the Registrar of the Tax Court of Canada or by sending by registered mail addressed to the Registrar of the Tax Court of Canada at Ottawa three copies of the application accompanied by three copies of a notice of objection or notice of appeal, as the case may be.

(4) Copy to Deputy Attorney General — The Tax Court of Canada shall send a copy of each application made under this section to the office of the Deputy Attorney General of Canada.

History: Subsec. 167(4) added by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 139, applicable to applications filed after January 16, 1992.

(5) When order to be made — No order shall be made under this section unless

(a) the application is made within one year after the expiration of the time limited by section 169 for appealing; and

(b) the taxpayer demonstrates that

(i) within the time otherwise limited by section 169 for appealing the taxpayer

(A) was unable to act or to instruct another to act in the taxpayer's name, or

(B) had a bona fide intention to appeal,

(ii) given the reasons set out in the application and the circumstances of the case, it would be just and equitable to grant the application,

(iii) the application was made as soon as circumstances permitted, and

(iv) there are reasonable grounds for the appeal.

Related Provisions: 169 — Appeal.

Division J — Appeals to the Tax Court of Canada and the Federal Court of Appeal

History: The heading to Div. J amended by 2002, c. 8, s. 148 to substitute "Federal Court of Appeal" for "Federal Court", in force July 2, 2003.

169. (1) Appeal — Where a taxpayer has served notice of objection to an assessment under section 165, the taxpayer may appeal to the Tax Court of Canada to have the assessment vacated or varied after either

(a) the Minister has confirmed the assessment or reassessed, or

(b) 90 days have elapsed after service of the notice of objection and the Minister has not notified the taxpayer that the Minister has vacated or confirmed the assessment or reassessed, but no appeal under this section may be instituted after the expiration of 90 days from the day notice has been mailed to the taxpayer under section 165 that the Minister has confirmed the assessment or reassessed.

Related Provisions: 152(9) — Minister may raise new basis for assessment during appeal; 167 — Application for time extension; 170 — Informal procedure appeals; 173(2), 174(5) — Time during consideration not to count; 175 — General procedure appeals; 179.1 — Where no reasonable grounds for appeal; 189(8) — Appeals of charity penalties and of suspension of charity's receipting privileges; 225.1(3) — Collection restrictions; Interpretation Act 26 — Deadline on Sunday or holiday extended to next business day.

Selected Cases [subsec. 169(1)]: Chrysler Canada Inc. v. R., [2008] 5 C.T.C. 174 (FC) (Appeal may be to Federal Court where conduct of Minister, not correctness of assessments, is primary focus); *Cole v. (1.1) Ecological gifts — Where at any particular time a taxpayer has disposed of a property, the fair market value of which has been confirmed or redetermined by the Minister of the Environment under subsection 118.1(10.4), the taxpayer may, within 90 days after the day on which that Minister has issued a certificate under subsection 118.1(10.5), appeal the confirmation or redetermination to the Tax Court of Canada.

Related Provisions: 171(1.1) — Powers of Tax Court on appeal.

History: Subsec. 169(1.1) added by 2001, c. 17, s. 158, applicable in respect of gifts made after February 27, 2000, except that, where a certificate has been issued under subsection 118.1(10.5) before June 14, 2001, subsec. 169(1.1) shall be read as follows:

> (1.1) Where at any particular time a taxpayer has disposed of a property, the fair market value of which has been confirmed or redetermined by the Minister of the Environment under subsection 118.1(10.4), the taxpayer may, within 90 days after the day on which the Income Tax Amendments Act, 2000 receives royal assent [i.e. before September 13, 2001], appeal the confirmation or redetermination to the Tax Court of Canada.

(2) Limitation of right to appeal from assessments or determinations — Notwithstanding subsection (1), where at any time the Minister assesses tax, interest, penalties or other amounts payable under this Part by, or makes a determination in respect of, a taxpayer

(a) under subsection 67.5(2) or 152(1.8), subparagraph 152(4)(b)(i) or subsection 152(4.3) or (6), 164(4.1), 220(3.4) or 245(8) or in accordance with an order of a court vacating, varying or restoring the assessment or referring the assessment back to the Minister for reconsideration and reassessment,

(b) under subsection 165(3) where the underlying objection relates to an assessment or a determination made under any of the provisions or circumstances referred to in paragraph (a), or

(c) under a provision of an Act of Parliament requiring an assessment to be made that, but for that provision, would not be made because of subsections 152(4) to (5),

the taxpayer may appeal to the Tax Court of Canada within the time limit specified in subsection (1), but only to the extent that the reasons for the appeal can reasonably be regarded

(d) where the assessment or determination was made under subsection 152(1.8), as relating to any matter specified in paragraph 152(1.8)(a), (b) or (c), and

(e) in any other case, as relating to any matter that gave rise to the assessment or determination and that was not conclusively determined by the Court, and this subsection shall not be read or construed as limiting the right of the taxpayer to appeal from an assessment or a determination issued or made before that time.

Related Provisions: 165(1.1) — Limitation of right to object to assessments or determinations.

History: The portion of subsec. 169(2) before para. (b) and the portion after para. (c) amended by 1998, c. 19, subsecs. 193(1), (2), applicable in respect of determinations made after June 18, 1998. Those portions formerly read:

> (2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), where at any time the Minister assesses tax, interest or penalties payable under this Part by, or makes a determination in respect of, a taxpayer
> (a) under subsection 67.5(2), subparagraph 152(4)(b)(i) or subsection 152(4.3) or (6), 164(4.1), 220(3.4) or 245(8) or in accordance with an order of a court vacating, varying or restoring the assessment or referring the assessment back to the Minister for reconsideration and reassessment,
> the taxpayer may appeal to the Tax Court of Canada within the time limit specified in subsection (1) only to the extent that the reasons for the appeal can reasonably be regarded as relating to a matter that gave rise to the assessment or determination and that was not conclusively determined by the Court, and this subsection shall not be read or construed as limiting the right of the taxpayer to appeal from an assessment or a determination issued or made before that time.

Para. 169(2)(a) amended by 1994, c. 7, Sch. VIII (1993, c. 24), subsec. 100(1), to add reference to subsection 152(4.3).

S. 169 renumbered as subsec. 169(1), and subsec. (2) added, by 1994, c. 7, Sch. II (1991, c. 49), s. 140, applicable to appeals from assessments or determinations objected to after December 17, 1991.

(2.1) Limitation on appeals by large corporations — Notwithstanding subsections (1) and (2), where a corporation that was a large corporation in a taxation year (within the meaning assigned by subsection 225.1(8)) served a notice of objection to an assessment under this Part for the year, the corporation may appeal to the Tax Court of Canada to have the assessment vacated or varied only with respect to

(a) an issue in respect of which the corporation has complied with subsection 165(1.11) in the notice, or

(b) an issue described in subsection 165(1.14) where the corporation did not, because of subsection 165(7), serve a notice of objection to the assessment that gave rise to the issue and, in the case of an issue described in paragraph (a), the corporation may so appeal only with respect to the relief sought in respect of the issue as specified by the corporation in the notice.

Related Provisions: 171(1) — Jurisdiction of Tax Court on appeal.
